STEAMER WITH 500 ABOARD AGROUND ON LONG ISLAND

Coast Guard Goes to Aid of Yankee, Wood-Paddle Craft, in Ferry Service.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(Sunday.)—The Coast Guard reported early today that the steamship Yankee, carrying 500 passengers, was ashore on Gin Beach, near the eastern tip of Long Island. Details were not immediately available.

The Coast Guard said it was understood the Yankee was in service as a ferry between Montauk, on the tip of Long Island, and New London, Conn.

The Coast Guard cutter Galatea, from Staten Island, and the cutter Comanche, on patrol off Long Island, were ordered to the scene. Crews from local stations along the south shore of Long Island, and a crew from Fishers Light were also called.

The Yankee, a 780-ton wood paddle vessel, was built in 1904. It is owned by the Ferries Operating Co., New York.

'AIRPLANES FOR SPAIN,' FRENCH LEFTISTS SHOUT

Demonstration Occurs at Ceremony Honoring Memory of Former Socialist Leader.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—Thousands of French leftists marched to the Pantheon today to honor the memory of Jean Jaures, former Socialist leader, on the twenty-third anniversary of his assassination.

"Airplanes for Spain!" came the cry from the crowd after a message from Premier Camille Chautemps was read by Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos.

Socialist former-Premier Leon Blum, promising to continue Jaures' fight to make Republican principles the fundamental rule in France, said Socialism was the logical embodiment of those principles.

Leftists held observances throughout France.

Jaures was assassinated July 31, 1914, on the eve of the World War, when he was trying a form a union of all European workers to preserve peace. Raoul Villain, charged with the murder, was acquitted.

In 1924 Jaures' ashes were placed in the Pantheon, the building which contains the remains of many of France's great.

LAUNCH SINKS, PLUNGING 30 INTO HAVANA HARBOR

All Members of Sight-Seeing Party Believed to Have Been Saved.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 31.—At least 30 persons, most of them women and children, were plunged into Havana Harbor tonight when the motor launch in which they were riding sank after a collision with an auxiliary-motor sailing vessel.

It was believed all occupants of the boat were saved, but a complete check was difficult. Many were taken to small towns for treatment.

The motor launch, loaded with sightseers, was among the vessels in the harbor to welcome the Cuban naval cruiser "Cuba" on its return from England where it participated in the coronation review off Spithead.

INSURGENT ARMY MUTINY REPORTED AT FOUR POINTS

Spanish Loyalists Announce Revolts at Granada, Santander Front, Malaga and Motril.

EMPHATIC DENIALS BY FRANCO FORCES

Order for Soldiers to Give Barracks to Italians Is Said to Have Caused One Clash.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Border, July 31.—The Spanish Government said today that revolts had broken out at four points in insurgent-held territory.

The reports brought emphatic denials from the headquarters of Generalissimo Francisco Franco. The insurgents said the Government was trying to distract attention from its military setbacks.

Government communiques declared outbreaks had occurred at the old southern city of Granada, on the Santander front in the north and at the southern coastal cities of Malaga and Motril. First reports as to Granada, and Motril were given out yesterday.

Accounts of Revolts.

Government sources gave these accounts of the reported revolts:

Spanish insurgent soldiers in Granada rebelled when they were told to move out of their barracks to make place for Italians fighting for Gen. Franco, and when Italian officers were placed in high positions. Bombs were loosed within the city to crush the uprising.

Government troops on the Santander front heard machine-gun fire at insurgent-held Aguilar de Campo and saw reinforcements rush into the town while 15 insurgent planes flew overhead. The revolting troops were said to have used hand grenades against the soldiers sent to repress the movement.

Communist workers in Malaga, captured by the insurgents Feb. 8, recently besieged military headquarters in that city, isolating it for 24 hours before reinforcements of Moors drove them off. Another group later seized a sugar factory but finally was forced to give up.

There were no details of the reported insurrection at Motril.

New Rebel Drive Hinted.

Insurgent Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Illano, one of Gen Franco's Chief aides, denied the reports of the Granada revolt. He hinted in a radio broadcast that a new insurgent offensive toward Madrid was in the offing.

"Tranquillity is complete along the Madrid front," he said, "but we must not forget that after the calm comes the storm." There has been no major moves west of Madrid since the insurgents repelled a Government offensive last week, recaptured the town of Brunete and pushed toward Villanueva de la Canada, about 15 miles from the city.

On Madrid's edge insurgents clung to the positions they have held since November. The Government offensive to the west, designed in part to dislodge them, had failed in that.

On one point both the insurgents and the Government agreed—that Gen. Franco's eastern army had scored a victory along the northern edge of Cuenca Province, forcing back Government troops in the rebel attempt to cut the Madrid-Valencia road.

Insurgents said 2000 Government soldiers surrendered near Espiel, in Southern Cordoba Province.

FORMER SUBWAY GUARD, WHO BECAME ARTIST, DIES

Jassa Salganik, Russian Immigrant, Won Wide Recognition as Portrait Painter.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Jassa Salganik, 50 years old, Russian immigrant who rose from a job as a subway guard to become a nationally-known artist, died today after a 14-months' illness.

His most noted portrait subject was William Howard Taft, former President.

Born in Kiev, Russia, Salganik attended the conservatory of art there, came to America in 1904 when he was 17 and entered the Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. He married at 17, and came to New York four years later, supporting his wife and three children by working as a subway guard while he continued his studies at Adelphia College.

Long unrecognized, his work attracted the attention of Thomas Darlington, treasurer of the American Bible Society, who introduced him to prominent and wealthy patrons. He painted portraits of 12 presidents of the society.

AMERICAN YACHT WINS FIRST RACE BY 17 MINUTES

Vanderbilt's Ranger Gives Endeavour Worst Licking a Challenger Has Had in Years.

30 MILES SAILED IN LIGHT BREEZE

America's Cup Defender Pulls Ahead at Start and All of Sopwith's Tacking Is of No Avail.

By WILLIAM H. TAYLOR,
Yachting Expert of the New York Herald Tribune.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 31.—The America's Cup looks pretty safe tonight. Harold S. Vanderbilt's Ranger today gave the challenging yacht, T. O. M. Sopwith's highly-touted Endeavour II, the worst licking a challenger has received since 1920 or 1887, depending on how you look at it.

Sailing a windward-leeward course of 30 miles in a light breeze and smooth water, the New York Yacht Club's defender rounded the weather mark six minutes 13 seconds ahead of Endeavour II and ran home to the finish so much faster than Endeavour that she won by 17 minutes five seconds. The winner's time was four hours, 58 minutes and 20 seconds.

It was so much Ranger's race from start to finish that it was rather a let-down to the spectators who followed the two big racing sloops aboard a fleet of about 800 yachts and commercial craft. In its early stages it looked like one of those races between Enterprise and Shamrock V in 1930, but later on, the rout of Endeavour was so complete that only the older spectators could remember having seen anything like it. Certainly there was nothing like it in 1934, for Vanderbilt's Rainbow fought an uphill battle against the first Endeavour.

Delay in Starting.

The series isn't over, but judging by the way the two boats looked today, it will be over just as soon as they can get in three more races. It was a most convincing victory for Ranger, but it wasn't much of a race to write about after it once got started. There was a while when it looked as though it wouldn't ever get started, because the very people who came out there by the thousands to see the race almost prevented a race being held.

The morning was fine, with little wind, and every yacht that was within sailing or motoring distance of the buoy nine miles southeast of Brenton's Reef Lightship went out to see the race. What was more, they went out early. Some of them were there when the committee boat arrived, and they kept coming. There were passenger steamers, fishing launches and luxurious yachts, sail boats, speed boats, slow boats and just boats—hundreds of them. And they all assembled in a mob about the starting buoy, the committee boat, and the two racing yachts when the latter arrived in tow of their tenders.

When the Coast Guard patrol arrived on the scene they started clearing the area, but it was an awful job to convince all those boatmen that they had to get back half a mile or so from the starting point before the cup yachts could race. It was long past the scheduled starting time, and the postponement flag was already up on the committee boat before there was even room for the cup yachts to make sail and cast off their tow lines. Finally, by patient and strenuous effort, the Coast Guard cutters and patrol boats shoved the mob back, and the race was finally started 45 minutes late, at 1:25 p. m.

Little Time for Maneuvering.

With little time for maneuvering before the start—the two sloops had just gotten their mainsails set when the 10-minute warning signal was made and neither had her headsails broken out—Vanderbilt headed Ranger to the westward of the line, and Sopwith followed several lengths astern. The breeze was light, about five miles an hour out of the south by east, and the tug had started off on that course to set the mark 15 miles out to sea.

With a few minutes to go, Vanderbilt gybed and headed for the line. Sopwith also gybed, placing his boat ahead of Ranger as both sailed for the line, but when Vanderbilt sharpened up close on the wind he was on Endeavour's weather quarter, both boats moving slowly in the light air. Endeavour carried a Genoa jib, while Vanderbilt had chosen a jib of considerable age and a varied history, which had once been a Genoa jib,

SHIFT IN WIND BEAT HIM, SOPWITH SAYS

Vanderbilt Declares Old Mainsail Won for His Ranger.

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 31.—T. O. M. Sopwith, making his second bid for the America's Cup, tonight attributed defeat of his challenger, Endeavour II, in today's opening race of an international series to a shift in the breeze.

"It was very puffy," he said. "The wind headed us and it gave Mr. Vanderbilt that very valuable lead, and while we got the lift back later, it was too late. Ranger looked very good, was well sailed and is a very fine boat. I want to congratulate Mr. Vanderbilt for the way his boat went. We hope to do better in the other races."

Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper-owner of the defender Ranger, had, chiefly, praise for an old mainsail he used in the contest. That piece of canvas, he said, had been flung to the breeze 75 times, and was, he explained, the first mainsail Enterprise, Vanderbilt's first of three defenders, ever had.

He said he was unaware of any shift in the breeze favorable to Ranger.

Vanderbilt asserted Ranger's performance, in giving the challenger the worst trouncing experienced by a challenger in half a century, disproved a theory a sail must be new to be effective.

6 MEN INJURED IN STRIKE CLASHES AT PHILADELPHIA

A. & P. Truck Guards Beaten in New Disorders Following Teamsters' Walkout.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—Federal and State conciliators labored tonight to arrange a settlement of a strike of Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. teamsters, after six men had been injured in new outbursts of violence.

The American Federation of Labor teamsters' union called the strike 10 days ago to force a working agreement with the A. & P. and its contract haulers.

Four guards convoying a truck were beaten by a group of 20 men. Samuel Green and Joseph Kenfsky suffered skull fractures.

In another outbreak a group of men leaped from automobiles and attacked two guards when their automobile ran out of gasoline. Fred Fennelli and Joseph Di Fulgo suffered head injuries.

Stanley Di Fulgo, with whom the men were riding, told police the attackers, riding in six automobiles, pulled the other two men from his car and beat them "with baseball bats."

LORD LOUIS MOUNTBATTEN HURT AS POLO PONY FALLS

(Copyright, 1937.)

LONDON, July 31.—Lord Louis Mountbatten, a first cousin of the late King George V and one of the closest friends of the Duke of Windsor, was injured today when his polo pony fell and rolled over on him. He suffered torn ligaments in his shoulder, and doctors have him under observation for possible internal injuries as well.

Mountbatten was playing for his team, Abstean, against the Fomeries House team for the Cowdray Park Challenge Cup. A large crowd of socialites was present at the game, which took place near Midhurst, Sussex.

THOUSANDS HAIL TWO M'GUFFEY BOOKS' CENTENARY

Anniversary of Third and Fourth Grade Readers Celebrated at Oxford, O.

By the Associated Press.

OXFORD, O., July 31.—This little Southwestern Ohio college community became the Mecca tonight of thousands gathered to honor the memory of Dr. William Holmes McGuffey, author of the "McGuffey Readers by Grades."

The occasion was the centenary of the publication of his third and fourth grade readers.

Among early arrivals was Fred L. Black, personal representative of Henry Ford, who for years has been a collector of McGuffey lore, and Miss Henrietta Hepburn of Huntington, W. Va., great-granddaughter of Dr. McGuffey.

McGuffey conceived and wrote the readers while he was on the faculty of Miami University here. The centenary of the first reader was observed with a similar celebration last year.

FORMER ROWING STAR KILLED IN FALL FROM 14TH FLOOR

Wilmot A. Armstrong Either "Jumped or Fell," New York Medical Examiner Reports.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Wilmot A. Armstrong, 34-year-old advertising man and a member of the 1926 University of Washington crew, was killed today in a fall from the fourteenth floor of the Daily News Building in East Forty-second street.

The Medical Examiner said Armstrong, who won the Pigott Cup in 1926 as the oarsman most inspirational to the championship Washington crew, either "jumped or fell" from a window of his office. His body plunged through the galvanized roof of a dining car cafe on Forty-second street and struck a marble-topped table.

His associates said Armstrong signed three contracts for new business for his firm only a short time before his death.

A native of Everett, Wash., Armstrong was a member of the Oval Club, an honorary university organization, and was a former president of the Everett Advertising Club. He resided at Mamaroneck, N. Y.

FOUR GERMANS GUILLOTINED FOR TREASON AND ESPIONAGE

Said to Have Acted as Spies for Poland; One was Army Officer.

(Copyright, 1937.)

BERLIN, July 31.—Four Germans were executed with the guillotine here this morning on charges of high treaosn and espionage. Gerhard Holzer and Reinhold Julius, both 24, as well as Ferdinand Thomas, a 43-year-old man from Saarbrucken, had been condemned to death by the people's tribunal. The death verdict on the 28-year-old Ernest Uppitz, from Sajan in Silesia had been passed by the Supreme Court Marshal on June 18.

It is understood that Holzer, Julius and Uppitz, as well as Johann Michia and Paul Matichek, who were executed a week ago, acted as spies for Poland, Germany's border country, with whom she concluded a treaty of friendship in 1934. Uppitz was a non-commissioned officer in a Silesian cavalry regiment.

In accordance with the German code, the dead men had also been sentenced to "permanent loss of civil rights." Moreover, Uppitz was declared unworthy of serving with the army.

MAN KILLS DOCTOR AND SELF IN CHURCH

Had Expressed Dissatisfaction With Organization in Which Wife Was Active.

By the Associated Press.

EL CENTRO, Cal., July 31.—Fred W. Simmons, El Centro hatchery owner, shot and killed Dr. O. L. Webster, Holtville physician, and then killed himself today at the altar of the Seventh Day Adventist church here.

Simmons shot Dr. Webster and himself with a rifle just after Sabbath church services ended.

Police Sergeant George Bucklin said investigating officers reported Simmons frequently had expressed dissatisfaction with the church in which his wife was active. Mrs. Simmons saw the shootings.

Members of the congregation told officers they had been unaware of any personal enmity between Simmons and Dr. Webster.

Simmons drove up to the church door as services were breaking up. He brandished the rifle and shouted: "I want Dr. Webster."

He saw the physician outside the building and shot at him but the bullet missed. Dr. Webster ran back into the church and dropped to the floor near the altar to escape further firing. Simmons ran to him and fired into his back, killing him instantly.

He then fired a bullet through his own heart.

Sheriff Robert W. Ware said Simmons had been booked May 3 for investigation of his sanity, but was released when a physician pronounced him sane.

Police said Simmons recently had attempted to place an advertisement in a local newspaper warning unidentified individuals to leave his wife alone. Simmons, he said, had accused his wife of giving nearly everything they had to the church.

Mrs. Webster was not at the church.

TWO DROWN AS STEAMER SINKS AFTER COLLISION

Other Boat in Accident Near Mouth of Orinoco Able to Reach River Town.

By the Associated Press.

CARACAS, Venezuela, July 31.—At least two persons were known to have drowned following the collision of two small steamers near the mouth of the Orinoco River last night.

The steamers, the Veracity and the Bienvenido, collided near La Pastora. The Veracity sank while the Bienvenido succeeded in reaching Barrancas, riverside town, though badly damaged.

First unconfirmed reports had stated the Bienvenido sank and that 50 persons were dead or missing.

The known dead were Rafael Angel Carrasquel, labor inspector of Ciudad Bolivar, and Luis Barrios, engineer of the Veracity.

JAPAN'S NEW PLANE DAMAGED

"Wonder" Ship Forced to Make Pancake Landing on Test Flight.

TOKIO, Aug. 1. (Sunday)—During a trial flight today of Japan's long-distance "wonder plane," the retractable landing gear failed to function and the pilot was forced to make a pancake landing.

The plane's propeller, undercarriage and left wing were damaged but the aircraft's designers said repairs could be made.

There were four occupants of the plane at the time. No one was injured.

WAGE-HOUR REGULATION BILL PASSED BY SENATE

Administration Measure Approved by Vote of 56 to 28, After Motion to Return It to Committee Is Defeated.

CHILD LABOR SECTION CHANGED

Wheeler - Johnson Proposal Adopted—Several Other Amendments Accepted—Legislation Now Goes to House.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Administration forces pushed the revised Black-Connery wage and hours bill through the Senate today, overcoming defection in Democratic ranks. The vote to pass the measure was 56 to 28. The bill now goes to the House.

A long day of debate and roll calls on amendments neared an end when the Senate defeated, 48 to 36, a motion to send the bill back to the Labor Committee for further study. This move was quickly followed by another roll call, the vote which passed the bill.

Twenty-two Democrats and 14 Republicans voted to recommit the measure, a move which would have ended its consideration for the session. One Republican and three Independents joined 45 Democrats in defeating that effort.

The measure, one of the major items in President Roosevelt's legislative program for this year, was drafted to accomplish some of the ends sought under the old NRA.

What Measure Provides.

The bill would give to an administrative board power to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industries engaged in interstate commerce. It also would outlaw child labor in trade crossing State lines.

The board could not fix a minimum wage higher than 40 cents an hour or a maximum work week shorter than 40 hours.

The Labor Standards Board, provided by the measure, would be composed of five members, to be appointed by the President with the consent of the Senate, for staggered terms of five years each, at a salary of $10,000 yearly.

A much more drastic bill has been drafted by the House Labor Committee, permitting the proposed labor standard board to fix minimum wages as high as 70 cents an hour and a work week as low as 35 hours.

The closing hours of a five-day debate saw proponents of the Legislation fighting back amendments which would have restricted various regulatory powers contained in the bill. Opponents forced more than a dozen successive roll call votes on amendments, the longest series of votes the Senate has taken on any measure since the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill was enacted.

Child Labor Section Revised.

Among major amendments adopted was the substitution of the Wheeler-Johnson child labor bil for the child labor provisions in th bill. The Wheeler-Johnson pr posal would prevent shipment child labor goods into a state violation of the laws of that s in addition to barring such s ments from interstate comme

The wage-hours bill contain simple prohibition against state shipments. Both meas fixed the child labor age limit 16 and, in the case of hazardous i dustries, at 18 years of age.

The Senate voted to exempt from hour regulation the employes o co-operative dairies and persons engaged in the processing and packing of perishable agricultural products during the harvesting season.

It also expanded the definition of agricultural labor, exempt from all regulation, to include persons engaged in preparation, packing and storing of fresh fruits and vegetables in the area of production in their raw or natural state.

Employes of express companies were also exempted. They are covered by another law.

An amendment by Senator Bailey (Dem.), North Carolina, to require Senate confirmation of wage-hours board employes receiving $4000 or more a year also was adopted.

Anti-Lynching Rider Beaten.

The Wagner-Van Nuys anti-lynching bill, offered as an amendment, was rejected. A motion by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, to attach the anti-lynching measure was blocked when Senator

JUDGE REQUESTS DEARBORN POLICE BE DISCIPLINED

Charges Five Men and Matron With Willful Neglect of Duty in Beatings Near Ford Plant.

NO EFFORT MADE TO STOP ATTACKS

Official Who Served as One-Man Grand Jury After May 26 Clash Urges Commission to Act.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 31.— Charges that Dearborn police "stood passively by" during the fight near the Ford Motor Co., May 26 formed the basis tonight for a third official inquiry into the beating of union men.

Judge Ralph W. Liddy asked the safety commission of suburban Dearborn where the Ford company employs nearly 90,000 men to discipline or remove five policemen and a police matron for "willful neglect of duty." The commission will meet Monday night. Judge Liddy said it must try the persons accused.

A sergeant and two patrolmen, Judge Liddy charged, took no action when members of the United Automobile Workers seeking to distribute union handbills under a Dearborn city permit, "were subjected to physical abuse and detention to an extent unheard of in this community within the last generation."

Two official actions based on the fighting already are under way.

Two Other Proceedings.

Judge Liddy, who conducted a one-man grand jury investigation of the May 26 disorder, has bound to Circuit Court for trial eight men on charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. A ninth defendant has not been arrested.

A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner last night ended a month-long hearing on the N L R B complaint charging the Ford Company with unfair labor practices and with instigating "malicious and brutal assaults" on the U A W. organizers who were beaten.

Examiner John T. Lindsay's report accompanying more than 3000 pages of conflicting testimony from about 150 witnesses will go to the N L R B at Washington for action.

The attempted distribution of literature by union members May 26 was part of the U A W campaign to unionize Ford employes.

An independent union of Ford workers, the Ford Brotherhood of America, sent to the Ford comcompany today a renewed "demand for collective bargaining on behalf of about 25,000 of your employes"

The letter, signed by George I. Smith, F B A trustee and treasurer, asserted two previous communications have gone unanswered, and that the organization "must now insist on knowing your position in the matter, before instituting proper proceedings." Smith said the "proceedings" might take the form of a complaint to the N L R B.

U A W officials have charged the F B A was organized with the support of the Ford company. This was denied by the company.

Presentment Names Seven.

The presentment made by Judge Liddy to the Dearborn safety body named Inspector Charles W. Slamer, Sergeant Jeff Dean of the Mounted Division, Patrolmen Allen E. Wasser, Fred Herman and Clarence Snider, and Police Matron Netta Hitchcock.

It charged the inspector was in harge of police near the Ford lant May 26 and "made no atmpt to apprehend" those engaged the clash. Dean, Wasser and man were accused of neglecting event illegal acts.

ge Liddy charged that at the born police station, the ma- "illegally, without knowing r four women were arrest- not, searched their persons, r clothing, their pockets, their esses, their pocketbooks and rced two of the women to disobe for further searching."

Snider, it is charged, ordered the omen searched after they and our men were seized several locks from the scene of the fightg; "acquiesced" in threats against newspaper reporter whose no ere "forcibly taken from his possession," and "failed to heed the complaint of four women forced into a stranger's car on a public highway although the alleged culprits stood right beside him."

The women testified at a court inquiry that they were hustled into an automobile and ordered to the police station by men they thought to be employes of the Ford service department which polices company property.

Viciousness of Attack.

Of the clash, Judge Liddy said: "One man . . . knocked into unconsciousness four men. Photographers stood around taking pictures of his activity but the police of Dearborn did not see a thing which called for action. . . . The assaults ranged in viciousness from knocking and pushing men and women around, kicking a woman in the stomach, to breaking a man's back."

The Judge added the police "conceived of their duty as acting in the capacity of traffic patrol only" near the Ford plant, and that they "were misinformed as to the extent of the public property."

Describing growth of the Ford service department, Judge Liddy said:

"Difficulties naturally arise when those accustomed to authority within their own domain, attempt to enforce a non-existant authority on citizens who have no relations with them and who are properly on the public highways."

Designation of property near the Ford plant as public or private was a point of contention in the N L R B hearing. The Ford Company insisted the O U W men who were beaten were trespassing; the union asserted they were on public or "quasi-public" property.

Service men and their activities at the plant also were the subject of testimony. The U A W presented evidence intended to show that Carl Brooks, present chief of police at Dearborn, was made a special officer several years ago at the instance of Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, who is in charge of the service department.

SOCIALIST RIGHTISTS JOIN NEWLY FORMED FEDERATION

Pennsylvania Group's Action Follows Break With Norman Thomas Faction.

By the Associated Press.

READING, Pa., July 31.—Delegates to a special state convention of the rightist Socialist Party of Pennsylvania, which opened today, voted unanimously to affiliate with the newly-formed Social Democratic Federation of the United States. The rightists split last year with the so-called Norman Thomas faction of the party.

The factional fight within the State group reached a climax last August at the state convention at Harrisburg, when Pennsylvania, one of the party's strongest units, voted to break with the national organization.

Right wing members were active in recent sessions at Pittsburgh, in which the Social Democratic Federation was formed from among labor and political organizations from all sections of the country.

BOY KING OF EGYPT GIVEN LIST OF HIS MINISTERS

Premier Forms Government in Accordance With Requirements of Constitution.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 31.—Premier Mustapha El Nahas Pasha prepared a new Cabinet list today for his new boy King, Farouk I.

He submitted his Government's resignation as required by the Constitution when a new King takes the Egyptian throne. He was immediately empowered to form a new one. Few changes were expected.

Farouk, 18 years old by Moslem reckoning, took his first active step in governing his country. His power is restricted much as is that of England's King.

The young King, who has a taste for fashionable English clothes, has a Western outlook. He is closely advised by Ahmed Hassanein Pasha, explorer and geographer, who holds moderate, liberal views. Hassanein Pasha was Farouk's tutor and is now chief of his household.

INSURGENT ARMY MUTINY REPORTED AT FOUR POINTS

sy, who have been reticent concerning Japanese losses Thursday at Tungchow, east of Peiping, said they had learned that casualties had been heavy. They said that "from 350 Japanese and Koreans there in June, only three have been located thus far" since a Chinese force surrounded a garrison and opened fire on it.

Armed with machine guns, the Japanese were methodically hunting down the Chinese attackers in the hills west of Peiping.

Reports were current that Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan, commander of the Twenty-ninth Chinese Army and head of the now defunct Hopeh-Chahar council that ruled North China, had requested the Nanking Government not to permit its troops to continue northward and had asked the Japanese to cease operations.

Divisions of Gen. Sung's Twenty-ninth Army have been the principal Chinese forces engaged in the clashes with Japanese during the last three weeks of sporadic fighting.

Further evidence of the easier situation was the resumption of small business in Peiping as shopkeepers took down the iron shutters that protected their store-fronts and reopened their doors.

Temporary Administration.

Japanese sources told of the establishment of a temporary Chinese governing body in Peiping to take over functions of the Hopeh-Chahar political council, which was considered to have ended with the flight of its leaders. The new body is under complete Japanese control, and when a new administration is set up, it is expected to be of the same nature.

Evidence that the Japanese Army is ready to take open charge of the administration of the North China district was seen in the action of Lieutenant-General Kiyoshi Katsuki, Japanese Commander-in-Chief, in appointing a successor to the missing Yin Ju-keng as chairman of the East Hopei autonomous government.

Hitherto the Japanese have insisted this authority, which presided over the northern counties of Hopeh in defiance of Nanking's orders, was independent. Yin has been missing since the uprising of Chinese gendarmes, including some of his own men, in his capital of Tungchow, 20 miles east of Peiping, Thursday.

The new appointee is Chi Tsengmou, hitherto Yin's chief secretary. He is subject to complete Japanese control.

Guerilla Warfare.

Conditions west of Peiping were degenerating rapidly into guerrilla warfare, with the advantage held by Japanese troops.

Northwest of Peiping, 2000 Japanese were concentrated at Hsiyuan, where a detachment of the 37th Chinese division was holding out against the Japanese.

The region east of Peiping was swarming with Chinese gendarmes who said they had annihilated the Japanese garrison at Tungchow Thursday night. Japanese planes flew into the area, forcing Chinese to retreat and scatter over the countryside. Later the Chinese returned and continued their resistance.

There were some fears for the welfare of two Americans who were thought still to be at an American school there. (The State Department in Washington ascertained that the two were alive and well at noon yesterday at Tungchow.) They are Harry S. Martin of Boston and James A. Hunter, of Peoria, Ill.

They were attached to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions of the Congregational Church, with headquarters in Boston. They did not leave Tungchow when other foreigners concentrated to go to Peiping.

The Japanese have virtually completed encircling Peiping now, using motorized units. The only point where they may not have completed their encircling movement was Tungchow, to which they were reported to have rushed reinforcements.

NO WATER IN HOSE ON BURNING BOAT, CAPTAIN TESTIFIES

Commander Is Witness as Federal Inquiry Into Fire on City of Baltimore Opens.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 31.—A Federal board of inquiry heard the commanding officer of the City of Baltimore testify today he saw no water coming from fire hose used by seamen on the burning steamer.

Capt. Charles O. Brooks said the crew brought all the ship's hose lines into service but he "couldn't say" he had seen any water coming from them.

"I had sent the second mate below to locate the fire and he blew up the (speaking) tube and said 'there's a hell of a fire . . . turn in every alarm on the ship.' Later the first mate ran up and said 'there's no water or nothing and not a damn thing we can do.'"

Capt. Brooks said he tried to signal the engine room but that he could get no answer from it.

The captain, a sailor on the Chesapeake Bay for 35 years, was one of the first witnesses before the Federal Inquiry Board.

Capt. Brooks repeated his statement that only sabotage could account for the speed of the fire's spread. He said "it is mysterious that a vessel of the size of the City of Baltimore could take fire and that within five minutes flames would be bursting over her top deck from one end to another."

He said he had nothing else on which to base an arson theory except "what has been happening along the water front for the past few months—the kind of men who have been causing the trouble." He did not amplify that statement.

A. L. Stephens, president of the line said that one of the 40 passengers still missing, H. Paige, had been located alive in New York.

J. S. Polikoff, Aiken, S. C., attorney, and Abel T. Whealton, crew member from Crisfield, Md., died in the fire. The body of a man believed to have been Cy Haynie, missing oiler, was found today near the scene of the fire.

The fire in the forward hold of the beached bulk was still burning, 48 hours after the accident. A crowd of several thousand persons went to Bay Side to see the wreckage, a mile and a quarter offshore. Small boats at the Beach acted as sight-seeing craft, taking passengers off to see the hull.

Studies Alaska as Refuge.

By the Associated Press.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, July 31.—Dr. Bernard Heller, director of the Heller Foundation, University of Michigan, arrived today for study of the possibility for settlement in Alaska of minorities disenfranchised in Central Europe. Dr. Heller visited Palestine last year and said he was much impressed with the progress there in settling refugees from Germany.

U. S. REGULATION PROPER IF FIRMS SHIP OUT OF STATE

Court Upholds N L R B Ruling Declaring Control Though Bulk of Trade Is Intrastate.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a National Labor Relations Board ruling today that Federal regulation is proper although less than half of a company's shipments cross a state line.

The decision obligates the Santa Cruz Fruit Packing Co. to cease discouraging membership in a union among its employes. Two years ago the company refused to abide by a labor board ruling on grounds the National Labor Relations Act was unconstitutional.

When this act was held constitutional, the company contended it was not subject to Federal regulation because no more than 39 per cent of its product left the State.

Today's ruling said "intermingling of the two activities (interstate and intrastate) does not take from the Congress the right to regulate that substantial portion over which the Constitution has specifically granted the control to the Federal Government."

The decision was written by Judge William Denman who only a few days ago wrote a decision upholding constitutionality of the amended Agricultural Adjustment Act.

"So long as 1 per cent of the goods is so moved," Judge Bert E. Haney wrote in a concurring opinion, "the unfair labor practice obstructs the movement to that extent."

Judge Curtis D. Wilbur, in a dissenting opinion, contended Federal jurisdiction should not apply unless at least half a company's business moved in interstate commerce.

Judge Denman's opinion held the company had admitted dismissing employes because of activities in the warehousemen's union.

COUNTRY DOCTOR'S 'BABIES' WILL HONOR HIS MEMORY

Monument to Man Who Brought 1740 Into World to Be Dedicated Today.

BYRON, Ill., July 31.—Hundreds of persons who were brought into the world by Craig Stewart Thomson will meet in this small Rock River Valley town tomorrow to honor the memory of their "country doctor."

Dr. Thomson would have been 67 years old tomorrow. He delivered 1740 babies—about twice the present population of this community.

His friends and medical colleagues of other cities will dedicate a granite boulder on the lawn of Byron School. The stone will bear a plaque with an inscription, closely guarded until the unveiling.

Dr. Thomson, who for 34 years served a wide rural area as friend, counselor and physician to hundreds, died Oct. 30, 1931, from injuries he suffered when his automobile was struck by a train as he hurried to the bedside of a dying patient.

OHIO'S BAR TO COLOR LINE ON SHOPPERS BECOMES LAW

Court Victory of Cleveland Store That Refused Goods to Negro Woman Led to Amendment.

COLUMBUS, O., July 31.—Discrimination by merchandising establishments against prospective customers because of race or color was barred today by statute.

An amendment to Ohio's bill of civil rights, passed by the Legislature, became effective today. It also prohibits airline companies from refusing transportation to any person on these grounds. It provides a penalty for violators of fines of $50 to $500 or 30 to 90 days in jail, or both.

The amendment was proposed after the State Supreme Court upheld action of a Cleveland store in refusing the sale of goods to a Negro woman.

Wage-Hour Bill Passed By the Senate, 56 to 28

Black (Dem.), Alabama, moved to table the proposal. The motion to table carried by a vote of 46 to 39.

A proposal by Senator McCarran (Dem.), Nevada, to bar foreign goods produced by low-standard labor, was defeated, 53 to 27, as a similar amendment by Senator Lodge (Rep.), Massachusetts, had been two days ago.

After passing the wage and hours measure, the Senate voted to begin debate on the Wagner Housing Bill when it convenes Monday at noon.

Defense by Black.

Chairman Black of the Senate Labor Committee expressed satisfaction over the form in which the wage-hours bill passed. He told the Senate the Democratic platform had promised the bill to the people.

His usual unruffled calm gone, Black implored his colleagues to "consider the little fellows that are not able to come to Washington."

Criticising those who had argued for protection of the small business man, Black said he was interested in the individual worker. Pointing to the reserved galleries, where lobbyists often sit, Black said, "They have no representative there or anywhere else, unless it was the man who was taken from the galleries a few minutes ago."

Shortly before he spoke a man giving his name as W. A. Maxwell of Chicago had been ejected shouting from the galleries when he attempted to interrupt proceedings by making a speech. Maxwell came to Washington several weeks ago on what he said was a "one-man hunger march" to testify on the wage-hours bill. Guards stopped Maxwell before he could utter more than a few words.

Byrnes Urges Recommital.

Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, appealed to the Senate to recommit the bill on the ground it would harm small business establishments. He said also it would cut farmers' profits by making their purchases more costly.

Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, who moved to send the measure back to committee, said he was "anxious to vote for a bill to regulate hours and wages" but "that doesn't mean I am willing to vote for any bill that has that label on it."

Majority leader Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, making his first appeal for a major administration measure since his election as floor leader, told the Senate it was "not dealing with cold economic figures, but human problems and social problems."

"If the time has arrived," he declared, "when we must choose between two horns of a dilemma—whether all our people will work three-fourths of the time or three-fourths of our people are to work all of the time and the other one-fourth not work at all, then I choose the former."

Senator Neely's Plea for Bill.

Senator Neely (Dem.), West Virginia, attacked what he said was a "menacing pageant" in which some corporation executives received huge salaries while hundreds of their employes received wages of less than $650 a year to support entire families. The bill, he forecast, would spread employment among more than 8,000,000 unemployed.

Neely said the Senate's most authentic figures available show that 5,800,000 families are living on incomes of less than $1000 a year, and more than 59 per cent of the families of the United States have incomes of less than $2000 a year. He listed as "on the other side of the picture" a corporation executive receiving $500,000 a year, and said, "in other words, in 1935 a single corporation executive received $360 more for one day's service to his corporation than any one of 5,800,000 American families had as their budget on which to exist for a year."

Criticising opponents, he said, "slavery was defended on the floor of this Senate with eloquence comparable to that with which these distinguished anti-reformers have denounced the pending bill.

How Senate Bill Differs From Original Measure.

The wage-hours bill passed by the Senate today differed at several points from the form in which originally introduced, but retained the broad outlines of the original proposal.

The bill originally would have given an administrative board power to vary upward or downward wage and hour standards set by the bill for industries in interstate commerce.

It also would have permitted fixing of "fair minimum" wages and a "fair maximum work week" higher than the "non-oppressive" level in industries where the board found collective bargaining to be "inadequate." Wages could have been as high as 80 cents an hour or $1200 a year. The limit for a "fair" maximum work week never was fixed in the measure.

As it passed the Senate, the bill contained no power for the board to fix a "fair" wage-hour standard. It also put a top of 40 cents an hour on the "non-oppressive" wage which the board could establish and a floor of 40 hours on the work week it could impose.

The original bill dealt with child labor by simply prohibiting transportation of child labor goods in interstate commerce. The Senate substitute would combine the flat prohibition with a provision restraining employers of child labor from shipping goods into a state in violation of that state's laws.

In the bill as introduced "oppressive" labor practices such as labor espionage and strikebreaking were prohibited. These sections were deleted by the Senate Labor Committee.

Should the House pass the bill, at least 120 days must elapse fore any wage or hour order c become effective. Even then, time probably would be required the proposed labor standards b to study each industry and e lish appropriate minimum and maximum hours. Until board has made such a study issued an order for each indu there will be no compulsory crease in wages or reduction hours.

Before issuing any order, board would be required to a public hearing and consult employer-employe committee resenting the affected industry.

Because of various restricti many workers will feel no dire fect even when the bill is i operation.

F. of L., launched a $500,000 drive to organize employes of structural steel fabricating plants. The drive, still going on, resulted in contracts between the union and several fabricating plants in this territory.

Credit to the C I O for stimulating union membership drives in A. F. of L. organizations was given by Lawrence Raftery, secretary of the St. Louis Painters' District Council of the A. F. of L. "The C I O woke us up and we are out hustling to protect ourselves," Raftery said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, adding, "we may as well be honest about it." The 3000 members of the Painters' District Council includes 500 paint makers and 100 glass warehouse employes who have been added since the C I O took to the field.

The membership boom has been reflected in the ranks of the Building Trades Council, an organization of 18,000 craftsmen. It was impossible to obtain an official estimate of the membership increase in the council, but it is about 6000 greater than during depression days. There is some duplication of membership in the Building Trades Council and the Central Trades & Labor Union through the affiliation of the painters, carpenters, plumbers, steam-fitters and several of the teamsters' units with both organizations. The Central Trades will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary next month.

ROYCE B. BRAY

50 YEARS A WORKER IN CITY WATER OFFICE

Royce B. Bray Congratulated by Mayor and Is Honored at Luncheon.

Royce B. Bray, oldest city employe in point of service, rounded out 50 years of employment in the Water Department yesterday.

He received a handshake and congratulations from Mayor Dickmann and was guest at a luncheon given by 18 fellow employes of the Water Department testing laboratory in the Municipal Courts Building.

"I entered employ of the Water Department as a cleaner when I was 21 years old," Bray said to the Mayor. "And there was plenty to clean back in 1887 at the settling basins at Bissell's Point where I started out."

"I hope you'll be with us another 50 years," the Mayor told him.

Turning to reporters the Mayor, with a twinkle, said: "This just goes to show that the Democrats haven't been so hard on holdovers as some people would have you believe."

Bray became a physicist's helper in the laboratory in 1890 and has been in the same job since. A widower, he resides with his daughter, Mrs. Nancy O'Meara, 5763 Westminster place.

MAN SHOT, ANOTHER HURT IN FIGHT IN COUNTY TAVERN

Proprietor Said to Admit Firing at Solomon Zumwalt; Companion Hit on Head.

Solomon Zumwalt, a carpenter's helper, 215 Vida avenue, Luxemburg, was shot in the right shoulder, and Milton Batchelder, also a carpenter's helper, of the same address, was injured when struck on the head, in a fight last night at Reeb's Welcome Inn, Lindbergh and Gravois roads, St. Louis County.

Paul Reeb, proprietor of the tavern, admitted firing the shot at Zumwalt, Deputy Constables of Carondelet Township said. The dispute began while Zumwalt and Batchelder, and their wives, were sitting in the tavern with Mr. and Mrs. George Gosney, also of the Vida avenue address. Members of the party said Reeb objected when Batchelder and Gosney began dancing together, and the three men went outside and fought. Zumwalt was shot when he followed in an effort stop them, he said.

BODY OF MAN, WEIGHTED DOWN, FOUND IN LAKE

Victim, Unidentified, Had Been Stabbed; Trussed With Rope and Chain.

LIBERTY, N. Y., July 31.—The body of an unidentiifed man, trussed with ropes and chains and with the framework of a pin-ball machine lashed to one arm, was recovered today from Swan Lake, four miles from here. The man had been stabbed. On each arm was tattooed a tropical bird, while on one arm was inscribed the initials "W. J. S." and the date "1928."

The man's legs had been trussed up with 25 feet of sash cord, four strands of which had been lashed over the mouth. A nine-foot length of sash-chain was entwined around the neck, and attached to the body was a 30-pound rock in addition to the pin-ball machine frame.

WOMAN, 72, KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Mrs. Minnie Grab Struck as She Turns From Mail Box on Lemay Ferry Road.

Mrs. Minnie Grab, a widow, 72 years old, was killed yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile in front of her home on Lemay Ferry road near Baumgartner road, Mattese.

The driver, who identified himself as Wentfred Spangler, 4756A Alabama avenue, said she was examining the mail box across the road from her home as he approached and turned and walked into the side of his car. She was dead of a fractured skull when taken to a physician's office.

Spangler brought his automobile to a stop in a wheat field 600 feet away from the scene of the accident. He explained that he became excited and did not know how the car reached the field. He was placed under bond pending an inquest Monday.

Belleville City Attorney Injured in Auto Accident.

L. N. Nick Perrin Jr., city attorney of Belleville, suffered fractures of several ribs and cuts and bruises late Friday afternoon when his automobile ran in a ditch after he swerved to avoid a collision with another car on State Route No. 13 about five miles west of Belleville. The driver of the other car did not stop but a passing motorist took Perrin to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Woman Injured When Two Autos Collide on Highway 99.

Miss Della Osterman, 5128 San Francisco avenue, suffered a skull injury last night when an automobile in which she was riding with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Smith, collided with another car at Highway 99 and Parker road, St. Louis County.

The driver of the other car said he was Jesse Simpson, a Negro, of 2612½ Mill street. Miss Osterman, who is 47 years old, was taken to Dr. Tiernon's Hospital in Pine Lawn. The others were not injured.

PRIEST AND TEACHER KILLED, 4 OTHERS HURT IN CRASH

Two Indianans Die of Injuries After Auto Accident in Florida.

By the Associated Press.

OCALA, Fla., July 31.—Two persons were killed and four others injured in a collision of two automobiles today. The Rev. Anthony J. Kroeger, pastor of St. Andrews Catholic Church at Lowell, Ind., died shortly after the collision. Miss Verona Haag, Crown Point (Ind.) teacher, died in a hospital tonight.

Sheriff Gordon Moorhead said he was holding a man listed as Carl Wilkes, 30 years old, as the driver of the car that was in collision with the one in which the priest was riding. He said a deputy was following Wilkes to arrest him on a charge of driving when intoxicated.

The others injured were: The Rev. Fred C. Rothermel, pastor of a Catholic Church at Kentland, Ind.; Miss Marie Teders, teacher of St. Cloud, Minn.; Verona Haag, school teacher, and a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Ikey Dahlen and said she was from Mississippi.

Miss Teders was reported in serious condition with a broken leg and head injuries.

FLYER SPOTS FIRE AT FARM HOUSE; SIGNALS ALARM

National Guard Captain From Lambert-St. Louis Field Arouses Sleeping Owner.

Flying at an altitude of 2000 feet, about seven miles south of Eldon, Mo., yesterday afternoon, Capt. Eric H. Kaeppel of the National Guard observation squadron at Lambert-St. Louis field spotted a wisp of smoke coming from a burning farm house.

Kaeppel, en route to Nevada, Mo., dove toward the house, and the noise of his motor awakened Elmer Adcock, the owner, who was sleeping in the yard. The pilot then headed north at low altitude to a general store where he created enough commotion to direct the attention of persons there to the fire by heading in the direction of the farmhouse.

The Eldon and Tuscumbia fire departments were called by telephone from the store, but they arrived too late to do much more than salvage some furniture. The house, a seven-room frame dwelling, burned to the ground.

Eldon is about 30 miles southwest of Jefferson City.

CITY SANITARIUM EMPLOYE STABBED AFTER SALOON ROW

Admitted Assailant Tells Police Man He Wounded Hit Him on Head.

James Leonard, a maintenance man at the City Sanitarium, was stabbed in the left chest below the heart last night by James Johnson of 1921 Wright street, in front of a saloon at 2910 North Twenty-third street, after the two had begun to quarrel while drinking in the saloon.

Leonard, who is 47 years old and lives at 2207 University street, was taken to City Hospital, where it was said his condition is serious. He refused to make a statement to police.

Johnson, police said, admitted the stabbing. They quoted him as saying he and Leonard left the saloon and that Leonard hit him on the back of the head. He then drew his pocket knife, he said, and stabbed Leonard.

EAST SIDE WEDDING LICENSES

Only 11 Issued in E. St. Louis in July; 86 a Year Ago.

Only 11 marriage licenses were issued in East St. Louis in July, the first month during which the new Illinois laws requiring those intending to marry to show freedom from venereal disease and to give three days notice of their intention to wed have been in effect. Last year 86 licenses were issued in July.

Of the licenses issued during July, none went to Negroes. Formerly about one-third of the licenses issued in East St. Louis were to Negroes.

CODONA'S EX-WIFE SHOT BY HIM, DIES

Aerialist Wounded Vera Bruce, Who Divorced Him, Then Ended Own Life.

By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 31.—Vera Bruce Codona, noted aerialist and divorced wife of Alfredo Codona, once world-renowned master of the flying trapeze, died today of bullet wounds he inflicted late yesterday just before shooting himself to death. They were at a lawyer's office to discuss a division of property when the shooting occurred.

Twice before his divorce, tragedy struck at Codona, the one-time star performer of "The Flying Codonas," family circus troupe which several times toured the world.

In 1931, his internationally-noted second wife, Lillian Leitzel, fell to her death when an aerial ring broke while she was performing at Copenhagen. Two years later, his shoulder was so badly injured in a fall during his act in New York that he never was able to perform again.

Divorce Petition Charged Cruelty.

Codona, who was the only circus aerialist ever to make a successful routine of the triple somersault, married Miss Vera Bruce some 19 months after Miss Leitzel's death, and she succeeded the latter as a member of the troupe.

Miss Bruce divorced him a month ago, charging cruelty and jealousy.

Codona died immediately after the shooting. His former wife lived until 10:30 a. m. today, when she succumbed, despite repeated operations and blood transfusions.

Indication that Codona had planned to end his own life was given in a note left in the home of Mrs. W. K. Adolph, a sister, with whom he had lived since he separated from his wife, it was found in a dresser drawer in the room Codona occupied, Adolph disclosed tonight, and read in part: "I have no home. I have no wife to love me. I am going back to Leitzel (Lillian Leitzel), th eonly woman who ever loved me."

The brother-in-law also said Codona had addressed the note to "my dear brothers and sisters" and advised them to avoid the marital difficulties he had.

Gloomy Over Comeback Failure.

Friends said Codona became increasingly gloomy after he abandoned, in 1934, a come-back training program which he started a few months after recuperating from his shoulder injury.

He later appeared in three motion pictures and traveled for a year as an executive with the Tom Mix Circus. Of recent months, he had been in the garage business.

Codona's body will be placed beneath a 17-foot marble monument in Inglewood Cemetery, where lie the ashes of Lillian Leitzel Codona. He had the monument, inscribed "reunion," erected when her ashes were brought to Southern California.

On the monument are carved two trapeze rings, one broken, symbolizing the accident that caused her death.

GAMBLING BOOM IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Two New Establishments, Catering to 'Shirtsleeves Trade' Opened Recently.

Increased prosperity in East St. Louis, with payrolls mounting and relief rolls dwindling, has manifested itself also in another way, a boom in the East Side gambling business.

Within recent weeks, two new establishments have opened in East St. Louis. One, a room reached by devious corridors at the back of a tavern on St. Clair avenue, caters to workers from the nearby stockyards with a dice table. The operator is said to be a gambler who has an interest in the Hyde Park Club in Venice.

The other is a large handbook establishment a few blocks away on Collinsville avenue, adjoining a tavern. A poker game also is in operation here, and there is a dice table which so far has not been used. The new places are unpretentious establishments, catering chiefly to the "shirt-sleeves" trade.

Parking Space Provided.

Two of the most notorious East St. Louis gambling places, those of Vick Doyle on Missouri avenue and "Mulepole" Fritz on East Broadway, have joined the march of progress by providing parking space for the convenience of customers. There has been no expansion of the actual gambling facilities at these places, however. Fritz abandoned an attempt to add a dice game to his handbook operations last January after three bombings had greeted the installation of tables, and Doyle's place was bombed in March, the week after he added two dice tables and a blackjack game to his layout.

At the time of the bombings, some observers of the competitive gambling situation on the East Side pointed out that these were not the first bombings of gambling places whose proprietors became too ambitious in branching out. Apparently no stir has been created in gambling circles, however, by the two recent openings of new places, indicating there is plenty of business to go around.

Other Places Prosperous.

Other places enjoying a prosperous business are the Mounds Club in Madison County on Highway 40, a short distance from East St. Louis, a new establishment opened about six months ago farther out on Highway 40, and an East St. Louis night club on Market avenue. The new club on Highway 40 features a novel roulette set-up in which flashing electric light bulbs take the place of the old-fashioned spinning ivory ball.

The gambling boom has attracted the attention of the Rev. Irl R. Sidwell, president of the East St. Louis Ministerial Alliance, who told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday the alliance was planning a campaign to arouse public opinion against the situation. He declined to comment in detail on the alliance's program, but said a special committee was preparing to act.

SHERIFF HURT IN COLLISION; PRISONER GUARDS PISTOLS

Condo Evans of Marshfield, Mo., Taken to Hospital as Youth Waits for Orders.

By the Associated Press.

PICHER, Ok., July 31.—Sheriff Condo Evans, Marshfield, Mo., was injured seriously and five other persons suffered minor injuries tonight when two automobiles collided near the Oklahoma-Kansas state line.

One of the others injured was Leo Letterman, 16 years old, Springfield, Mo., who the Sheriff was returning from Tucumcari, N. M., to Webster County, Mo., to face a charge of burglary and grand larceny.

First reports were that Letterman, who was slightly injured, had escaped, but when Picher officers went to the scene later they found Letterman sitting near by guarding the Sheriff's pistols that had been spilled on the highway. Letterman was removed to the county jail at Columbus, Kan.

Examination at a Picher hospital showed that Evans received a skull fracture.

MURDER CHARGE IN OKLAHOMA CRASH, FATAL TO ST. LOUISAN

Charles Johnson, 18, of Calumet, Accused in Death of Russell Oliver, Who Was Burned.

By the Associated Press.

EL RENO, Ok., July 31.—Charles Johnson, 18 years old, of Calumet, Ok., was charged with murder today in connection with an automobile accident near Calumet July 18 in which Russell Oliver, 27, of St. Louis, was killed.

The information charged Johnson was the driver of a car which collided with one driven by Oliver. Oliver's automobile caught fire after the crash and he died of burns two days later.

County Judge Emmett Thompson gave Johnson until Monday to enter a plea.

Oliver formerly lived at 4652 Vernon avenue. He had sold his filling station here and was on his way to California when he was killed.

M'CARTHY RETIRES AS POLICE CHIEF TODAY, WITH SOUVENIRS

He Will Get Gold Badge, Watch and Permit to Make Arrests at Headquarters Ceremony.

The retirement of Chief of Police John J. McCarthy will become effective today and the retiring officer will be presented with mementos of his 43 years on the force at a ceremony at Police Headquarters.

McCarthy will get a gold badge from a group of business men, and officers and employes at headquarters will present a gold watch. A certificate, which will entitle the retiring Chief to carry a pistol and to make arrests, will be presented by the Board of Police Commissioners. The ceremony will be held at 11 a. m.

The new Chief of Police is John H. Glassco.

Two Killed in Auto Crash.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., July 31.—Two men were killed and three other persons were critically injured today when two automobiles crashed head-on, seven miles south of St. Joseph. The dead were Ernest Vader, 55, of Michigan City, Ind., and William P. Safely, Flint, Mich. Mrs. Vader, Miss Lucille Lee and Leroy Newsol of Flint, were taken to St. Joseph Sanitarium for emergency treatment. Their condition is critical.

GIRL, 8, IS KILLED BY BROOKLYN STRANGLER

Child Surprised While at Play in Basement of Tenement Home.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A strangler who operated in broad daylight killed 8-year-old Paula Magagna today in the cellar of her tenement home in Brooklyn.

He looped a clothesline four times around her neck, stripped off her clothes and assaulted her after she was dead. Then he dragged her across the floor and dumped the body on a baby carriage near some garbage cans.

The killer apparently surprised the girl at play shortly before noon, Assistant Medical Examiner Romeo Auerbach said, for her body was still warm when it was found about 1 o'clock.

The slaying was similar to three others in Brooklyn in the last four years.

The death of Barbara Wiles, 6, in 1933, was almost identical. She was strangled with a rope, and her body was found lying across a baby carriage.

Helen Sterler, 6, also was strangled and criminally assaulted in the same year. Her assailant was arrested and condemned.

Today's crime was near the neighborhood where Einer Sporrer, 9, was assaulted and killed last March by Salvatore Ossida, 26, a barber. Ossida now is awaiting death at Sing Sing.

The Magana girl was the daughter of a stone cutter, one of a family of three living in a seven-family tenement. Her body was found by a tenant, Mrs. Lena Meld.

The sun suit Paula had been wearing was missing, and the police search for the killer was centered on it. Police detained for questioning a man who was arrested last Saturday on a charge of impairing the morals of minors and was freed on bail, awaiting trial.

WINDSOR AND DUCHESS FAIL TO ATTEND 'ROMEO AND JULIET'

Decide to Pass Up Performance at Venice to Avoid Demonstrations.

By the Associated Press.

VENICE, July 31.—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor declined tonight to share the spotlight with Romeo and Juliet.

They were scheduled to attend an open air performance of Shakespeare's play, thus furnishing a double attraction for the Lido's smart set, but reconsidered at the last minute in order to avoid possible demonstrations. They are in Venice on a short visit from their pastoral honeymoon retreat in Austria.

BEAUTY TRAINING ONLY SKIN-DEEP, STUDENTS CHARGE

Man in Affidavit States He Still Feels Unqualified After Nine Months' Course.

MUCH HAIRBOBBING BUT LITTLE ELSE

He Says It Would Have Taken Combined Learning of Six to Make Competent Operator.

The National Association of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists this week will continue its investigation of infractions of the state code by some St. Louis beauty schools and will present its evidence to the State Board of Health in the hope of tightening up enforcement of regulations.

Affidavits made to the association by students of three schools charge superficial training, violation of sanitary requirements and disregard of state regulations to protect the public from incompetent and unschooled operators. Association representatives said it is plain from the evidence assembled that these schools and several others are operated chiefly to obtain free operators to work in beauty shops affiliated with the schools. Such operators are novices without adequate training but this fact is concealed from customers, it was said.

The association yesterday made public two more affidavits. One was from a 16-year-old girl who told how a woman was burned on the scalp while getting a permanent wave in the shop department of one of the schools.

Story of Man Student.

The other was from a 36-year-old man, who cited violations in a downtown school in which he enrolled on the glib assurance there was a greater demand for men as beauty operators than women. The school's proprietor also boasted of connections through which he could place his graduates in "exclusive shops" downtown.

The student spent nine months in the school. This was three months more than is required to take the State examination for a beauty operator's license.

The last three months the student remained at the school in the hope of getting the all-around instruction he failed to get in the first six. This was due to a specialization technique, which was highly profitable to the school, but which prevented its students from getting the diversified training required to take the State examination.

The first operation the student learned when he began his course was hair bobbing. Thereafter, he said, he was kept at that task almost exclusively. Other students, who learned other operations at the outset, fared likewise, so that each gained great proficiency in one specialty but the student said it would have taken the combined specialties of half a dozen to have made one competent operator.

Feels He Is Unqualified.

Although this student has now passed the State examination he feels that as a result of his lopsided training he is not qualified to practice the craft in all its branches even though he is highly skilled as a hairbobber.

"When students complained about lack of instruction and about having to work for the customers while the school received the pay, they were threatened with expulsion," this student related in his affidavit.

Affidavits taken by the association also disclose some schools violated the State regulation that individual records be kept on the work of each student and that they be kept under lock where students can not tamper with them. At the downtown school students were permitted to keep their own records. There was nothing to prevent them from crediting themselves with more work than they had done.

Some schools likewise failed to comply with the regulation that they have a physician lecture monthly to students on scalp and skin conditions.

Affidavit of Girl.

The 16-year-old girl said she was instructed by the school proprietor to give a permanent wave by a chemical process with which she was unfamiliar. Assisting her was another student, who had been in school only two days. Due to the inexperience of the girls, the customer had an uncomfortable time.

First, her scalp was burned. Then the steam from the chemical apparatus percolated around her neck and shoulders. The girls remedied this with a felt collar but they were scolded by the proprietor. On another occasion, the girl related, the proprietor slapped "my hands because she did not like the way I was giving a shampoo." Thereafter, the girl said, she refused to give shampoos.

PACKING CO. WORKERS TO VOTE ON UNIONS

Hunter Plant Election Tomorrow to Decide Between C I O and A. F. of L.

An election to determine whether an American Federation of Labor union or a C I O union represents a majority of the 583 employes of the Hunter Packing Co. in East St. Louis will be held tomorrow in a school building near the plant, under supervision by the National Labor Relations Board.

The election is regarded as the first trial of strength between the organizations since the C I O affiliate, the Industrial Butchers' & Laborers' Union, entered the meat packing industry, largest employer of labor on the East Side and formerly dominated by the A. F. of L. union, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' & Butchers' Union.

Locals of both unions are in the other two large East Side packing houses, Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. Since majority representation has not been established in either plant the outcome of the vote tomorrow is looked upon as vital in determining union superiority and prestige.

Both organizations have prepared for the vote in intensive election campaigns. Mass meetings have been held and workers have been personally solicited for support.

In statements to the labor board, the C I O union claimed a membership of 373, and the other organization claimed 352. The election was petitioned by the former group after the company declined to negotiate a contract with the union until its claim to a majority of eligible employes was established.

DEPRESSIONS IN STREETS ARE BEING ELIMINATED

Work About Half Done; Machine Called a "Mud Jack" Is Used to Fill Holes.

Depressions caused in city streets by the settling of material in ditches dug during construction of a water main from Stacy Park Reservoir on Olive Street road, St. Louis County, to Grand boulevard and Eichelberger street, are being eliminated with a machine known as a mud jack.

The machine pumps a mixture of mud and cement under the depressions, raising them and providing a new foundation. It is operated by a crew of five employes of the Water Division.

Begun 18 weeks ago, the work is about half done, but likely will be completed within three months. At present it is progressing eastward on Ivanhoe avenue, south of Arsenal street.

Romance of Henry Meyerhoff and Mrs. Elizabeth Bosold Began After Ely-Walker Picnic.

Henry Meyerhoff, 70 years old, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bosold, 60, were married yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace George R. Hart at his office at Natural Bridge and St. Charles roads, St. Louis County.

Meyerhoff, a shipping room clerk of the Ely-Walker Dry Goods Co. for the last 41 years, first met his bride when she went to work for the firm as a tie presser seven years ago. The romance began only a few months ago, however, after an employes' picnic which both attended.

Mrs. Meyerhoff, who resided at 2629 Burns avenue, Overland, before the wedding, has been married twice before and has an adopted son. Meyerhoff, married once before, has five grown children living. He resided at 2907 St. Vincent avenue.

ARMY IN NATIONAL DEFENSE MANEUVERS

56,000 Take Field in Greatest Troop Movement Since World War.

By the Associated Press.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal., July 31. The greatest American troop movement since the World War was under way tonight in Western United States as the Fourth army took the field.

There are four field armies in the present plans for national defense. Major-General George S. Simonds, Ninth Corps Area, is Commanding General of the Fourth. Peacetime strength of the unit represented in the maneuvers Aug. 1 to 31 is 56,000 men.

Troops from 16 states and one signal corps unit from New Jersey move into four concentrations. These are at San Luis Obispo, Aug. 1-15; Camp Ripley, Minn., Aug. 8-22; Fort Riley, Kan., Aug. 15-29; and Fort Lewis, Wash., Aug. 17-31.

All elements of modern military warfare will be employed in the field exercises, embracing aviation, tanks, artillery, cavalry, infantry and supporting troops.

Regular troops and national guard forces, as well as organized reserve officers, will participate.

IOWA'S 16-FOOT CORNSTALK WINS FROM WISCONSIN

But Gov. La Follette Counters With a 2100-Pound Cheese, 26-Pound Muskellunge.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 31.—Iowa won the tall corn derby today when Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel's entry—16 feet, five inches—towered more than three feet higher than the stalk brought by Gov. Philip F. La Follette to challenge Iowa supremacy. The pride of Wisconsin measured only 13 feet, one inch.

Gov. La Follette acknowledged Iowa's supremacy in tall corn, but presented Gov. Kraschel with a 26-pound muskellunge, a 2100-pound cheese and a 1500-pound tub of butter in support of Wisconsin's claims to superiority in other lines.

"I'm a little bit overawed by these tall cornstalks," Gov. La Follette declared. "This one looks like the Washington Monument to me." The champion stalk was brought to Des Moines by Isaac Ogden, young Batavia farmer.

However, Iowa still has Illinois and Gov. Horner to outclass. Horner has issued a challenge for the Illinois State Fair.

5 ACCUSED IN EGG HOLDUP

Admit Many Thefts, U. S. Attorney at Kansas City Says.

KANSAS CITY, July 31. — Otto Schmid, Assistant United States District Attorney, charged five men today with plundering a freight truck recently of 160 cases of eggs. Schmid said the two produce dealers and three former truck drivers charged had admitted participating in 15 hijackings since last November, seizing loot worth $25,000. The egg holdup occurred three days ago near Cameron, Mo.

Named in the charge were George A. Bilbreath, Claycomo, Mo.; Elmo L. Seymour, Arthur Davis, and Frank Sabile, all of Kansas City, and Lloyd H. Butler, Hume, Mo. The latter two are produce dealers.

STRIKE ENDS AT TWO BETHLEHEM MINES

Diggers for Steel Company to Return at Johnstown and Heilwood, Pa.

By the Associated Press.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 31.—Striking miners voted today to return to work next week at the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's mines in Johnstown and Heilwood, Pa.

President James Mark of District No. 2 of the United Mine Workers said he advised the men to return to work following a conference with officers of the industrial collieries, Bethlehem subsidiary.

Three mines in Johnstown will open Monday, the company said, ending a strike called several weeks ago in support of the walkout at the company's Cambria steel works. The Heilwood mines will open next Tuesday.

The vote today left workers at only one Bethlehem mine, at Slickville, Pa., on strike.

Union leaders said the men would return under conditions prevailing before the walkout to await negotiation of a new working agreement.

MANAGER OF ILLINOIS H O L C RESIGNS; SUCCESSOR NAMED

F. B. Bourland, Peoria, to Replace H. C. Zander Jr.; 70,000 Loans Were Made During Period.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Henry C. Zandler Jr. said yesterday he had resigned as State manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, effective Aug. 1, and would be succeeded by Fred B. Bourland of Peoria.

Zander said that he had just received notice from Washington of the acceptance of his resignation, tendered several months ago. Having filled his H O L C office since Jan. 1, 1934, he said he was anxious to return to private business with his father and brother. Bourland, vice-president of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, has been State appraiser of the H O L C for three years. He is a former president of the Peoria Real Estate Board.

Loans totaling more than $280,000,000 were made in 70,000 individual cases under Zander. When lending was halted he turned his attention to collecting the sums due monthly. There have been about 5000 foreclosures in the State in that time.

CENTRAL ILLINOIS UTILITY CITED ON ELECTRIC RATES

State Commission Orders it to Show Why Reduction is Withheld; Dividends Questioned.

CHICAGO, July 31.—The Illinois Commerce Commission cited the Central Illinois Electric & Gas Co., today to show cause why its electric rates should not be reduced.

In a second citation the commission also demanded that the utility show cause why the company should not be ordered to desist from payments of dividends on its common stock, a practice which the commission said violated section 27-A of the Public Utilities Act.

The Central Illinois Utility serves mores than 60 Illinois communities. Both citations were made returnable Aug. 19 in Springfield.

Members of the commission declined to elaborate on the latter citation. Paul J. Raver, chief executive officer of the commission, said however, that the company announced a 13 per cent dividend last year on the common stock, all of which, he added, was held by the holding company, Consolidated Electric Gas Co., of Jersey City, N. J.

ESCAPED CONVICTS HELD IN 4 ROBBERIES

Federal Agents Say Men Who Fled From Missouri Took $45,000 From Cleveland Banks.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 31.—Frank and Charles Bird and Charles Widmer, escaped Missouri convict, have been connected with five major robberies here since last February, Federal agents who are questioning the men said tonight.

Heading the list of crimes is the robbery attempt at the Coventry road branch of the Central National Bank Thursday, frustrated by police, who captured Charles Bird and Widmer in a pistol fight. Frank Bird, arrested later, has denied any connection with this holdup attempt.

The other robberies, with which Federal agents said the men were connected either through admission or identification, were the following:

An $18,000 robbery at the Lorain Street Bank Feb. 27, in which the robbers forced Joseph Varga Jr. to aid their escape. As a result of the Varga incident, kidnaping charges have been placed against the three prisoners.

The $13,000 robbery of the Buckeye Road Branch of the Central National Bank June 29.

A $14,000 holdup of another branch of Central National Bank July 23.

The $1500 robbery of a liquor store June 17.

Frank Bird admitted the Lorain Street Bank robbery, naming his brother and Widmer as associates, agents said, but denied taking part in the other hold-ups. Charles Bird and Widmer were quoted as admitting the robberies of the two branches of Central National Bank.

When they escaped from the Missouri penitentiary, Frank Bird and Widmer were serving life terms for the murder of a St. Louis policeman, and Charles Bird was serving a 10-year sentence for robbery. The Bird brothers married Cleveland sisters a few months ago. Mrs. Charles Bird was arrested in St. Louis and is now being questioned here.

Suit Against Macon, Mo., Dismissed
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MACON, Mo., July 31.—The City of Macon was found not liable in the $50,000 damage case filed by Elizabeth Patrick against Employers' Mutual Liability Insurance Co., Dr. F. C. Helwig and the City of Macon, at a hearing in Circuit Court this week. The case was based on an alleged wrongful holding of an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Patrick's husband, John Patrick, formerly Fire Chief of the City of Macon, on Feb. 5, 1937.

BONDHOLDERS FAIL TO CLAIM CASH IN FORECLOSURES

Liquidators Unable to Locate Many St. Louis Investors Following Sales or Reorganizations.

MONEY RETAINED IN BANK DEPOSITS

Persons Who Neglected to Take Action in Outright Liquidations May Have Sums Due Them.

A considerable sum of cash is on deposit in banks for holders of St. Louis issues of foreclosed real estate mortgage bonds who have failed to claim their portions. Trustees and other liquidation representatives are having difficulty in finding the owners, many of whom have departed from their last addresses known to the liquidators.

Undoubtedly the same condition exists in cities throughout the United States, a Post-Dispatch reporter was told yesterday by William R. Orthwein, St. Louis lawyer who has been a trustee or counsel in a number of realty mortgage bond foreclosures. He expressed the opinion that millions of dollars were lying unclaimed in the nation's banks which belong to persons who had failed to deposit their bonds in reorganization proceedings or to enter claims in outright liquidations

In addition, he said there must be millions of dollars worth of new bonds or stock issued in exchange for old bonds, which have not been claimed and remain in the hands of banking agents. The situation, he added, existed not only in the case of realty mortgages, but in industrial and railroad mortgage bonds, in view of the thousands of foreclosures and financial reorganizations in the depression.

Interest Accumulating.

There were cases, he continued, where interest was accumulating unclaimed on the new issues of bonds or stocks. Publication of the facts should result in locating many bondholders, he said.

Orthwein cited figures in three local instances in which he was cotrustee on realty mortgage bonds—the Mayfair Hotel, Forest Park Hotel and Central Properties Corporation, the latter a unit in the Skouras promotion of the Ambassador and Grand Central theater buildings.

After five years, there is $951 still awaiting holders of Mayfair bonds which had a par value of $7500, in settlement of their unpressed claims. The issue originally was $1,600,000, of which $1,411,000 was outstanding when the mortgage was foreclosed. Holders of $1,436,300 of the bonds deposited the bonds and eventually received new ones in the reorganization.

But holders of the remaining $74,700 in bonds refrained from depositing them. Of these, $59,000 were presented to the trustee for settlement at $20.52 per $100. The fund was kept in the bank for two years and then, about three years ago a balance of $1991, representing the payment due on the other $15,700 par value, was turned over to Circuit Court. Since then, $1040 of this has been claimed from time to time, leaving still on hand the $951 on $7500 par value.

"Extremely Good Showing."

"This," said Orthwein, "was an extremely good showing, because it came in the early part of the depression, when people's interest in their bonds was keen."

On the Forest Park Hotel, the original bond issue was $1,250,000, of which $1,005,000 was outstanding at the time of foreclosure. Holders of $859,700 deposited their bonds in exchange for new stock, while holders of $145,300 did not deposit them. Settlements have been collected by holders of $127,800 of the nondeposited bonds, at the rate of $21.47 per $100. The trustees still have on hand $3990, representing settlements due on the remaining $17,500 par value, after three years of liquidation. Orthwein announced that this money would be paid into Circuit Court shortly, so that the trustees could be discharged.

The Central Properties issue, foreclosed two and a half years ago, was for $4,500,000 originally but had been reduced to $4,040,500. Holders of $3,399,600 deposited in reorganization but holders of $640,900 failed to do so. There was $256,744 for distribution to the nondepositing bondholders, at $40.06 per $100, but many of them have not claimed their money, which is in a Chicago bank.

45 Notices Returned.

Last Tuesday, the Central Properties trustees issued notice that an additional $6.70 per $100 was ready for distribution, due to receipt of money from the bankrupt estate of Skouras Bros. Enterprises. Out of 372 copies of the notice mailed to last known addresses of bondholders, 45 already had been returned yesterday as undeliverable.

The Central Properties, Forest Park Hotel and Mayfair bonds were held by persons scattered all over the country. Most other mortgage bond issues were similarly spread across the nation's cities and rural districts, Orthwein said. This was a result of the extensive system of financing apartment, hotel, office and theater buildings and other structures before the depression by sale of bonds representing individually small fractions of the whole issues.

Orthwein has been trustee or attorney in half a dozen other local foreclosures. The general picture was the same in these as in the three examples cited, he declared. Hence newspaper advertising was useless to find "lost" bondholders, he pointed out, as in many cases it would be necessary to advertise all over the country at prohibitive expense. Larger issues particularly were widely distributed and many mortgage bonds found their way into small, remote communities.

Firms No Longer in Business.

The financial houses floating the bonds generally had fair lists of some of the holders, but not all. However, many of these houses, especially among those specializing in real estate mortgage bonds, have gone out of business, the attorney pointed out. Liquidators have found that some of the "lost" bonds were likely to straggle in every few months.

There is more red tape to collect settlement money which has been paid into the registry of Circuit Court than to get it from trustees, Orthwein related. In his opinion, the Circuit Clerk must be the custodian of the money until it is claimed, unless the clerk eventually turns it over to the State escheats fund.

Indifference, carelessness, death, dissolution of partnerships, closing of corporations and even sheer laziness were given by the lawyer as reasons for which people failed to claim their money on bonds. Sometimes, he added, bonds believed to be worthless but actually having some value were allowed to lie forgotten in desk drawers and safe deposit boxes. The length of time to work out reorganizations and liquidations due to depression conditions contributed to the situation.

"In addition," Orthwein concluded, "there is a class of brokers who have information on bonds and ferret out the owners to pick up bonds at discounts, making nice profits for themselves."

GOEBBELS' UNITY PLEA CHEERED BY 500,000

Europe's 80,000,000 Germans Are One People, Song Festival Throng Is Told.

By the Associated Press.

BRESLAU, Germany, July 31.—Europe's 80,000,000 Germans are one people and boundary posts of wood and stone cannot keep them apart, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels told an audience of 500,000 persons here tonight in the presence of Chancellor Adolf Hitler. Der Fuehrer spoke also but only briefly.

Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda and Public Enlightment, was cheered wildly when he referred ironically to the futility of frontiers where the spiritual unity of a nation is involved. He told the audience, which had come from all parts of Germany for the national song festival: "This festive hour concerns not only Germany singers—it is a great national political event which unites Germans in the Reich with tens of thousands of brothers beyond the border."

Addresses Hitler.

Turning to Hitler, he said: "It is therefore more than a superficial gesture, my Fuehrer, when you stand among your people in this hour."

Referring to the Chancellor's many radio speeches in recent years, Goebbels continued: "Germans beyond our border not only have heard your voice, but have taken your ideas and ideals to their hearts."

These words of the Minister caused a storm of cheering which was brought to a climax by the chant: "One people; one Reich; one people; one Reich."

Five thousand singers from Austria and thousands of other Austrian visitors were in the audience.

Goebbels spoke bitterly of the post-war years when "Jews, not Germans," were powerful in the Fatherland and "instead of German music, Negro music dominated." Under Hitler, he said, this was changed.

"United in Germay Song."

Hitler said he was addressing 95,000,000 speakers of German spread throughout the world and declared: "In the present stirring times all true Germans, united in German song, feel pride in the Reich's resurgence."

If other contacts with Germany failed, Hitler said, the German people outside Germany at least, would maintain "this old connection, this contact through German songs."

Hitler emphasized that Germans' love for "Deutschland Uber Alles" did not mean it was an imperialistic song, but one which wa sa "confession of faith" in the German Fatherland and a mark of affection in placing the homeland about everything in the world.

Friend Prompts Search; Cash, Bonds Discovered in Old Purse in Closet.

WATSEKA, Ill., July 31.—When Mrs. William John died several weeks ago, her close friend, Mrs. Ralph O. Gleason of Tipton, Ind., expressed the belief there was money hidden in her house.

She started a search which ended yesterday with discovery of $3000 in cash and $6000 worth of Government bonds in an old pocketbook, hidden in a closet.

Tom Sawyer Picture on Display.

By the Associated Press.

HANNIBAL, Mo., July 31.—Eight paintings by illustrator Norman Rockwell, depicting scenes from Samuel Clemens' "Adventures of Tom Sawyer," are being displayed here in the Mark Twain Museum. The pictures, created for a special edition of the classic, were painted from Hannibal scenes when the artist visited here in 1935. They have been lent to the museum for six months.

DISABLED WORLD WAR VETERANS CONVENTION

Five Seek Position of National Commander as Columbus Meeting Opens.

COLUMBUS, O., July 31.—Five candidates were seeking the position of national commander of the Disabled Veterans of the World War as the organization opened its annual national convention here today.

The candidates, involved in one of the hottest campaigns since the group was formed, were: Charles P. Doherty of Revere, Mass., national senior vice-commander; Joseph Ashi, Washington, D. C.; William F. Darmetzel, Albuquerque, N. M.; Joseph Rainey, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Owen Galvin, Minneapolis, Minn. Organization officials indicated that others are expected to file. Nearly 8000 veterans are expected to attend.

MALONE APPEAL BOND POSTED

Former Illinois Tax Official to Fight Prison Sentence.

CHICAGO, July 31. — United States District Judge William H. Holly approved today a $25,000 appeal bond for William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois Tax Commission, who is under sentence of two years' imprisonment for income tax evasion. Malone was also fined $5000.

Malone, convicted of evading tax payments of almost $60,000 for 1929 and 1930, said he was convinced he would ultimately be vindicated.

ITALIAN PRESS CITED IN FRENCH PROTEST

Source of Allegations That Volunteers Are Entering Spain Is Demanded.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—France protested to Italy today against Italian press attacks. Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos demanded that Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerruti reveal the source of Italian newspaper allegations that France was permitting volunteers to cross her frontier to fight for the Spanish Government and furnishing arms to the Valencia administration.

The French Charge D'Affaires in Rome made a similar protest to the Italian Government.

A source close to the French foreign office said Delbos "warned" Cerruti the use of such language by the Government-controlled Italian press "might have grave consequences."

France withdrew facilities for the International Non-intervention Committee's observers on her border after Portugal had taken a similar step. France specified, however, that volunteers and war materials would not be allowed to cross the frontier to Spain. Foreign office officials said a compromise plan would be offered to the Neutrality Committee in London Tuesday.

It was understood the scheme was designed to overcome differences among Russia, Germany and Italy. An official said France would insist that "substantial progress" be made in withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain before belligerent rights are granted to the Spanish Government or the insurgents.

Germany and Italy hold that belligerent rights — the power to stop foreign ships outside Spanish waters and seize contraband — should be extended as soon as removal of volunteers starts. Russia argues that volunteers must be withdrawn before belligerency can be discussed.

France will not uphold the Soviet demand that Moorish troops be taken out of Gen. Francisco Franco's insurgent army, officials said, because France cannot risk possible establishment of a precedent which might affect her own colonial armies.

C I O HELP GIVEN STRIKING WORKERS IN SHIPYARDS

$100,000 Donation Voted by 20 Unions; President Asked to Cancel U. S. Contracts.

"THOUSANDS" OF PICKETS PROMISED

Federal Investigation of "Illegal Activities and Criminal Acts of Violence" Is Sought.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Twenty C I O unions, coming to the aid of striking shipyard workers, here with $100,000 and a promise of plentiful pickets, asked President Roosevelt today to withdraw Government contracts from the yards involved.

Leaders of the 20 unions in session here adopted a resolution demanding a Federal investigation "of the illegal strike-breaking activities, and of the criminal acts of violence" they allege have been committed by the Robins Dry Dock Company and the Todd Corporation, its parent firm.

Eight of 11 men arrested yesterday in the latest of a series of battles between police and pickets around the Robins plant were paroled in Magistrate's Court today when they showed calloused hands. The three others who showed no marks of toil were held in $5 bail each.

C I O union leaders announced another major demonstration at the Robins plant Tuesday afternoon. They appropriated $100,000 to support the strike of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America and promised to supply "thousands" of pickets, C I O headquarters here announced.

Among checks turned over to the marine union today, they said, was one for $5000 from John L. Lewis, CIO chief.

The resolution adopted by the conference appealed to President Roosevelt "to instruct Harold Ickes, Public Works Administrator, and Claude A. Swanson, Secretary of the Navy, to withdraw all Government work from struck yards, in view of their brazen and continued violation of the Federal Labor Relations Act, the Byrnes Act and the laws relating to safety at sea, and to compel these companies to institute collective bargaining negotiations in compliance with the law."

As a hearing on charges that the Robins and Todd companies have violated the Wagner Act continued before a National Labor Relations Board examiner today, a union attorney moved that a second company official be cited for perjury.

The motion was that a transcript of the testimony of Henry Frielinghaus, secretary of the Tietjen & Lang Drydock Co., another Todd affiliate, be submitted to the United States Attorney, as was done with the testimony of George W. Dawe, president of the Robins Co.

ILLINOIS MINERS SEEK PACTS WITH INDIVIDUAL OPERATORS

Progressive Union's Men, on Strike, to Return as Fast as Companies Sign, Ozanic Says.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 31. — The Progressive Miners of America, whose 18,000 members were ordered to stop digging coal today because of contract difficulties over working hours, announced tonight they would sign tentative working agreements with individual mine operators.

President John Ozanic of the union said the men would return to work as fast as operators signed up. The agreements proposed by the Progressives would, in general, continue the pay scale under which the union has worked since its old contract expired April 1. This scale represented a 50-cent increase in the daily basic wage.

Ozanic also expressed hope that contract negotiations with the Coal Producers' Association of Illinois soon would be resumed.

The strike order came at the slack season in the Illinois coal fields. At Gillespie, the No. 1 Progressive local members continued to work today but President John Fisher said they probably would comply with Ozanic's order next week.

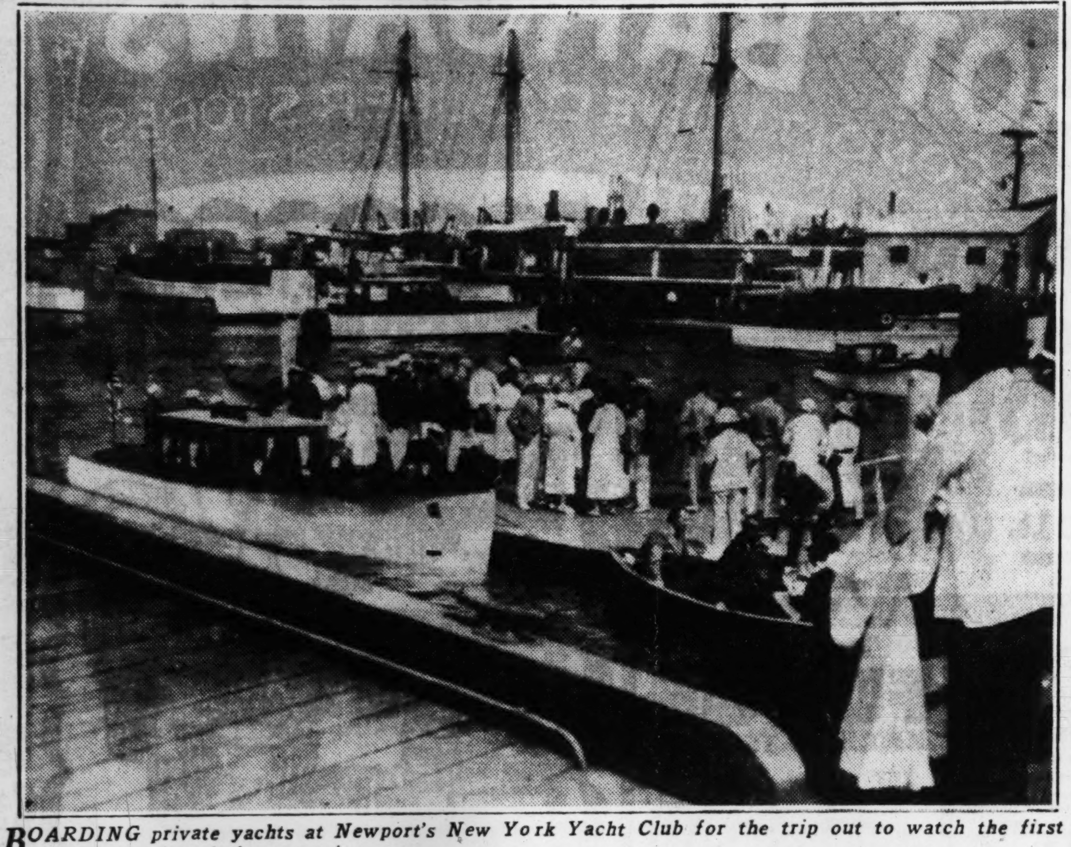
Yacht Race "Grandstand" Rush



BOARDING private yachts at Newport's New York Yacht Club for the trip out to watch the first race in the America's cup series.

Spectators' Motley Fleet Gets in Way at Yacht Race

Coast Guard on Traffic Duty at Newport—Non-Sea-Going Fans Jam Ocean Drive and Sea Wall.

By EVERETT B. MORRIS,
Of the New York Herald-Tribune Staff.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 31. — The artistocracy, the bourgeoisie, the proletariat of American yachting frolicked together this afternoon in a gargantuan sea-going game of ring-around-a-rosy that was a far more interesting and entertaining spectacle than the America's Cup race that lured them to the maritime picnic grounds off Newport.

And did they have fun!

Some 800 yachts, steam, sail and motor, handsome, ugly and indifferent, abandoned class distinctions and wallowed merrily over the cup course. Most of the time they were well behaved, but frequently some recalcitrant required the special attention of one of the Coast Guard chaperons.

As a matter of fact, the somewhat tardy arrival of the Coast Guard patrol force on the scene was responsible for a situation without precedent in recent cup history. Curious spectator vessels of all types and sizes crowded so densely around the committee boat and the contestants that the start of the race had to be postponed three-quarters of an hour to give the Coast Guard an opportunity to shoo them away to a respectful distance.

Peril in Mad Rush.

After that they were reasonably tractable, although there was always someone edging beyond the patrol barrier to get a better look and promptly getting chased back again, to the accompaniment of imperious whistle-tooting. That went on until the finish and then the formation dissolved into a mad, helter-skelter rush back to port, with everyone trying to beat everyone else and the fog that was rolling in with the easterly breeze. The starting and finishing line jams presented rich possibilities for drownings and shipwreck, and why there were not at least a dozen no one ever will know.

When the Coast Guard patrol arrived at the buoy from which the America's Cup races are started nine miles southeast of Brenton Reef light ship, they found a most chaotic situation. Everything from square-rigged ships to grimy little cabin cruisers was jammed around the committee yacht, Wilhelmina, and the two contestants, Ranger and Endeavour II. Wilhelmina finally hoisted the code flag indicating a postponement and the racers hung on to their tow lines until such time that there was enough sea room in which to set sail.

Whistles and Bellowed Orders.

With the big white Coast Guard cutters blowing their bass whistles and bellowing orders through loud speaker systems, and the smaller, more nimble units of the patrol herding the intruders back, the situation was quickly brought under control.

Huge power yachts that are the royalty of our pleasure fleet were as prominent in the forbidden zone as were the nondescript small fry. The confusion that ensued when the Coast Guard watch dogs began barking at them was a sight worth seeing—something more to be appreciated from without than within.

Thereafter everything was orderly and placid—even the race itself. In fact, those members of the crew of the press cutter Argo whose duties kept them below listened to the radio broadcast only long enough to learn that Ranger was romping away from her British rival, and then tuned in on a baseball game.

Shore Crowd Patient.

Thousands of persons who had to remain ashore picked out vantage points along Ocean Drive and the sea wall at Fort Adams to watch the return of the racers and the accompanying fleet, always an interesting sight. The delayed start and the light breeze combined for a late finish and the spectacle was dimmed by thick mantle of fog that had settled over the harbor by the time the yachts returned, but the shore crowd was as patient as it was enthusiastic.

Hundreds stood three and four deep on the sea wall, getting an occasional soaking when the wash from a passing vessel hit the wall and cascaded over the top. Automobiles were parked there as thickly as ants on a lump of sugar. Added to the din of their horns was the clamor set up by the yachts in the anchorage when Ranger came home in tow of her mother ship, Vara.

The sight out on the course was worth seeing. Skies that were bright and warm until late in the afternoon, and seas that were so smooth as to cause even the most squeamish landlubber no discomfort made things pleasant, particularly for those who ventured out in an amazing array of small sailing and power cruisers.

Fewer Excursion Steamers.

In some respects the spectator fleet was not as impressive as that which spread itself over the ocean on the occasion of the opening race in 1934. There were not as many of the large, so-called luxury yachts, and certainly there were fewer sightseeing passenger steamers. But there were enough smaller vessels to make up in numbers what the turnout lacked in tonnage.

There were enough of the big fellows, though, to give an air of majesty and distinction to the far-flung fleet. The picturesque old square riggers Seven Seas and Joseph Conrad lifted their spars above smaller neighbors, relics of another day and age in sail.

Cup race fans went down to the sea in just about everything that would float, with the possible exception of a bath tub. One party had chartered a tow boat. Another sallied forth on an oyster carrier. Still another deadened its olfactory nerves and took passage on a noisome flounder dragger. In that fleet were a number of craft you would hesitate to cross a mill pond aboard, much less venture 20 miles off shore.

Famous racing and cruising wind-jamming yachts were a dime a dozen. It seemed as though anyone who was anybody in yachting was out there on his own boat or aboard a friend's.

5 ST. LOUISANS HURT IN MEXICAN WRECK

Seven Women Vacationists Are Injured When Rear Car of Train Is Derailed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, D. F., July 31.—Five St. Louisans, returning from a vacation here, were among seven women injured late last night when the rear car of an express train bound for Laredo, Tex., was derailed near Monterrey.

Passengers in the car were 32 tourists who had left St. Louis July 18. Among them were 24 St. Louisans.

One of the passengers, Mrs. Lester Barr of Omaha, Neb., reported that in the confusion a thief stole a case containing jewels which she valued at $10,000.

List of Injured Given Out by Travel Service in St. Louis.

The tourist party in the derailed car was organized by the Kirkland De Luxe Travel Service, 505 Olive street. At the office of the travel service it was said those injured were:

Mrs. Elizabeth Loddeke, 6603 University drive, University City.

Miss Lillie Loddeke, her daughter, a teacher at the Gratiot School.

Miss Kate E. O'Brien, 5306 Queens avenue, principal of the Walnut Park School.

Miss Mollie Nugent, 3631 Lafayette avenue, a teacher in the St. Louis public schools.

Miss Charlotte Meier, 5758 McPherson avenue.

Miss Laura Martin of Brighton, Ill.

Mrs. Barr.

Information received by both the travel service and the Missouri Pacific Railroad in St. Louis was that none of the injuries were serious. A dispatch from Laredo said Miss Nugent suffered a broken pelvis.

Mrs. Loddeke and her daughter, and Mrs. Barr were taken to a hospital at San Antonio, Tex. Miss O'Brien, Miss Nugent and Miss Meier were taken to a hospital at Monterrey. Miss Martin did not require hospital treatment.

American Yacht Wins First Race at Newport

but had had the tail cut off, making it a quadrilateral, and which looked something like a patchwork quilt. But it drew, and how!

They went over the line a few seconds after the gun, Ranger in the weather berth, but Endeavour II just enough ahead of her to let some of the backwind from her mainsail ricochet against the leeward side of Ranger's sails, which did Ranger no good at all.

Interesting Few Minutes.

For just a few minutes it looked like a yacht race. They held the starboard tack for a few minutes, and neither gained much advantage, Ranger crawling up a little, then dropping back again as Endeavour II stepped out faster. After 12 minutes of this, Vanderbilt put Ranger about on to the port tack to get out of Endeavour's backwind. Sopwith tacked at once, covering him. The tack put Ranger ahead but to leeward of Endeavour II, and then the American boat, with her wind clear, began to travel.

Vanderbilt sailed her wide for a while to get her going, and she pulled further out ahead of Endeavour, but was still to leeward. When he had enough lead, he flattened in his sheets and began to work her out to windward. And to windward she went. Half an hour after the start Ranger was a quarter of a mile ahead of Endeavour, was no longer to leeward of the British boat's course, and was going away. As the leading boat, working into a freshening breeze, she had some advantage, but that didn't account for all, or even most, of the water she put between her stern and the challenger's bow.

An hour after the start, with the boats still holding the port tack, Ranger was so much ahead and to windward that a few of the spectator yachts decided they had seen all there was to see and swung off for home, which was no mistake on their part. At about the same time Endeavour set a forestaysail and a working quadrilateral jib and dropped her Genoa and a few minutes later Vanderbilt duplicated the move.

Sopwith Tries Tacking.

Sopwith had to do something about the situation, which was getting worse for him all the time, and he decided to try short-tacking Vanderbilt. It wasn't a very good idea, as it turned out, but it was as good as anything under the circumstances. In the next hour or so Endeavour II made a dozen tacks, some of them only two or three minutes apart, others at longer intervals. Vanderbilt matched him tack for tack, and followed the cardinal rule of keeping between his opponent and the mark. Sopwith's hope was, of course, that his boat and crew would prove smarter in stays than Ranger, and thus gain a few seconds on each tack.

Endeavour did handle quickly in stays, and on one or two of her tacks she gained a little on the defender. But her skipper made some of his tacks in too quick succession, and slapped his boat around a little too fast, which killed her headway. Vanderbilt took his time, once they'd settled down to the tacking duel, kept Ranger moving all the time, and on the whole fared better than Endeavour II, who had started the game.

Since she had changed from the Genoa jib to the two smaller headsails, however, the British boat had been holding Ranger better and during the last half of the windward leg she didn't lose anywhere near as much as she did during the first hour. The breeze had freshened by now to 10 or 12 miles an hour, and was coming more out of the eastward, about southeast by south to be exact.

Rounding the Buoy.

Ranger came up to the buoy and went around it at 4:14.49, after a slow 15-mile weather of 2 hours 49 minutes and 49 seconds. She had rounded the mark, squared away for the finish, broken out a big balloon jib and gotten her working headsails in before she met Endeavour II, which was still working up to the mark, passing just under the American boat's lee when they met. Endeavour rounded the buoy at 4:12.02, 6 minutes 13 seconds after Ranger.

The wind had backed far enough so that neither boat set a spinnaker after rounding the buoy. Endeavour broke out a big ballooner, making slightly quicker work of the job than Ranger had, and set out in the American boat's wake. Both were holding a bit high of the north by west course back to the finish. In an hour's sailing Endeavour appeared to cut down a little of Ranger's lead, though not enough to make it look as though she had a chance of catching the leader.

After about an hour Endeavour set a foresail under her big jib and almost at the same time Ranger's balloon jib was lowered, a big parachute spinnaker broken out in its place and she bore off half a point or so for the finish line, which was still indistinguishable owing to the fleet of yachts that almost filled the horizon in that With the spinnaker pulling, Ranger began to leave Endeavour II as though the latter had dropped her anchor, especially when Vanderbilt set a balloon forestaysail inside the spinnaker.

A Hopeless Chase.

Figuring that it was no use following Ranger in a hopeless stern chase, Sopwith took an even more easterly course, by which he got Endeavour up to the best speed she could make in that breeze but increased the distance he had to sail to the finish.

As Ranger approached the finish line Endeavour II was literally out of sight, completely blotted out in the fog that was gradually thickening over the ocean's face. Ranger crossed the finish line at 6:06:15 to receive a tremendous ovation from the whistles of hundreds of steam power and sailing craft that were crowding in on the finish line. Vanderbilt doused his spinnaker as he crossed to cut down Ranger's speed, for there was real danger from the crowding spectator fleet in spite of the best efforts of the Coast Guard to open a way for her. They got her mainsail in in short order and Vara took her in tow for home. Meanwhile the missing Endeavour II had materialized out of the mist, having gybed over and set a spinnaker for the last few miles. It was a big spinnaker, ventilated with a row of holes down the middle but it didn't dray very well. She had lost a lot of time out there in the mist, and she was a loser by 17 minutes 5 seconds when she crossed the line at 6:23:20.

Windy Weather Predicted.

If Endeavour's skipper and crew aren't a disheartened bunch tonight they must be men of stout heart. Of course one race doesn't make a series. Rainbow was a pretty badly licked boat the night of the first race three years ago, but she won the series. Maybe Endeavour II has speed that she didn't show today. Maybe she's a bearcat in a gale of wind, and she may get a chance to prove it, as the Weather Bureau is predicting a northeast gale for tomorrow and it might last until Monday.

But on her showing today, Endeavour II was disappointing not only to British yachtsmen but to the Americans who had hoped to see a good, close series, whoever won. Most of the prophets now are predicting three more straight wins for Ranger. The salient fact of the whole business seems to be that W. Starling Burgess and Olin Stephens have designed a boat, in Ranger, that could win even without the expert ministrations of Vanderbilt and his crew.

Certainly no challenger has taken such a licking in a long while. The last time was in 1920, when Resolute won a race from Shamrock IV by 19:45. Six minutes, 40 seconds of that, however, was time allowance. On a boat-for-boat or elapsed time basis, such as is used nowadays, Resolute won by only 13:05. To find a winning margin on elapsed time greater than Ranger's today you have to go back to 1887, when Volunteer finished 19:28 ahead of Thistle.

Good Light Weather Test.

It was a fair race in every way. The wind, though it shifted a couple of points and varied slightly in strength, did little to favor one yacht or the other. The spectator fleet, once it had been pushed back out of the starting area where it engulfed contestants, committee boat and starting buoy before the race, kept out of the way, with a little prompting from the Coast Guard. The course was directly out to sea, many miles from any land, and free from tidal quirks. It was a good test of the boats in a light breeze and smooth water, and Ranger certainly passed the test with flying colors.

No race is scheduled for tomorrow, Sunday being traditionally a lay day in the midst of a cup series, so maybe the threatened northeast gale won't affect the racing yachts. The second race is scheduled for Monday.

Today's spectator fleet will probably be by far the largest of the series—the first day's fleet always is, though if the picture should change and Endeavour II should win two or three races it would stimulate new interest. It was a huge fleet, at least as far as numbers went. It numbered at least 800 boats, large and small, and fell behind the 1930 and 1934 fleets only in the respect that the excursion steamers were fewer and on the average much smaller than they used to be, due partly to the fact that labor troubles have put some of the biggest boats out of commission and partly to the reluctance of lines to take passenger ships off regular runs in the middle of the summer.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE URGES NEW PROGRESSIVE PARTY

Tells Iowa Audience That Republican Thinking "Is Still in 1837."

DES MOINES, Ia., July 31.—Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin urged Progressives of Iowa today to form a new party and work for a political realignment throughout the nation.

Speaking to an audience at Riverview Park, the Governor, who is titular head of the Wisconsin Progressive party, asserted Republican leadership today "has its feet in 1937 but its thinking is still in 1837."

"The leadership of President Roosebelt has seen the need of and presented a program for common action on these problems," he added, "but too often this Progressive leadership has been hamstrung by the swarm of reactionaries that infest the Democratic party."

N L R B CHARGES TERRORISM BY WEIRTON STEEL

Complaint Served, Says Company Opposed Union by Bribes and Threats to Shut Down.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, July 31.—The National Labor Relations Board served a complaint today charging the Weirton Steel Co., employed terrorism against the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

Charles T. Douds, regional labor board director, announced the complaint had been served, setting the hearing for Aug. 9 in Hancock County court-house, New Cumberland, W. Va.

Based on charges by the S W O C, the board's complaint asserted the steel company in Weirton, W. Va., a subsidiary of E. T. Weir's National Steel Corporation, opposed the S W O C by bribes and threats to shut down.

The board listed these six additional charges, which also were made by the steel union last May:

By threats ond coercion, Weirton Steel secured signatures of workers to a petition approving a "company union."

The company maintained a system of espionage on the union.

Secret police known as the "hatchet gang" were sponsored by the company and indulged in "terroristic acts."

Two hundred and seventy-nine workers were discharged for union activities between July 5, 1935, and July 21, 1937.

By discharges, layoffs, demotions and refusals to re-employ or reinstate employes, the company discriminated against the union.

Weirton Steel illegally supported two "company unions" by financial contributions.

The Board's complaint continued: "The respondent, through its officers, agents and representatives at its plant in Weirton, in the State of West Virginia, has exerted a preponderant influence upon and has dominated the Government, administration of justice, business affairs and social relationships of the community, to the serious prejudice of the liberties of its employes in the exercise of their rights of self-organization and collective bargaining."

N L R B CHARGES TERRORISM BY WEIRTON STEEL

Complaint Served, Says Company Opposed Union by Bribes and Threats to Shut Down.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, July 31.—The National Labor Relations Board served a complaint today charging the Weirton Steel Co., employed terrorism against the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

Charles T. Douds, regional labor board director, announced the complaint had been served, setting the hearing for Aug. 9 in Hancock County court-house, New Cumberland, W. Va.

Based on charges by the S W O C, the board's complaint asserted the steel company in Weirton, W. Va., a subsidiary of E. T. Weir's National Steel Corporation, opposed the S W O C by bribes and threats to shut down.

The board listed these six additional charges, which also were made by the steel union last May:

By threats ond coercion, Weirton Steel secured signatures of workers to a petition approving a "company union."

The company maintained a system of espionage on the union.

Secret police known as the "hatchet gang" were sponsored by the company and indulged in "terroristic acts."

Two hundred and seventy-nine workers were discharged for union activities between July 5, 1935, and July 21, 1937.

By discharges, layoffs, demotions and refusals to re-employ or reinstate employes, the company discriminated against the union.

Weirton Steel illegally supported two "company unions" by financial contributions.

The Board's complaint continued: "The respondent, through its officers, agents and representatives at its plant in Weirton, in the State of West Virginia, has exerted a preponderant influence upon and has dominated the Government, administration of justice, business affairs and social relationships of the community, to the serious prejudice of the liberties of its employes in the exercise of their rights of self-organization and collective bargaining."

The Steel Workers' Committee last July 2 petitioned the labor board to hold an employes' election to determine whether it was favored by a majority of the steel men as their collective bargaining agency.

Weirton Steel, today's complaint set forth, has encouraged the growth of the "plan of employe representation" and the "Weirton Steel Employes' Security League."

Officials of the company declined to comment on the Labor Board's action.

C I O FUR UNION PICKETS ARRESTED AT SEATTLE

Police Act on Orders of Mayor Dore; Stores Make Agreement With A. F. of L.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 31.—Acting on orders of Mayor John F. Dore, police arrested 20 pickets today as they gathered in front of five fur stores. They were members of the International Fur Workers' Union, a C I O affiliate. The stores reopened today under agreement with a rival union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

"There was no reason for the picketing, so we made the arrests," said Inspector George H. Comstock.

The International Fur Workers' Union called a strike a week ago when the Seattle Retail Furriers' Association refused to sign a working agreement on the ground it was threatened with an A. F. of L. boycott if it did.

BIRMINGHAM POLICE PROHIBIT PICKETING

Chief Says Alabama Law Forbids Practice; C I O Officials Deny Strike Rumors.

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 31.—Picketing came under official ban in this steel center today when Police Chief Luther Hollums announced his intention to enforce the Alabama law which he said forbade this practice common in labor disputes.

In an order to all police and detectives, the Chief said:

"Strikers or sympathizers who attempt to picket any place of business where a strike has been called must be promptly arrested and warrants sworn to in County Courts for violation of Section 3448 of the Code of Alabama, 1932."

300-Foot Deadline.

Hollums' letter also directed members of the department to set up, at places of business of industries affected by strikes or lockouts, a deadline of 300 feet minimum, across which no striking employes or sympathizers shall be permitted to pass.

"We have reached the conclusion," the Chief said, "there is no such thing as peaceful picketing. The very presence of pickets is an act of intimidation, and they must obey the law in Birmingham until that law is repealed."

The Chief's letter came amid rumors that strikes were impending in automobile shops of the city, although C I O officials said they knew of no strike plans.

Alabama Code Quoted.

Hollums told the police "the safety of anyone wishing to work at such strike-affected business or industry must be protected at whatever cost."

The Chief's letter quoted from the Alabama code, as follows:

"Loitering or picketing forbidden; any person or persons, who, without just cause or legal excuse therefor, go near to or loiter about the premises or place of business of any other person, firm, or corporation, or association of people, engaged in a lawful business, for the purpose, or with intent of influencing, or inducing other persons to trade with, buy from, sell to, or have business dealings with other persons, firms, corporations or associations of persons, for the purpose of hindering, delaying or interfering with or injuring any lawful business or enterprise of another, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; but nothing herein shall prevent any person from soliciting trade or business for a competitive business."

Three Arrested in Indianapolis on Congregating Charges.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 31.—Three Indianapolis men were under arrest on congregating charges here tonight after police halted picketing of the State headquarters of the Works Progress Administration by approzimately 100 members of the Indiana Workers' Alliance.

Police explained they had made the arrests on complaints of neighbors of the W P A offices. John K. Jennings, State W P A director, declared he had made no complaint.

Those arrested were William Nelson, 53 years old; James Scott, 50 and William Preston, 33.

The pickets left the vicinity of State W P A headquarters after the arrests were made. There was no disorder.

Alliance spokesmen said they had demanded reinstatement of all laid-off W P A employes not now engaged in private industry, a 30 per cent wage increase, signed agreements between the Alliance and W P A, dismissal of any W P A official found guilty of circulating petitions against the Alliance, establishment of an appeals board and the designation of the Alliance as sole bargaining agency for W P A workers.

LARGE TRAILER TURNS OVER AT 12TH AND WASHINGTON

Wreckers Work 45 Minutes to Right It; Cargo Transferred to Sidewalk.

Eastbound traffic on Washington avenue at Twelfth boulevard was rerouted for 45 minutes last night when a large trailer turned over at the southeast corner after becoming uncoupled from its truck.

The trailer, loaded with general cargo bound for Columbia, Mo., fell on its side in such a position as to block the entire eastbound traffic lane and street car tracks on the south side of Washington. Wreckers worked from 6:30 o'clock until 7:15 o'clock to right it, first transferring the heavy cargo to the sidewalk.

Owned by the Toedebusch Transfer Co., the truck and trailer were being driven north on Twelfth. The driver was just starting up after stopping for the intersection when the trailer became uncoupled.

MEXICAN AVIATION WORKERS GRANTED RIGHT TO STRIKE

Court Rules Against Federal Board That Declared Walkout "Non-Existent."

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 31. — A permanent injunction recognizing the right of employes of the Mexican Aviation Co. to strike was granted today by Manuel Bartlet, First District Judge in administrative matters.

The injunction is against a ruling issued last week by the Federal Board of Conciliation which declared a strike of the employes "non-existent."

Judge Bartlet's opinion was in accordance with a previous Supreme Court ruling establishing workers' right to strike to settle labor demands.

The Mexican Aviation Co. is a subsidiary of Pan-American Airways.

Gallatin County Farm Picnic.

EQUALITY, Ill., July 31.—The Gallatin County Farm Bureau and 4-H Club picnic committees have started to make plans for another annual picnic to be held Aug. 26. Last year's picnic was attended by nearly 1000 people of the county. An invitation is being sent to C. V. Gregory, editor Prairie Farmer, Chicago, to give the principal address.

'INDEPENDENT' UNION FEDERATION FORMED

Delegates Urged to Shun Leaders, Except of Their Own Choosing.

By the Associated Press.

HERSHEY, Pa., July 31.—Men forming a national federation of "independent" unions were urged today to make a "declaration of independence from labor leaders except those of your own choosing." Representative Clare E. Hoffman (Rep.), Michigan, voiced the appeal before about 100 delegates from a dozen states.

Hoffman, foe of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization, said he would compare Lewis with King George III and asserted an "independent union" was as necessary now as was a union of colonies in 1776. "At that time the issue was taxation without representation. Now it is the collection of dues," he added.

The delegates, meeting behind closed doors in "the town that chocolate built," named Hoffman, by acclamation, first honorary vice-chairman. The new organization will be known as the "Independent Labor Federation of America," said J. Paul MacElree, attorney for the Coatesville (Pa.) Chapter of the independent workmen.

MacElree said he "understood" Charles Hallman, president of the Independent Chocolate Workers of Hershey, had been elected federation president.

"Whatever you do in organizing an independent labor movement," Hoffman urged, "write into your constitution a clause barring Communists from membership."

The Rev. Reginald M. Naugle of Philadelphia assailed both the C I O and the American Federation of Labor, and decried what he termed the "collection of dues from your pay envelope to be used as a club against some individual."

"INSUBORDINATE" MEMBERS PUNISHED ENOUGH, UNION SAYS

S W O C Asks Allegheny Steel to Reinstate Contract Violators Fired a Week Ago.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 31. — The Steel Workers' Organizing Committee asserted today that a loss of one week's wages was sufficient penalty for 43 of its members who laid down their tools in "insubordination" at the Brackenridge plant of the Allegheny Steel Co., July 23.

Regional Director Clinton S. Golden of the steel union, in a letter, said: "Convening a meeting of the union members on company property is in violation of our contract with your company and such action is inexcusable."

The company dismissed the men when they gathered in a group during working hours to discuss grievances. Golden said he had not been able to determine who instigated the meeting.

"Taking all of the circumstances into consideration," he said, "we believe forfeiture of one week's earning power on the part of the 43 employes involved constitutes an adequate penalty for the nature of the offense. We believe that we are not taking an unfair position in requesting that these men be reinstated to their former positions not later than Monday, Aug. 2."

Golden announced a wage increase for 1500 employes of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, as a result of negotiations between the company and the Portsmouth (O.), local union.

SHORTAGE OF MEAT IN BUFFALO STRIKE

Union Representatives Charge Three Packing Plants With Wagner Act Violations.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 31.—Buffalo's 11-day meat strike remained in stalemate today. Union representatives of 1300 striking butchers and meat cutters charged three major packing plants with Wagner Act violations.

Retail meat markets reported shortages of many cuts. Prices rose and some meat products sold as much as 6 cents a pound more than before the strike set in.

Daniel B. Shortal, former regional Labor Relations Board attorney, but now counsel for the 1300 striking C I O union workers, filed charges with the board office here that the packing companies had refused to bargain collectively with employes and cited it as a violation of the Wagner act.

Strikers, called into a mass meeting, shouted approval when Rinaldo Cappellini, C I O spokesman, urged them to stay out until demands were met.

Union leaders announced they would drop temporarily at least their ultimatum for a 25 per cent wage increase and improved working conditions, but would hold out for immediate recognition of the C I O as exclusive bargaining agent.

The three companies issued a joint statement in which they expressed the belief that employes were compensated fairly.

Thomas J. Finn, United States Department of Commerce conciliation representative, said no new negotiations had been scheduled.

CONTENDS POLICY ON LABOR AFFECTED G. M. C. EARNINGS

United Automobile Workers President Calls Attitude "Backward and Unenlightened."

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 31.—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, today attributed General Motors Corporation's decrease in net earnings for the second quarter of 1937 in part to effects of what he termed a "backward and unlightened labor policy from 1933 to 1937."

In an editorial in "Auto Workers," union publication, Martin stated, "the workers revolted finally against the indefensible and unendurable conditions thus created."

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board of General Motors, this week blamed "materially higher costs" and inability, because of strikes, to make full use of production capacities, for the lessened earnings.

Martin wrote that "unscrupulous actions" of some elements in union ranks had blinded the public to an earnest endeavor by most of the officers and members to fulfill their obligations. He added: "The union will co-operate with the management in the interest of productive efficiency and in the maintenance of stable employer-employe relationships."

Second quarter net earnings of General Motors declined $22,377,277, compared with those in the corresponding period of 1936.

SEWER WARRANT PROFITS CITED IN OFFICIAL REPORT

Assistant Attorney-General Miller Describes Chicago Man's Deals in Seven County Districts.

TAX COLLECTION CAMPAIGN URGED

Removal of W. H. Tegethoff as Liquidator Suggested If He Fails to Heed Such Instructions.

The profitable activity of Arthur L. Hardin, former Chicago real estate dealer, in buying and selling warrants of the seven St. Louis County sewer districts, set up under the old Ralph Law, was described in a report by Assistant Attorney-General Edward H. Miller, which became public yesterday. The report recommended hastening the liquidation of the districts.

Warrants were issued by the districts as evidence of indebtedness in payment of preliminary expenses. These went largely for fees for lawyers, engineers and commissioners and for miscellaneous services, no sewers being built. The districts levied more than $1,000,000 in preliminary taxes, of which about one-third remains to be collected, as indicated by Miller's report.

About $415,000 Outstanding.

About $415,000 in warrants are outstanding, the report related, declaring: "Aside from the (old) Webster Groves district, which has been substantially liquidated, all of the districts are insolvent, most of them hopelessly so, except the St. Ferdinand district."

District supervisors allowed real estate owners who had been assessed the preliminary taxes to use the district warrants in settling their bills. Hardin and other persons negotiating warrant settlements, Miller declared, bought up warrants, at 25 to 50 cents on the dollar, from persons who had received them for services. The warrants were expected originally to be redeemed upon collection of the taxes.

Hardin, the report continued, sold warrants to individuals and corporations owing the taxes, usually at 65 to 75 cents on the dollar and the taxpayers turned in the warrants at face value, saving the difference between par and what they paid.

Hardin was a chief complainant against William H. Tegethoff, liquidator of the districts, in criticism of the conduct of the office, which led to the Attorney-General Roy McKittrick's inquiry in behalf of Gov. Stark.

"Have Financial Interest."

It would be to Hardin's interest to have Tegethoff removed, and most of the active participants in the controversy over the liquidator "have a definite financial interest in Tegethoff's removal or retention," Miller said.

Tegethoff should be summoned by the Governor, Miller said, and instructed to have his attorney make every effort to finish litigation over validity of contested warrants and to start an immediate campaign to complete collection of the district taxes. Miller recommended that Tegethoff get a few months in which to put a vigorous collection campaign into effect, and that he be subject to removal if he failed to comply.

Between August, 1933, and January, 1934, when Tegethoff was appointed by Gov. Park to start the liquidation, Hardin made a substantial profit in his warrant transactions and he now owns or controls between $50,000 and $60,000 in face value of warrants, Miller reported, adding:

"The liquidator put a stop to these warrant settlements and consequently, Mr. Hardin, so long as Mr. Tegethoff is in office and pursues his present policy, cannot expect any further profits of this sort and is left with the warrants which he now holds. Mr. Hardin has a plan to liquidate the districts by arranging to pool all outstanding warrants in each district and arranging to sell them to taxpayers at a discount, so that they may be used for the payment of taxes. Mr. Tegethoff refuses to allow this to be done and it is, therefore, to Mr. Hardin's interest to have Mr. Tegethoff removed."

Plans to File Suits.

The report said that Tegethoff is proposing now to file suits to set aside tax settlements made with warrants bought at a discount from Hardin before Tegethoff was appointed. The suits would be based on the ground that such payment was illegal and acceptance of warrants for this purpose was an unlawful preference; further, in some cases, that the warrants used were invalid.

Miller's report referred also to a committee of five men, holding title to most of the outstanding warrants in behalf of a banking syndicate which arranged to finance the districts, as not satisfied with the slowness with which taxes have been collected and the progress of suits contesting validity of the warrants, but also opposed to the liquidation plan of Hardin and his associates.

There were 13 specific complaints listed in the report about Tegethoff, but in Miller's opinion, there was no ground for the liquidator's removal in 12 of them. In summary, Miller held that Tegethoff had conducted his office properly, but with insufficient vigor.

Miller declared Tegethoff had been "largely content to let taxes come in only when property is sold or mortgaged or refinanced, and its owner finds it necessary to pay the taxes voluntarily." Tegethoff has said much of the delay was due largely to Hardin's resistance to his suits.

MISSOURI EXHIBITS COMMISSION NAMED

Kinney, Tom K. Smith on Board for New York, Golden Gate Fairs.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31. — Gov. Lloyd C. Stark today named the 15 members of a commission to administer expenditure of $225,000 appropriated by the last Legislature for Missouri exhibits at the New York World's Fair of 1939 and the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco the same year.

Ten members of the commission served in the Legislature this spring, five in the House and five in the Senate. The other five, and two additional advisors, are non-Legislators.

Both regular and independent Democratic members of the Legislature are included on the commission, appointment to which is generally regarded as highly desirable. The commission is unpaid, but duties of members of similar bodies in the past have included a sojourn, at State expense, at the fairs at which exhibits are being supervised.

State Senator Albert M. Clark, Richmond, Senate president pro tem, was named chairman. He served in the same capacity for the State's exhibit at the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition. Other Senators named were Michael Kinney, St. Louis; M. E. Casey, Kansas City; Allen McReynolds, Carthage; and Charles O. Roberson, Rock Port. Casey opposed creation of the commission.

Representatives named were Speaker J. G. Christy, Festus; Robert M. Talbert, Cape Girardeau; John D. Taylor, Keytesville; William B. Weakley, Clarksville, and Dr. C. C. Still, Kirksville.

Other commission members are Tom K. Smith, St. Louis banker; H. B. McDaniel, Springfield banker; William Albrecht, head of a stationery company at St. Joseph; R. E. L. Marrs, Carthage, secretary to the State Senate, and Charles L. Aylward, Kansas City banker and brother of James P. Aylward, Democratic National Committeeman from Missouri.

W. M. Ledbetter, of St. Louis, executive secretary of the State Social Security Commission, and H. A. Buehler, of Rolla, State Geologist, were named advisors to the commission.

Smith was designated as vice-chairman and Marrs as secretary.

Gov. Stark said he had named the commission in advance of Sept. 6, when the law creating it goes into effect, so it could hold preliminary meetings and make plans for exhibits "representative of the State's best products and features."

Liquor Still Seized in Raid.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Mo., July 31.—Sheriff Clair Nuhn and Deputies Waller and Blew and Wallace Elsea found a large still in operation on the farm home of Ben Ford east of here Wednesday. Six gallons of whisky, 45 gallons of liquid ready for the distillery and six barrels of mash were taken in the raid. Ford was arrested and taken to Hannibal by two Federal Agents.

KIRKWOOD DEFEATS PROPOSAL FOR PARK

Votes Against Buying Woodlawn Club Site and Against Bond Issue.

A proposition to issue $25,000 in public bonds to purchase about five acres of the old Woodlawn Country Club for a public park in Kirkwood was overwhelmingly defeated in an election yesterday.

One proposition authorizing the City Council to enter into a contract for the purchase of the proposed site was defeated by a vote of 1616 to 102. The proposition for issuing the bonds was defeated, 1584 to 129. A majority of votes cast was necessary for adoption of the first proposition, and two-thirds of the votes was required to carry the second.

The City Council of Kirkwood, and civic and taxpayers' organizations opposed the proposition. A statement issued by the council recently charged that the proposed sale of the site "smacks somewhat of a promotional venture" by which holders of defaulted bonds of the defunct country club "might be relieved of their holdings at the expense of the city."

Most of the acreage of the old county club, including the golf links but excepting the tract proposed for the public park, has been included in a subdivision now being offered for residence purposes.

In its statement the City Council pointed out that about $75,000 would be required to make the site a modern public park with swimming facilities, and that the whole proposition was "unreasonable in price and beyond the means of the city to properly maintain."

SURVEY SHOWS MORAL EDUCATION 'INADEQUATE'

Dean H. L. Smith of Indiana U. Says Religious Qualities Are Lacking.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., July 31.—Moral and religious instruction in America's schools is "totally inadequate," Dean H. L. Smith, of the Indiana University School of Education, said today after making a nation-wide survey.

"There is growing up a generation lacking in necessary religious and moral qualities," he asserted.

The survey, conducted by Smith and the university's bureau of cooperative research, showed, he said, that only a few states require Bible reading, Bible courses, or character courses.

"Perhaps the most disconcerting result of the study of character development work in the public schools," said a report of the survey, "is to find that, although teachers and administrators of schools readily admit an interest in character training and evidence a sincere concern over the moral welfare of our youth, they, nevertheless, are hesitant to inaugurate, or to carry out, any definite teaching on the subject."

LEGION DIVISION TO MEET AUG. 14 AT ST. CHARLES

Senator Clark and Gov. Stark Scheduled to Speak; Parade, Dance and Carnival.

The convention of the Third Division of the Missouri Department of the American Legion, comprising legion posts in St. Louis, St. Louis County and eight other adjoining counties, will be held Aug. 14 and 15 at St. Charles.

Gov. Stark will address the legionnaires the evening of the opening day. Mayors from various cities and towns in the district will attend and Mayor Dickmann will speak for them. United States Senator Bennett Clark and several Congressmen are also scheduled to speak, provided Congress has adjourned by that time.

The business meeting of the convention will be held the following morning, at which Herman Lark, State commander of the Legion, will speak. The parade of the various drum and bugle corps will be held that afternoon, followed in the evening with a dance and carnival.

MISSISSIPPI FLOOD PICTURE TO BE DISCUSSED TOMORROW

Says Acceleration Is More Important Than Car's Top Speed

Ability to accelerate a car quickly is far more important to car owners than the top speed of the car, says H. M. Northrup, chief engineer of the Hudson Motor Car Co.

"Anything which makes a car more responsive is a tremendous safety aid, and acceleration in this respect is highly important, far more so than top speed, which is rarely, if ever, used by the average driver.

"Speed and acceleration are two entirely different qualities. A car may have very high top speed, but poor acceleration in the usual driving speed range. Good design calls for a car that has more top speed than the driver will use, to give him the necessary reserve for acceleration.

"Tests made recently by the American Automobile Association Contest Board, taking the average in two directions with and against the wind, show that a Terraplane with brougham body, carrying all equipment and one passenger with driver, will go from 0 to 50 miles per hour in 10.4 seconds, through the gears. In high gear, the car will go from 10 to 50 miles per hour in 13.5 seconds.

"Similar tests of the Hudson eight with brougham body, one passenger and driver, showed 0 to 50 miles per hour in 9.4 seconds through the gears, and 10 to 50 miles per hour in 13 seconds in high gear. Tests of both the Hudson and Terraplane were made with the selective automatic shift.

"Gas" Test by Cars From Mountain Slope Into Death Valley

The 14 autos in the 1937 Texaco national road test the past week traveled at high speed from a point 8500 feet upon Mount Whitney, in California, to Badwater, in Death Valley, 280 feet below sea level with a temperature of 130 degrees, and functioned perfectly.

Scientific data considered by automotive engineers to be invaluable was obtained as a result of encountering the extremes in weather, temperature and highway conditions. This is being turned over to the engineers of the participating automobile, petroleum and tire companies.

Vapor lock tests at the lowest point in Death Valley produced important data. The cars were left standing in the sun for eight hours, with all doors and windows closed.

When the drivers stepped on the starters following this period, the average starting time was three-quarters of a second, bettering by two and a quarter seconds the time considered by automobile manufacturers a "quick start." No vapor lock developed in any car during the valley crossing or the standstill period, and the drivers used only normal cooling and driving care.

Graham Sales Volume Gain for 9 Months

A dollar volume increase of $1,042,174 in Graham factory sales in the nine-month period ended June 30 compared with the similar period in 1936, is reported by the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation.

Total factory sales in the nine-month period totaled $12,703,733.78, and 17,031 cars were shipped to dealers.

Awards to Foremen For Work for Safety In Fisher Body Plant

Presentation of awards and certificates signed by Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of the Board of General Motors, to winners among the 100 foremen of the Fisher Body plant here was made Monday night at a dinner at the Norwood Hills Country Club. The awards were on recognition of the part they played in a campaign for safety in General Motors plants in this country and Canada.

Rated as having made the greatest contributions in the local plant toward reduction of suffering due to industrial accidents, Raymond L. Sutton and Anson R. Morrison were given the awards. Robert Daniels and George Ehrig, rated as the runners-up, were given the certificates.

In the seven months of the contest in the G. M. plants, accident frequency dropped to an all-time low of 4.56 for each million hours worked, while the loss of time due to accidents fell by 20 per cent to only .511 days lost for each 1000 hours worked.

V. M. Dirkes, plant manager in St. Louis for Fisher Body Division of General Motors, presided at the meeting which followed the dinner. E. W. Fox, general plant manager for Fisher Body; M. J. McCarthy, safety director for the division; Reyburn Hoffman, secretary of the St. Louis Safety Council; C. W. Moyer and C. F. Warden, assistant plant managers here, and Clark Schelp, city sales manager for the Chevrolet Motor Co., also spoke.

Cadillac-La Salle Arranges Air Trips For Drive-away Buyers

A merchandising agreement with the principal airlines of the country, whereby the purchaser of a new Cadillac or La Salle can fly to Detroit without cost to take delivery of his car and at the same time receive a check that will cover entirely or partially the expense of the return drive home, is announced by Sales Manager D. E. Ahrens.

Under the plan, the customer makes the usual financial terms with his local dealer. There is no added cost. Instead of taking the car from the dealer, however, the buyer is handed an airline ticket to Detroit and funds that in most cases more than cover the gasoline bill for the return journey.

Economy Test Time Extended by Willys

The nation-wide economy contest now being conducted by dealers and distributors of Willys cars has been extended to Aug. 15.

This contest, which started on June 21 was developed to give motor car enthusiasts all over the country an opportunity to drive a new Willys equipped with a one-tenth gallon gasoline mileage tester, to see how many miles they could get from a measured amount of fuel.

De Soto Regional Men Meet in Detroit

Studebaker's Net Earnings Show Gain

The Studebaker Corporation reports net earnings of $1,174,518 in the first six months of 1937, or 54c on each of the 2,187,838 shares outstanding, according to profit and loss statement and balance sheet.

This compares with net earnings of $1,004,829 (46½c per share) in the first half of 1936. No reserve was set up either year for tax on undistributed earnings.

Automobile Finance Concern Moves to Lindell Boulevard

Securities Investment Co. Occupies New Building West of Sarah Street.

The Securities Investment Co. of St. Louis, an automobile finance company with headquarters here, is opening its new building at 4120 Lindell boulevard, just west of Sarah street. The company is moving from the Mississippi Valley Trust Building, 506 Olive street.

The exterior design of the new building resembles a spacious Colonial residence rather than a business structure. The building is 60 feet wide with a driveway on each side; 90 feet deep, and two stories high. It has a large parking space in the rear of the building for its patrons. The lobby or foyer of he building can be entered from the front or from the parking lot.

The first floor has a spacious lobby flanked by offices and cashiers' windows on one side and a wide terrazzo staircase to the second floor on the other. The interior carries out the Colonial design, with walnut paneling, appropriate fixtures and indirect lighting. The building is air-conditioned and air-cooled throughout. Private offices of officers and department heads, as well as general offices, occupy part of the first floor and all of the second floor.

The Securities Investment Co. is a St. Louis-owned, St. Louis-operated company organized 19 years ago. Its capital is $2,800,000, with total resources of more than $10,000,000. Its business is to purchase from automobile dealers time payment contracts given in part purchase price of new and used automobiles.

The officers of the company are: T. C. Tupper, president; C. H. Schreiber, vice-president; J. F. Boyce, vice-president; J. F. Schlafly, vice-president and secretary; W. C. Avis, treasurer; H. F. Scott, assistant treasurer; J. J. Schatzman, assistant treasurer; J. W. Briscoe, assistant secretary, and L. C. MacCarthy, assistant secretary.

The company has set August as "open house" month, inviting inspection of the new building between 8 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. daily except Sunday.

21-Passenger Planes in Service Today on American Airlines Route

Delivery to American Airlines Inc. of four new 21-passenger flagship club planes by the Douglas Aircraft Co. is announced by C. R. Smith, president of the airline.

Powered with two new type 1100-horsepower Wright G-102 engines and capable of speeds up to 200 miles an hour, the new flagships will be placed in service today between Chicago, St. Louis, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Dallas and Fort Worth, Smith said, as part of the general re-equipment program American Airlines has had under way for the past year.

At the same time, additional flagship service will be provided on American's Chicago, Cincinnati and Washington division. Also, 14-passenger Douglas transport planes formerly operated between Chicago and Fort Worth will be transferred to local service on the New York, Hartford, Providence and Boston run, replacing smaller ships now being operated.

With the inauguration of new flagship schedules today, American Airlines also plans to give late afternoon departures from St. Louis to all parts of the United States. One stop for New York will leave at 2:15 p. m. A connecting local plane will also serve Detroit and Buffalo on this schedule. At 4:45 p. m. a Chicago plane will depart, connecting to New York, Detroit and Buffalo. A later plane, at 9:40 p. m., will cover the same points. A scenic daylight flight in American's flagship will leave at 10:35 a. m. for Oklahoma, Texas and California. Another crack "after business hours" special will leave at 7:10 p. m. for the Southwest and California, connecting with the flagship Skysleeper for eight hours of passenger rest.

Patrol Cars for Park.

A fleet of patrol cars will cruise highways of Yellowstone Park this season to give motorists more protection. Each vehicle will carry first-aid equipment, tow ropes, and fire-fighting apparatus. Eliminating traffic snarls will be one of the more important tasks.

MICHIGAN HOUSE SEEKS TO MAKE SENATE WORK

Starts Action to Illegalize Adjournment That Broke Up Special Session.

By the Associated Press.

LANSING, Mich., July 31.—Members of the House of Representatives, loyal to Gov. Frank Murphy and his legislative program, today started a three-day plan of action they hope will make illegal the adjournment of the State Senate, which broke up a special session.

The Republican-controlled Senate adjourned Friday night after a stormy meeting that included a fist fight and the shelving of the Governor's labor relations bill. An official opinion from the State Attorney-General's office held the adjournment illegal because there was no concurrent resolution in the House.

Twenty-three members of the Democratic House met today, and plan to meet again tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

"If the Senate has not met by Tuesday we will have a showdown," said Speaker George A. Schroeder. "We will see what can be done about that monkey cage across the hall." According to the State Constitution, the Senate or House may adjourn for three days before failure to reconvene becomes a violation of the Constitution.

The handful of Representatives meeting today voted to ask the Attorney-General's opinion, not only on the legality of the adjournment, but also of bills passed in both houses that were not given immediate effect during the special session. Such bills become law 90 days after final adjournment of both houses.

The special session, which began at 2 p. m. Friday, enacted only three minor measures. There was no accord on the labor bill, the Governor's chief aim in calling the session.

The motion for adjournment passed the Senate, 14 to 13, with two Democrats supporting the Republicans. The administration floor leader, Senator William Palmer, did not vote.

Senator James Burns, a Democrat who had fought against adjournment, rushed at Palmer and struck two glancing blows before colleagues separated them.

JACOBY AND BURNSTINE TO DEFEND BRIDGE TITLE

National Championship Tournament Play Starts Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 31.—Oswald Jacoby and David Burnstine, half of the New York team of "Four Aces," will defend their national masters' contract pair championship in the Eleventh Annual Summer National Championship tournament of the American Bridge League which opens here Monday.

The defending champions will compete against a record total of 60 pairs, limited to players who have to their credit on the records of the league, 10 or more master points. Play in the masters' pair event starts Thursday.

Jacoby and Burnstine, with B. J. Becker and James Mayer, the other half of the four aces, will compete in the knockout team-of-four contract championship, the qualifying rounds of which will be held Wednesday and Thursday.

The Mid-West team, which won the title last year, will defend the championship without Louis J. Haddad, Chicago. Its members will include M. S. Reilly, Chicago, Lewis A. Bernard, Cincinnati, Philip Steiner, Louisville, and Alvin Landy, Cleveland.

'IRON LUNG' PATIENT, 27; CHEERFUL ON ANNIVERSARY

Betting on Horses One of Fred Snite's Pastimes, But Luck Doesn't Favor Him.

CHICAGO, July 31. — Fred B. Snite Jr., celebrated his twenty-seventh birthday anniversary today as a cheerful prisoner in the "iron lung" which has kept him alive 16 months.

A flood of letters, telegrams and messages doubled his usual mail, which averages 60 pieces a day, his father said, and in addition there were 30 gifts of flowers.

The only guests, other than members of the family, were the Chinese nurses who accompanied Snite on his long sea journey from Peiping, China. The young man was stricken with infantile paralysis while on a vacation trip in the Orient. The nurses shared Snite's birthday cake and ice cream.

One of the patient's pleasures, his father said, "has been placing small wages on horse races. He's been doing so well lately," the elder Snite said. "He had to ask me for more money today."

LEFT AT ALTAR, MEETS MAN AGAIN AT POLICE STATION

Widow Identifies Ex-Fiance Who Is Held on 14 Charges of Robbery.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 1.—Mrs. Charlotte Starner, 43-year-old Manhattan widow, found in Police Headquarters yesterday the man who she said left her waiting at the altar Saturday.

"Hello, Babe," was the cheery greeting of a man booked as Charles Meyers, held on 14 charges of burglary.

Mrs. Starner gave him a cold stare. "That's the man," she declared, walking away.

She bought her trousseau and wedding ring to marry Meyers, who told her he was a baker, she said.

C. OF C. HEAD ATTACKS REVISED HOUSING BILL

G. H. Davis Opposes Subsidized Competitive Building, Grant of Authority.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The revised Wagner housing bill drew sharp criticism today from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

George H. Davis, its president, said in a statement that the bill raised the question of "the desirability of interference of the Federal Government in matters of community responsibility and local home rule."

If the Government subsidized public housing as a permanent policy, he said, it would "inevitably have demoralizing effects upon soundly conceived community efforts to rehabilitate and rebuild blighted and slum areas and to improve the conditions of destitute and semi-destitute people.

"The building of subsidized competitive housing will have similar unfortunate effects upon soundly conceived industrial efforts to provide lower-priced and better housing," he added.

Davis attacked provisions of the bill which he said would give a Federal housing authority wide discretion in defining low-rent housing and in classifying low-income families for which such housing might be provided by the Government.

"Such a broad definition," he said, "leaves to administrative decision the extension of Government housing to persons in whose economic situation there can be no excuse for subsidy at public expense."

Davis expressed the view that discretion allowed the housing authority, plus the authority to advance grants and loans to numerous public and private agencies, would cause private builders to delay low-cost house construction.

He said the Government could operate in "a legitimate field of assistance to local communities and to public and private agencies in solving the problem of blighted and slum areas" by conducting technical and economic research looking toward the improvement of housing conditions.

The Wagner measure, recently revamped to curtail Federal spending for housing, is among the measures on which the administration is seeking action at this session.

KINLOCH APPROVES NEGRO SCHOOL SITE NEAR BERKELEY

District Vote Is 301 to 1 in Favor of Location on Courtney Avenue.

Voters of the Kinloch School District in an election yesterday selected a site for a proposed Negro high school on Courtney avenue near the boundary of the newly incorporated town of Berkeley. There were 301 votes for the Courtney avenue site, priced at $2000, and one vote for another site in the southern part of the school district, offered as a donation.

A temporary injunction issued Friday by Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus at Clayton restrains the Kinloch School District Board from purchasing a site. A hearing on the temporary order will be held Oct. 6.

Residents of Berkeley have objected that the proposed sites are too near the new town.

Electrocuted in Bathtub.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., July 31.—Timothy Murphy Jr., 16, of Joliet, was electrocuted today when a cord of an attached electric fan fell into a tub in which the youth was bathing.

BELFAST POLICE SEEK IRISH BOMB FACTORY

Officers Patrol in Pairs After Another Land Mine Explodes in City.

By the Associated Press.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 31.—Police in Northern Ireland and the Irish Free State searched today for a factory which they believed supplied extremists with explosives for a new outburst of violence.

Belfast policemen patroled in pairs after a land mine damaged a store in a three-story building and shattered dozens of windows only 50 yards from their barracks in the West End. Police leaves were canceled and night patrolmen called for day duty.

Thomas Doherty was found unconscious with a card around his neck as a warning to "spies and police touts." He said he was beaten while five of his companions were lined against a wall.

Despite tension, a demonstration of Irish Protestants, was carried out without trouble today with police re-inforcements guarding the route.

Police believed members of the Irish Republican army, opposed to any degree of British rule in any part of Ireland, were responsible for the disorders which began when King George VI and Queen Elizabeth made a one-day visit to Belfast. A hole was blown in the pavement half a mile from the route of their procession to Belfast City Hall.

28,000 SCOUTS PARADE AT WORLD JAMBOREE

Americans in Lead, Wave Flags in Greeting to Queen Wilhelmina.

By the Associated Press.

VOGELENZANG, The Netherlands, July 31.—The United States contingent of Boy Scouts today led a parade of 28,000 from all parts of the globe as Queen Wilhelmina officially opened the fifth world "jamboree."

As the Americans marched by the Queen, they gave her a special greeting, whipping small American flags out and waving them enthusiastically.

The Queen, wearing her late husband's scouting ensignia, watched from her reviewing stand while scouts representing 31 countries passed steadily for two hours.

A surprise of the parade was Chinese and Japanese delegations marching together, oblivious to the conflict between their countries.

Seven Arabs from Palestine and the Trinidad "delegation," a lone scout, were other highlights.

Prince Gustaf Adolf, leader of the Swedish delegation, was among the prominent personages on the stand with Queen Wilhelmina.

The Americans won praise for the orderliness of their camp, which was regarded as the cleanest in the huge cantonment near the North Sea four miles from Harlem.

The "jamboree," the biggest that has ever been held in the history of scoutcraft, will continue for nine days under the direction of Chief Scout Baron Baden-Powell of Gilwell, formerly Sir Robert Baden-Powell.

AMERICAN CAR & FOUNDRY CO. CHIEF DRAFTSMAN DIES AT 78

Sigvald Udstad Dies of Heart Disease After Illness of One Year.

Sigvald Udstad, chief of the drafting department of the American Car & Foundry plant at St. Charles, died of a heart ailment yesterday at his home, 710 Clark street, after an illness of a year.

Mr. Udstad was 78 years old and had been associated with the foundry for 50 years. Born in Norway, he was graduated from the Trondhjem School of Technology there in 1879 and came to this country that year. He moved to St. Charles in 1887.

Surviving are two sons, Arthur and Sigvald Udstad Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. Fielding McDearmon, Miss Elvira Udstad and Miss Liv Udstad. Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m., at the residence, with Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, officiating. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery.

EAST ST. LOUIS GUILD UNIT ACCEPTS JOURNAL PAY RISE

Affiliate of Strike-Bound Illinois Paper Grants 40-Hour Week and Overtime Schedule.

Members of the East St. Louis Journal unit of the American Newspaper Guild accepted Friday increased wages and other concessions offered by the management.

Minimum salaries offered were $25 a week after one year, with a graduating annual increase up to $40 a week for news department employes with five years' experience. Other proposals were a 40-hour week with pay or time off for overtime, vacations with pay and sick leave. The new pay rates represent increases ranging from $2.50 to $7.50 a week for all but two of the 14 editorial employes.

The terms, posted Thursday, stated that the management holds no prejudice against the Guild. Guild members employed by the Herald-Review at Decatur, Ill., owned by the same interests, have been on strike since July 10 following the failure of contract negotiations.

SAM'S CIRCUIT BLOW WITH 2 ON IN 10TH WINS GAME

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A tenth-inning home run, struck by Sammy West with two out and two mates on the bases, carried the Browns to a 9-to-6 victory over the Yankees here today, and their triumph came after the remarkable Joe DiMaggio had twice tied the score by hitting home runs, his twenty-ninth and thirtieth of the season.

Irving Hadley, the third Yankee pitcher to perform, was the victim of West's deciding shot. The winning hurler was Oral Hildebrand, who had relieved the second Brownie pitcher, Elon Hogsett, in the ninth.

Both of DiMaggio's home runs were made off Jack Knott, the first of the three St. Louis pitchers used by Sunny Jim Bottomley. DiMaggio's first homer was made in the eighth with the bases empty. It tied the score at three-all.

After the Browns scored three runs in the ninth, DiMaggio hit his second home run with two mates on base to again tie the score.

The Browns had scored their three runs in the ninth when Harlond Clift connected for a home run to score Sammy West and Joe Vosmik in front of him.

Hogsett replaced Knott in the ninth when Lou Gehrig followed DiMaggio's second home run with a single. He pitched only to Bill Dickey, who singled. Then Hildebrand checked the Yankee attack and went on to win, having the big advantage of not having to pitch to DiMaggio. Joe did not come to bat in the tenth frame.

Hildebrand Starts Rally.

Hildebrand started the winning rally when he walked with two out. Davis then singled and West followed with his homer, a drive into the right field grandstand. Vosmik doubled but Clift fanned to end the frame.

In the ninth when Frank Makosky was pitching for the Yankees, Clift hammered a ball into the left field grandstand with West and Vosmik on the base paths and that blow broke the deadlock which DiMaggio had created with his first home run. It appeared as though Clift's wallop would make him the day's hero, for Jack Knott showed no signs of faltering when the Yankees came to bat.

Hoag opened with a single but Knott retired Charley Ruffing, batting for Makosky, on strikes. The St. Louis pitcher then fanned Crosetti and seemed to be out of the danger zone. Rolfe, however, singled and then came DiMaggio to the plate. He sent a line drive into the left field grandstand for his second homer, scoring behind Hoag and Rolfe with the runs the Yankees needed to tie.

Bill Dickey slammed a home run for the Yankees that was to be

NEW YORK, July 31.—A tenth-inning home run, struck by Sammy West with two out and two mates on the bases, carried the Browns to a 9-to-6 victory over the Yankees here today, and their triumph came after the remarkable Joe DiMaggio had twice tied the score by hitting home runs, his twenty-ninth and thirtieth of the season.

Irving Hadley, the third Yankee pitcher to perform, was the victim of West's deciding shot. The winning hurler was Oral Hildebrand, who had relieved the second Brownie pitcher, Elon Hogsett, in the ninth.

Both of DiMaggio's home runs were made off Jack Knott, the first of the three St. Louis pitchers used by Sunny Jim Bottomley. DiMaggio's first homer was made in the eighth with the bases empty. It tied the score at three-all.

After the Browns scored three runs in the ninth, DiMaggio hit his second home run with two mates on base to again tie the score.

The Browns had scored their three runs in the ninth when Harlond Clift connected for a home run to score Sammy West and Joe Vosmik in front of him.

Hogsett replaced Knott in the ninth when Lou Gehrig followed DiMaggio's second home run with a single. He pitched only to Bill Dickey, who singled. Then Hildebrand checked the Yankee attack and went on to win, having the big advantage of not having to pitch to DiMaggio. Joe did not come to bat in the tenth frame.

Hildebrand Starts Rally.

Hildebrand started the winning rally when he walked with two out. Davis then singled and West followed with his homer, a drive into the right field grandstand. Vosmik doubled but Clift fanned to end the frame.

In the ninth when Frank Makosky was pitching for the Yankees, Clift hammered a ball into the left field grandstand with West and Vosmik on the base paths and that blow broke the deadlock which DiMaggio had created with his first home run. It appeared as though Clift's wallop would make him the day's hero, for Jack Knott showed no signs of faltering when the Yankees came to bat.

Hoag opened with a single but Knott retired Charley Ruffing, batting for Makosky, on strikes. The St. Louis pitcher then fanned Crosetti and seemed to be out of the danger zone. Rolfe, however, singled and then came DiMaggio to the plate. He sent a line drive into the left field grandstand for his second homer, scoring behind Hoag and Rolfe with the runs the Yankees needed to tie.

Bill Dickey slammed a home run for the Yankees that was to be

"It's the Club's Business."

THIS little matter of whether a baseball player should be allowed to toss off his salary to the horses—or dogs—without interference by his employers is interesting a lot of persons who are not bookmakers.

There is Commissioner Landis, for example, who washed his hands of the Hornsby affair and all its implications. The Jedge had one experience with trying to blanch dirty linen for other persons—and he didn't like the role of washerwoman. That experience involved several outstanding baseball players of a couple of decades ago.

When the matter of Hornsby betting on the horses came up recently, Commissioner Landis said there would be no investigation.

President Ford Frick of the National League was definite in his views. He told the Post-Dispatch that the personal habits of the players were not a league matter but were strictly up to the club, which alone was affected by such developments.

In other words, if a ball player wants to bet that's his business until it interferes with the best interests of the club. But he would not consider it good form to have a bookmaker's runner waiting just behind the bench so that ball players might place bets between innings.

The betting mania could be carried to such extremes and has been. But, as Frick maintains, if the club can't handle the situation what can the league president do about it?

The fact that there are baseball players so indifferent to the success of the club which pays them bounteously for leading what a majority of the world's inhabitants consider a life of Riley, is the stunning thought.

Imagine a fellow paid anywhere from $5000 to $15,000 (more in some known instances) for six months' performance of duty, taking his mind off a job that costs him at best only three hours effort a day, just to worry about a bet!

The official baseball attitude is that it's all right for the player to lose his salary but not at the same time he is trying to earn it.

And it really does seem a bit unclubby, don't you know?

Deuces Wild.

MANY a discarded deuce would fill another man's hand to perfection. But you'd hardly expect anybody to go to the discards for ALL his cards.

Well, there's such a guy—at least he almost fills the bill and he's doing well, as he plays his hand out. That's Jimmy Dykes, whose White Sox discards are runners up in the American League and showing a fighting front.

Henry Edwards, who officially sorts facts and figures for the junior major league, calls attention to the fact that all but six of the White Sox squad have been discarded by other major league teams. The six who have not been are: Pitchers Ted Lyons, Monty Stratton, John Whitehead and J. Duncan Rigney. Others are Shortstop Luke Appling and Outfielder Rosenthal. Four regulars, a relief pitcher and an extra outfielder.

Every other player on the squad, including Dykes himself,

PHOTO FAILS TO SEPARATE 2 WHICH WIN $18,000 EACH

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Two horses won the $45,000 Arlington Futurity today.

Running the first dead heat in Futurity history, Tiger, entry of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, and Teddy's Comet, carrying the colors of Emerson V. Woodward, Houston, Tex., raced six furlongs to a deadlock in the richest juvenile stake of the year, climaxing the highly successful 30-day Arlington Park meeting.

Dellor, the hardest working three-year-old on the turf, galloped to a surprise victory in the $20,000 Arlington Handicap, secondary stake on the rich closing day program, witnessed by 35,000 cheering spectators.

Racing as a team most of the journey, Tiger and Teddy's Comet flashed across the finish line so close that the placing judges, even after examining the photograph under a magnifying glass, could detect no advantage for either. The Texas-owned Teddy's Comet, was up in the final stride to catch the entry of Mrs. Mars' Tiger's running mate, C Note was third. Her horses were prohibitive favorites at 1 to 2.

Tiger and Teddy's Comet divided the front ends of the rich prize, each earning $18,000. Tiger paid $2.40 to win, $2.20 to place and $2.20 to show while Teddy's Comet paid $6.40 to win, $5.80 to place and $4.20 to show.

Eight went to the post for the Futurity and when the start came, it was Teddy's Comet, with Glen Smith in the saddle, which showed first. Tiger, lucky to get racing room on the rail, went right after the Texas colt and Jockey Alfred Robertson soon had him in front by a short head. Already the flying pair were two lengths before the field with C Note third and Bull Lea fourth.

Teddy's Comet in Lead.

Around the turn Teddy's Comet, on the outside, pulled up on even terms with the rail-running Tiger, then drew out under pressure to the shortest of margins. As they turned for home Teddy's Comet was in front by a head and both riders went to work for the stretch drive.

They raced stride for stride down the stretch, with no apparent advantage for either colt. As they passed the stands Tiger took a whisker lead but in the final strides Teddy's Comet managed to land on even terms.

Despite their terrific struggle, which resulted in the six furlongs being run in 1:11 4-5, the two were but a length ahead of C-Note at the wire, with Bull Lea another half length back for fourth money. Bourbon King, Sky Larking, Menow and Perpetuate trailed in that order and none was dangerous at any stage.

Tiger, a son of Bull Dog-Starless Moment, had already captured the Washington Park Futurity for his owner and raised his earnings today to $45,435, which tops the two-year-old division. It was his fourth victory in five starts and stamped him as the bargain of last fall's yearling sales as he cost but $4500.

Dellor, mud running three-year-old owned by J. W. Parish banker of Midland, Ky., scored his most notable victory in the co-featured Arlington Handicap. Dellor earned Tiger, lucky to secure racing room on the inside while moving up fast in the first quarter, alternated with Teddy's Comet in setting the pace, was held in close quarters on the stretch turn and held n stubbornly under furious driving, to hold Teddy's Comet to a dead heat. Latter away fast, had fine speed throughout and also held on tenaciously, under punishment. C Note under slight restraint while racing well up for three-eighths, finished well under pressure and though unable to get to the leaders, held Bull Lea safe. Latter hustled to hold his position made up some ground on the inside in the final three-sixteenths. Bourbon King, outrun early, saved ground and closed gamely. Sky Larking lacked speed and failed to respond to strong pressure in the drive. Menow never threatened. Perpetuate showed a dull effort.

Scratches—Lasator, Joe Schenck and Kings Blue.
Overweights—None.

CARLETON GIVES THREE HITS, CUBS 5 GAMES AHEAD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Tex Carleton baffled the Giants like a Houdini today with a three-hit pitching masterpiece that gave the Cubs a 7-to-1 victory over the New Yorkers and boosted their National League lead to five full games.

Hurling one of the best games of his career, Carleton pitched perfect ball from the end of the first to the start of the ninth inning. Not a man reached first base off him in that stretch, and only two batters were able to get the ball out of the infield.

While he was breaking the backs of the Giant swingers, the Cubs landed on Carl Hubbell for a dozen hits, and, after taking a 4-0 edge by the fifth inning, never left any doubt as to the outcome.

The victory was the second in a row for the Cubs in the current series and their second straight over Hubbell. Only a week ago in New York they belted him to the showers.

Led by Gabby Hartnett, who hit a three-run double and a single and drove in four runs, the Cubs had a cinch against "King Carl." Except for Frank Demaree, every man hit safely at least once.

The win turned the hitherto tight National League into a rout as the Cubs, at full strength and with one of the best balanced pitching staffs in the circuit, headed down the stretch with a commanding lead.

From the start, it was obvious that Hubbell was not right, and that Carleton was at the top of his form. The Cubs' ace gave up a double to Jojo Moore in the first inning, and from then on to the end of the eighth he was the complete boss. In the ninth, with the victory obviously cinched, he eased up and gave a pair of doubles to Blondy Ryan and Burgess Whitehead for the Giants' only run.

Meantime, the Cubs found Hubbell for their first run in the second frame, when Billy Herman tripled and came home on Hartnett's infield out. In the fifth, with the bases loaded on Stan Hack's single, a force-out and a pair of walks, Hartnett stepped up and unloaded them with a smashing double to center field.

MISSOURI U. TO CHARGE $100 FOR BROADCASTS OF FOOTBALL GAMES

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 31.—The University of Missouri will charge all radio stations $100 for each broadcast of the Tigers' home games this year, Head Coach Don Faurot said today.

Last year broadcasting privileges were free to all stations whose sponsorship and announcers were approved. That approval will still be a requirement, Faurot said.

Little's 140 Leads In St. Paul Open; Guldahl Has 143

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, July 31.—Lawson Little, the former amateur king from San Francisco, shot into the lead of St. Paul's $5000 open golf tournament today with a halfway mark total of 140 strokes—but once again it was "Light Horse" Harry Cooper of Chicago, who furnished the drama.

Little, whose triumphs have not been too frequent since he abdicated the amateur throne last year after winning the American and British titles twice each, shot a thoroughly workmanlike round to finish with a great 35-34—69, three strokes better than par for the Keller Course.

Cooper, with a fine 33-35—68 behind him from yesterday's opening round, apparently had blown his chance of finishing the second day better than three or four strokes back of Little, by weaving over his first nine holes for a most un-Cooper-like 40, four strokes over par on a course he usually beats to death. But he came up with an eagle on the seventeenth to tie for second place at 141.

Makes 125-Foot Shot.

He was one stroke under par for the second half of the journey, due to a birdie four on the twelfth hole, as he came up to the seventeenth. Then "Light Horse" Harry achieved one of the greatest shots of his spectacular career. His tee shot on the 400-yard seventeenth stopped about 125 yards from the green.

Then, using a number six iron, the ball struck the green about five feet in front of the pin and bounced into the cup on the first hop. He still had a chance for a par 72 and a tie with Little for the lead, but missed a six-foot putt for a birdie on the eighteenth green by the narrowest of margins and settled for 40-33—73.

His hair-raising finish dropped him into a deadlock with Sam Snead from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who raced in with a dazzling 34-35—69, and Ed Brook, stubby professional from Bartow, Fla., who checked in with a 38-33—71, to add to his opening 70. Snead was a member of a big squad of 72's yesterday.

Little's Round.

Little, smashing out long wood shots and dropping long putts on the first nine, never was over par but on one hole, the fifteenth, and dropped three birdies to finish three strokes under even figures for the round, and four for the first half of the 72-hole march.

Ray Mangrum, the thin man from Dayton, O., achieved the third 69 of the day, returning with a sizzling 33, after needing par 36 for the first half of the round, to tie with Pat Sawyer of Minneapolis, at 142. Sawyer, whose 69 crowded Cooper yesterday, cooled off to a one-over-par 35-38—73.

Ralph Guldahl, wearer of the national open championship crown,

RICKEY INTIMATES FRISCH WILL REMAIN MANAGER IN 1938

Branch Rickey, General Manager of the Cardinal organization and a very difficult man to interview when you want yes or no to a definite question, indicated, without saying so in those words, in a conversation in his office yesterday, that Frankie Frisch would be reappointed manager of the Cardinals for 1938.

Rickey was asked about the recent rumors and stories to the effect that a general house-cleaning in the organization would include a new manager.

"There is no justification for such a suggestion," Rickey parried and in the interview that followed, he indicated that plans were going forward for 1938 with Frisch as the prospective field leader.

Rickey said that he thought there was an excellent chance that Paul Dean would come back next year as good as ever.

"I watched him pitch this morning," Rickey said. "He can throw side-arm or overhand, and he can throw with full freedom. He has not yet shown the speed that was his when he was a great pitcher, but I think he can throw with his old speed whenever he gets back his confidence."

Paul insisted that he had all of his old stuff and Rickey, a practical psychologist, tried an experiment.

"I'll let you pitch five balls to me," Rickey suggested, "and I'll catch you with my bare hands. If I drop more than one of the five, I'll give you $100. If I catch four of the five, you give me $100."

In other words, Rickey was offering to bet that Paul had so little speed that he could catch him barehanded. It was a good idea, but it didn't work. Paul explained that he didn't want to throw that hard.

Retains Asheville Title.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 31.—Mrs. Jane Cothran Jameson today successfully defended her crown in the fifteenth annual women's invitation golf tournament here over the Biltmore Forest Country Club course, defeating Miss Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, the medalist, 7 and 6.

Jesse Joseph Haines, a grand old young man of 44 summers, pitched with all the cunning of his years at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon. His comrades came to his rescue with brilliant fielding whenever serious danger threatened and the Cardinals climbed to a tie for third place with the Pirates on Jesse's 4-3 victory over the Dodgers in the first game of a series.

It was the third triumph of the season for "Pop" and the 210th time he has vanquished a National League enemy during his years of service.

There were many moments of danger for old "Pop" and the Cardinals, but Terry Moore played a couple of outfields, the infield executed three very helpful double plays and to squelch Brooklyn rallies and in the last inning, with Mike Ryba and Bob Weiland warming up for possible rescue duty, Capt. Leo Durocher, the king of shortstops, leaped into the air to turn a threatening line drive into a double play that ended the game and sent "Pop" and the Cardinals to the club house happy. For the Cardinals are always happy when old "Pop" wins.

Efficient Attack.

Speed and an efficient attack that put Haines out in front early and gave him the upper hand quickly again when the Dodgers tied the score, helped materially to give the Grand Old Gentleman of the Red Birds' pitching staff the victory.

Joe Medwick started the productive attack with a double to center in the second inning and after Padgett had grounded out, Don Gutteridge pushed a double to right, scoring Medwick. Then the fleet-footed Gutteridge stole third and scampered home on Durocher's infield out.

Manush's single, Babe Phelps' second double, an outfield fly and Stripp's single gave the Dodgers two runs in the sixth, but the Red Birds quickly rallied in their half. Terry Moore slashed a double to left to start the attack and Mize rifled a single to right to send Terry home. Padgett's single to right sent Mize to third and Mize scored the ultimate winning run while Gutteridge was beating out a high bounder over Fred Fitzsimmons' head. The Cardinals profited by a break on that play, as Lindsay Brown had the grounder in time for a play at second, but missed his kick at the bag.

Singles by Lavagetto and Hassett and Manush's fly to Padgett gave the Dodgers their third run in the seventh and there was action in the bull pen, but while Phelps followed with a single, his third straight hit, Haines checked the rally right there and, with brilliant help from his comrades,

Frank Keaney will oppose Frank Thompson, in the final round of the University City open men's singles tennis championship on the Lewis Park courts at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The match will be the best three out of five sets and the winner will have his name engraved on the Earl O. Mills, three-time winner trophy.

Following the men's singles the deciding round in the doubles will be played. Keaney will pair with Ward Parker to meet Thompson and Teddy Eggmann. The winning team will succed Joseph L. Werner and Charles W. Barnes who did not defend this year.

In the singles final this afternoon the players will be meeting each other for the first time this season. Each will enter the contest at the top of his game. It will be a question of whether Keaney's net play can surpass the back court game of Thompson or vice versa.

Thompson played very consistent tennis to down Karl Hodge, 6—2, 6—3, 6—2 in one of the semifinal matches yesterday. Hodge did not play as well as in previous matches. He drove a number of shots over the baseline and some into the net. Thompson surprised by handling many of Hodge's deep forcing shots.

The other semi-final in which Keaney defeated Ray Wiese was somewhat similar to the final round of the Municipal championship earlier in the month. Wiese could not cope with Keaney's brilliant net play and lost 6—1, 6—3, 6—3.

Teddy Eggmann and Thompson upset Herbert Weinstock and Joyce Portnoy, District champions, in one of yesterday's men's doubles semifinals. The score was 6—3, 4—6, 6—3. Keaney and Ward Parker defeated Wilbur Lindauer and Jack Plunkert, 6—2, 6—2 in the other semifinal. Parker's excellent overhead shots aided in the victory.

Yesterday's Results.

Men's Singles.

Semi-final round: Frank Thompson defeated Karl Hodge, 6—2, 6—3, 6—2; Frank Keaney defeated Ray Wiese, 6—1, 6—3, 6—3.

Men's Doubles.

Semi-final round: Eggmann and Thompson defeated H. Weinstock and Portnoy, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3; Keaney and Parker defeated Lindauer and Plunkert, 6—2, 6—2.

6 PLAYGROUNDS TIED FOR DIVISIONAL LEADS IN HORSESHOE PITCHING

Competition in horseshoe pitching on the public school playgrounds has reached the half-way mark in the regular inter-playground schedule of athletics, and the standing show that six playgrounds top their respective divisions in both junior and senior classifications.

Shaw, Dewey, Fanning, Farragut, Cote Brilliante and Walnut Park have horseshoe pitching teams at the top of the list in both divisions.

Horseshoes is one of many interplayground games which forms the basis for the annual series on a round-robin schedule basis. An elimination series in the various sports will be held for both boys' and girls' teams, embracing varied age groups, and championships are to be awarded.

The senior division leaders of horseshoe groups are: Carondelet, Woodward; Oak Hill, Gardenville; Shaw, Dewey, Fanning, Pestalozzi, Mullanphy, Webster, Farragut, Cote Brilliante, Walnut Park, Gundlach, Hempstead and Dozier.

The junior division leaders of horseshoe groups are: Woerner, Gardenville, Shaw, Dewey, Fanning, Clinton, Wyman, Webster, Eliot, Farragut, Cote Brilliante, Walnut Park, Scullin, Hempstead, Laclede, and Hamilton.

UNDEFEATED SOFTBALL TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT

Two undefeated men's softball teams will meet tonight at Maplewood Softball Park, with the host Hamilton-Brown squad risking its string of 25 victories in a row against the 22 of the Independents of South Side Park.

Dick Lutzi of the Hamilton-Browns will pit his fast-ball pitching against the slow-ball hurling of Charles Louis.

"Y" Softball Scores.

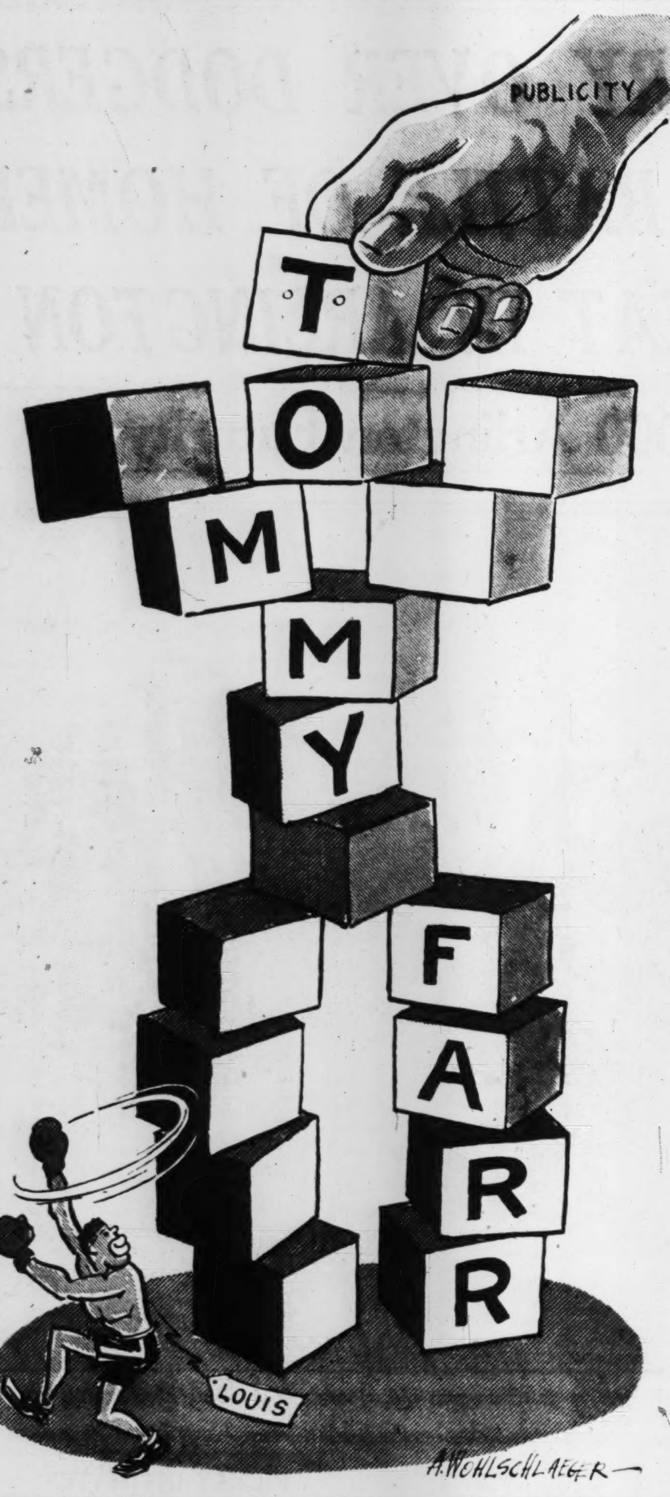
Another Build Up?



Louis-Farr Bout To Be Recognized As an Elimination

LONDON, July 31.—The British Board of Boxing Control emerged from a lengthy conference today to announce that it had decided to recognize the Tommy Farr-Joe Louis bout "as the final elimination contest for the world heavyweight championship." The winner, the solons decided, would have to meet Max Schmeling for the crown.

Farr, the Welsh holder of the British Empire title, meets Louis in New York Aug. 26.

In the opinion of the British board, Jimmy Braddock forfeited his claim to the heavyweight championship by refusing to meet Schmeling and therefore wasn't title-holder when he was knocked out by Louis in Chicago. The board regards Louis as "American champion."

By this decision, the board has left Farr in a peculiar position should he succeed in whipping Louis. In that case the Welshman would be recognized as world's champion in the United States but simply as American champion in Great Britain.

added a 36-36—72 to his 71 for 143, and will start even tomorrow with Big Willie Goggin of San Bruno, Cal., who had 37-34—71.

Still in the battle for the $1500 first money, at 144 strokes were Dick Price of Wichita, who fired a 73 to displace Johnny Dawson of Chicago, as amateur pace-setter; and five professionals, Mike Murra of Wichita, Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., Herb Johnson of Chicago, Henry Ransom of Bryan, Tex., and E. J. Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., with 71-73.

Sixty-six professionals and amateurs, out of the original field of 191, who turned in scores of 153 or better for the first two rounds, qualified to remain for the 36-hole final tomorrow.

Len Dodson of Springfield, Mo., was near the leaders with a 72-74—146. Warren Repen of St. Joseph shot 76-76—152.

Inter-City League Games.

The Burkes of East St. Louis, leaders of the Southwestern Illinois Inter-City Baseball League, will play the Belleville nine today at East St. Louis. Venice A. C., in second place, entertains Edwardsville. Lebanon goes to Livingston, Granite City Sacred Hearts to Collinsville, and Maryville to Glen Carbon in the other games.

Lenney Wins Shoot.

Jim Lenney won the small bore match held at the Glendale Shooting Club's ranges with a 396 score. The other leading scorers were: H. Wiegand, 393; F. Bentrup, 393; J. Lieweke, 392; R. Dorian, 392; C. Beyer, 391, and H. Strecker, 391.

Browns' Scouts To Have Charge Of Tryout Camp

The baseball trial camp of the San Antonio Baseball Club of the Texas League will open at Belleville tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at the Stags Athletic Field. Officials of the St. Louis Browns, who have a working agreement with San Antonio, will be in charge of the camp and on the lookout for prospective major league material.

The camp is for boys between the ages of 17 and 21, who are at least 5 feet 9 inches tall and weigh 150 pounds or more. All boys meeting those requirements are eligible, the only stipulations being that they must be able to defray their expenses to Belleville and their room and board while there, and must bring shoes, glove, and uniform.

A stay of three or four days is all that will be needed, Brownie officials say, to determine what boys will be used. Those selected will be offered contracts and if they report to a club at the start of the club's regular playing season, their bus transportation to Belleville and their board and room expenses while there will be refunded.

Dee Walsh, Bill Biehl, and Jim Major, Brownie scouts, will be in charge of the camp. William O. DeWitt, general manager of the Browns' organization, announced that many of the clubs associated with the Browns would have officials at the camp.

CENTRAL AND QUINCY ROWING CLUBS MEET IN RACES TODAY

Central Rowing Club will hold a dual race meet with the South Side Boat Club of Quincy, Ill., this afternoon on the Mississippi River. The program was substituted for the Municipal Rowing Regatta, sponsorship of which was withdrawn by Central following a dispute with other clubs in the Muny Association.

Events on the program will include a girls' race between eight-oared shells; a singles event between Chris Kausch, Central, and Jimmy Mutz, Quincy; doubles between Chris and Nick Kausch and Jim Mutz and Hap Houghlands of Quincy; mixed doubles between Ruth Peters and Nick Kausch and Kate Kausch and Joe Lepping, all local rowers, and a race between married and single men from Central.

Indian Jockey Riding.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Al Burlen, clerk of the scales on New York tracks, is authority for the statement that a new Indian rider has appeared on the American turf. He is Donald West, who Burlen says is a three-quarter blood. His mother is a full blooded Indian and his father a half-breed.

Not since the days of Chief Johnson have the tracks boasted a full-blooded Indian rider. Johnson, in his palmy days, was regarded the equal of any jockey and could hold his own in any company.

U. S. WINS NINE TITLE EVENTS IN HENLEY REGATTA

By the Associated Press.

PORT DALHOUSE, Ont., July 31.—Invading oarsmen from Philadelphia and Buffalo stole the show on the final day of the Royal Canadian Henley's Fifty-fifth Regatta today, winning nine of the 11 championships, including the two feature races which went to Joe Burke of the Penn A. C., Philadelphia, and the Buffalo West Sides, powerful senior eight.

Burke came through with a surprise triumph in the classic senior sculls, beating a field that included Johnny Coulson of Toronto Argonauts, finalist for the diamond sculls last month, and Chuck Campbell, former Candian and United States champion.

After defeating the defending Hamilton Leanders in a trial heat yesterday, the West Sides eight turned back the Penn A. C. and Toronto Dons in the final test. The West Sides held an advantage of a few feet to the last 100 yards. Then they stepped up the beat and sprinted into a length lead to win in 6:47.4 from the Philadelphia boat. The Dons were distanced.

The West Sides also won the senior 150-pound eights, senior 150-pound fours and senior fours. Representatives of the Undine Barge Club of Philadelphia accounted for the four other victories, winning the senior 140-pound doubles, fours and eights and the senior doubles with J. Houser and W. Dugan.

Canadian victories came in the senior fours and senior 140-pound singles, won by Jack Flavelle with third going to Louis Tank of Wyandotte, Mich. Both boats represented the Argos.

Despite the sweep of the United States oarsmen, the Argos won the team championship of the regatta, compiling 109 points. The West Sides finished second with 67 while the Undine Barge Club scored 32.

WALTER SENIOR OF SAN FRANCISCO WINS CANADIAN NET TITLE

TORONTO, July 31.—Walter Senior of San Francisco, won the Canadian men's singles tennis championship today by defeating Bobby Murray of Montreal, 2—6, 6—2, 6—3, 6—2.

Evelyn Dearmon of the British Wightman Cup team won the women's singles when her teammate, Mary Hardwick, defaulted because of an indisposition.

The tall Californian, twelfth ranking player in the United States, became the third American since 1934 to win the Canadian title. Eugene Smith of Berkeley, Cal., won in 1935 and Jack Tidball of Los Angeles last year.

Miss Dearman also teamed with Joan Ingram to win the women's doubles crown, defeating Margot Lamb and Miss Hardwick, 6—1, 7—5.

The two biggest men in the tournament, Walter Martin of Toronto and David Jones of New York, took the men's doubles. They defeated Murray and Laird Watt of Montreal, 8—6, 9—7, 1—6, 6—3.

Miss Dearman won her third title when she teamed with Watt to defeat Miss Ingram and Billy Reese of Atlanta, Ga., in the finals of the mixed doubles. The scores were, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2.

CLAYTON TENNIS EVENT OPENS NEXT SATURDAY

The annual Clayton open tennis tournament will be played on the Clayton municipal courts at Ladue and Price roads during the week beginning Aug. 7, according to an announcement made by Russell C. Hadden, tournament chairman. The events will be men's singles and doubles.

The tournament has been officially sanctioned by the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association. Entry fees are $1.50 in singles and $2.50 a team in doubles. Players may enter at downtown sporting goods stores, at the Triple A and Westborough clubs and at the Clayton courts. Entries close Friday, Aug. 6.

Hadden announced that a number of out-of-town players had advised him of their intention to compete. The Clayton Park Board has 10 courts available for the tournament.

Gastanaga to Box At Auditorium On Aug. 19 Card

Isidro Gastanaga, Spanish boxer who dropped a decision to Otis Thomas, Chicago Negro, at a recent show in the Auditorium, is to box in the feature event of the next program there which is to be held Aug. 19, Larry Atkins announced last night.

Harry Thomas, also of Chicago, is being considered as the possible opponent of Gastanaga as apparently the proposal to match the two Thomases has not progressed.

Gastanaga's chief reason for losing to Otis Thomas was lack of condition, his followers contend, and the Spaniard has just returned from the Ozarks, weighing 204 pounds. He said he hopes to train down to 196 by the time of the bout but he said that before then went into the ring weighing 211 pounds, having gained seven pounds in four days, despite the fact that he was training every day and the weather was hot.

Atkins also announced there would be five other contests on the card.

WRAY'S COLUMN

has been shifted around, many of them more than once.

Some really surprising changes have been effected in the efficiency of some players since they came under Dykes' management. Perhaps the most astonishing improvement came last year when Merritt Cain was traded to the White Sox by Hornsby. Cain couldn't do much for the Browns. He had done little for the Athletics. But he proved a big winner for Dykes.

Then there was Thornton Lee, traded by Cleveland to the Sox. Lee was a cipher for Cleveland but he has won seven and lost four for the Sox. In the four games he lost the Sox made a total of only six runs.

Zeke Bonura was little or nothing when with Cleveland from which club he was sent to the minors.

Clint Brown was let go by Cleveland for the waiver price, but for Dykes he has been good enough to win five games from the Yankees.

Change of scene usually helps players, but seldom is the aid permanent. Jimmy Dykes is the one manager who appears to have them hypnotized into keeping up the change of pace resulting from the shift of clubs.

A Grimm Smile.

CHARLEY GRIMM wears a broad smile these days. That's because he feels that the pennant race is as good as over with the Cubs sitting pretty as probable pennant winners.

Looking over the league's makeup at this time, that's a reasonable thought. The Cubs appear the only sound N. L. team, at the present. The Cardinals are almost shot and the Giants at least half-shot with misfortunes they can't help.

The Cubs have the best catcher in the league, an infield hard to surpass, some fine pitchers and at least two good outfielders. They are, despite a creaking start, begotten of illness and accidents, a sound team today and best equipped to stand the gaff for the remainder of the season.

Their margin is not large enough to encourage boasting, but it ought to be larger before it's less. Only an unexpected and quick improvement by all New York's cripples, can wipe off the Grimm smile.

It's hard to see the Cards clicking in all particulars. Pittsburgh would have to run wild to make up the handicap of 10½ games it now is conceding.

It's amazing, what a couple of major accidents can do, however. If Gabby Hartnett and couple of pitchers met with accidents, the status of the race could change quickly.

But the Cubs have had enough bad luck already—the law of averages indicates Lady Luck will let Grimm's bunch alone for the season.

Aladdin Couldn't Do It.

MIKE JACOBS is the magician who over night can make men rich and famous. He has done it in the past. He expects to do it Aug. 26.

It takes a magician to take a poor, almost unknown British heavyweight, who is rather discredited even in his own country, and make him rich and famous in a month.

That's what he will do to Tommy Farr, Welsh heavy, who is in this country being tire-pumped into a celebrity. After he has been built up to the stature of a capable challenger for Louis—and he may be, for all we know to the contrary—they will lead him into the ring against Joe Louis to be slaughtered.

That, at least, is the picture being drawn by our great American pessimists, the same group that pitied poor Max Schmeling before the Louis fight, and boycotted him after he won it.

Whatever happens to Tommy, he will go back to Merrie England with not less than 20 per cent of the gate receipts which, it is expected, will amount to more than $150,000. Even after Uncle Sam takes a bite out of that slice, there would still be a fortune remaining for the Welsh coal miner of a few years ago.

The international character of the fight makes a near-capacity turnout certain, in fine weather, and that Jacobs has confidence is shown in the prices — from $3.50 to $23.

And, for the poor boy from Wales who has fought—he says—the amazing total of 3000 rounds in his short career—if he should pull a Schmeling and surprise the world by stopping Louis, he would indeed be wealthy. For, as champion, he would be matched with Max Schmeling, perhaps this year, and so take 40 per cent of what would surely be close to that mythical million dollar gate.

Then he could lose with impunity, his future made safe by two big money houses. For 30 rounds of fighting—at most—he would thus be reimbursed probably six times what he earned in the previous 3000.

Oh, Lucky Tom!

Koberg Is Given Place on Local Amateur Squad

Eric Koberg, Belleville featherweight, who holds the St. Louis district crown, has been named by Matchmaker Benny Kessler as a member of the St. Louis team which will engage eight Italian champions, all winners of the recent Italian Youth Tourney held in Chicago, August 10, at the Coliseum.

Kessler expects to name seven other district boxers during the coming week.

The Italian lineup is expected to reach here tomorrow.

SEA BRIGHT NET TITLE WON BY RIGGS; ALLISON HURT, DEFAULTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 31.—Bobby Riggs, the young Davis Cup prospect from Los Angeles, today won the fiftieth Seabright invitation tennis singles championship.

Riggs won by default of Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., who was forced to withdraw on account of a pulled ligament in his back. Allison, in the midst of a brilliant comeback to top-notch tennis, suffered the injury while defeating Frank Shields in the semi-finals Thursday.

This was the third time the men's singles title has been decided by a default. Allison was forced to retire in the fifth set of his match with John Van Ryn in 1928, and two years ago Berkeley Hall was injured in an auto accident the night before his title match with Gregory Mangin.

In an exhibition match Riggs divided a two-set exhibition with Frank X. Shields of Hollywood, former Davis Cup star. Shields took the first set, 6—2, and Riggs won the second 6—4.

Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, the 24-year-old Polish champion who lost out in the singles to America's Alice Marble yesterday, today teamed with Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., to win the women's doubles crown. They downed Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles and Mrs. Marjorie Van Ryn of Austin, Tex., 6—2. 6—1.

Men's doubles honors went to Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., top-ranking player of the Pacific Northwest Association, and Martin Buxby, of Miami, Fla. They conquered John McDiarmid of Chicago, and Arthur Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., 6—4, 10—8, 6—3.

In the mixed doubles finals, Mrs. Sylvia Henrotin, France, and Riggs defeated Miss Jedzejowska and Jiro Yamagishi, Japan, 10—8, 6—4.

VETERAN MAX MARSTON AND 22-YEAR-OLD GOLFER IN FINAL

By the Associated Press.

EASTERN POINT, Conn., July 31.—Max Marston of Philadelphia, veteran of more than two decades of tournament warfare, and Jimmy Lee of Danbury, Conn., 22-year-old Georgetown University golf star, today blasted their way into the final of the eighteenth Shenecossett men's invitation tournament.

Marston, national amateur champion in 1923 and winner at Shenecossett six times in 15 years, gained the last round by crushing Andrew Fine of Scranton, Pa., 7 and 5, in the semifinals after turning back Josiah Lasell of Whitinsville, Mass., 2 and 1.

Lee, competing here for the first time, won his semifinal, 5 and 4, against George McWilliams of Princeton, N. J. In the quarter-finals he steam-rollered Norman Lyman of Darien, Conn., 7 and 5.

Marston played 30 holes in even par in today's two matches, adding them to 29 holes of par golf in the first two rounds.

Marston and Lee will meet over 36 holes in tomorrow's final.

ROLAND KLEIN IN THIRD ROUND OF CLASS A TENNIS

Roland Klein reached the third round of the Municipal Men's Class A tennis tournament by winning two matches on the Jefferson Memorial courts yesterday afternoon. In the first match he won from Paul Tankersley, 6—2, 6—3, and then eliminated Robert Prendergast, 6—2, 6—1, in the next.

The results:

FIRST ROUND.

Richard Russell defeated Gilder Varn, 6—4, 6—0.

Charles Thomson defeated Alfred Meyer, 6—3, 6—0; Richard Linn defeated J. F. Messerly, 6—2, 6—0; Barrett Scallett defeated John Rusk, 7—5, 6—3; George Finlay defeated Dave Torin, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4; Vincent Bick defeated Ray Uhlig, 3—6, 6—4, 6—0.

SECOND ROUND.

Roland Klein defeated Paul Tankersley, 6—2, 6—3.

Jack Weber defeated R. S. Otte, 7—5, 6—2.

Lester Niemann defeated Robert Eckhoff, 7—5, 6—4.

Bill Sly defeated Kenneth Otto, 6—4, 8—6.

John Stiegler defeated Louis Becker, 2—6, 6—1, 6—2; Robert Nelson defeated Arnold, Gihring, 6—1, 7—5; Gregory Duggan defeated G. B. Cummings, 6—1, 6—2; James Prosser defeated Morgan Perry, 6—1, 6—0; Richard Barger defeated Merrill Riddick, 6—2, 6—4; Morris Garden defeated Orville Hughes, 6—0, 6—3; Robert Vocke defeated Bernard Manic, 6—1, 6—4; Jack Bachman defeated Carl Bischoff, 6—2, 6—0; Edward Deffaa defeated Edward Scallett, 6—2, 5—7, 6—4; Richard Russell defeated Barrett Scallett, 7—5, 6—4; Lester Herman defeated Earl Maricle, 6—2, 6—2; Max Weber defeated Fred McAvoy, 6—3, 6—0; Harold McElmurry defeated H. R. Schreiber, 6—1, 6—1; Donald Lorenz defeated Edward Heideman, 6—4, 6—3; Robert Prendegast defeated John Hoffman, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2; Newton Amos defeated George Bange, 2—6, 6—4, 6—4; Jack Shine defeated Harold Ulbright, 6—0, 6—3; Ray Herchert defeated Frank Zernel, 6—2, 3—6, 7—5.

$15,375 as he turned back six older horses in an easy five length win, with the favored Millsdale Stable entry of Infantry and Giant Killer finishing second and third.

Wins by 5 Lengths.

Dellor, which had raced well all year with the best of the three-year-olds, was making his first try with the Handicap division. He made a show of them. Jockey Sterling Young had Dellor off well but allowed Infantry to set the pace in the mile and a quarter race, with Grand Manitou second and Sparta third. Dellor made his move after six furlongs and at the mile had moved up to second place only a head back of Infantry. He raced past the favorite and, turning for home, led by a length and a half. Young never eased up the colt and they drew away steadily as they went by the stands to triumph by five full lengths.

Dellor, a son of Rolled Stocking-Gossip Avenue, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:03 1-5. He was overlooked in the betting and paid $13 to win, $3.80 to place and $3.60 to show. Tickets on the Millsdale entry were worth $2.60 and $3.20.

LUKE SEWELL BATS IN BOTH RUNS TO BEAT THE ATHLETICS

Victory Puts Chicago Club 5 1-2 Games From Lead; White Sox Get 15 Hits, Mackmen Only 7.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—Behind the effective pitching of Monty Stratton, the White Sox defeated the Athletics, 2 to 0, today in the opener of a three-game series.

Stratton allowed seven hits and registered his fourteenth victory of the year against four defeats.

Luke Sewell drove in both Sox runs with a single in the fourth, scoring Appling, and a single in the ninth, scoring Radcliff.

Kelley's offerings were nudged for 15 blows but he kept them well scattered. Fifteen of the Sox runners were left stranded.

Red Sox Win, Within One Game of Tigers.

BOSTON, July 31.—Pounding two Detroit pitchers for 15 hits, the Red Sox slugged out a 12-to-1 victory today to climb within one game of the third-place Tigers.

Fred "Lefty" Ostermueller held the Tigers to six hits, three of them by Pete Fox, who scored their only run with a homer in the sixth.

Landing on "Lefty" Jake Wade with a barrage of hits, the Red Sox scored four runs in the first inning. George Gill, tall young righthander, came to Wade's rescue in the second with two men on base and none out but the Boston Bombers continued their heavy hitting tactics against him.

With three singles and a double for a perfect day at bat, Eric McNair led the Sox in their fourth consecutive victory and second in a row over Detroit.

Pinkey Higgins, with three singles, drove in three runs, while Leadoff Man Buster Mills connected with a pair of doubles and a single. In chalking up only his second victory of the season against five defeats, Ostermueller contributed two singles, driving in three runs.

Pete Appleton Blanks Indians.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Pete Appleton, veteran right-hander recently promoted from relief work, held Cleveland to five hits and Washington won its second straight game today from the Indians, 3 to 0.

For six innings it was a scoreless pitching duel between Appleton and Willis Hudlin, but in the seventh the Senators tallied once on a pair of singles and an infield out.

Washington put across a pair in the eighth. Both Millies and Appleton beat out bunts, and Millies scored on Almada's single. Appleton came home on a single by Lewis.

See where the majors are going to give the ball with a heavier cover and raised seams another trial next year. If memory serves it will be substantially the same kind of a ball they experimented with several years ago. They are even using the same arguments. You know—if a ball is properly hit it will go places with or without the rabbit.

The new ball came in with a fanfare of trumpets, strutted its stuff for a brief period and gradually faded out of the picture. Baseballs are like that.

As long as the balls drop into the stands with reasonable frequency the customer doesn't care whether it has a rabbit or a squirrel in it.

$15,375 as he turned back six older horses in an easy five length win, with the favored Millsdale Stable entry of Infantry and Giant Killer finishing second and third.

Wins by 5 Lengths.

Dellor, which had raced well all year with the best of the three-year-olds, was making his first try with the Handicap division. He made a show of them. Jockey Sterling Young had Dellor off well but allowed Infantry to set the pace in the mile and a quarter race, with Grand Manitou second and Sparta third. Dellor made his move after six furlongs and at the mile had moved up to second place only a head back of Infantry. He raced past the favorite and, turning for home, led by a length and a half. Young never eased up the colt and they drew away steadily as they went by the stands to triumph by five full lengths.

Dellor, a son of Rolled Stocking-Gossip Avenue, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:03 1-5. He was overlooked in the betting and paid $13 to win, $3.80 to place and $3.60 to show. Tickets on the Millsdale entry were worth $2.60 and $3.20.

MONTY STRATTON HURLS 14TH VICTORY FOR WHITE SOX, 2-0

LUKE SEWELL BATS IN BOTH RUNS TO BEAT THE ATHLETICS

Victory Puts Chicago Club 5 1-2 Games From Lead; White Sox Get 15 Hits, Mackmen Only 7.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—Behind the effective pitching of Monty Stratton, the White Sox defeated the Athletics, 2 to 0, today in the opener of a three-game series.

Stratton allowed seven hits and registered his fourteenth victory of the year against four defeats.

Luke Sewell drove in both Sox runs with a single in the fourth, scoring Appling, and a single in the ninth, scoring Radcliff.

Kelley's offerings were nudged for 15 blows but he kept them well scattered. Fifteen of the Sox runners were left stranded.

Red Sox Win, Within One Game of Tigers.

BOSTON, July 31.—Pounding two Detroit pitchers for 15 hits, the Red Sox slugged out a 12-to-1 victory today to climb within one game of the third-place Tigers.

Fred "Lefty" Ostermueller held the Tigers to six hits, three of them by Pete Fox, who scored their only run with a homer in the sixth.

Landing on "Lefty" Jake Wade with a barrage of hits, the Red Sox scored four runs in the first inning. George Gill, tall young righthander, came to Wade's rescue in the second with two men on base and none out but the Boston Bombers continued their heavy hitting tactics against him.

With three singles and a double for a perfect day at bat, Eric McNair led the Sox in their fourth consecutive victory and second in a row over Detroit.

Pinkey Higgins, with three singles, drove in three runs, while Leadoff Man Buster Mills connected with a pair of doubles and a single. In chalking up only his second victory of the season against five defeats, Ostermueller contributed two singles, driving in three runs.

"Give It a Ride, Sammy"—And West Won the Ball Game overshadowed by the timely clouts off DiMaggio's bat, yet Bill's blow was important for it brought in the first two Yankee runs of the afternoon. In the second inning it was that Dickey hammered a ball into the right field bleachers after Gehrig had walked. It was Dickey's eighteenth circuit wallop of the season and the ball landed about 400 feet from the plate. DiMaggio's first homer was a duplicate of Dickey's drive and it was unusual for Joe to fire a shot into the right field sector.

Tie Score in Sixth.

The Browns scored their first run in the fourth on Knickerbocker's triple and Lipscomb's single and in the sixth they tied the count. Their tying run came when Clift walked, reached third on Bell's single and scored after Hoag made a running gloved-hand catch of Knickerbocker's fly.

In the eighth the Browns took the lead when Pat Malone tired and was unable to last through the session. Pat walked Vosmik and Clift and then Bell forced Clift. Knickerbocker singled, sending Vosmik home and that ended Malone's stay in the contest. Makosky went to Malone's rescue and prevented further scoring in the round.

Of the 15 runs scored in the game, 12 were driven in by home runs.

CHICAGO POST TEAM BEATS JOLIET, 8-5, IN JUNIOR LEGION SERIES

OTTAWA, Ill., July 31.—Behind the five-hit pitching of Husky John Drish, the Berwyn Post of Chicago defeated Joliet, 8 to 5, today in the first game of a two out of three series for the Illinois American Legion junior baseball championship.

Drish, in addition to puzzling Joliet batsmen with a neat change of pace ball, led his team at the plate, getting four hits, one a double. Southpaw Reno Sartori of Joliet was touched for 14 blows by the Berwyn sluggers.

Joliet's only earned run was a home run by Capt. White. The teams play here again tomorrow, with a third game, if it is needed, scheduled for Monday.

Commercial League Reorganizes.

A meeting of the Rogers Commercial bowling league will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Rogers Recreation to reorganize for the coming season. The league plans to have 12 teams on its roster and several openings remain. Teams interested are asked to call Charles Boehm, ROsedale 1381, during business hours.

20 HORSES DOWN WITH FLU, TROT RACES OFF

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., July 31.—Because 20 of its horses were "down with the flu," Weequahic Park's trotting races were called off today.

Paul Keim, acting secretary of the Road Horse Association of New Jersey, sponsor of the races, said it was the first time in 20 years that a matinee was called off for illness of horses.

Veterinarians, owners, trainers and grooms fought to check the outbreak that started last week. But the disease spread and so many horses had high temperatures today the races were canceled.

Yale Golfers Tie British.

CROYDON, England, July 31.—Golfers from Yale University played the Oxford-Cambridge Golfing Society to a 5-5 draw here today.

The Britishers won the foursomes, 3 matches to 1, with one halved, but Yale won the four-ball contests, 2-0, with three halved.

To Play at Mexico City.

By the Associated Press.

KINGSVILLE, Tex., July 31.—Head Football Coach A. Y. McCallum announced today Texas A. and I. College will play the University of Mexico at Mexico City, Nov. 20, with a return game in 1938 at Kingsville or Corpus Christi.

HAINES PITCHES CARDS TO 4-3 VICTORY OVER THE DODGERS

breezed through the eighth and ninth.

Spectacular Catch.

Terry Moore made a spectacular catch of Lindsay Brown's grounder to end the eighth and ran a mile for pinch-hitter English's drive to start the ninth. Haines then walked Lavagetto but it was at that point Hassett sent a line drive down shortstop way. Durocher leaped as high as his leg muscles would carry him, stuck out his glove and came down with the ball and that was the ball game for Haines, as Leo's throw to Mize doubled Lavagetto off first.

Yes, it was the 210th victory for Haines, the first pitcher the Cardinals bought way back in their childhood days. And they're going to build around old "Pop" for a nucleus when they plan a pitching staff for 1938.

RED BIRD NOTES

DIZZY DEAN and Lon Warneke will pitch against the Dodgers in today's doubleheader, the Cardinal office announced. Dizzy started last Sunday's tie game against the Dodgers and Warneke won a six-hit game during the same series.

Max Butcher and Luke Hamlin probably will be the Brooklyn hurlers.

Burleigh Grimes, experimenting with new players, with an eye to 1938, gave Buddy Hassett, another trial in the outfield, to make room at first base for Handley "Jake" Daniel, a recruit from Trenton. Lindsay Brown, another rookie, was at shortstop.

Jimmy Brown was given another day of rest and Stuart Martin played second base for the Cardinals.

The series' opener attracted a Ladies' Day crowd of 3317 cash customers, 4980 women, 2226 boys and girls—a total of 11,135.

Winsett swung playfully at one of Haines' pitches while Jess was issuing an intentional pass in the sixth and was a bit surprised to learn that it had been called a strike.

MEDWICK LEADS N. L. SLUGGERS BY BIG MARGIN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Week by week the belief is growing that the National League's various individual competitions should be run on a handicap basis, with Ducky Medwick starting from scratch, just to make a race of it.

In all fairness to the aspiring but ineffective rivals who seem to get nowhere in pursuit of Medwick, the Cardinal clouter should either spot them hits and runs, or should bat with a broomstick or with his right arm tied behind him.

A Real Leader.

With the league season nearing the three-quarter mark, Medwick is still leading in every department that counts—batting, runs, runs batted in, hits, doubles and homers—and in most of them he is stretching his lead wider and wider week after week.

In only two of those departments, runs and home runs, has he a serious challenge for supremacy. Augie Galan of the Cubs has been chasing after him all season in the matter of making runs. He finally passed Ducky-Wucky last week, only to lose the pace again as Medwick put on a spurt and regained the lead, with 78 to 77. In homers, Medwick's rivals come and go, but never overtake him. Earlier it was Dick Bartell of the Giants. Now it's Mel Ott. But Ducky is still on top, 21 to 20, and Ott seems to be making no effort to catch up.

Otherwise, Medwick is making a joke of the whole affair. Although he dropped seven points in hitting during the week ended with Friday's games, he still boasted a neat .403 average and a 24-point bulge over his nearest rival, Paul Waner of the Pirates, second with .379. His total of 98 runs batted in was 25 higher than the 73 for second-place Frank Demaree of the Cubs. He had a lead of 11 in doubles, with 35 to 24 for Jojo Moore of the Giants and Tony Cuccinello of the Bees, and in base hits, his 141 gave him an edge of seven over Waner, who had 134.

Of those trailing him in the hitting race, Billy Herman of the Cubs showed the biggest advance during the week. Herman hammered the ball at a .500 clip to climb from fifth to third place with a .362 average. Behind him were Billy Jurges, Cubs, fourth with .353; Johnny Mize, Cardinals, .352; Arky Vaughan, Pirates, .349; Pinky Whitney, Philadelphia, .343; Frank Demaree, Cubs, .342; Jojo Moore, Giants, .335, and Heinie Manush, Dodgers, .328.

Pair of Pirates.

The Pirate pair, Arky Vaughan and Lee Handley, were all tied up again for the lead in triples, each with 10. Augie Galan of the Cubs continued to set the pace in base stealing with 15, while Cookie Lavagetto of the Dodgers, with 11 pilfered sacks, passed Pepper Martin in the race for second place.

Lou Fette, with 13 victories and three defeats, and King Carl Hubbell, with 14 wins and five setbacks, were still running one-two among the league's pitchers. Behind them were Tex Carleton, Cubs, with 8 and 3; Charley Root, Cubs, 10 and 4; Cliff Melton, Giants, 11-5; Jim Turner, Bees, 11-6; Lon Warneke, Cardinals, 11-6.

MEDWICK STILL ABOVE .400 MARK; GEHRIG REGAINS SWAT LEAD

By the Associated Press.

Lou Gehrig regained the American League batting lead yesterday, taking it back from Cecil Travis of Washington, who enjoyed the top spot only a day. Although both lost ground, Gehrig, by hitting one-for-four, dropped only two points to .371, while Travis, hitless in four chances, fell six to .370. Ducky Medwick, getting one-for-three, held his National League lead of .403.

Standings of the leaders (first three in each league):

MARYLAND HEIGHTS TO PLAY EDGEMONT TODAY

Maryland Heights plays the league-leading Edgemont A. C. at Maryland Heights this afternoon starting at 3 o'clock in the feature of the three Illinois-Missouri Trolley Baseball League games.

In the other contests, the Hufschmidts of East St. Louis play at St. Charles against the Browns starting at 3 o'clock, and the Alpen Braus of Madison and the J. R. 3. & S. team of Vandalia meet in a doubleheader starting at 1 o'clock.

Horseshoe Schedule.

The Gordons, leaders of the Municipal Horseshoe Pitchers' Association, oppose the third-place Budweisers this morning on Court No. 3 at Carondelet Park. The second-place Steinmanns meet the last-place Wacker-Helderles on No. 1 and the Spehs oppose the Mrazeks on No. 2 in the other matches.

Lochner Leaves To Accompany U. S. Team to Orient

Floyd Lochner, St. Louis, only member of the United States track team now preparing to leave for the Orient, left St. Louis last night for San Francisco where he will embark Aug. 5 for Yokohama.

Lochner gained his place on the A. A. U. team by setting a new American record for the 3000-meter steeplechase at the Princeton Invitational meet and by capturing an A. A. U. championship at Milwaukee in the same event. Beside these two victories he won first place in the New York Labor Meet in the steeplechase and first place in the 3000 meter flat race at the Cotton Bowl event in Memphis.

LOCHNER.

On his return to St. Louis the latter part of September, Lochner will begin training for the cross country events of the fall season.

Besides Lochner, the former Butler U. athlete, Ray Sears, will also represent the St. Louis Relay Association next fall and winter. There may be at least two other middle distance runners added to the club's roster this fall in order that a team might compete in the eastern indoor meets this winter.

12 BIKE RIDERS TO COMPETE IN MISSOURI TITLE EVENTS, TODAY

By Reno Hahn

Eleven St. Louis riders and one from Kansas City will compete this morning for the State senior bicycle championship and the right to represent Missouri in the Amateur Bicycle League of America's national meet at Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 4 and 5. The contestants will engage in five and 25-mile races over the course in Forest Park west of Jefferson Memorial, beginning at 7 o'clock.

In addition to the senior title races, the women and juniors will also decide their championships, with the winners of title being eligible for the Nationals.

Favorite for the senior title will be Ray Florman, one-handed rider, who won the city title two weeks ago and before that a 25-mile race at Dallas. Chester Nelsen Sr., former Olympic rider, who ran Florman a close race in each of the sprints in the city 25-mile event, and Eugene Gotsch, who missed the city races because of injuries suffered at Dallas, are expected to give Florman his chief competition.

Kansas Cityan a Contender.

The Kansas City entrant, Ardo Roberts, recently won the city title there and is expected to be a contender for the State championship.

For the junior title, Chester Nelsen Jr., city champion, and Gilbert Gramlich, who lost the title in a race-off with Nelsen, are the favorite. Richard Chappius, youthful rider who surprised with a victory in the 10-mile event and led up to the finish line in others of the city races, and Leon Callahan, Kansas City, are other title possibilities.

Melba Gruendmeyer, city champion, and Dorothy Nelsen, who lost to her in the race-off, are expected to wage another close battle for the right to go to Buffalo.

The runner-up in the senior division will be eligible to go to the Nationals, but at his own expense. The three champions will have their expenses paid by the local division of the A. B. L. of A.

Points to Decide Winner.

Races for the juniors will be one, two, five and 10 miles, and for the women, one and five miles.

There will be five sprint laps in the senior 25-mile race, with the winner of that race being determined by the number of points scored in the sprints. Sprint points will be scored 5, 3, 2 and 1.

The entries:

SENIORS—Ray Florman, Chester Nelsen, Lou Droz, Christian Finkenkeller, Joe Dellerman, Leroy Long, Ralph Molkenbur, Ray Rowald, Herman Gruenewald, Ray George and Eugene Gotsch, St. Louis; Ardo Roberts, Kansas City.

WOMEN—Dorothy Nelsen, Catherine Frietag, Ruth Wieden, Virginia Bunselmeier, Loruli Gruenewald, Florence Freihaut, Ethel Davis, Alma Fuchs, Eda Schwerdtfeger, Alberta Meier, Melba Gruendmeyer, Frances Chase, Oriole McDonald, Mayme Lee Parrish, Virginia George.

CHAPS, AT 15 TO 1, WINS SARATOGA STAKE FOR 2-YEAR-OLDS

MRS. MARS' COLT FINISHES 2ND; MUD SLOWS UP THE FAVORITE

The Chief, Even-Money Choice, Is Fifth in a Field of Seven of Country's Best Juvenile Racers.

By the Associated Press.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 31.—Adding another major surprise to the rapidly growing list at the meeting, Alvin Untermyer's black colt, Chaps, purchased for $800 at the yearling sale here a year ago, today drove to victory in the thirty-fifth United States Hotel Stakes, worth $7700 to his fortunate owner. The son of Lee O. Cotner-Island Dress, although winner of an allowance event here in his last outing, was not deemed sufficiently improved to beat today's field, consequently he went postward with 15 to 1 against his chances.

A blanket finish thrilled 13,000 spectators. Mountain Ridge, Western invader in the silks of Mrs Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way Farm, was beaten a head, while saving second money, by a like margin from William Ziegler Jr.'s Red Glare.

No less surprising than Chaps' triumph was the complete failure of C. V. Whitney's The Chief. The long-striding winner of the National Stallion Stakes at Belmont Park last June was an even money choice in the field of eight. Apparently he was unable to do his best in the heavy going, for he finished fifth, about six lengths behind the winner. He never was a real threat and wallowed farther back in the ruck when the stretch run came.

Chaps, ridden by the diminutive veteran Eddie De Camillis, plowed through the gummy footing in 1:14 3-5. The colt is not eligible for the Hopeful, but was nominated for the Grand Union Hotel Stakes, as were all his rivals in today's fixture. Mountain Ridge and Stagehand were the only others not named for the Hopeful.

The field got away to a good start. Mountain Ridge and Regal Sun were first to find their strides. Mountain Ridge put the Kilmer colt away early, but was joined by Red Glare around the bend, the Ziegler filly showing the way into the stretch by a narrow margin. The Chief, after gaining third position around the turn, faded badly. Chaps, meanwhile, had been kept within striking distance in fourth position. De Camillis sent the black youngster around the leaders entering the home lane. Chaps gained steadily and got up in the last few strides.

Missouri Fishing Conditions.

RECENT good weather has given creeks, rivers and lakes ample time to clear and angling should be greatly improved the next time out. If anything, the heavy rains of a few days ago will eventually benefit fishing by refreshing waters and keeping the usual nonchalant "August" fish in fighting trim.

Reports indicate best fishing is in the south and southwestern parts of the state. In the former area Current, Castor, Black and the St. Francis are in good condition with some catches being made on artificial lures. In the White River country the James, White, Spring and other southeastern streams are in like condition although still cloudy in the northern branches.

Jacks Fork, Current and Eleven Points Rivers are in good shape as are the Piney and Roubidoux farther north. However, the Gasconade has not entirely cleared. Good catches have been reported in the past few days. Bass and channel cat are being caught on live bait.

St. Louisans will have to go far up the Meramec to get into clear water. The same applies to the Big River. The Huzzah, Dry Creek and the Courtois are in excellent shape.

The Lake of the Ozarks is in good condition but catches have not been even average. The Big Niangua is in excellent shape. Cedar Creek, the Moreau and the Osage, in the vicinity of the Lake are also in good shape.

Quail and Grasshopper Bran.

Dr. Leonard Haseman, professor of entomology at the University of Missouri issued a statement late last week that the poison bran being scattered throughout the State would not be harmful to game birds but would deal death to the grasshoppers. Dr. Haseman was very emphatic in saying that the bran should not be placed in piles or in large quantities because sodium arsenate will kill anything if consumed in large enough amounts.

From throughout the State come reports pertaining to the splendid coveys of young quail that are showing up better than expected. Nearly every farmer questioned on a recent trip through the Ozarks, was able to tell of several coveys on his place, each of fifteen or twenty young birds.

Park Control Divided.

When the fourth amendment was passed last November, it became necessary to establish a park board. This was done by the Fifty-Ninth General Assembly, who named the Governor, the Attorney-General and the Conservation Director to serve in that capacity.

Next arose the question whether the Conservation Commission has control over parks and, if so, which ones. The Attorney-General ruled that the commission would have control over those parks created and maintained exclusively for conserving and restoring wildlife resources of the State. The State Park Board would have control over those parks created solely for recreational purposes.

In parks where there are both conservation and restoration as well as recreation, there would be a split with the Conservation Commission handling problems arising in connection with wild life, birds, sanctuaries, animals, fish and hatcheries and the Park Board governing cabins, beaches, concessions and picnic grounds.

The hunting season in the southern zone in Illinois opens today, the first day of the open season on squirrels. This territory includes Madison, Bond, Fayette, Effingham, Jasper, Crawford and all counties south of the same. In the central zone the opening date is Aug. 15, and northern zone Sept. 1.

The law says it shall be lawful to take with a gun or gun and dog, not to exceed eight squirrels in any one day, or to have in possession a total of not more than 16 squirrels at any one time. No shotgun shall have a capacity for firing more than three consecutive shots, and not larger than a 10-guage.

The old law does not say anything specifically about taking or killing squirrels with a gun, so hunters using rifles are wondering if these are illegal under the new law. A ruling on this point will be requested by those directly interested.

Beagling.

Owners and handlers of beagles are preparing their charges for the fall trials which will get under way the latter part of this month in the East and which will be held in Illinois during next month. Except for the Missouri Valley Beagle Club, which holds its trials outside of Kansas City at Kemble's Log Cabin, beagle clubs are rather inactive in Missouri. The owners, however, keep their rabbit hounds in the pink for trials held in other districts.

Several of the little hounds have gained nationwide recognition for their trail work.

HORSES BEGIN ARRIVING FOR FALL MEETING AT FAIRMOUNT

The first shipment of horses, which will compete in the fall meeting at the Fairmount race track, beginning Sept. 4, arrived during the week and included six from the stable of Jack Carter, who has raced horses at previous Fairmount meetings. In all, Carter will have 17 horses here for the meeting.

Included in the list of Carter horses now at the track are Nameoki, Take Down, Rebel Stroke, Colonel's Miss and Hearty.

Racing Secretary R. A. Leigh will arrive here Aug. 20 to take active charge. Before his arrival, he will visit the New England tracks, as well as Saratoga, Lincoln Fields and Thistle Down in an effort to get horses for the Collinsville meeting.

Improvements at the course are going along daily. All the barns have been re-roofed. More than $100,000 will be spent on the course.

For the opening day program, the card will include four sprint races and four distance events. The feature will be the Fairmount Inaugural Handicap of six furlongs, valued at $1000, for three-year-olds and up. One of the five and one-half furlongs races will be for two-year-olds. The second day's racing will be featured by the Labor Day Handicap, of $1000, over the one-mile and 70-yard course.

Officials of the track still hope to hold a special stake race with some of the better known horses of the country entered.

The Thomas Speed Camera, the "Camera Eye" of the race tracks, will be installed Aug. 10. Housing equipment has already been constructed over the judges' stand. It will be the first time the "Camera Eye" has been used at a Fairmount meeting.

AMATEUR NOTES

Nick Bomoritto struck out 12 batters as the Wizards defeated the Collinsville Cubs, 5-2. The Wizards want games for August and September on opponents' diamonds. Write Anthony Puzzo, 1926 Warren street, city.

A. & P. COMPANY TO OPEN STORE AT 6659 DELMAR BL.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. has acquired a long lease on large quarters at 6659 Delmar boulevard, in the S. S. Kresge Building, in the Loop section of University City, just east of Kingsland avenue.

Extending from Delmar to Enright avenue, the building is accessible from both streets.

Contracts have been let for the installation of new fronts on both streets, with plans for opening the new A & P store within the next few weeks.

The S. S. Kresge Co. store occupies adjoining quarters in the building. The Franklin E. Meyer Real Estate Co. negotiated the lease.

This will add another unit to the group of A & P stores in the University district.

The concern has stores at strategic points throughout this city and suburbs. It maintains a warehouse at 4507 Scott avenue.

G. J. WANSTRATH ATTENDS CONVENTION IN HONOLULU

George J. Wanstrath will return today from an extended trip including, notably, Honolulu where he attended the first convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards ever held there. The Mayor of Honolulu gave the visiting realtors a farewell dinner which was attended by the city officials and the Governor of Hawaii. He also attended the realtors regional convention, held in June in Los Angeles, Cal. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wanstrath.

GROUP ACQUIRES LARGE APARTMENT ON CABANNE AVE.

Purchases 30-Unit Structure at Northwest Corner of Goodfellow Assessed at $97,450.

By Berry Moore

A feature of the week was a deal involving a 30-unit building at the northwest corner of Cabanne and Goodfellow avenues, engineered by Delbert S. Wenzlick, president of the Wenzlick Sales & Management Organization. The title to the property was held in the name of Mrs. Helen E. Buss.

Mildred E. Foulks, secretary to J. Lionberger Davis, president of the Security National Bank Savings & Trust Co., the purchaser of record, according to reports, is the intermediary for a group with large resources. The property is assessed for tax purposes at $97,450.

Three stories in height, the building consists of five-room suites, each with tile bath and shower. Other modern conveniences, include electric refrigerators, etc. A hot-water heating system with unit control, together with stoker, is to be installed.

100 Per Cent Rented.

The apartments are 100 per cent occupied, with annual gross rentals approximating $17,000. The price paid was predicated on the net rentals derived, it was stated.

The site has a frontage on Cabanne of 155 feet, and on Goodfellow of 208 feet. There are 15 garages in the rear of the premises, with side drive to Cabanne avenue, for the entrance of tenants.

Presumably in part payment, Mildred E. Foulks in turn conveyed to Helen Buss the title to a 12-unit three-story building, occupying 59 by 119 feet, at the southwest corner of Temple place and Wells avenue, purchased by her through the

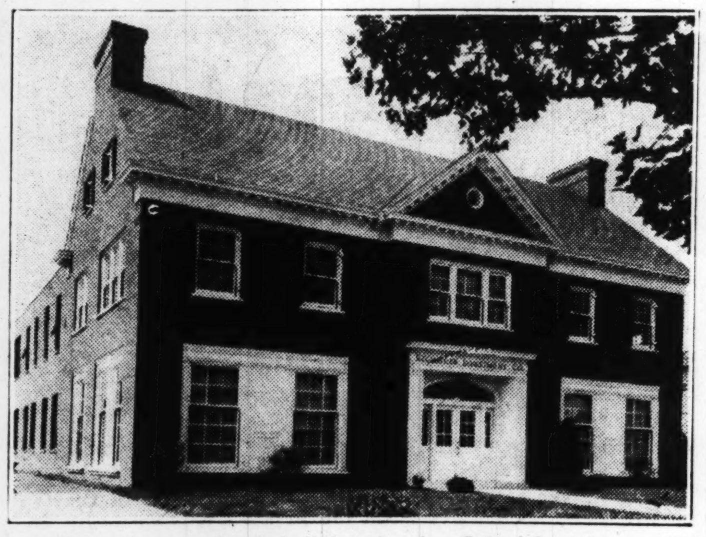
New Home of Financing Concern



Recently completed building in the Colonial style at 4120 Lindell boulevard designed for the Securities Investment Co., an automobile financing concern, which will occupy it under a long lease, arranged by Francis-Perry-Ruth Real Estate Co. It was erected and is owned by the Francis Investment Co.

ACQUIRES HALF BLOCK ON NORTH BROADWAY

President of Milbradt Mfg. Co. Buys Tract North of Bissell.

Approximately a half block of ground on the west side of North Broadway, just north of Bissell street, has been acquired by Raymond C. Luecke, president of the Milbradt Manufacturing Co., at 2410 North Tenth street.

The tract has a frontage of 260 feet on Broadway, with a depth of 150 feet, extending through the block to Eleventh street, on which it has a frontage of 360 feet, or a total frontage of 620 feet. It is unimproved.

Luecke, manufacturer of gasoline lawn mowers, declined to disclose his plan in connection with the purchase. The site is one of the largest available for manufacturing purposes in this part of the city. The price paid was not disclosed.

The tract is one of 20 parcels in this part of North St. Louis, acquired a year or two ago by Frank R. Rice, president of Rice-O'Neil Shoe Co. represented by Cornet & Zeibig, from the Tyler estate of Louisville, Ky. Several of these parcels have been resold at substantial profits to industrial interests.

Manufacturing interests have concluded negotiations through the real estate department of the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co. for a 10-acre tract in the East St. Louis area for a large plant. Particulars in this connection, however, are withheld, pending transfer of the title to the propertyt.

Overtures looking to other purchases in the industrial areas of Greater St. Louis, are reported by the real estate department of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., which has been a factor in bringing not a few large industries to St. Louis. These include notably the General Motors Chevrolet plant, and others on a major scale, in the northwestern industrial district of the city.

REAL ESTATE SALESMEN'S PICNIC TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

The North St. Louis Real Estate Salesmen's Association will hold its annual picnic Wednesday, Aug. 4, on the Edward L. Kuhs estate on the Spanish Pond road, overlooking the Missouri River.

Officers of the association are: William Duerbeck, president; Ralph Keeney, vice-president; Joseph F. Koehr, treasurer, and Albert E. Schaefer, secretary.

SEED COMPANY LEASES FIVE-STORY BUILDING

Will Occupy Structure at 411 North Broadway Now Being Reconditioned.

The St. Louis Seed Co. has leased for a long term the modern five-story building at 411 North Broadway, occupying a lot 25 by 127 feet, owned by the Thejan Investment Co., represented by the Fletcher R. Harris Real Estate Co. in the negotiations.

The building is being reconditioned at a large outlay. Contracts for the work call for completion by Sept. 1, when the lessee is scheduled to take possession. The building contains both passenger and freight elevators. Erected several years ago, it is comparatively modern.

The building formerly occupied by the seed company at 411 Washington avenue was destroyed by fire several months ago. The lessee was represented by Oreon E. & R. G. Scott in the negotiations.

DIMMIT-RICKHOFF-BAYER REPORTS 30 JULY SALES

The Dimmitt - Rickhoff - Bayer Realty Co. report having concluded 30 sales during July, a noteworthy increase over the corresponding month last year. Those included were two new 4-family apartment buildings in Blue Ridge terrace, erected by the Hanley Realty & Construction Co. The buildings are of modernistic design, each containing six and seven rooms and two baths each.

ALTMAYER REPORTS 85 PCT. INCREASE IN 1937 BUSINESS

The Altmayer Real Estate Co. reports an 85 per cent increase in transactions for the first six months of 1937 over the corresponding period of 1936.

Recent additions to its sales organization include Miss Myrtle Maule, Henry Keller and Richard J. Schmidt.

NO. 29 LENOX PLACE SOLD

The resiednce at 29 Lenox place, one of the handsomest in this addition has been acquired by David Q. Wells and his sister, Mrs. Eliose Wells Polk.

Wells is a member of the firm of Walsh and Wells, Inc., general contractors. Mrs. Polk is a well-known landscape architect. A. T. & Whitelaw Terry represented the sellers and H. Chouteau Dyer and others, and Edward L. Bakewell.

OLIVE STREET QUARTERS TAKEN UNDER LEASES

Pendleton Corner Structure to Be Hotel — RKO Rents Building Under Construction for Long Term.

The former Peckham Building, a commodious three-story structure at the northeast corner of Olive street and Pendleton avenue, owned by the Penn Realty Co., has been leased by the Royal Hotel Co. The lease is for a term of five years, with the privilege of 10.

The structure has been converted into a 32-room hotel. The rooms are available singly or in suite. The latest appliances have been installed, including a passenger elevator. A large amount also has been expended for furnishings.

A conspicuous landmark of this part of the city, the building was erected by the Peckham Confectionery Co., which occupied it for many years. It was formerly occupied as a Y. W. C. A. branch. The site has a frontage of 85 feet on Olive street by a depth of 150 feet on Pendleton avenue.

Negotiations are reported as pending for other buildings in this section on behalf of both prospective lessees and purchasers.

Radio Kieth Lease.

The RKO company has leased for a long term the one-story building being erected at the northeast corner of Olive street and Compton avenue, for a film exchange. It will be especially designed and equipped. Specifications include an air-conditioning system. The Fruin-Colnon Construction Co. has the construction contract. The lease

COURT DECISIONS AFFECTING VALUATION TO BE REVIEWED

As initial step in developing a legal digest in the field of real estate appraisal, court decisions and other matters of ruling and precedent affecting the valuation of real estate are reviewed in a new section which is being included in the Journal of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, technical quarterly of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The section, to be edited by William Wilson, of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin and Ellis, Chicago, will appear for the first time in the current issue of the Institute's quarterly, now on the press.

Court decisions as to qualification of value witnesses are cited in the current issue.

1500 EXPECTED TO ATTEND CONVENTION

U.S. Building and Loan League to Meet in Los Angeles Oct 6-18.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 31.—Preparations for the coming of 1500 to 2000 delegates to the United States Building and Loan League's convention in Los Angeles, October 6-8, point to sessions of unprecedented attention to the source of future mortgage funds. The savings, buildings and loaners, already shaping their program, are scheduling discussion of the things about which the investor in a mortgage institution is concerned, reserves, liquidity, and possibilities of uniform dividend rates.

Harold T. Donaldson, Lansing, Mich., president of the League, says that these are only a few of the subjects which loom likely for consideration at this time, but they are straws to indicate which way savings and loan thinking lies.

Reporting for the League's committee on trends, its chairman, Fred G. Stickel, Newark, New Jersey, will give the convention the summary of the committee's findings about the limits of safe mortgage lending and how far the trend of the times should affect building and loan policies. Clarence T. Rice, Kansas City, Kansas, who is second vice president of the League, is also chairman of the Committee on Home Taxation, which will report current relationships between mortgage lending and the home owners' tax bills.

Among the new committees which will meet October 4 and 5 to write up conclusions about their research will be those on title charges and cost in placing and collecting mortgages, on insured institutions, and on compensation of management and staff. The Trends Committee is likewise new. Other groups have continued where last year's committees left off in their study of the Federal Housing Administration, state legislation, economic policies, public relations, federal legislation, reserve credits and banking, public housing and research and education. Several of these will summarize their reports for general sessions.

Special meetings will be held by the Advertising and Business Development Division, the Supervisors' Division, Attorneys' Division Insured Institutions' Division, Federal Savings and Loan Division, and by the managing officers. Simultaneously with the League the Society of Residential Appraisers will hold its annual convention, bringing probably two hundred expert real estate appraisers into the group assembled at Los Angeles.

GROUP ACQUIRES LARGE APARTMENT ON CABANNE AVE.

Wenzlick Sales & Management Corporation several months ago. It comprises three and four room apartments.

Annual rentals of this building, 100 per cent occupied, aggregate $4000.

A 30-unit apartment building at the northeast corner of Cabanne and Goodfellow avenue was acquired several months ago by Mildred E. Foulks, through Delbert S. Wenzlick. It alternates in four, five and six room apartments, with all modern conveniences, including electric refrigeration, etc.

The warranty deed transferring this building carried $100 in revenue stamps, indicating a price of $100,000. The seller was the May Building Co., a holding company of Henry W. Barnett, represented in the negotiations by the Anderson-Stocke-Buerman Real Estate Co., which financed the purchase to the extent of $82,500 in the form of a loan secured by a first deed of trust. Annual rentals of this entirely leased building approximate $15,000.

Led by the Wenzlick inspired interests, which have acquired a total of 17 apartments, purchases of buildings of this character have been a feature of the 1936-37 real estate market.

The five-story building at 8612 Halls Ferry road, in Baden, formerly occupied as a hospital, has been purchased by Morris Steinbaum, real estate speculator and hotel operator. It was owned by the Northwestern Trust Co.

36-Unit Project.

Steinbaum is proceeding to convert the structure into a 36-family apartment building. The suites will be of the two and three room efficiency type, with bath, electric refrigerators and other modern conveniences. There will be both freight and passenger elevators. The site, comprising approximately a half a block, has a frontage of 241 feet on Halls Ferry road, by a depth of 150 feet.

Steinbaum recently purchased the Eugene Field Apartments at 4333 Olive street, opposite the Eugene Field School, from the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, represented by Franciscus-MaGinn, Inc. The reported purchase price was in excess of $100,000.

Other recent purchases by Steinbaum include the old two ahd a half story building at 2204 Locust street owned by clients of the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. and the southeast corner of West Pine boulevard and Boyle avenue occupied by four 12-room houses, facing West Pine boulevard. The latter which have a frontage of 210 feet on West Pine and 207 feet on Boyle, were owned by banking interests. The Slonim Real Estate Co. handled the negotiations.

The Hope Building at the southwest corner of Texas avenue and Cherokee street, has been purchased by interests represented by the Kempland Real Estate Co., of which George Kempland is president. It occupies a lot 60 by 125 feet. The seller, the Ely-Walker Dry Goods Co., was represented by the Rengel-Weber Realty Co. The price paid was not announced.

The second floor of the building is occupied as a hall. There are stores on the first floor. The building is to be remodeled and modernized. The dry goods company formerly operated a dress factory on the upper floors.

OLIVE STREET QUARTERS TAKEN UNDER LEASES

was negotiated by the Breitt & Naumer Real Estate Co.

The old two-story buildings at 3546-52 Olive street, just east of Grand, are being torn down to save taxes. The site, 67 by 147 feet, has been rented to Walter Sommer, a parking lot operator, pending its eventual improvement with a modern building. It is owned by a nonresident client of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.

Absorption of quarters on Olive, east of Grand, promises soon to deplete the supply of modern buildings, or old buildings susceptible to conversion or modernization, according to C. M. McDonald, president of the C. M. McDonald Real Estate Co. and a former president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. As a result, there has been a noteworthy recovery in rentals on this section of the thoroughfare, which had been adversely affected by the depression.

Apparently, he states, in response to the demand for quarters on this street, a number of one and two-story structures has recently been erected in the section between Leffingwell and Theresa avenues, while plans are under consideration for others.

The modern one story air-conditioned structure recently completed at 3004 Olive street, was leased from the plans by the Vitagraph Co., a subsidiary of Warner Bros., Inc., for a 10-year term. It was erected by a syndicate formed by the Henry R. Weisels Co., which negotiated the lease.

Taking time by the forelock, Loewe, Inc., operator of Loew's Theater, recently renewed its lease on the one-story air-conditioned building at 3010 Olive street for a 10-year term. The building, having a frontage of 125 feet on Olive, is used for offices, inspection and film purposes. It is owned by the Fulton Investment Co., represented by Sam Schuchart, president of the Schuchart Real Estate Co.

Anticipating future requirements, the A. S. Aloe Co., large surgical supply concern, recently purchased the vacant ground at the northeast corner of Nineteenth and Olive streets. The site, 100 by 108 feet, adjoins that of the concern's five story block at 1819-23-25 Olive street. It was acquired by the concern not only as available for future expansion, but also as an investment.

SOUTH SIDE CHEVROLET, INC.

What Our Customers Say—

An employee of Coombs Electrical Appliance Repair Co. writes—I would like to pass along a recommendation for South Side Chevrolet Co. In the past 4 years I have bought from your Mr. George McGregor, three used and 1 new Chevrolets. I believe this is a compliment to any automobile sales company, as I have had perfect satisfaction from each car.

IN MEMORIAM

AMOS, EDWARD G.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, who passed away July 31, 1936. Sadly missed by FATHER, MOTHER, SISTERS & BROTHER.

GUILFOIL, WILLIAM—In loving memory. Passed away Aug. 3, 1935. Just a thought of brief remembrance, just a love and sweet devotion of the ones who think of you. Sadly missed by WIFE AND FRIENDS.

HARRISON, OTHELT—In memory of our darling son who passed away Aug. 4, 1934.
Gone but not forgotten dear one,
We will follow some sweet day.
Sadly missed by FAMILY.

HEILMAN, CARRY ANNA — In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away a year ago, Aug. 2, 1936.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better, God never made
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true
One in a million—that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright.
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew
Our wonderful mother—that mother was you
Sadly missed by DAUGHTERS.

IN MEMORIAM

HEINRICH, WILLIAM C.—In loving memory of my dear husband, who passed away five years ago, July 30, 1932.
Sweet to remember him who once was here
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
Lovingly remembered by WIFE, SISTERS AND BROTHERS
And all who loved him

KLUDAS, CHARLES—In loving memory. Departed this life 5 years ago, July 28, 1932.
Dear father you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more.
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

KRIETEMEIER, LOUIS F.—In loving memory of my dear husband and father who passed away July 28, 1936, one year ago without a chance to say goodby. Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

KRILL, MARIE ANNA—In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister who departed from us in her ninth year July 29, 1928:
We often sit and think of Marie when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own;
Like ivy on the withered oak when all other things decay,
Our love for Marie will still keep green and never fade away.
Sadly missed by MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

LANG, JOSEPH—In loving memory of my dear husband and our dear father, who passed away Aug. 2, 1936.
We seem to see in soft, dim light
A face we loved the best,
And think of him when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off West.
We miss you no less as the time passes on
Than we did on the day of your going,
For absence can never close the door of our heart
And the lamp of my love is still glowing.
For no one on earth can take your place,
You are still the dearest of all.
Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. Mass at St. George's Church, on Mon., Aug. 2, at 7 o'clock.

LEHMAN, WM. F.—In loving memory of my dear husband, who departed Aug. 5, 1934:
Gone but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by HIS WIFE.

LEIBINGER, AGNES—In loving memory of our dearly beloved mother whom God called to her Heavenly Home Aug. 1, 1932. "Them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." First Thess. 4:14. God giveth his beloved sleep. Sorrowfully missed by HER DEVOTED CHILDREN.

LEIBINGER, AGNES—In loving memory of our beloved mother, Agnes Leibinger, who passed away on this day Aug. 1, 1932.
Sadly missed by her CHILDREN.

LIPPING, ANNIE—In loving remembrance. Who died Aug. 1, 1935. Sadly missed by SISTERS, BROTHER AND RELATIVES.

MADER, CAROLINE—In memory of our dear mother and grandmother who departed this life Aug. 2, 1935:
In silence you suffered with patience you bore
Till God called you home to suffer no more.
Missed by HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

MAHON, LOUISE—In loving memory of our dear mother and wife, who passed away Aug. 4, 1936.
One year of sorrow, lonely and blue,
Life is so empty, dear mother, without you.
It was sad, indeed, the way you died,
Without a chance to say good-bye;
Your spirit flew, before we knew
That you from us had gone.
If you had raised a dying hand
And bid us all farewell,
The blow would not have been so hard
For those who loved you dear so well.
Sadly missed by FAMILY.

MAIER, EMIL X.—In sacred memory of Emil X. Maier, who died Aug. 2, 1929.
LOVING WIFE.

MERIFIELD, VIOLA E. — In loving memory of our dear wife and daughter who passed away July 31, 1936.
'Twas sad indeed the way you had to die,
Without a word to say goodbye;
Your spirit flew before we knew
From us you were gone.
If you had raised your dying hand
And bade us last farewell,
The blow would not have been so hard
For those who loved you so well.
Sadly missed by your broken-hearted
HUSBAND, MOTHER, RELATIVES and FRIENDS.

MURRAY, JOSEPH—In memory of our beloved husband and father, who departed this life July 31, 1936:
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

THOLE, LOUISE—In loving memory of our darling, Louise, July 29, 1934. If all the world were ours to claim, we would give all to have her back again.
FATHER, MOTHER and SISTER.

BEAUTY CULTURE

ANNOUNCEMENT

The MOLER SYSTEM of COLLEGES

NOW IN THEIR NEW LOCATION

521 Washington Av., (at 6th)

The Most Convenient Corner in Downtown St. Louis

Larger Quarters With Added Facilities to Accommodate Larger Enrollments

The atmosphere of "Moler System" and its high standard of Beauty Culture training will continue in the new quarters, with even better service for students and the public. The Moler Desire—backed by 44 years of successful schooling, with branches in many principal cities, is to give to the people of St. Louis—truly a Beauty Culture Home.

The increasing demand for Moler Graduates and Moler Service necessitated this move.

We invite you for an inspection of our school in our NEW LOCATION.

If you do not live in St. Louis, write for our illustrated booklet No. 44 on Moler Training

Cocktail Party at the La Jolla
Mrs. Theodore Ferguson Fowler
Be Guests.

FIFTY St. Louisans, all spending the season in La Jolla, Cal., have been invited to the summer home there of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ferguson Fowler, 1363 Torrey road, for cocktails late tomorrow afternoon to be told of the engagement of Mrs. Fowler's daughter, Miss Jeanne Frances Charlot, and Theodore Plummer Desloge. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Firmin Desloge of Clayton road.

Guests will include the younger Mr. Desloge, who is visiting his fiancee's family, and his parents, who recently returned from Honolulu and will spend the rest of the summer at San Ysidro Ranch at Montecito, Santa Barbara, Cal.

Miss Charlot was graduated in 1934 from Mary Institute, and the following year she attended the Finch School in New York. In the fall of 1935 she was a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball, and was presented to society at a dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Fowler at the St. Louis Country Club. Subsequently she became a member of the Junior League. This is the Fowler family's first summer in La Jolla. For several years the Fowlers have been members of the St. Louis colony at Harbor Point,

Beachcombers Annual Ball at Provincetown

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Provincetown, Mass., July 31.

THE quaint old village of Provincetown, at the tip of Cape Cod, was in gala attire last week-end for the twenty-fifth annual Beachcombers' ball. The party, which is the outstanding social event of the season, took place at the Town Hall, Friday night, and was attended by hundreds of guests from every town and village on the cape.

Provincetown, long famed as an art colony, was thronged with artists, writers and summer visitors for the event.

Miss Mina Scull, young art student, as a Russian Princess, was awarded the John Whorf landscape, as first prize for the most artistic costume. Jonnie Dears, son of a Provincetown fisherman, won the prize for the most authentic costume. He wore a fisherman's checkered shirt, boots and a southwester.

A party of St. Louisans, summering at Hyannisport, drove to Provincetown to participate in the festival. Miss Frances Reyburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Valle Reyburn, wore a gypsy costume and her guest, Miss Katharine Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzhugh Randolph of Kirkwood, wore blue trousers and a beer jacket. Robert Anderson, Hinsdale, Ill., a member of the party, was clad in a painter's costume. They took part in the grand march led by John Whorf, skipper of the Beachcombers.

More than 20 fine old houses and artists' studios were opened to the visitors. En route to Provincetown members of the summer colonies thronged the beach to see more than 250 great black fish washed ashore at Eastham. These fish, weighing hundreds of pounds, had become stranded as the tide went out.

There is always competition in Provincetown between the old and the new. The dimly-lighted thoroughfares that appealed to artists of another day have given way this summer to high-candle power lights. However, the old town crier still walks the streets, dressed in Colonial costume, ringing his bell and telling the news.

On the way from the lower cape to Provincetown is Truro, where among the rolling dunes is the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Rule. Last week they entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stuart of St. Louis, and visited Provincetown and other points of interest on the cape.

Woods Hole, Mass.

THE first of August finds the season in full swing, with almost all available space in Cape Cod summer houses occupied. Many additional visitors are in Cape Cod this week for the reunion of the Wing family in Sandwich, the oldest and most picturesque place on the cape. They have come from every state in the union and from as far away as Honolulu. The Wings and Clossons of Independence, descendants of Deborah Wing, represent the Wing family in Missouri. This is the 300th anniversary of the arrival of Deborah Wing and her four sons at Sandwich. Grace

Miss Jeanne Frances Charlot And Theodore Plummer Desloge To Be Wed in Early Autumn

Engagement to Be Formally Announced Tomorrow at a Cocktail Party at the La Jolla (Cal.) Home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ferguson Fowler—Fifty St. Louisans to Be Guests.

FIFTY St. Louisans, all spending the season in La Jolla, Cal., have been invited to the summer home there of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ferguson Fowler, 1363 Torrey road, for cocktails late tomorrow afternoon to be told of the engagement of Mrs. Fowler's daughter, Miss Jeanne Frances Charlot, and Theodore Plummer Desloge. Subsequently she became a member of the Junior League. This is the Fowler family's first summer in La Jolla. For several years the Fowlers have been members of the St. Louis colony at Harbor Point, Mich., where they have had a cottage. Their home here is at 43 Kingsbury place.

Mr. Desloge is the grandson of the second Firmin Desloge, who before his death in 1929 willed funds for the building of the Firmin Desloge Hospital of St. Louis University. The first Firmin Desloge moved to St. Francois County from France. The prospective bridegroom is a nephew of Joseph Desloge of Vouziers, Florissant, Mo., and is a brother of Firmin Desloge IV and William Desloge. His mother was Miss Rebecca Plummer.

Mr. Desloge is a graduate of Deerfield (Mass.) Academy and of Williams College, and is a member of the St. Louis Country, Stack and Lunch Clubs. He is associated with the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.

The wedding will take place in the early fall, and the bridal party will be announced soon after the return of Mr. and Mrs. Fowler and their family to St. Louis in September.

Manchester, Mass., July 31.

ESSEX COUNTY CLUB has been the scene of many pleasant events this summer. Besides the golf and tennis, there are the Saturday night dinner dances and the Friday duplicate bridge tournaments. Much interest has been shown in the ladies' invitation four-ball tournament which started Monday with a record breaking entry. Many large parties were given for the dinner dance last week. Miss Anne Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Weld Richardson of Brookline, Mass., had a party of 10. Included among her guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Glessner, Mr. and Mrs. Ingram Boyd Jr. and Luther Ely Smith Jr. of St. Louis.

Among the new comers at Manchester are Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Moore of St. Louis, who arrived last Friday to spend the rest of the summer at Graftonwood, Mrs. J. H. Lancashire's estate on the eastern end of Dana's Beach.

Mrs. John Glessner entertained yesterday at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Luther Ely Smith. Included among the guests were Mrs. Harry Wallace and Mrs. Robert Brookings of Washington.

Hundreds of people from up and down the shore visited the old Hale House in Beverly, a nearby town, last week, to attend the auction of a rare collection of antiques. The house, which was bought by the Beverly Historical Society, was built by the Rev. John Hale in 1694. The minister, when a charge of witchcraft was made against his wife, became convinced of the folly and wickedness of the crusade, and ended witch hunting in Beverly.

Annisquam, Mass.

MRS. HUGH McKITTRICK JONES entertained a group of friends at her summer residence last Saturday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Louis LaBeaume, who have been the guests of Mrs. Harry Wallace at Magnolia. Other visitors here last week included Miss Ritchie Sutton of Flushing, N. Y., who

Betty McMahon To Be Married To Dr. C. R. Doyle

Announcement Made at Douglas, Mich., Where Bride-Elect Is Spending Summer—Wedding in Fall.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday in Doulgas, Mich., of the engagement of Miss Betty McMahon, daughter of Mrs. John Francis McMahon, 4 North Kingshighway, and Dr. Charles Richard Doyle, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles P. Doyle of Lansing, Mich. The announcement was made informally to friends who are spending the summer at Douglas.

Miss McMahon received her early education at the Academy of the Sacred Heart, Maryland and Taylor avenues, and later attended Maryville College of the Sacred Heart. She is a member of the Junior League. She is a sister of Mrs. John R. Thomas, Mrs. Joseph Renard, Dr. Alphonse and Dr. Bernard J. McMahon and Joseph F. McMahon, all of St. Louis, and Gerard McMahon, now of Toledo, O. Her father died several years ago.

Dr. Doyle received his academic degree from Michigan State College, and his degree in medicine from the University of Michigan, after which he did graduate work for three years at the St. Louis university School of Medicine.

Definite arrangements for the wedding will be made in the fall, following the return of Mrs. McMahon and her daughter to St. Louis.

Beach Club Popular At Wequetonsing

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Wequetonsing, Mich., July 31.

AS THE season advances here, each week becomes gayer than its predecessor. One of the most attractive spots for entertaining is the Beach Club, set back on the sands of Lake Michigan with multicolored cabanas nearer the water. On Thursday nights buffet suppers are given, with two members presiding as hostesses. Cocktails are served either on the wide porch or in the cabanas, and games are played afterward. In the mornings the beach is dotted with children, who leave at 11 o'clock when their elders arrive for swims and luncheon, and return for late afternoons. In the evenings the young people have grilled suppers out-of-doors.

A farewell dinner was given last Saturday night by Mrs. Thomas Wright Pettus in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss Martha Pettus, who has gone to Cape Cod to visit friends. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Wight Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Smith and their guest, William Williams of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Terry. After the dinner the party moved to the Little Harbor Club for the weekly dance.

Mrs. Neill A. McMillan entertained a group of friends Sunday afternoon in honor of her guest, Mrs. Charles Whitehead, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carew. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Edmunds, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wells, Miss Minnie Scott, Mrs. Frank O. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles White Scudder, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Shapleigh and Mrs. George Welch Simmons. Among the younger set attending were Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Terry, Miss Martha Pettus, Mrs. Alonzo Christy Church, Mrs. Thomas Pettus and her guest, Mrs. Thomas Currie Noel.

Mr. Noel will join his wife this week-end. He is being accompanied north by John Hayward and Lee Johnson, who also will be guests at the Pettus home. Many parties are being planned in their honor.

Mrs. Clifton H. McMillan Jr., the former Miss Jane Wells, arrived Tuesday to spend the remainder of the summer with her father, Erastus Wells, and her sister, Miss Becky Wells. Mr. McMillan will be here Aug. 8.

Mrs. Rolla Wells was guest of honor at a dinner given Tuesday night by Mrs. Frank Watts, to celebrate Mrs. Wells' birthday anniversary. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Wells, guests included Mr. and Mrs. Scudder, Mr. and Mrs. Shapleigh, Frank C. Rand, Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison and Mrs. Sidney Maestre.

Mrs. Richard Baldwin arrived in Wequetonsing Tuesday morning with her children to open her summer home. Mr. Baldwin will join her in a few days, and her mother, Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman, will be here Thursday for a short stay before Mr. Steedman joins her. Mr. and Mrs. Steedman will spend the late season in Budapest grouse shooting.

Dr. and Mrs. O. P. J. Falk are here for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Peters at their cottage, and are being entertained extensively. Tuesday night, Mrs.

St. Louisans Hosts To Summer Visitors

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Grand Haven, Mich., July 31.

THE high winds on Lake Michigan last Sunday played havoc with many of the craft participating in the thirtieth annual Chicago to Mackinac sailing race, which was won by the Rubaiyat of Chicago. The summer residents had a chance to see the United States Coast Guard cutter Escanaba rescue some of the distressed boats. Thirty-four out of 42 were forced out of the race because of the storm.

The semi-finals of the Highland Park tennis tournament were played last Saturday. About 300 persons watched the match, which took place on courts high up in the woods overlooking Lake Michigan Among the spectators were Miss Sally Wright, Miss Jean Stewart, Miss Mary Louise Tobin and Robyn and Tommy Tobin of St. Louis. The finals, which were to have been played last Sunday, were postponed because of the storm.

A cocktail party will be given this evening by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. White and their daughter, Miss Elise. They will entertain about 60 friends, including many from St. Louis. The party will be the first large function the Whites have given since they purchased their new cottage on the North Shore. Among the St. Louisans who will be present are the following: Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Van Cleave, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Mitchell, and their daughter, Miss Nancy; Mr. and Mrs. John C. Tobin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard S Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lammert, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Conant, Mrs. Harold Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Carpenter Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James M. Carpenter III, Noel Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Pangman, Mr. and Mrs. Preston B. Postlethwaite and Mrs. and Mrs. Milton B. Strauss.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Hawes of the North Shore gave a cocktail party Saturday, July 24. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Postlethwaite and Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter and Judge and Mrs. Maurice Joyce.

Miss Nancy Mitchell was the guest of honor Wednesday at a cocktail party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Mitchell, at their home, Fern Hollow Farm, Spring Lake.

St. Louisans have been entertained at several cocktail parties given by residents of Spring Lake, who make their homes here the year round. Among the parties was one given Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. John Reichardt, at which Mr. and Mrs. White and their daughter, Miss Elise; Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and their daughter, Miss Nancy; Mrs. Strauss, Mr. and Mrs. Postlethwaite, Mr. and Mrs. Hawes, Mrs. Harold Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter Jr. and Noel Carpenter were present.

Mrs. John R. Shepley has returned to her summer home on the North Shore after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Albert T. Terry, at Pointe aux Barques, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter Jr., had as their guests for the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gale Barstow. St. Louis guests at a dinner for 35 young people given last week by Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter included Miss Martha Ann Day, Miss Nancy Mitchell and Miss Elise White. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter will have as their guest this week-end Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler of Chicago.

Members of the younger set gave a beach party Monday night in honor of Miss Nancy Leigh Bowes who left Tuesday for her home in Chicago, to prepare for her debut ball, which will be held in September.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Tobin, Miss Virginia Robyn and Mrs. J. E. Stewart motored to Muskegon Sunday to attend a concert given by 125 boys from the National Music Camp at Interlochen, under the direction of Percy Grainger. Mrs. Tobin is on the board of the Women's Committee of the St. Louis Symphony Society, which sends a student to this camp every summer.

Mrs. A. M. Farrell and her daughter, Miss Mary Jane, spent Wednesday at Grand Haven. They are staying at the Newcome's in South Haven. this summer.

Miss Mary Louise Tobin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Tobin, had as her guests Tuesday Miss Elizabeth Switzer, Miss Mary Louise Shaughnessy, Jack Stead and Jack O'Donnell, who are spending the summer at Douglas, Mich. William Sims, of St. Louis, is the guest of John C. Tobin Jr.

W. B. Woodward and F. C. Merker arrived last week to join their families here for a mid-summer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Weber Jr., arrived Sunday to spend a week with Mr. Weber's mother, Mrs. J. F. Weber. They were accompanied by Mrs. William Baker and her brother, Jack Powers. Mrs. Weber's sister, Miss Ollie Kohn of Montgomery, Ala., is expected at the end of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Morse and daughters, Dorothy and Frances, arrived Sunday to spend some time at the Highland Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Cronk and daughter, Jean and Mrs. Cronk's mother, Mrs. Aimee Troy arrived from St. Louis last week. Mrs. Cronk and her mother will remain for the rest of the season. Mr. Cronk will come to the resort for week-ends.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hill and sons, Leto and Tommy, were also among last week's arrivals at Grand Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Granger and two children are guests at the Highland Park Hotel. They will remain until the middle of August.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wissmath ar-

Vacationists Attend Concert and Theater At Wisconsin Resort

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Fish Creek, Wis., July 31.

THE Alec Templeton Concert Wednesday evening was such a success that the Door County Artist's Concert Association plans to develop a permanent program of summer musical entertainment.

Although the audience of more than 700 permanent and summer residents demonstrated their appreciation of Mr. Templeton's technique as a pianist, they were most enthusiastic in applauding his remarkable creative ability.

Miss Marietta Muckerman of St. Louis and Egg Harbor, was among the members of the popular younger set who assisted the committee on arrangements. Following the concert she was included on the guest list of those who gathered at the Ephraim home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hanan DeMuth. There Mr. Templeton, the guest of honor, entertained the 50 or more present with informal musical impressions, interpretations and caricatures. He left Ephraim early Thursday to resume his broadcasting work in New York City.

The Peninsula Players, in less than a month, have established themselves as the vicinity's best dramatic attraction. Capacity audiences are finding their way each week to this secluded natural theater surrounded by dense evergreens.

Flagstone steps built of native Door County limestone lead from the parking lot down the hillside to the open auditorium. Comfortable deck chairs, unusual lighting effects, and excellent acoustics add to the enjoyment of spectators. The "Seven Sea Birds," written by Richard Wylie Fisher, production manager of the theater, was to have been presented this week-end but has been postponed until Aug. 15 and 16.

Lectures are being give each week by Mrs. Harry Higgins of Kirkwood. By request Mrs. Higgins has enlarged her program to include a series of book reviews at Welkers' Resort each Sunday evening, at the Ephraim summer home of Mrs. John Matter of Winnetka, on Tuesday mornings, and at the Alpine in Egg Harbor two evenings each week.

St. Louisans at Thorps who are participating in the round of summer activities include Mrs. James G. Conzelman. Her young daughter, Carol, and her mother, Mrs. Caroline Garstman of Springfield, Ill., are with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schultz of St. Louis, with their sons, the Rev. Harold Schultz and Frederick, an Amherst student, recently opened their home in the village. Another son, Ernest Jr., sailed for Europe the middle of July.

Mrs. Herman Schultz arrived this week to occupy her summer cottage after spending the early part of the season in Los Angeles, Cal. There she visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Erdhaus. Before her marriage in St. Louis early this spring, Mrs. Erdhaus was Miss Helen Ann Schultz. Mrs. Emily F. Eberle of Webster Groves, a sister of Mrs. Schultz, has been vacationing at Thorps.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Hardy of St. Louis, motored up last week to place their son at the Adventure Island boys' camp where he will spend his third season.

Dr. and Mrs. Barney Brooks and their daughter are arriving this week from Nashville, Tenn., to be at Thorps for the remainder of the season. They return to Fish Creek each summer where they meet former St. Louis friends.

Camp Notes.

WINNERS have been announced for the first major annual camp event to be completed this season. First honors in the junior tennis tournament were awarded to Mary Ann MacCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. MacCarthy and niece of Mrs. Catherine Orr Nulsen, and to Reba Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stone. Both are St. Louis girls and both are daughters of former Meenahga campers.

Ephraim, Wis.

MRS. R. S. HOOD JR. of Clayton gave a luncheon Wednesday of last week at Maxwelton Braes on the Lake Michigan shore in honor of Mrs. Edmund Eitel of Highland Park. The guests included Mrs. James G. Conzelman, St. Louis; Mrs. John Matter, Winnetka, Ill.; Mrs. Arthur Byfield, Highland Park, Ill., and Mrs. Edward Jacobs and Mrs. Norton Wilson, Shreveport, La. Later in the week Mrs. Hood entertained at a cocktail party in Ephraim in honor of her guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Blackstad of St. Louis, who were here for the week-end. Miss Dottie Jane Blackstad is remaining for an extended vacation with Miss Harriet Hood. Miss Ethel Kemler of St. Louis has also been a guest of the Hoods this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harvey arrived last Sunday to occupy the cottage owned by the former's sister, Miss Augusta Harvey, who is spending the summer in Maine.

Anne Trask Thomson To Be Wed Next Month

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Thomson, 6377 Wydown boulevard, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anne Trask Thomson, to Ernest Goodwin Locker of Cleveland, O., formerly of Tampa, Fla., and St. Louis. The wedding will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomson at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, Sept. 4.

Miss Thomson was graduated from Mary Institute and attended Smith College. Mr. Locker attended the University of Virginia. He and his bride will make their home in Cleveland.

Large Summer Colony at La Jolla Is Entertained at Many Social Affairs

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

La Jolla, Cal., July 31.

ONE of the jolliest affairs of the season was the annual artists' and Models party at La Jolla Beach Club Wednesday night. The patio was decorated as an out of door tropical cafe. Guests arrived masked and in costume, with the most attractive model being awarded a portrait done by Earl McPherson, local portrait painter. More than 200 guests were served dinner. St. Louisans among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Trustin B. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Flynn, Miss Janet Orthwein, Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner and William K. Gardner.

Sunday found most of the St. Louis summer visitors spending the day at the Beach Club. On the beach were Mrs. James Lee Johnson and Mrs. John H. Hayward and their children; Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. WASHINGTON SCENE

By the POE SISTERS

IT seems as if it were only yesterday that Miss Sylvia Szechenyi was the little girl of the Hungarian legation in Washington when her father was Hungary's Minister to the United States, but she has made her debut in Budapest and is a member of the debutante colony in Newport this summer.

Washington debutantes are hoping she will figure in the debut festivities here this fall, for Miss Sylvia was popular with the girls making their first bows to American society this year. She was one of the pretty Szechenyi girls, who were among the first of the very young set to wear long silken party dresses, the vogue here with sub debutatnes a few seasons ago.

Washington recalls with pleasure the attractive picture Count and Countess Szechenyi, the letter formerly Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, made with their lovely daughters as they went for afternoon strolls through Rock Creek Park. All walked briskly and the Countess and her daughters always represented sartorial excellence.

Another diplomat who is a walker is Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador to the United States. Sir Ronald, who is extremely tall and athletic in appearance, counts that day lost in which he does not walk five or six miles. Usually he is accompanied by Boondoggle, his pet dog, a frisky Scotch terrier which follows close to his master's heels except when lured by a chase after a rabbit.

Nothing really delights stay-at-homes in Washington this summer more than to receive letters from wandering friends telling of other Washingtonians seen here, there and everywhere on the European social front.

From London comes word that London is still cordial to Americans and the life that centers around the American Women's Club there is pleasant and interesting. Another center for Washington folk is the headquarters of the English Speaking Union, where members may be put up for a limited stay in cozy guest rooms.

At the American Woman's Club, the genius of the place is Mrs. Herbert French, familiar to Washington as Miss Helen Healy, a frequent visitor from Boston, who is at the helm due to the illness of Mrs. Curtis Brown, the club's president. Directors of the club include Mrs. Byron Clark, Mrs. Robert Moseley and Mrs. Frank Mason.

Another hospitable home in London where Americans are often entertained is that of Dr. and Mrs. Warren Pearl. Dr. Pearl is the physician of the American Consulate and Mrs. Pearl lends their house for so many meetings that it is regarded as a center of charity activities in London. She has the reputation for serving the best coffee in the British capital, and that is a lure that few can resist.

Mrs. Frederick Sterling, formerly Miss Dorothy Williams, sister of Mrs. Joseph Leiter, is much in the social foreground in Paris as the wife of one of the American commissioners to the exposition now in progress there. Paris is filled with Americans just now drawn there by the exposition and because of the fact that through the low rate of exchange, shopping is a delightful and economical experience for anyone with plenty of Uncle Sam's 59-cent dollars.

News of the brisk fighting in and around Peiping has pitched the talk at the clubs to war stories. One of the best told here last week was about Gen. Joe Wheeler of Alabama who had the unusual distinction of twice winning military fame, the first time in the Confederate Army and the second time in the Spanish American war.

Gen. Wheeler was in the House of Representatives several terms, and he was as fiery an orator as he was a fighter. At the time of the Spanish American war he was above the age of military service, but persuaded President McKinley to give him a commission.

The Cuban heat proved to be a little too much for him. At the Battle of Santiago, Gen. Wheeler, who was ill, went to the battle in an ambulance. Things were going wrong, and he jumped out of the ambulance, mounted his horse and led the charge.

In the excitement of the battle, forgetting where he was and what he was, he shouted to his men in blue, "The Yankees are running; they are leaving their guns," and then remembering where and what he was, he exclaimed: "O, damn it, I didn't mean the Yankees. I meant the Spaniards."

"Nobody's in town," moan some of the unobservant. The answer might be: "There's nobody in town these hot July days except the President of the United States, most of Congress and the Cabinet, the chatelaines of official and congressional households, etc., etc., etc."

In a single day, the Poe sisters found these personages and personalities who make news still enduring life under Washington's more or less torrid sun: Madame Cantacuzene-Grant, granddaughter of Gen. Grant, cool and handsome as usual, lunching in a downtown restaurant; Admiral Mark Bristol, strolling bareheaded near Fifteenth and H. streets, northwest, clad in a light tan suit, cream-colored shirt and blue tie; Senator Rush D. Holt of West Virginia and his pretty sister, Miss Jane Holt, walking briskly from a busy day at the Capitol through the park, Miss Jane in a white sport dress, worn with a white silk sport hat, chatting away merrily about politics and people and winning a smile or two from her grave brother; Representative Edith Nourse Rogers taking an early morning walk, as pretty as ever in a white silk dress and wide-

From London comes word that London is still cordial to Americans and the life that centers around the American Women's Club there is pleasant and interesting. Another center for Washington folk is the headquarters of the English Speaking Union, where members may be put up for a limited stay in cozy guest rooms.

At the American Woman's Club, the genius of the place is Mrs. Herbert French, familiar to Washington as Miss Helen Healy, a frequent visitor from Boston, who is at the helm due to the illness of Mrs. Curtis Brown, the club's president. Directors of the club include Mrs. Byron Clark, Mrs. Robert Moseley and Mrs. Frank Mason.

Another hospitable home in London where Americans are often entertained is that of Dr. and Mrs. Warren Pearl. Dr. Pearl is the physician of the American Consulate and Mrs. Pearl lends their house for so many meetings that it is regarded as a center of charity activities in London. She has the reputation for serving the best coffee in the British capital, and that is a lure that few can resist.

Mrs. Frederick Sterling, formerly Miss Dorothy Williams, sister of Mrs. Joseph Leiter, is much in the social foreground in Paris as the wife of one of the American commissioners to the exposition now in progress there. Paris is filled with Americans just now drawn there by the exposition and because of the fact that through the low rate of exchange, shopping is a delightful and economical experience for anyone with plenty of Uncle Sam's 59-cent dollars.

News of the brisk fighting in and around Peiping has pitched the talk at the clubs to war stories. One of the best told here last week was about Gen. Joe Wheeler of Alabama who had the unusual distinction of twice winning military fame, the first time in the Confederate Army and the second time in the Spanish American war.

Gen. Wheeler was in the House of Representatives several terms, and he was as fiery an orator as he was a fighter. At the time of the Spanish American war he was above the age of military service, but persuaded President McKinley to give him a commission.

The Cuban heat proved to be a little too much for him. At the Battle of Santiago, Gen. Wheeler, who was ill, went to the battle in an ambulance. Things were going wrong, and he jumped out of the ambulance, mounted his horse and led the charge.

In the excitement of the battle, forgetting where he was and what he was, he shouted to his men in blue, "The Yankees are running; they are leaving their guns," and then remembering where and what he was, he exclaimed: "O, damn it, I didn't mean the Yankees. I meant the Spaniards."

"Nobody's in town," moan some of the unobservant. The answer might be: "There's nobody in town these hot July days except the President of the United States, most of Congress and the Cabinet, the chatelaines of official and congressional households, etc., etc., etc."

In a single day, the Poe sisters found these personages and personalities who make news still enduring life under Washington's more or less torrid sun: Madame Cantacuzene-Grant, granddaughter of Gen. Grant, cool and handsome as usual, lunching in a downtown restaurant; Admiral Mark Bristol, strolling bareheaded near Fifteenth and H. streets, northwest, clad in a light tan suit, cream-colored shirt and blue tie; Senator Rush D. Holt of West Virginia and his pretty sister, Miss Jane Holt, walking briskly from a busy day at the Capitol through the park, Miss Jane in a white sport dress, worn with a white silk sport hat, chatting away merrily about politics and people and winning a smile or two from her grave brother; Representative Edith Nourse Rogers taking an early morning walk, as pretty as ever in a white silk dress and wide-brimmed sport hat, and Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor, shopping industriously for house linen and enjoying a luncheon of salad and ice cream in a downtown department store restaurant.

Alonzo Church entertained them at dinner, at which guests included Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clifford of St. Louis, and Mrs. Frank Graydon and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Quackenbush of Cincinnati. Wednesday night, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clifford gave a similar party, after which the eight guests attended the dance at the Little Harbor Club. Thursday night, Mr. and Mrs. Peters gave a party—a supper at the Beach Club. Dr. Falk will return to St. Louis Saturday, but Mrs. Falk will remain for a longer visit with Mrs. Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford's daughter, Miss Mary Francis, is entertaining Miss Mary Niedringhaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom K. Niedringhaus Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Niedringhaus, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Dumont Dempsey, have arrived to visit Mrs. Helen Johnson Niedringhaus. Mrs. Dempsey's brother, Bob Simpson, is visiting Spencer McCourtney Jr., at his family's cottage.

At the fashion show held Monday at the Little Harbor Club, one of the larger luncheons was given by Mrs. Charles Scudder. Mrs. Scudder is expecting her daughter, Mrs. Earl Reynolds of Chicago, to arrive soon, and early this month will have with her, her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Scudder.

Tuesday night Mrs. Frank A. Thompson gave a large party at the Beach Club for the younger set in honor of her daughter, Miss Noel. In another group the hostess entertained a group of her own friends.

Kimball Battie will arrive Sunday to join his mother for several weeks. His sister, Mrs. James Bemis of Prescott, Ark., is here for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Prewitt have as guests Miss Maybelle Jamison and James Spencer. They will be guests of honor at a cocktail party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Prewitt Sunday night.

Visiting in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Scott, 3867 Shaw boulevard, and their daughter, Miss Mary Jane, have left today for New York where they will spend some time visiting.

Spending Week in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil D. Palmer, 7287 Delmar boulevard, left Friday for Chicago to spend a week at the Edgewater Beach Hotel. Later they will go to South Haven, Mich., to visit two weeks at Belvedere Beach.

Round of Parties For Visitors at Pointe Aux Barques

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

POINTE AUX BARQUES has become very gay. Resorters are realizing that summer already is half gone. They are hastening to do the entertaining they have been meaning to do, and to invite those house-guests whom they have been intending to invite. Last Saturday there was a continuous round of parties. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Murray W. Sales of Grosse Pointe, Mich. entertained at a small cocktail party. The St. Louisans present included Mrs. John R. Shepley and her mother, Mrs. Albert T. Terry, Mrs. Edward G. Hotchkiss, Mrs. A. Rowe A. Gareshe, Mrs. Robert Whittemore Knapp, Mrs. John Brodhead and Mrs. Henry Farnsworth Bisbee. In the evening Mrs. Boyer Candler, also of Grosse Pointe, Mich. entertained at a large dinner in honor of Mr. Candler's birthday anniversary. It was preceded by a cocktail party given by Mrs. Fred Johnson of Bay City, Mich. Almost all the St. Louisans in the colony attended both parties. Later Mrs. C. Cabanne Smith and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Borders gave a highball party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jago of Houston, Tex. The weekly dance at the clubhouse was the finale to the day's gaities.

Last Friday the Terry family had an unexpected family reunion. Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw T. Terry and their small son, Whitelaw T. Terry Jr. motored over from Wequetonsing where they have taken a cottage for the summer, to spend the night with Mr. Terry's mother, Mrs. Albert T. Terry. Just as they arrived, Mrs. Terry's daughter, Mrs. Shepley and her son, Terry, arrived. Mrs. Shepley and her three children have been spending the summer as Grand Haven, in a cottage which she and Mr. Shepley have taken for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw T. Terry and their son motored back to Wequetonsing on Saturday, where Mr. Terry will remain with them until Aug. 1, when he will return to St. Louis. Mrs. Shepley and her son remained here until Monday morning when they returned to Grand Haven.

On the evening of July 23 the younger set found a novel form of entertainment in a hay ride. Dressed in slacks and overalls, the merrymakers gathered early in the evening, climbed on the old hay wagon and rumbled away to spend several hours riding about the countryside, stopping periodically for ice cream and soft drinks. Among the 40 or so who participated, were Miss Janet Brodhead, William and John Brodhead, their guest, Miss Dorothy Peabody of Detroit, Robert W. Knapp Jr., Miss Patricia Bisbee and Rowe and William Bisbee.

Thursday morning, Miss Susie Thompson, who has been visiting her sisters, Mrs. C. Cabanne Smith and Mrs. William A. Borders, motored to Wequetonsing, to be the guest of her father, Guy A. Thompson, and Mrs. Thompson. She is expected to return to Pointe Aux Barques Monday.

Miss Barbara Brodhead had as her guest over the week-end Gordon Wood of Detroit. Miss Dorothy Peabody of Detroit, who has been visiting the Brodheads for several weeks, departed Tuesday for Detroit.

Last Sunday, Mrs. Henry F. Bisbee entertained a group of friends at a cocktail party. Miss Patricia Bisbee has as her guest Miss Mary Eleanor Hyatt of Glencoe, Ill. Miss Hyatt is a classmate of Miss Bisbee at Wells College. Mrs. Francis Rooney of Muskogee, Ok., who was visiting Mrs. Bisbee departed last week.

Mrs. Robert W. Knapp was hostess at a cocktail party Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jago of Houston, Tex. Guests included Miss Susie Thompson, Mrs. C. Cabanne Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Borders, Mrs. John Brodhead, Mrs. Edward H. Hotchkiss, Mrs. A. Rowe a Gareshe and Mrs. Henry F. Bisbee. The next afternoon, Mrs. A. Rowe A. Gareshe, entertained the same group, with the addition of a few Detroiters, at her house. Mrs. Henry F. Bisbee organized a beach supper Thursday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jago.

Wednesday evening, Mrs. Robert W. Knapp were host and hostess at a small buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Toberman have just returned to the Points. Mrs. Toberman had been here several weeks, but went back to St. Louis to attend the wedding of Miss Helen Elizabeth Meek and Earl V. Kessinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana von Schrader have rented a cottage here for the remainder of the season. They are expected to arrive tomorrow.

Dr. and Mrs. Elsworth S. Smith are expecting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Platt Smith, Aug. 20, to spend two weeks with them.

HARBOR BEACH, Mich., July 31.—The Harbor Beach Casino is the scene of all the large gatherings. Last Saturday a keno party—always a popular form of entertainment here—was held at the Casino. More than 60 members of the colony attended. It was preceded by several small cocktail parties. Last Friday, the weekly dance was held in the Casino.

Grace Connor to Be Wed To Clifton C. Hutchison

THE engagement of Miss Grace Connor, daughter of Mrs. Charles H. Kerns of Long Island, N. Y., and Clifton C. Hutchison was announced yesterday afternoon at a tea given from 4 to 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Eugene L. Wetterer, 7754 Davis drive, a friend of Miss Connor's. Mrs. Kerns is formerly of St. Louis, and her daughter has recently been making her home here with her aunt, Mrs. J. O. Farney, 5843 Enright avenue.

Mrs. Wetterer and Miss Connor were assisted in receiving guests by Mrs. Clifton R. Hutchison, 927 Laurel avenue, mother of the prospective bridegroom, by Mrs. John P. Hauff, his sister, and Miss Dorothy Wetterer, daughter of the hostess.

White roses and blue delphinium formed the centerpiece for the tea table where Mrs. Lawrence A. Kriegshauser, Mrs. William B. Dimond, Mrs. Paul Smith, Mrs. Ralph L. Schmitt, Miss Emily Huthsing and Miss Bernadine Pendleton served.

Miss Connor attended the Academy of the Visitation and Fontbonne College here and Mr. Hutchison attended St. Louis University. The wedding will take place sometime this next spring.

cast of the Farragut Players this week in "Candlelight," at the Farragut Playhouse. Miss Block appeared in several of the Farragut Players' productions last season.

E. Lansing Ray arrived from St. Louis this week to spend the rest of the summer with his family at their summer home on the Sea road.

Ogunquit, Me.

THE midsummer exhibition of the Ogunquit Art Association opened this week at a private view and tea at the Barn Gallery. Mrs. Merrell Walbridge of Scarsdale, N. Y., formerly of St. Louis, was one of the hostesses. Among the exhibitors was Miss Grace Morrill of St. Louis, who showed a group of landscapes. The gallery is in the barn of the oldest hotel in Ogunquit, where the sea captains stayed many years ago. A lecture is given in the Barn Gallery every week. This week's lecturer was Miss Mildred Burrage, who talked on Guatemalan handicraft, illustrated by her own collection. Miss Elizabeth Behr and Miss Jean Tanner modeled some of the native costumes. Tea was served by members of the Junior Auxiliary.

Mrs. Harry W. Stegall of St. Louis, who recently returned from a trip around the world, is a guest at the Look Out Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Alexander spent a few days in Agunquit this week before going to Martha's Vineyard, Mass., where they have taken a cottage for August. Mr. and Mrs. George Stout and their son, Hugh, expect to spend the month of August there.

Many St. Louisans Go to Cape Cod For Mid-Summer

Wing Bards of Clinton, Ia., came to preside at the meetings of the Wing Family of America, Inc. Reminiscences of old Cape Cod days and the history of Sandwich glass were discussed. From Sandwich the Wing family and other visitors on the cape will motor to West Falmouth to view the display of old pewter which is on exhibition under the auspices of the Society of Friends, a Quaker organization.

This has been a week of bazaars and sales. Many patronized the annual bazaar at Woods Hole of the Woman's League. A notable social function of the summer season here is the bazaar for the Church Work Association of the Church of the Messiah. For more than 50 summers women in this section have lent their assistance to this work.

Mrs. Boyle O. Rodes and Mrs. Thomas Ratcliffe are assisting with the library benefit performance of "Joan of Arc," to be given by children of the summer colony under professional direction, at the spacious residence of Mrs. Richard Peter Warbasse, where all private theatricals in Woods Hole take place.

One of the 200 or more crafts in Edgartown harbor last week-end was the Lila Ana, owned by Samuel Plant of St. Louis. Those on board watched the 22 racing groups try for the cups over a period of two days. On board with Mr. and Mrs. Plant were Miss Brooke Conley, Frederick, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. G. Raikes, London, England. Mr. and Mrs. Raikes, who are traveling in this country, came from Boston to Woods Hole to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Plant over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Plant, after joining the fleet at the Eastern Yacht Clubs for the maneuvers from Mattapoisset to Vineyard Haven, left Wednesday for Newport for the international race which begins today. Mr. and Mrs. Plant will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benoist, who are at their summer home at Jamestown, R. I., aboard their yacht while anchored at Newport. From there they will sail to Watch Hill, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams, then to Southampton to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall. From there they will go to Easthampton where they will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin G. Chapman aboard the Lila Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Nims had a party on board the Mayflower last Saturday to review the regatta at Edgartown. Mrs. Nims' niece, Mrs. Bruce Crane aboard her yacht Lightning, towed some of the sail boats competing for the prize over and back, all of them representing the Woods Hole Yacht Club.

In the Wianno First Division Miss Jean Hinkle piloted her Fantasy over the line in sixth place. She is the sister-in-law of Mrs. James Gaff Hinkle, Brookline and Osterville, Mass., the former Miss Mary Francis Dickson of St. Louis.

Mrs. Edmund Vincent Cowdry and Mrs. Boyle O. Rodes motored to Wianno Wednesday for luncheon with Mrs. Louis Burlingham and Mrs. Chouteau Dyer. Mrs. Burlingham and Mrs. Dyer have adjoining cottages there for the season.

Dr. and Mrs. Leo Loeb of St. Louis are still guests in Woods Hole where they are visiting Mrs. Loeb's mother and sister. Dr. Loeb is doing research work at the Marine Biological Laboratory.

The Junior Assembly, a group of 25 young people, held the second meeting of the season Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Henry Kidder of New York. Vincent Cowdry Jr. and Miss Emogene Bryan, niece of Eugene D. Nims, are members of the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Zantzinger of Philadelphia have joined the Woods Hole summer colony for the remainder of the season. They are occupying Lotawana Lodge, the summer residence of Mrs. Thomas G. Ratcliffe.

Nantucket, Mass.

THERE is a book "95 Per Cent Perfect," just off the press which tells how nearly perfect the old houses of Nantucket are architecturally. When builders, carpenters and architects meet representing a civic organization to keep the beauty and proportion of all future building, one is convinced of the civic pride and interest of this quaint place to keep its traditions. A certain style and type of architecture has been adopted and while it is not compulsory it will be generally followed. In 1659 white men discounting Indian legends describing Nantucket as "a faraway island and a place of many shoals," made the 30-mile sail and settled the island. Today it is a popular resort with many St. Louisans who come here year after year.

Miss Betty Caulk, who has been the guest of Miss Martha Nicolaus, daughter of Louis J. Nicholaus, of St. Louis, who is spending the summer at Nantucket will return today to Woods Hole, where her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John R. Caulk, have a summer home. Miss Nicolaus was hostess at a farewell party for Miss Caulk yesterday which was attended by many of the St. Louisans summering on the island.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Green, John A. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Humphrys of Pittsburgh, who are at Hyannisport, came over on Mr. Green's boat "Kennat," to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore O. Hess, who are at the summer home of Mrs. Hess' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gwynne Evans of St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. John Valle Janes entertained the visitors while they were in Nantucket at luncheon at the Aamscuit House. Additional guests included Miss Martha Nicolaus, Miss Betty Caulk, Mr. and Mrs. Hess and Edgar Lackland Taylor Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Janes now have as their guest Joseph Drew of St. Louis. Miss Geraldine Shepard will return to Watch Hill tomorrow, after a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Hess.

Mr. Hess and Mr. Janes gave a beach party last Saturday night at Sancaty Head under the shadow of the Sancaty Light House, a beacon on the end of Nantucket. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Hess and Mr. and Mrs. Janes, Mrs. Donaldson L. Lambert and Mrs. George Dobler of St. Louis, attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas White gave a dinner Tuesday night at the Sancaty Head Golf Club. Mr. and Mrs. James Walter Harris, Mrs. Dobler and Mrs. Herbert Corryngham were guests. Mr. and Mrs. White will give a dinner dance tonight at the Yacht Club. Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Miller, F. H. Brattney of New York, Mrs. Dobler and Mr. and Mrs. James Carre of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley White, who have been on the island for 10 days, are at the artist colony of Siasconset. They gave a dinner Wednesday at the Skipper on the wharf. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of Washington. Mrs. Miller, a niece of Mrs. Forest Ferguson, made her debut in St. Louis at a ball given by Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ashley, formerly of St. Louis, who are summering in Marion, Mass., at the Cotauset Club, will come to Nantucket Aug. 10 to be guests of Mrs. Dobler at the Nantucket House. With them will be Miss Marjorie Ewing of St. Louis. Mrs. Dobler is planning a beach party for the guests to which St. Louisans on the island will be invited. A dinner will also be given for Mrs. Dobler's guests at the White Elephant, after which the party will dance at the Jettys.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Philip Hilts have opened their estate at Siasconset.

Hyannisport, Mass.

BERNARD SHEA HORNE of Pittsburgh recently joined his wife and young daughters, Kathleen and Nancy, for a short visit at the summer home of Mrs. Horne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Sheldon of St. Louis. While playing golf with his father-in-law and Robert Coit Day on the Hyannisport course, Mr. Horne made a hole-in-one on the short fifth hole. It was his first in a year.

Mrs. Arthur D. Calfee of New York has returned home after spending July at the summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clare H. Draper of Boston. Mr. Calfee is a former St. Louisan. His mother, Mrs. Joseph S. Calfee of St. Louis, is at Hotel Sagamore at Lake George, N. Y., following a week in New York where she stayed at the Junior League Club in the Waldorf-Astoria.

Miss Alice Coit Day is expected to arrive today to be the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coit Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson Barstow, who have been touring Canada and Maine, arrived Monday to join Mrs. Barstow's brother, Dunham Dodge, at their summer home.

Mrs. Koehler Carr is spending 10 days at the attractive seaside cottage of Mrs. Robert Holmes in West Hyannisport. Mrs. Holmes' son, John A. Holmes, left Thursday to sepnd 10 days in St. Louis. He will return in August for a month's stay.

Wianno, Mass.

THE Monday night dinner dances at the Wianno Yacht Club this summer are attended by many members of the younger set summering here. Miss Polly Walsh and Miss Alicia Polk of St. Louis, who are guests at the Wianno Club, gave a beach party this week. Their guests were Miss Delphine Polk and Miss Jean Kiley, whom she is visiting at the Kiley summer home, John and Roger Kiley, Paul Brightman, William Madden, Melville Hardwick and Howard Ferguson.

John Kiley's boat, "El Cid," took third place in the Wianno Second Division, at the fourteenth annual regatta of the Edgartown Yacht Club last week, covering the 8.2 miles in two hours, 26 minutes and 20 seconds.

Leslie Dana arrived here Monday to join Mrs. Dana at their summer residence, "Dana Dune." Mrs. Channing MacGregory Wells Jr. of Boston is at her cottage, which adjoins that of her parents. Mr. Wells' parents are also at their summer home at the Wianno seaside.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana will leave in a few days to visit another daughter, Mrs James Ward Thorne Jr., and her children, at West Port, Conn. Mrs. Thorne will return to Wianno with her parents for an extended visit.

Yarmouthport, Mass.

MR. AND MRS. F. EWING GLASGOW gave a theater party Monday night at the Cape Playhouse to see "The Petrified Forest," in which Phillips Holmes was playing. Mrs. Paul Bakewell Jr. and her son, Francis, of St. Louis, were among the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Glasgow gave a dinner at their summer cottage here Tuesday night for 14 guests and the same day Mrs. Glasgow was hostess at luncheon at the Beach Club, Wianno, in honor of Mrs. Kenneth Carr, who is the guest of Mrs. Robert A. Holmes.

On Yarmouthport's avenue of cathedral elms called the Kingshighway, stands the Anchorage, a modern wayside inn, where Miss Edith Souther and Miss Mildred McCluney of St. Louis are at home to their friends. It is here St. Louisans gather from all parts of Cape Cod for luncheons, teas and dinners. The guesthouse is more than 150 years old and its architecture is traceable to houses in Devon and Cornwall.

Dr. E. J. Emmons of Boston and his family dined at the Anchorage Tuesday. He is a member of a St. Louis family and is known to many St. Louis friends.

Mrs. Chouteau Dyer, who has a summer home at Wianno, is a frequent visitor at the Anchorage, and last Wednesday lunched there in the garden with Miss Mary Mitchell of St. Louis.

Chatham, Mass.

DR. STANLEY BURNS has joined Mrs. Burns and their daughters, Miss Virginia and Miss Nanon, at the summer home of Mrs. Hartwell N. Lyon, the Lyon's Den on Sunset avenue.

Dennis, Mass.

MR. AND MRS. CEVEDRA D. BLAKE reached their summer residence here July 17. Their son, Oliver Blake, who has been in China for the past year, joined them two days later. Mr. and Mrs. Blake are among the patrons of the Playhouse in Dennis.

The Congregational Church in South Dennis dedicated the Blashfield mural and the John Swetzler organ, the oldest in America, this week. A Blashfield room contains 76 carefully selected photographs of the artist's work. Dr. Donald B. Aldrich, of New York, presided.

Osterville, Mass.

MR. AND MRS. OSCAR L. BIEBINGER have as their guest Mrs. Hugh Murray French of St. Louis, who will remain with them for two weeks. Their daughter, Mrs. E. E. Morris of Rochester, N. Y., is also visiting them. Mrs. T. H. Parkhurst of Maplewood, N. J., who has been Mr. and Mrs. Biebinger's guest, has returned home for a week, when she will return to the Biebinger home on East Bay road and Bates avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Pollnows and their children, Frank Jr., Clara Ann, Shirley, Vestal and Charles have arrived. Frank has purchased a C-boat and last Sunday, in one of the worst blows of the season, won the C-class race at the Spring Lake Yacht Club. They have as guests Mrs. F. F. Freesmeir and daughter, Jean; W. Loudon and C. Snyder.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Combs, who have been coming to Oval Inn for the past 10 years, arrived last Wednesday to spend a week.

Mrs. W. S. Thomas is visiting her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Thomas. Mr. Thomas is expected to spend a few days at the cottage they have taken for the season later in the summer.

Mrs. Thomas W. Parry of St. Louis will be the guest soom of Mrs. Milton Duvall.

Mrs. A. F. Fay, who has been spending the summer here, had as her guests last Thursday, Mrs. Edgar Hunting, Mrs. Louise Brayton, Mrs. Fred Deane, Mrs. Phillip Travis of Grand Rapids and Miss Elizabeth Dyer of St. Louis. Her daughter, Mrs. W. K. Fuhri, and son William, will return next week to their home in Fort Worth, Tex., after spending the month at Sunset Lodge. Mrs. Fuhri was formerly Miss Elizabeth Fay and lived in St. Louis until her marriage.

Mrs. William M. Houser and Mrs. J. Soule Smith of St. Louis are spending the summer at William Chadbourne Houser's cottage. Mr. Smith has returned to St. Louis after spending two weeks. Mr. Houser is expected next week to spend the remainder of the season here.

Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Postlethwaite, Mrs. C. C. Pangman and Mrs. A. E. White were entertained at a tea Wednesday afternoon given by Mrs. Claude C. Hopkins, who lives on Spring Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Rollins entertained at a barbecue supper at their home on Spring Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Van Cleave, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Poslethwaite and Mrs. Hawes, were guests.

Charlevoix Parties After Yacht Races

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Charlevoix, Mich., July 31.

THE ANNUAL Chicago and Port Huron to Mackinac Island races were held last week-end. Many St. Louisans were in Mackinac Harbor to witness the finish of what has become the most spectacular inland yachting event in the country. Craft from the Chicago and Detroit yacht clubs raced against time for supremacy in their various classes on the Great Lakes.

Owners of rival boats, deck lights gleaming and flags flying from mast tops, entertained visitors and yachtsmen for cocktails, with small motor boats transporting guests from one boat to another. These parties preceded the annual ball held at Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel. A terrific storm broke soon after the yachts left Chicago and, one by one, as the hazard increased, the boats took refuge in various harbors. The storm lasted three days and only two boats from Chicago and one from Detroit crossed the harbor finish line.

Monday and Tuesday Lake Charlevoix Harbor held the largest fleet of its history. More than 60 lighted and decorated yachts and cruisers steamed in, homeward bound from the races. Many parties were given for the visitors. The events ended Tuesday evening with the annual Venetian parade of boats by moonlight to the music of a large orchestra on board one of the yachts. At midnight a dance was held at the Beach Hotel for yachtsmen and their guests. The following morning at 10 o'clock, sirens, bells and salutes signaled the departure of the fleet into Lake Michigan to continue the journey homeward.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldo A. Layman of Winnetka, Ill., formerly of St. Louis, have arrived to spend the summer in their cottage on the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Dixon, accompanied by their sub-debutante daughter, Marjorie, are occupying the James B. Balch cottage for the season. Miss Marjorie is an excellent swimmer and spends much of her time on the beach.

Richard Moss of the Country Club grounds, Belleville, arrived Sunday, with his daughter, Mary Stella and Susan, to join Mrs. Moss, who arrived earlier in the season. A nephew, Cletus Cannavan of Belleville, arrived Tuesday.

John Knight entertained 20 guests at a surprise dinner Sunday evening at the Red Fox Tavern 30 miles across the lake, in honor of Mrs. Knight's birthday anniversary. The party cruised to its destination on board Mr. Knight's new boat.

The Dillworth Lodge on Lake Charlevoix was the scene of a luncheon given Wednesday by Mrs. John Grasell of Chicago. Among her guests were Mrs. John Wallace Fristoe, Mrs. Richard Vernon Clark, Mrs. Leonard Matthews, Mrs. William N. Bemis, Mrs. Charles B. Fox and Mrs. Samuel Pingree, all of St. Louis.

Charles B. Fox, accompanied by his son, Charles Smith Fox, motored to Charlevoix Thursday to celebrate the first birthday of his grandson, Charles D'Arcy Fox. Mr. Fox will return after the week-end and Charles Fox will remain with his family during August.

William Witherspoon will return to St. Louis tomorrow after spending two weeks with his mother in her cottage on the First Terrace.

The annual golf tournament of the Belvedere Golf Club will be held during the week of Aug. 17. The trophies are now on display in the lounge of the club. The low medalist prize is a bronze golf bag on a pedestal, donated by D. P. Richards of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin P. Leland and their daughter, Mary Tablot, arrived Sunday and will occupy the same house they had last year.

The Rev. and Mrs. William B. Lampe, with their daughter, Barbara, and son, Willard, are spending the summer at the Sequanoto Club adjacent to the Belvedere resort.

Mr. and Mrs. George Riddle Bradbury returned to their home in St. Louis Sunday after spending two weeks as the guests of Mr. Bradbury's grandmother, Mrs. George Riddle, in her cottage on the North Side. A daughter of Mrs. Riddle, Mrs. Thomas T. Poleman, arrived Monday and Mr. Poleman will join her this week-end to spend three weeks here. Another daughter, Mrs. Arthur Birge, accompanied by her daughters, Mrs. Harry Hager and Miss Jane Birge, are expected tomorrow to remain with Mrs. Riddle until September.

Miss Edna Jean Gieselman and her brother, Elmer, left Tuesday by motor for St. Louis after spending the week-end at the Belvedere Club as the guests of their aunt, Miss Edna Schulz, who will remain until Aug. 15.

Miss Margaret and Miss Sally Curran, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Con P. Curran Jr. of Kent and Clayton roads, returned to their home in St. Louis, accompanied by their cousin, Miss Margaret Lonsway, after a two weeks' visit as the guests of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. Oscar Lamy, in their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bond Fouke of the St. Louis Country Club grounds arrived Wednesday to spend the rest of the season at their cottage on the North Side. They are expecting their three sons to join them the second week of August. Jack and Philip are on vacation at the Pribilof Islands, the seal hatchery in Alaska.

The cottage of William Connett has been leased for the season to Mrs. Musa Shrout and her daughter of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Watts, who are spending the summer at Wequetonsing, spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Shwab in their cottage on the Park.

MANY theaters dot the North Shore, and play-going is one of the favorite diversions of the summer colonists. In the Art Colony at Rocky Neck is the School of the Theater, prominent for the work of its pupils on the stage. Last week "Charity Begins," the third in the season's repertoire, was presented, and yesterday an audience witnessed a production of "Call It a Day." In Salem, the Federal Theater Players opened the summer season at the Empire Theater with "Help Yourself." This comedy, adapted from the Viennese, is being followed this week by "Tommy," which was presented for a year in New York. A dramatic production of interest was the performance July 10 by the Ipswich Parish Players of the "Queen's Husband" at the Ascension Parish House in Ipswich.

The cast included George E. Brewer Jr., the well-known playwright, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer White. Mrs. White is the former Miss Anne Hitchcock of St. Louis. Marblehead's initiation into the professional and semi-professional world of the Little Theater took place last Saturday with the New London Player's production of "Accent on Youth."

Mrs. Valla Austin, visiting her niece, Mrs. Robert Brookings, is being informally entertained by many friends on the North Shore.

Weddings and Engagements

Faherty-Duffy

THE marriage of Miss Veronica Anne Duffy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Duffy, 4011 Maffitt avenue, and James G. Faherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Faherty, 4487 Bircher boulevard, took place Saturday night, July 24, at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Edward P. Ryan performed the ceremony.

The bride was dressed in white mousseline de soie over white taffeta, made with ruffles around the skirt and sleeves, and also edging the train, which fell from the bodice of the dress. A cluster of orange blossoms and gardenias held the tulle veil in place and she carried a shower bouquet of gladioli and baby's breath.

Miss Catherine and Miss Marcella Duffy, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids and wore aqua blue and peach chiffon respectively, their dresses, made with fitted bodices and full skirts. They carried peach gladioli and baby's breath.

Bert G. Faherty, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, with Patrick Kellett serving as groomsmen. Bernard P. Duffy, brother of the bride, and James M. Duggan were ushers.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, and was given at the Saum Hotel for the bridal party and immediate families.

The pair left on a honeymoon trip to the East.

Jecklin-Shanahan

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Shanahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Shanahan, 2118 Cleveland place, and Arthur C. Jecklin Jr., 5387 North Kingshighway, took place yesterday morning at St. Philip Neri Church. The Rev. Thomas J. Odlum officiated.

The bride's gown was of white satin made princess style, and she wore a finger tip length veil and carried Johanna Hill roses and Easter lilies. Miss Mildred Jecklin, the only attendant, wore pale pink chiffon with accessories of aqua blue and carried pink roses and blue delphinium.

Kenneth W. Kuhlman was best man and ushers were Joseph Baldwin and Joseph Bence.

After a wedding breakfast at the Norwood Hills County Club, the bride and bridegroom left for Michigan where they will spend their honeymoon.

Levy-Weintraub

The engagement of Miss Sigma Fanet Weintraub, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Weintraub of Mayfield, Ky., and Max Levy of Birmingham, Ala., and Hughes, Ark., was announced today at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Levy is the son of Mrs. Joe Levy of Hughes, Ark., and of the late Mr. Levy.

Miss Weintraub has visited several times in St. Louis as the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. John Loebner, Ashby road, Overland.

Reilly-Hillemeyer

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hillemeyer, 52 Jefferson road, Webster Groves, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ann Shepard, and Edward Mulroy Reilly Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs E. M. Reilly, 332 Argonne drive, Kirkwood. The wedding took place May 24. Mr. and Mrs. Hillemeyer entertained at a dinner Tuesday night at the Meadowbrook Country Club to announce the marriage to their friends.

Siegel-Strauss

The wedding of Miss Eda Strauss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Strauss, 6127 Pershing avenue, and Arthur E. Siegel, 6127 Pershing avenue, took place Friday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents.

Holliday-Stahl

The marriage of Miss Wanieta Stahl, 5645 Hamilton avenue, and Robert Holliday, 5612 Hamilton avenue, took place Saturday, July 24, at the Methodist parsonage in Ferguson. The Rev. Mims Thornburgh Workman performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Holliday will make their home at 7025 Lillian avenue, Pine Lawn.

Jennings-Singer

Announcement has been made of the mariage of Miss Thelma Singer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Singer, 6206 Dowler avenue, and Frank M. Jennings Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Jennings, 8748 North avenue. The marriage took place Saturday, July 10, at St. Charles.

Mrs. Jennings is a graduate of the Academy of the Visitation and attended Washington University. She was pledged to Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Bassin-Nash

The marriage of Miss La Vena Anita Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nash, 5144 Page avenue, and Jack Bassin, 5385 Wabada avenue, took place Tuesday with Rabbi Julian Miller performing the ceremony in his study at B'Nai El Temple. Mr. Bassin is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bassin.

Mr. and Mrs. Bassin have left for a honeymoon in the East and will return to St. Louis in September.

Keller-Weinberg

The engagement of Miss Ruth Weinberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Weinberg of Kansas City, and Nathan Keller, son of Hymen Keller, 5887 Plymouth avenue, was announced at a reception held July 20 at the home of Mr. Keller. The wedding will take place this month.

Kagan-Gerber

Mr. and Mrs. Max Gerber, 1228 North Euclid avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rose, to William A. Kagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Kagan, 1639 Arlington avenue.

Miss Gerber attended the University of Missouri where she was a member of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority, and the prospective bridegroom attended Washington University. No wedding date has been set.

Bach - Mendelson Engagement Announced

THE music of Mendelssohn and Bach was used to announce the engagement of Miss Sabina Mendelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Mendelson, 5344 Easton avenue, and Ferd H. Bach, 5856 Pershing avenue, at a luncheon given yesterday at the Mendelson home for 35 friends. Mr. Bach is the son of the late Ferd H. Bach and the late Mrs. Nelle Uffenheimer.

Preceding luncheon Mr. Bach's cousin, Miss Esther Wheatley, played compositions by Mendelssohn and Bach and beside the large centerpiece of white flowers, that adorned the luncheon table, was a copy of Mendelssohn's Wedding March with the title "Ferd's and Sabina's Trip Through Music Land." As the guests were seated Miss Wheatley played the wedding march on the organ in the library.

Miss Mendelson received her A. B. and M. A. degrees at Washington University and did post graduate work in psychology at Columbia University, New York. She is a member of Alpha Zeta Pi, honorary romance language fraternity and has taken special courses in music for several years. Mrs. Bach was graduated from Illinois University and is a member of Phi Epsilon University.

The wedding will take place in the late fall or early winter.

Anna Belleau Is Wed At St. Louis Cathedral

MISS ANNA LEAH BELLEAU, daughter of Walter F. Belleau, 15 South Taylor avenue, became the bride of Gerald H. Collins yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. The Rev. Charles Helmsing performed the ceremony at the St. Louis Cathedral. Mr. Collins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin F. Collins of South Yarmouth, Mass.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harold Belleau, and was attended by her sister, Mrs. John T. Ross, as matron of honor, and Mrs. George R. Tyman as bridesmaid. Kenneth C. Powell was best man for Mr. Collins; ushers included Clarence J. Darsow of Tulsa, Ok., Eugene E. Dierking, George R. Tynan and George F. Pierce.

White Italian embroidery set off the dress of the bride, which was made redingote style with a shirred bodice and leg o' mutton sleeves. A small cluster of orange blossoms held her finger tip veil of tulle in place. She carried a prayer book marked with lilies-of-the-valley.

The matron of honor and bridesmaid were gowned in powder blue mousseline de soie, trimmed with dubonnet velvet. They wore large hairbraid hats to match and carried deep pink roses and delphinium.

After the wedding, a reception was held at the Forest Park Hotel for the bridal party and immediate families. Then the bride and bridegroom left for a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mass. On their return they will be at home at 7355 Lindell boulevard.

AUGUST COAT SALE

"BUY WITH CONFIDENCE"

IN AIR-COOLED KLINE'S GREAT AUGUST SALES OF FUR COATS AND FUR-TRIMMED WINTER COATS!

SAVINGS ARE UNQUESTIONED AT KLINE'S ... We make no predictions ... we cannot forecast the future. We do know, however, that every indication points toward soaring prices for this Fall. Six months ago we anticipated this condition, and with the combined resources of our great Detroit, Cincinnati and Kansas City stores invested nearly $1,000,000 in the finest fur skins obtainable. Today they cannot be replaced for less than 20% more!

2500 COATS TO CHOOSE FROM ... Impressive? Of course it is — but just stop to think a bit. The 2500 coats in our store are just a portion of the total we purchased for our combined group.

EVERY IMPORTANT STYLE TREND ... For months we worked on presenting vital, young and important styles. Cables from Paris, our New York style bureau ... every important American designer has contributed to this August Sale.

FIRST CHOICE OF PRIME SKINS ... As the season advances, the finest qualities become scarce. Prices for similar qualities rise. By buying your coat now, you choose the best with no price penalty to you.

UNHURRIED WORKMANSHIP ... It is obvious that fur craftsmen would be least busy at this time of the year. This means unhurried and skilled workmanship at considerable savings. Therefore you save two ways — on the pelts and on the workmanship.

CONFIDENCE ... Thirty-two years of concentration on fur buying and fur styling ... thirty-two years of tremendous investments in the fur marts of the world ... thousands of satisfied customers everywhere you may go. This is the history of Kline's integrity ... the history of Kline's August Fur and Coat Sales! This, our thirty-second sale, marks an even greater advance, and even higher standard than ever before achieved ... MOST quality ... MOST fashion ... MOST value!

KLINE'S DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN ... permits you to have your coat paid for by the time Winter arrives. FREE STORAGE until wearing season. CHARGE PURCHASES payable in November.

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, July 31.

ALFRED DE LIAGRE, the dapper boy producer, retrieves from his recent tour of the London scene, incontrovertible evidence that the English could do with a little of the New Yorker's kind of satire (if they could understand it, that is). He was seated in a box at Covent Garden with Lady Londonderry when Mr. Noel Coward made an entry in an adjacent box. There was quite a flurry of excitement and a patter of applause for Mr. Coward, and Lady L. tapped Mr. de Liagre's knee with an ostrich feather fan and leaned over to whisper: "You know, he's really awfully versatile!"

—o—o—

THE URGE TO GET away from it all (that's the impulse that brings everybody you know screaming back to town Monday mornings and cowering in the depths of the Stork Club for fear somebody will try to lure them out into the sunburn and poison ivy belt again) leads to the establishment of the strangest little nests of celebrities in suburban parts hereabouts. There is, for instance, the Fire Island group headed by the De Forcevilles and John Mosher which carries on the Gene Fowler tradition, in a manner, to be sure, that he might not quite recognize along the reaches of that sandspit. Then there are the boys and girls of the Sneedens Landing contingent which includes Katharine Cornell and Guthrie McClintic, the John Hoysradts, Haydie and Ted Yates and other wilderness seekers who still want their pemmican from Charles & Co., fresh every day.

—o—o—

● THIS DEPARTMENT'S attention has recently been drawn to a frightening advertisement in "The Delaware Valley News," published at Frenchtown, N. J., offering real estate for sale in "the heart of the Hollywood of Pennsylvania." Investigation discloses that farmers who have recently settled along the Delaware between New Hope and Frenchtown include such notable tillers of the soil as Beatrice and George Kaufman, Dorothy Parker and Alan Campbell, Bella and Sam Spewack, the S. J. Perlmans, the Ernest K. Lindleys and Florence McGee. There is, too, the prehistoric settler, Elmer Adler, and week-ends usually find Edna Ferber and Arthur Kober as somebody's house guests. On the Jersey side of the river there are Kenyon Nicholson, Carl Brandt, Harold Hersey, the George Sakiers, Joe and June Platt, the cook book experts, and Tony Williams, the best-dressed best dresser, and his wife, Peggy Le Boutillier. Vincent Benedix and Carmen Barnes have been cruising the vicinage and it is reported that the financier has been picking up attractive places with views, stone houses, fireplaces and streams in this order of importance. They all feel that if only Saks Fifth Avenue would open a hair dressing salon thereabouts the wilderness were practically paradise.

—o—o—

The general attitude of urban celebrities is that there is no such thing as bad publicity, but new versions of old rackets have been devised to harass folk the details of whose lives are frequently chronicled in the public prints. The current fashion in panhandling, for instance, is based upon a seeming acquaintance with the intended victim and is conducted largely via telephone. The racketeer, who has familiarized himself with various characteristic details of the career and life of his prospective sucker, calls him on the phone or presents himself in person and identifies himself as a companion of youth, a friend of the family, or a one-time neighbor, all with convincing detail and local color which seem to lend authenticity to his recital of evil days and misfortunes. Wherewith to get a job is the usual plea, a set of carpenter's tools, a servant's uniform or traveling expenses, any or some combination of which are all that stand between the poor fellow and honest employment. All he asks is a helping hand, the gentleman can come out and buy the tools himself if he doubts the veracity of his story.

—o—o—

● IF THE VICTIM consults his common sense and discovers that all the local color trotted out as guarantee of good faith is available in the newspaper files or in standard books of reference and sends the panhandle artist about his business there has recently come into being a follow-up. A representative of what is described as "a free employment agency" calls up the as yet unsnared prospect to attest to the bona fides of the man who has just been around to see him. He offers his assurance that employment depends only on the most trifling aid to his client and swears to his character, probity and the pitiful plight of his apparently enormous family. A call back to the phone number of the "free employment agency" reveals it as a pay phone in a corner drug store. It all sounds transparent as invisible glass in the telling, but the racketeers are artists and they frequently make a good killing. The popular figure asked at the moment is about $15.

—o—o—

Mrs. Henry Field, who was once the life of Chicago's cafe set and a newspaper columnist of note thereabouts, but who has since given up the windy city in favor of big-game hunting, aviation and foreign travel, was asked at cocktails the other afternoon by Conde Nast if she never returned to her home town nowadays. "Oh, I went out last month," explained the expatriate Betty, "but it was so indescribably lonely without me, and I missed myself so that I turned right around and tore back to London!"

—o—o—

● GOTHAM GOINGS ON: Spies from Antibes report that Elsa Maxwell is working on a play, "just to round out her career," she explains. . . . The same agents report that the main reason Gilbert Miller maintains a private plane at Croydon (he's known around London as "the Flight Commander" now) is to fly Kitty Miller to Paris for fittings. . . . Wolcott Gibbs of "The New Yorker," once braked trains on the Long Island Railroad. . . . Paul Flato, the town's "court jeweler," is writing a book on the history of bijouterie. . . . August "Esquire" is the best issue of that magazine to date, having four bang-up articles. . . . One on cigars, one on rum, and a piece on railroad amateurs. And those dreadful pages of girl jokes are less dreary than usual. . . . Supplementing our report some time since (and denied by Steve Benet) that there were bath salts in the wash rooms of the new Yale College, comes authntic report that in Calhoun College, at least, all the accessories, soap, towels, etc., match the pastel shades of the plumbing and tile. . . . Calhoun is the least worldly and most practical minded of Yale's various seminaries, too.

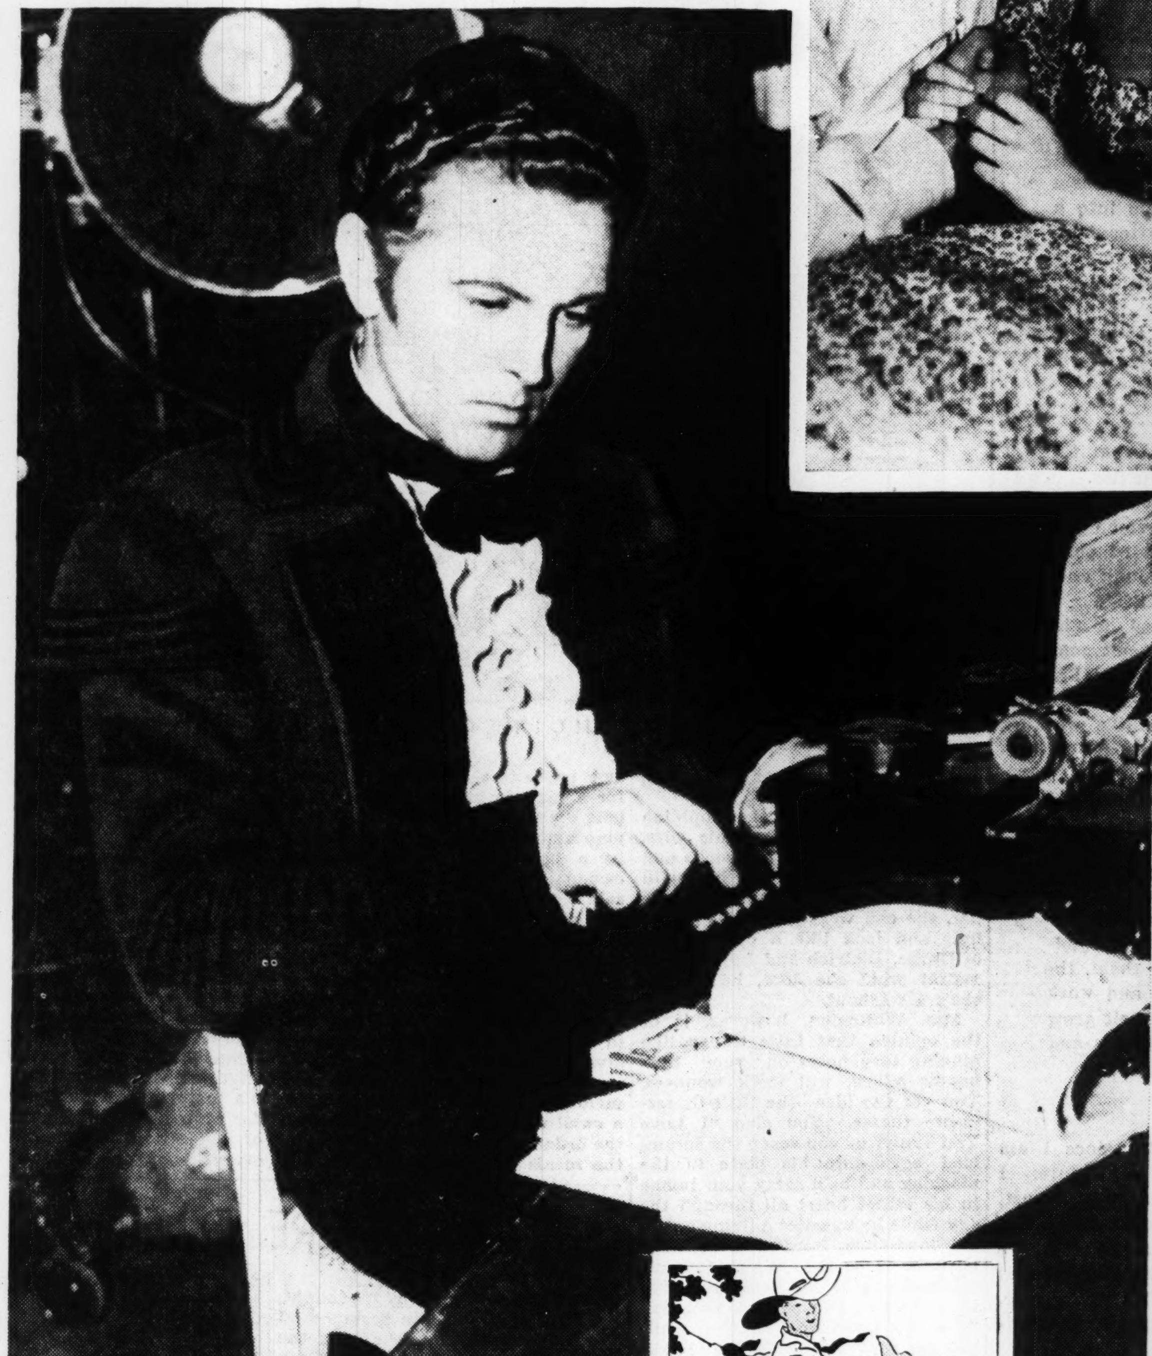
"THE HORSE WASN'T THERE!"

But Muny Opera Misadventure and Other Equestrian Embarrassments Fail to Keep Singer From Rising to Ride Again.

By ALLAN JONES

ALLAN JONES AND HIS WIFE, IRENE HERVEY, AT PARTY GIVEN BY JEANNETTE MacDONALD AND GENE RAYMOND.

ALLAN JONES AND JEANNETTE MacDONALD FROM A SCENE IN "THE FIREFLY."



JONES, MADE UP AS DON DIEGO MANRIQUE DE LARA FOR "THE FIREFLY," BETWEEN SCENES.

HORSES, horses, horses.

They've provided me with my most embarrassing and painful moments and also with my best film role.

Probably I don't need to remind anyone in St. Louis of the time I jumped through the window and the horse wasn't there. But if I do, here's the story, in as few words as possible, for it still hurts every time I think about it.

It was the "Muny" Opera season and we were doing "Love Call." I was particularly proud of my riding ability and here was my chance to show off. I had one scene in which I was to jump through a window, and to make the jump doubly spectacular, it was arranged that a horse was to be standing below the window and I was to go flying through the air into the saddle.

I went flying through the air all right, but the stagehands who were to maneuver that horse into position had let him wander away. In full view of some 10,000 citizens of St. Louis I went crashing onto the stage—and wished I could have gone right on through. It hurt not only the parts of my anatomy on which I landed, but also any pride I might have had left. But the only thing to do was to get up and sing.

Even that didn't cure me. One of the first things for which I spent my film earnings was an Arabian gelding, Smoky.

To keep the record complete, though, I ought to mention a Welsh pony that first caused me to be mistaken for a film celebrity. A few years ago I made a trip to Wales, to see my parents' home town and visit some of their old friends. I had rented the only available horse and was taking a canter over the moors, wearing an American sombrero. A group of youngsters was playing out in the gorse and I rode over to check on my bearings.

"Here comes Tom Mix," called out one of the kids, excitedly. They came running to meet me.

" 'Tisn't, either," pronounced one young skeptic. "It's Buck Jones."

At least he had the surname right.

To get back to Smoky. Whether I was chosen for the male singing lead opposite Jeanette MacDonald in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Firefly" because of the horse, or whether the riding scenes were written into the script for my benefit, only producer Hunt Stromberg or director Robert Z. Leonard can tell you. But it gave me a chance to show that I can stay on a horse. That's why I'm hoping the picture plays soon in St. Louis. It may rebuild my reputation.

—o-o—

THOSE riding scenes afforded us a week's location work in some of the finest scenery you can hope to see anywhere—the High Sierras. We made our headquarters in Lone Pine and got up at 4:30 each morning as soon as the sun was up, headed for Tuttle or Lone Pine Creek, at the foot of Mt. Whitney, and worked each day until sunset. Location's no picnic when you're taking advantage of all the daylight hours, but we had our fun nevertheless.

As it happened, Smoky had to be sent on ahead by trailer, for at the last minute A. Jones was called on for two days of additional scenes with the Marxes in "A Day at the Races." If I remember rightly, location work started on a Thursday morning. At 8 o'clock the previous evening, I was still at work with the Marxes in Culver City. I had to be with the "Firefly" troupe, costumed and ready to climb aboard Smoky, at 4:30 a. m. Thursday. It's better than a 200-mile ride to Lone Pine, so it didn't look as if Jones would get much sleep Wednesday night.

The studio, though, came through in fine style. The production department rented an ambulance. After dinner Wednesday night, I climbed into it, lay down and went fast asleep, and woke up in Lone Pine. Which is my idea of the ultimate in traveling in comfort.

This was Smoky's first experience with motion pictures. I'd had him on the set several times for close-up shots and to get him accustomed to the people and the noises, but location work is something else again.

The first shot on the narrow Tuttle Creek road called for me to overtake Jeanette MacDonald's coach and ride alongside. There was barely space, and on the outside the road dropped off almost sheer to the creek-bed. The first time we tried it, my cloak got caught in the coach wheel. I took a spill and Smoky got a cut on the back of his right hind leg. We decided then and there to seek another road. Needless to say, that spill doesn't show in the film, though another one does. The second one, I might alibi for myself, was called for in the script. Jones doesn't spend all his time falling off horses.

The next day we headed for the Alabama Hills, off the Lone Pine Creek road, where the geologic formations are the weirdest you'll find in many a mile. The road itself is sandy, and apart from the dust offers no difficulties, but keeping your footing among the rocks is no cinch.

We spent all the first day in that section recording the "Donkey's Serenade" number. That and "Giannina Mia" are my favorites in this adaptation of the Rudolf Friml operetta. With a camera car and a generator truck preceding us, and with Smoky trotting alongside the coach, we made one of the longest perambulatory shots on record, covering nearly three miles in all for this single sequence. The longest continuous shot covered more than half a mile of road.

No matter how many precautions are taken on location, you can't foresee everything. The following day, making a fast dash between some immense boulders, I got carried too close to an overhanging rock. The speed with which we were traveling prevented me from swerving in time. The toe was torn out of one of my boots, poor

What Is Left Of Faith for World Today?

"Standards Crumble, but There Is Within Us That Which Will Not Change."

By Elsie Robinson

WHAT'S left?

How often you ask yourself that question nowadays. How often it seizes you, like a numbing hand, as you think of the things that were—and the world as it is today.

What's left? Out of all the things you were taught as a child—the facts you accepted, the standards you followed, the faith you clung to —OUT OF IT ALL, WHAT'S LEFT?

Not much! Bit by bit, the ruthless realism of the Machine Age has shattered those young ideals, wrecked that young confidence, exposed even the commonplace facts which seemed the eternal truth. AND TODAY, WHAT'S LEFT?

What's left to trust . . . to cling to . . . to build with? Once you had so much—such seemingly endless reserves of strength and enthusiasm, hope and confidence. Now everything you touch seems blighted or broken. And in the eyes of all your friends you see the same dismay . . . the mounting fear and bitterness of bankrupt spirits.

Broadcasting recently over a national hookup, Dr. Paul Scherer addressed that bankruptcy. There were no pretty platitudes in that address—no synthetic comfort. Starkly, without evasion, Dr. Scherer described that desolation which has overtaken us all . . . the desolation we try so vainly to escape in hectic work or hysterical play.

—o-o—

"THE WALLS OF LIFE are down," he cried, "and the roof has caved in; across the desolate plain winds blow, and there are thousands of people scurrying crazily back and forth without any shelter. . . . The swift years go on subtracting from a man's hope . . . stealing away the things he has relied on, and undermining the very foundations of the self he has built . . . until, as he stands there facing the future, he seems to have no material with which to start. 'AFTER ALL,' he whispers to himself, 'AFTER ALL, WHAT IS LEFT?' "

A world in ruins . . . nations without a vision or a goal . . . and countless individuals like yourself, stumbling along aimlessly, without conviction or comfort. There is the grim picture Dr. Scherer gives of our modern world. And you know it to be true, for your own heart is cold, your own fires are dead.

—o-o—

THEN WHAT IS the final answer? Have we really come to the last ditch? Has science exposed our youthful faith . . . shown it to be a childish fairy tale? And is there nothing more to human life than mathematics and physiology . . . no dream beyond the cramped horizon of the flesh?

No—this is not the answer! God cannot be mocked nor can man be betrayed by scientist or cynic. There is that within us which will not change . . . which cannot be exposed. There is that left which will endure forever.

What is left? Your soul is left . . . truth is left . . . God is left.

Science cannot explain those things away, nor can sophistication mock them off the stage. Laboratories have revealed your exact content of water, fat and mineral salts. But no laboratory can tell what Thought is — much less Spirit. Psychologists can dissect your whims and moods. But no psychologist can explain the mysterious power of Faith—the miraculous rebirth of Love.

There ARE things beyond the test-tube and the case-record . . . things which survive all doubt and questioning.

—o-o—

"YOU MAY SNUB them, but they go on being true," says Dr. Scherer. "And these are a few of them: that the way to happiness is purity, that the way to honor is humility, that the way to peace is faith, that the way to power is love, that the way to greatness is service."

Your soul is left . . . truth is left . . . God is left.

Nations may change, standards may crumble. But deep within you there is a quiet Presence—a noble Hunger. Trust that Presence; serve that Hunger. Dare to believe in them. Dare to fight for them! For these are the lasting, the indestructible things.

Whatever you may have lost, these are left and these are enough.

Spiced Tea

A syrup made of whole cloves, cinnamon sticks, sugar and water is a refreshing addition to iced tea. Lemon may be added to the drink and improve its flavor without detracting from the spiced emphasis.

THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

MY OPINION

by

Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM about to take a vacation late this summer. We have befriended a little girl, having been acquainted with this child two years, and have come to love her as our own. Lately, some neighbors across the street told us that her parents have lost confidence in us and want her to go to her own church, and gave this as an excuse to be rid of us. So we dropped the matter and made friends with other children. We now have found a little boy whom we took interest in and are planning to take him with us to California. He is a lovely child and we will enjoy our trip all the more, having him.

This child is so wild at the thought of going that he can hardly wait. Now my problem is this: the parents of the little girl have heard that we are going and they want us to forget about the past. As we are not in a position to take both and the little girl is heartbroken, what would you advise us to do? We love both of them. JUST THREE.

There are many complications, usually, about taking too much possession of other people's children. While it is too bad to hurt the little girl, and difficult perhaps to stick to your plan, the parents must abide by their earlier attitude. You cannot be changing back and forth. Of course, it is hard on the little girl, and too bad that she is the sufferer. But I've no doubt you have already done much for her, and perhaps you can persuade her that you have already promised the little boy and she must take her turn. When you come back you may be able to adjust matters again.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● MANY UNFORTUNATES have been aided by your kindess and advice. Now I need your help. I wish to remain in St. Louis and be near my folks, but I do not know how to get started in work in my line. I am a graduate dress-designer and dressmaker, but there are no vacancies in such work at present. Many accomplished designers and dressmakers, though, have had their start through opening a shop in their homes. Don't you think that any woman would rather have a dress made for her individually, if she has difficulty in being fitted in the ready-made kind? I know by looking at anyone whether or not colors and lines suit them.

HOPEFUL.

The dressmakers having private shops have had a rather hard struggle in the years just past, although many women not made just according to regular measurements have a very difficult and irritating time buying their wardrobes. But without acquaintance and without capital, starting such a shop would be most difficult. It would be best for you to make your best samples of work and show them at places, somewhat small, where you might drop into a vacancy. If you were not given one, you could, after demonstrating your work through samples, know that, if they are good, these shops will be sure to give you work in case of a vacancy.

You should try the large establishments in the same way, of course, and not give up trying to reach people through advertising.

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I DON'T HONESTLY know why I write to you about this. I suppose it's simply a matter of giving in to pure impulse.

My trouble is mental, which is a very common variety, of course. And what I'm asking of you is to give me some point of contact with someone who can help me. What sort of person is it I must see? Somehow it always smacks of the young and dramatic to mention seeing a psychoanalysis or psychiatrist.

I don't think, romantically, that I am going mad or am particularly unbalanced at all. I just believe that I haven't somehow got on the right track. I've a rather sick perspective, and I'm definitely not enjoying life. But I realize the trouble isn't with life but rather with myself. And I have tried, but it's like working with mist. I don't know what it is exactly that I've got to correct. I know that I'm all wrong . . . but where?

I'm convinced mine is an old and well known enigma, and can be easily solved once on the right course. But someone else must point out that course to me. I'm so ready to carry on from there!

G. S.

Instead of being young and dramatic, it is a matter of common sense to see a psychiatrist about such inhibitions. Then if he says there is little reason for them, the practical suggestion is to do some kind of work and work hard; something to help others and to make yourself grow outside of yourself. Idleness is a form of loneliness and likely to cause too much introspection.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I AM ONE of those unfortunate tall girls. But since I am not at all ugly, I should like to make the best of my figure. I am 5 feet, 4½ inches tall, weigh 115 pounds, have a 33-inch bust, a 24-inch waist and 36-inch hips. I am not all fat but it seems that my hips are too wide. Also my legs are large but my feet are average, 5½ slipper. My shoulders have become slightly stooped and I should like to know some means of straightening them. Please, give me some sure means of reducing my hips and legs and straightening my shoulders.

E. L.

You are not tall for the present day girl. Many think nothing of five feet six or seven inches. Exercise will distribute the fat and give you a better carriage. Send me self-addressed, stamped envelope for reducing exercises and those which will make you more erect.

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I DO HOPE you can make some suggestion to me. We have been here only a few months and are trying to adjust ourselves. The question now is, my little boy, 12 years old, will have to attend school somewhere and I am not in a position, financially, to send him to a private school. Would there be a place I could put him until I find employment? He is a well-mannered boy, loves books and school work, and it seems a shame to have to keep him out. What can I do?

MOTHER.

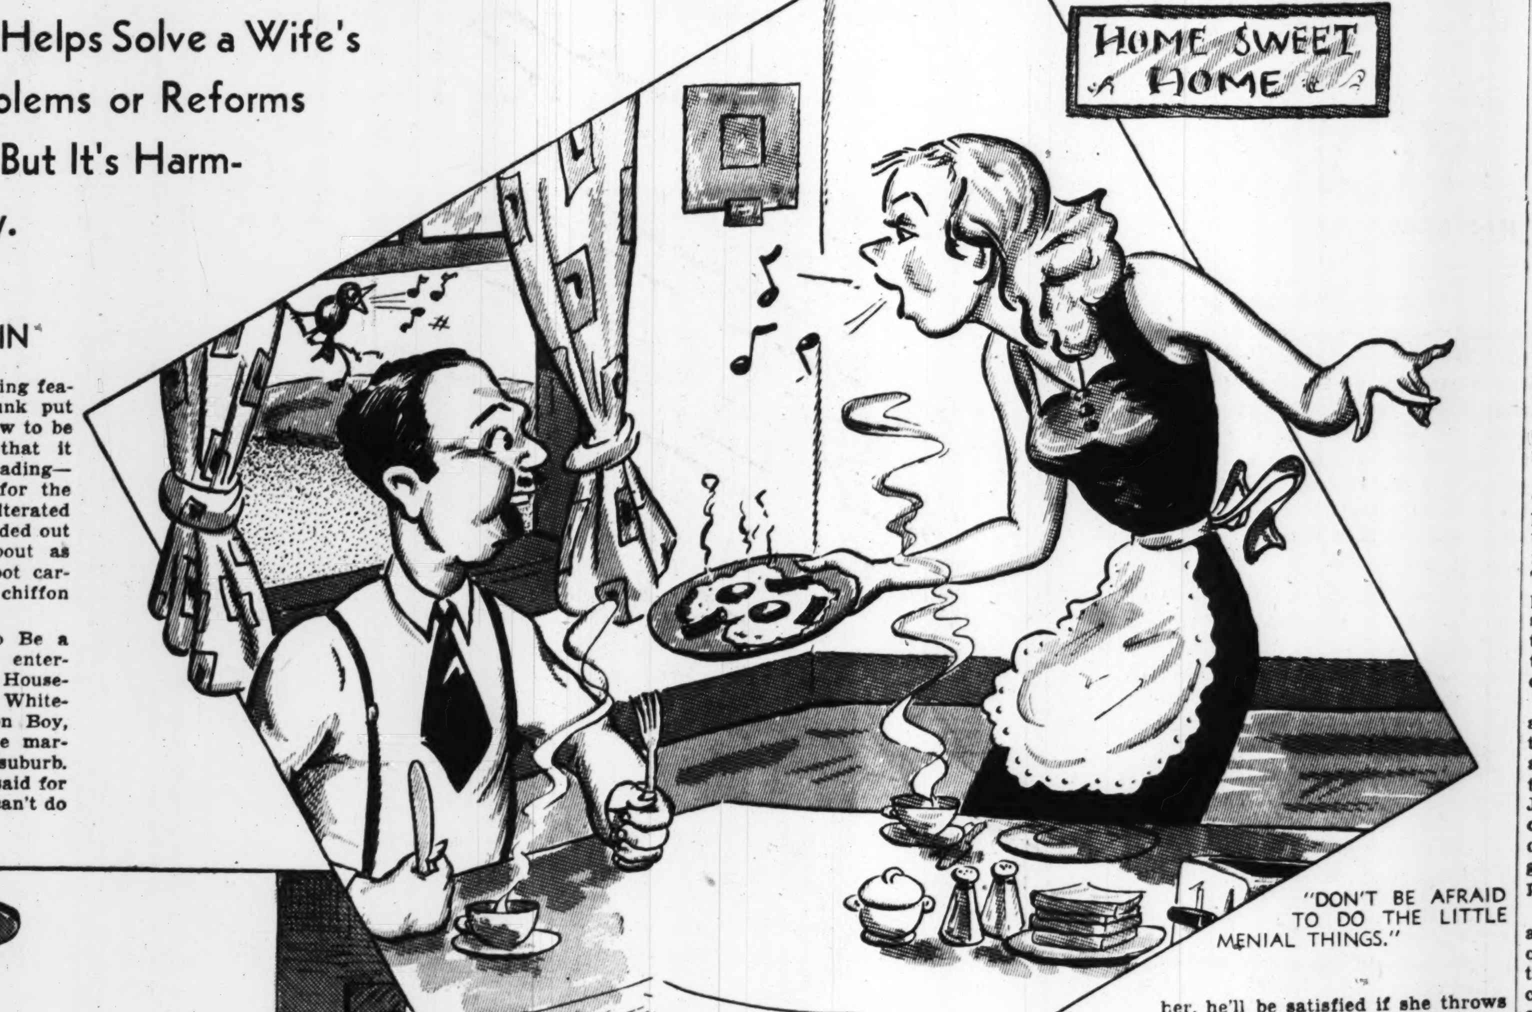
There is no reason, I should think, why your boy could not go to one of the public schools. Call the office of the Board of Education and they will place him. If you must find a place for him to live, call the Children's Aid Society.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

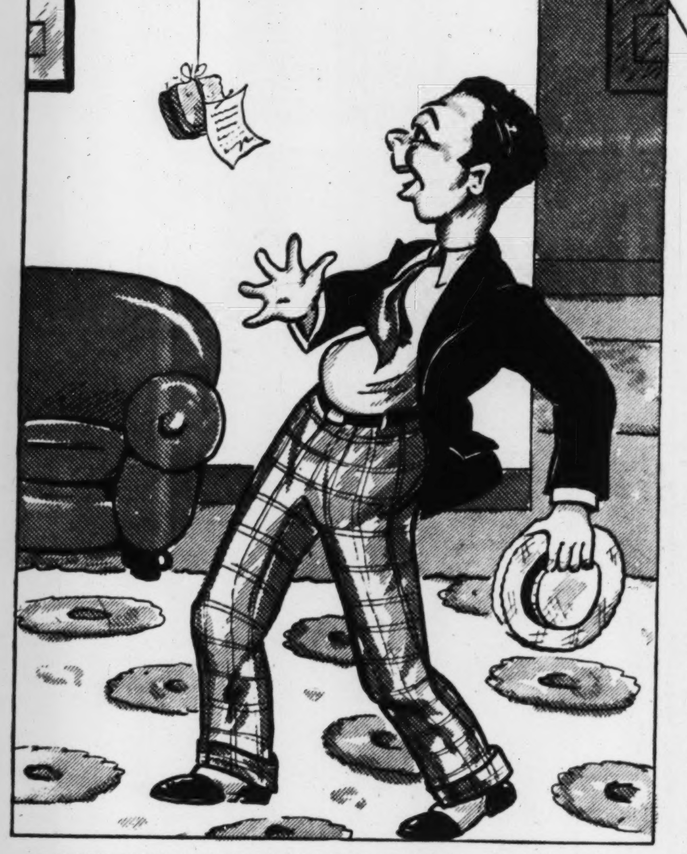
● It Seldom Helps Solve a Wife's Marital Problems or Reforms a Husband, But It's Harmless Anyway.

By

VIRGINIA IRWIN



"DON'T BE AFRAID TO DO THE LITTLE MENIAL THINGS."



A NOTE PINNED TO A SANDWICH ON THE CHANDELIER.

ABOUT the only redeeming feature to most of the bunk put out on the subject of how to be happy though married is that it makes fairly interesting reading—if you're interested. But for the most part it is pure, unadulterated boloney and the recipes handed out for marital bliss work about as well as would a rabbit's foot carried in the top of your chiffon sock.

Latest of these "How to Be a Swell Wife" series is the entertaining article in July Good Housekeeping, in which Mrs. Paul Whiteman, wife of the big Baton Boy, tells the girls how to make marriage heaven—or its nearest suburb. And there's one thing to be said for Mrs. Whiteman's advice; it can't do any harm. If it does any good, it's all right by me.

Personally, I'm of the opinion that if a husband loves his wife, she can have runs in her socks and bulge in the middle, and he'll still think she's swell. If he doesn't love her, she can wear gardenias in her hair and look like a combination of Garbo, Dietrich and Loy, and no matter what she does, he'll think she's a washout.

Mrs. Whiteman, however, is of the opinion that little things like pinning love notes on your husband's pillow, will work wonders. You get the idea—the little-things-in-life theme. You sing "I Love You Truly" as you scoop the scrambled eggs onto his plate in the morning and he'll carry your image in his secret heart all through the day while he wrestles a living out of life insurance, hardware, or what business is he in? Which formula might work if he loves you, but if he doesn't, you may as well sing "Yes, We Have No Bananas" while you cut up the grapefruit and take it for granted that the first thought he'll give you during the day is when he groans over having to show up for dinner, simply because somebody has noised around the silly idea that a husband's place at 6 o'clock of any evening is across the table from the little woman.

—o-o—

"HOW many husbands arrive home to find their wives out, and after waiting for hours become angry and jealous?" asks Mrs. Whiteman, as a preface to the suggestion that you leave "a little note telling him where you are and when you expect to return, with some sweet little message of affection." Now this note business has two sides to the paper. If your husband still cares whether or not you get run over by a street car, he'll appreciate not having to go to the trouble of calling City Hospital. If he no longer gives a whoop, he probably wouldn't even see the note unless you pinned it to a ham sandwich hung from the chandelier. In which case he would read the note, yell "Yippee," and duck for the nearest bar or call up the best-looking blonde.

"Sometimes I wonder if women ever pause to reflect what it means for a man to be pledged to a lifelong obligation," muses Mrs. Whiteman and suggests that it might not be a bad idea for the wife occasionally to view herself as a salaried worker and see whether she can hold her job on sheer efficiency. Now, musing about what it means to a man to be pledged to a lifelong obligation is a waste of time. He either likes it or he doesn't. If he does like being tied to the dame he married he won't give a Missouri mill whether she's an efficient dish washer and sock mender or not. If he thinks she's a swell wife, the house can have all the order of a secondhand store and the meals the flavor of fried sawdust, and he'll cheerfully pay the bills and think he's the luckiest man on the planet. But if he doesn't love the dame he married, nothing on earth can convince him that he didn't draw a bum bargain. The little woman may be able to cook like George Rector, fix up the home like a picture out of House Beautiful, entertain like Lady Diana Cooper and be as sweet as Whistler's mother, and what will she get for her trouble? Probably a divorce in the end, unless she can hold onto him until he develops high blood pressure and bunions and nobody else wants him.

Mrs. Whiteman also advises that you "endear yourself" to your husband, "make him so happy with you that he will be miserable without you." Which is swell advice. Something like advising somebody with one leg to become an adagio dancer. And there is many a gal who realizes that the only way to hold a husband who wants loose is to hold him—by law and not by pinning love notes on his pillow or wearing herself out thinking up "endearments." What a gal needs when she wakes up to discover that her husband doesn't think she's a swell wife, is not a lot of advice. A good lawyer and a shatterproof heart are much more satisfactory pieces of equipment.

—o-o—

THE matter of the husband who doesn't quite measure up to his wife's ideals is another problem tackled by Mrs. Whiteman. She believes that a good woman can do anything with a man from changing his taste in friends to curing him for philandering. "Plant a garden of suggestion in him and see how everything grows up to your ideals," suggests Wife Whiteman. And you can act on that suggestion if you want to, but in my opinion La Whiteman is slightly off center. Nobody but a barber ever changed a man above the ears and a woman who tries to tinker with her husband's moral and mental ideas is nothing if not an optimist.

"Don't be afraid to do the little menial things," is another bit of sweetness and light Mistress Whiteman hands out in her article. "Some women think they belittle themselves by working in a kitchen," she says. But personally I feel that if a woman has no affection for a kitchen stove, she's something of a sap to try to bake a cherry pie to hold her husband. If he loves her, he'll be satisfied if she throws the stove out in the alley and installs a bridge table in its place. If he doesn't love her, she can cook until she's red in the face and he'll help himself to four hunks of chocolate cake, and then go out and help himself to someone else.

Mrs. Whiteman is also of the opinion that women are too quick to give up their men and proposes that all the above mentioned tricks be tried before you decide that his love is as cold as yesterday's breakfast coffee. Which, I repeat, is all right by me, but as I see it, it's pretty much a waste of time. When a man decides he's picked the wrong gal and shows signs of his decision, her problem is to decide whether she wants to hang on by right of contract or give him the pitch. She can always threaten to divorce him and demand nine-tenths of his possessions and thereby scare him into standing hitched, but she can't make him love her—by baking cherry pies, or writing him love notes, or lying awake nights thinking up "endearments." Nothing she can do will make him think she's a swell wife if he doesn't love her and if he does think she's a swell wife she doesn't have to do anything. So why worry?

FALL'S HIGH CROWNS OFFSET BY WIDE BRIMS, NIPPED PEAKS

SO MANY different styles of autumn hats are on display in the St. Louis shops that every woman should be able to find at least one which pleases and becomes her. While the "high hats" definitely predominate in these early collections, there are sufficient ones with medium and low crowns to satisfy those who don't want stove-pipe projections on top of the head.

Wide brims, which are characteristic of the between-season hats for wear with late summer dresses, serve to diminish the height of crowns. The tendency, also, of nipping off the peak of a crown, widening it with drapery or directing its angle to one side, helps to give the illusion of less height. Also an advantage in introducing the extreme modes after the low crowns of the summer is the new way in which hats are fitted firmly to the back of the head. Elastic bands are seldom needed to hold these new models in place because the crowns are so snugly anchored.

Black hats are being featured everywhere with only sufficient navy and brown ones to interest those who want to match a certain costume. Some wine red is appearing also but most of the milliners prefer to hold this shade as well as the green tones for later exploitation when cold-weather costumes will be worn and the warm hues attain their greatest popularity.

Black is the between-season as well as the early autumn favorite for dresses and accessories, so hats of felt, velvet, antelope and corded fabrics are more likely to be black than of colors. Occasionally one contrasting shade will be used with the black. Gray, the new tone of dull light blue introduced originally as "Wallis" blue and beige are three effective ones that are interesting, especially when they are of antelope or velvet. There is something about the smooth, rich surface of the antelope and velvet which makes contrasting trimming on black most arresting.

—o-o—

EVERY WOMAN who likes the little pillbox type of hat will be glad to know that they are continuing in vogue. This may seem strange in view of the rising height of crowns until the autumn version is studied. Designers have brought the pillbox up-to-date by extending the back down several inches lower than the sides or front. It comes down very much like a cuff to cling to the head and also to give the effect of greater height of crown at the back. The snug-fitting line around the front is untouched.

The youthful line of the bonnet, so becoming to some and so difficult for others, is another theme that continues for autumn. Types vary from the tiny one which has no brim but fits down over the ears to the poked brim styles which flare away from the face. The flaring line is being exaggerated now by means of pleats in the brim or by the addition of a starched veil.

I HAVE seen Venice by moonlight, I have seen Paris in spring—and only yesterday I saw among the "Public Notices" in a New York newspaper a paid announcement in which a man PRAISED his wife for their six long years of married happiness. Bring on the hemlock!

"I thought it would be a graceful gesture on our anniversary," explained this modern Sir Galahad to the newspaper reporters who naturally swarmed around him. "It was also done in behalf of the inarticulate, happily married couples who never get into the papers," he added modestly.

Occasionally, of course, some good, meritorious wives do get their names in the newspapers—usually in the society columns. But the world is full of devoted, admirable women who will never get a line of public praise except in their obituaries or on their tombstones.

—o-o—

ANY WOMAN who has made three or four husbands miserable and helped to keep the trains running to Reno, or has staged a plate-throwing match in a night-club or helped herself to some other woman's husband, gets plenty of front page publicity. But did you ever hear of a woman being given a "spread" because she was loving and loyal, made her husband a happy home, and was a wizard at making popovers?

That's not "NEWS." But it ought to be, in these days, when devoted wives and good homemakers are so scarce and divorcees are so plentiful.

It ought to be "news" when a woman has her old fur coat patched up, in order that her husband may have a new suit. Or when she stays home from a bridge party in order to make his favorite dish and see that he gets his dinner hot. It ought to be "news" when a girl comes home from the office and helps her mother wash the dishes, instead of rushing out to a wild party.

—o-o—

IT OUGHT TO BE "news" when a woman marries a wild bachelor and makes him over into a useful citizen, and brings up his sons to be gentlemen. And it ought to be "news" when a man keeps his bills paid, loves his own wife and doesn't play around in strange backyards.

But it's only when a society woman elopes with a prize-fighter, or a millionaire marries a hat-check girl, or some rich playboy gives his Cutie a black eye, that the public begins to take an interest in them.

Obscurity is the reward of the men and women who do their work conscientiously, keep to the straight and narrow path, never cut-in on other people's love-affairs or marriages, never drive their cars while intoxicated and never shoot each other up. Yet, they are almost as unusual as the man who bites a dog. And that IS "news"!

AT Tenth and Biddle streets, where the close-packed buildings of the business district thin out to the worn and unsightly homes of the poor, the twin bell towers of St. Joseph's Church rise tall and commanding above the squat skyline. An aged church, boasting ninety and four years, there was a time long ago when St. Joseph's was the hub of a prosperous German neighborhood. There, on Sundays, as many as 2000 German Catholics knelt to worship.

That time is long dead. Moving ever westward, St. Joseph's old parishioners found new home, took their new families into new parishes and in their time died too. The neighborhood changed complexion as years of accumulated soot and neglect buried the beauties of the proud four-square homes that flanked the solidly dignified old "kirchen."

But the bell towers, so proudly added by parish subscription when the church was enlarged 50 years ago, and the clock in the West tower remain. The bells of St. Joseph ring on uninterrupted. With comfortable regularity, they sound out each quarter hour, ring the angelus and call the scant handful of parishioners to service.

St. Joseph, St. Mary, St. Ignatius and St. Aloysius, these are the bells of St. Joseph. For as Brother Walterman (the lay member of the Society of Jesus who tends the bells, and has for almost 30 years) told us the other day, every good Catholic bell bears the name of its patron saint.

Each has a special function, as we were amply informed. St. Joseph, the biggest bell, with the deep solemn tones, weighs six tons and is used only for the nine-stroke tolling of the angelus three times a day, and for very special feast celebrations. St. Mary, next in size but weighing a mere trifle of only two tons, is rung for high and Sunday masses, while St. Ignatius functions for week-day services. St. Aloysius, the smallest bell of them all, bears the responsibility of sounding the time of the day. Back of St. Aloysius stands a dependable bell-machine, age 50 years, and back of the bell-machine stands Brother Walterman. Brother Walterman oils the machine four times a year, winds it every other day, and keeps the check-clock inside the tower in perfect time. ON BROADWAY with
Walter Winchell

Walter Winchell is taking his vacation and during his absence his column is being conducted by guest-columnists. His guest today is Gypsy Rose Lee.

By Gypsy Rose Lee

DEAR WALTER: This comes to you from a girl, officially censored and naturally chastened, who had to travel 3000 miles to realize that most dames from Broadway are first-class suckers. I used to think New York City was a wise guy's heaven, a place where the literati blended with the cognoscenti and produced a breed of Wallingfords.

GYPSY ROSE LEE

I'm wrong, Walter. And you know how it is. Back home we were stupefied by the drug of self-importance. We used to call chance vistors from the Bronx hayseeds; Jerseyites were hicks and Middle Westerners were just suckers; Californians weren't even human beings and those guys from Hollywood were hams.

And you know what we thought of the Hollywood bungaleers. They were just actors and actresses who couldn't make good in "the theatrical center of the universe." Out here in Hollywood, I was shocked to learn, they've put the reverse English on it and a Broadwayite is someone who hasn't the carfare out to California.

I came into Hollywood with a production number on my back, like the first car to roll out of a new automobile factory. Nobody knows whether you're going to make good. You're an experiment with a cost sheet. You go through a series of bumps to determine how much jolting it's going to take to break you up. Mechanics strip your gears, redesign your eyebrows and give you a new coat of sun-proof paint. When you get through all of that you're shaky in the knees, chastened and, by Heaven, an actress.

—o—o—

In the process of shaking me up for production, a number of things happened which clearly demonstrate what simps we Broadway gals are. In the first place, I was stripped of the name you knew me by. True, the name they gave me was the one I was born with, but that isn't the point.

"From now on," said Mr. Zanuck, "your name will be Louise Hovick. Long live Louise Hovick! Gypsy Rose Lee is dead."

"Well," I said, "maybe so. A lot of people will forget the name and recognize the body, so what difference does it make?"

—o—o—

● AND SO YOU SEE, I let them change my name. I let them raise new eyebrows on me. They changed my mouth. They corrected my walk. They made me look like a Park avenue debutante. They gave me tragic eyes and then Mr. Zanuck topped it by calling me in.

"Miss Hovick," he said, "we have decided to put you into a big picture without the preliminary breaking in.

"You Can't Have Everything," he said.

I don't know whether that title was born on the minute, but it was nice irony just the same—a Hollywood touch which even the plot of the story helps out. You see, I play a "heavy," and Alice Faye and I compete for the love of Don Ameche. I never have a chance, of course, because Alice is a blonde and the virtuous type, but I do the best I can, Walter, and when you see me losing Don in the end don't think I'm slipping.

I'm not. It's just that the breaks are against a New York gal. The script writers, who haven't any respect for New York's traditional claims to superiority, couldn't very well give Don to an emigrant, could they? Of course I protested that I had more experience than Alice, but the answer was a horse laugh so irritating to the sensitive Metropolitan soul that I am.

"All your experiences have been in New York," sneered the script writers. "Wait till you've tasted some real life."

—o—o—

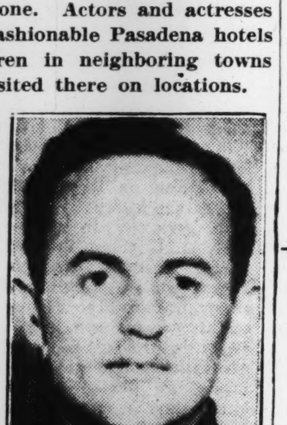
THAT SET ME to thinking, Walter. Maybe ours is the wrong slant on this sleepy little burg where they make pictures? Maybe we were so crowded in by vaudeville actors and actresses that we couldn't see beyond them to the realities in other fields?

I do know that my first impressions of Hollywood were shocking. When I was there before as a child actress in a Mary Pickford picture (or didn't you know that?) the place was only what it pretended to be—a country town riding like a carbuncle on the hide of Los Angeles.

—o—o—

You could have rolled a bowling ball down Hollywood boulevard after eight at night without striking anyone. Actors and actresses were told they weren't welcome at the fashionable Pasadena hotels and restaurants; and mothers of children in neighboring towns locked their offspring up when actors visited there on locations.

Dusty roads crossed Hollywood boulevard, and lemons, along with actors and actresses, was the town's chief industry. As I said before, I was a kid, but the drabness of Hollywood lived with me for some time.



DARRYL ZANUCK

—o-o—

● I'M AFRAID that the picture hasn't changed very much since then. The boulevard has changed its curfew hour to 9 and you can still bowl a ball down the pavement without harming an actor. Its shops are a little dressier, maybe, but not much more. When you want to buy things you go to Beverly Hills, Wilshire boulevard and pay an extra tax for the swank surroundings.

But the greatest change of all is in the attitude of the inhabitants toward newcomers. You may have built for yourself the greatest reputation on Broadway, but out in Hollywood you're just a newcomer who may or may not make good.

The only interest people show in you is purely clinical. You're a guinea pig which is to be put into good enough shape to go to the laboratories. During this period of preparation they look through you as though you were made of glass which had imperfections which somehow or other had to be removed.

—o—o—

AS A CONSEQUENCE, a New Yorker emerges from this situation with all of her ego deflated. She discovers that her figure isn't all she thought it was; that her face needs remodeling with highlights and shadows—things she never knew existed before.

She is told her clothes are all right for Broadway and the Bronx, but not so good for pictures. Immediately a host of costume designers start crawling all over her frame and make derogatory remarks about her latest Paris creations.

When they get through you can recognize the name in the solitude of your bedroom, but the body has been changed, and so, too, has the outlook. You leave your day's work worn out and with the conviction that maybe you're not so hot after all.

Anyway, I've made my first picture. And now I'm Louise Hovick, of the Seattle Hovicks, and by the time you get through mutilating this letter, Walter, I'll be back in New York—a full-fledged hick from Broadway.

"Horse Wasn't There"

old Smoky got jabbed with the spur and within 15 minutes my ankle was swollen up like a balloon. Fortunately, we had a doctor and a nurse with us for just such an emergency, but for the rest of that day Jones had to be lifted into the saddle. At that I wasn't as badly off as one other member of the troupe, who later had to mount his horse from a stepladder so as not to split his pants.

Despite all these little untoward occurrences, the riding shots really add a lot to the effectiveness of the picture, which is good action melodrama of Spain and France during the Napoleonic period, in addition to presenting on the screen the music which first established Friml as a popular composer.

We were 14 weeks on the picture, in addition to another month of rehearsal and pre-recording which came before actual camera work. And now that it's over, I'm riding again, without camera accompaniment. We've taken a cabin at Lake Arrowhead until I have to start work in "The Ugly Duckling"—"we" being my wife, Irene Hervey; our youngster, Gail, and myself. Irene has her Arabian mare, Gail has her Shetland pony, Mocha, and I have Smoky up here. The only member of our equine family who is absent is the colt born at Palm Springs on the morning of the day I started work on "The Firefly," and whom Irene christened "Firefly" for that reason.

If I don't get a chance to make any personal appearance in St. Louis later in the year, and it begins to look now as if advance assignments would keep me too busy, maybe I'd better send back that colt in my place. It ought to be very appropriate, sending a horse to represent the absent Mr. Jones. Anyone who saw "Love Call" would get the point.

Style Trend in Autumn Suits

SUITS not only give promise of repeating their spring popularity during the coming autumn, but they indicate some interesting style trends. The straight little jacket which stresses the pencil silhouette is among these. Buttoning straight up the front to the neck, where it is finished with a small boyish collar, the jacket fits the hips as snugly as it does the shoulders. The skirt which accompanies the slender coat is equally straight of line, short and tailored.

Coiffure Styles Varied, Without Radical Change

Modes Offer Unlimited Possibilities for Chic and Charm.

By Helen Jameson

IT IS interesting to observe how one style of hairdress will evolve into another mode. It just happens. The high bang becomes a pompadour. A little puff abaft the ear grows into a roll. Except when the bob knocked the world silly, there have been no sudden radical changes.

The finger wave is slipping, no doubt about that, and the smooth crown is coming back. Perhaps the hair stylists got bored putting in undulations. With the uplift at the back, with rolls instead of ringlets, with more material used in the building of the hairdress, it stands to reason that something had to give way. The finger wave has flourished for a long, long time. We loved it but we won't miss it.

Large flat ringlets produce the sculptured effect. They are a nuisance, have to be held with pins, but what matters if they contribute the more modern note? They give a pleasing upward sweep. Tresses are divided in strands, each strand is arranged in a flat ringlet. They form the most charming patterns.

Coiffure styles were never so varied. There is no standardized fashion. It is every fellow for herself. If she can't look chic it is just too bad.

—o-o—

A CHARMING COIFFURE shows a wreath of large soft puffs encircling tthe head and a smooth crown. Puffs are set crosswise in two rows, cover the ears, fall over the forehead, snuggle close to the nape-line. A lovely arrangement, the kind that calls for the muffin hat set far back on the head. Grand for the round-faced girl.

Another mode shows the hair swept smoothly away from forehead and temples, ends turned into flat ringlets. At the back is a bun of narrow puffs clustered closely together. An excellent and happy choice for the girl with clear cut features.

All these new effects are a far cry from short hair with curly ends. They suggest coiffures of those prehistoric days when pigtails prevailed.

—o-o—

WHAT IS BEING DONE with bangs is plenty. Some are cut almost to the top of the head, are pulled forward and drawn back pompadour fashion. The curly ends are pinned securely so that the budding pomp stays in place.

Another, more fluffy style shows a bang cut far back. That portion of the hair is folded into soft raised puffs rolled toward the forehead.

Side rolls still claim the fancy of the frail sex, offer possibilities of endless designs when combined with ringlets.

The career girl, faring forth each day to bring home the bacon, will have none of these. She will stick to her smooth, wide undulation, will flaunt not a puff or a ringlet. She must look efficient. Fluff is not her beauty dish.

—o-o—

Fashions of the moment run to extremes. There are the simplest robes that were ever worn and there are the frilliest. Each style demands makeup and coiffure that are fitting. If the gown is exotic and startling, the complexion can go a bit wild, still hit the bull's eyes and the coiffure can be plain with scarcely a sign of a ringlet.

If the choice is something bouffant with skirt hems, yards around, hair can be shoulder length and bouncing. The complexion then must assume the gardenia softness, be natural. Tinted lips remain the high cry and why not? With all modes they are friendly. They are the modern touch.

—o-o—

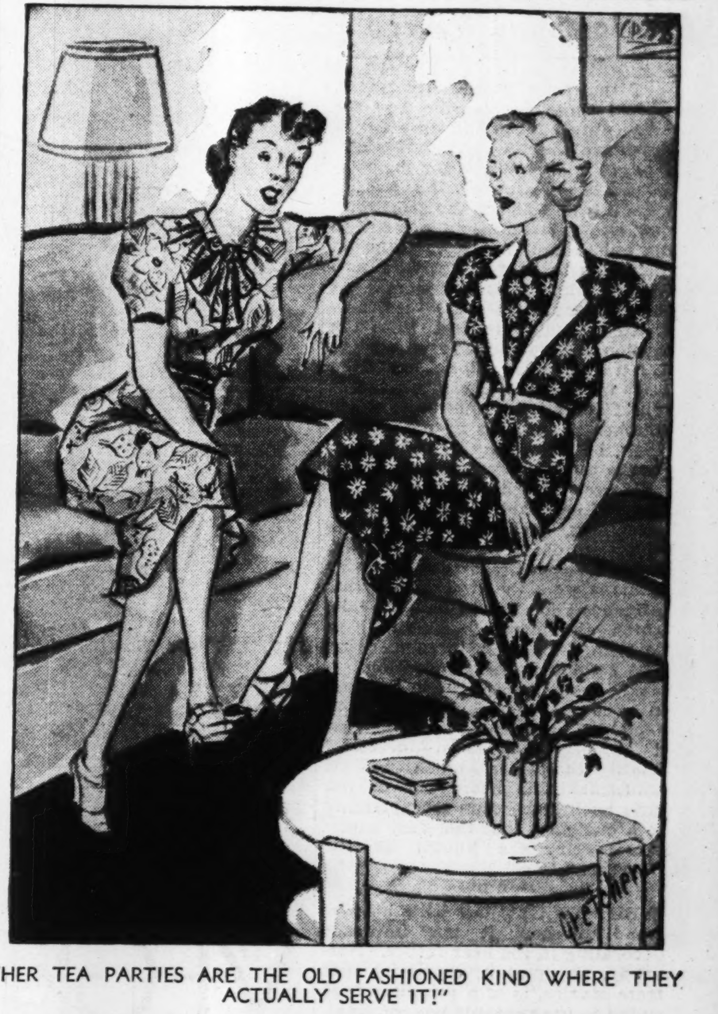
ONE OF THE GRAND signs of the time—and it is leading toward a more charming appearance of the sisterhood—is the growing interest in line and color. That means that we are developing a sense of beauty, and eye for loveliness, which make easier the problems that beset us when we are buying dainties of the toilet table or seeking the gown that is appropriate and flattering.

Once again we must remind the beauty class that a priceless investment is a full-length mirror, so that the complete composition can be scrutinized. That is the only way to get acquainted with one's own appearance.

Page-Boy Dress

Page-boy coiffures are waning but the page-boy dress is coming into vogue. It is shown in youthful models that should prove popular with the college girl. A basque bodice, which buttons at the front and has a flat but high collar and a skirt which swings gently at the hemline, are distinctive features of the silhouette. Brightly colored paillettes trim some of the frocks while contrasting braiding and velvet banding trims others. Sheer woolens and velveteens are the favored materials.

STYLES-SMILES -:- -:- -:- By Gretchen



"HER TEA PARTIES ARE THE OLD FASHIONED KIND WHERE THEY ACTUALLY SERVE IT!"

Then "tea" parties aren't extinct, after all and, lest you think that in all the tea-time talk of paintings, etchings and wood-cuts, good old pen and ink sketches are extinct, we assure you that art is flourishing—in reprints on silk as shown on the left. A long neckband rolls over the full gathered blouse and ties in a bow . . . On the right, white daisies etched on brown ground with starched linen trimmin'—collar, cuffs, revers and belt. With this she should wear an enormous starched linen hat with a a brown grosgrain ribbon whipped 'round it.

ONE TREND BRINGS OTHERS IN STYLE MERRY-GO-ROUND

By Sylvia Stiles

EVERYTHING is related in the merry-go-round of fashions. Each change of silhouette, skirt length, color preference and hat style has its influence upon other trends so it's easy to explain all of the fads and fancies that keep women in a whirl.

The vogue of peaches-and-cream complexions started more new fads this summer than any other fashion. It started the fashion to cover up beach clothes and brought full-length coats, sun capes, wide-brimmed hats and gypsy-like hoods into popularity. Now many of the fairest fashionables at swanky summer resorts are going about with parasols over their heads, another style that has been introduced as a means of saving complexions.

Shorter evening skirts have been changing the fashion in footwear. While the ballerina type of frock introduced this summer does not seem to be destined to a winter reception of great consequence, it has proved a forerunner of uneven hemlines which will be of fashion significance next season. The most popular hemline with the wavering edge is the one elevated at the front as though someone had cut out a large square with the scissors. The square is sufficient to give prominence to feet and to ankles and has prompted the shoe designs to recommend evening slippers exactly matching the frock in fabric and color. Repetition of the fabric won't always be possible but the duplication of shade will be, so it looks as though the dyers may have a busy autumn.

—o-o—

HAT STYLES ALWAYS govern our coiffures although some say that it's the other way around. The present trend toward millinery which fits snugly low at the back of the head while showing the forehead calls for a sweeping off-the-face line. The skyscraper turbans of last winter gave the rolled headdress its greatest opportunity. Now with hats fitting much lower at the back, hairdressers are figuring out ways to introduce a short, swirling movement with less length of tresses than the page-boy style allowed, and fewer long curls than have been seen the last few months. Results of these experiments are awaiting the turn of the seasons.

Just as high necklines reduce the interest in necklaces and fancy collars, the lower necklines bring them into the limelight. So many of the new dresses have the low necklines that the jewelry designers and the makers of frilly neckware are elated over their prospects. After wearing the high necklines the low ones seem even lower than they actually are, therefore many women insist upon elaboration in the way of frills or pins.

—o-o—

BECAUSE STRAIGHT LINE street skirts such as many appearing in the autumn collections have a tailored emphasis which calls for shirtwaists, the suit with a separate blouse is destined to be among the style leaders. Likewise, trim, short skirts go with little hats so the fashions again are related.

The slide fastener was introduced because women disliked bulging plackets and smooth lines were in vogue. Now it has assumed decorative aspects and some frocks seem made to feature their fasteners rather than regarding these as strictly practical items.

LET ME SUGGEST

by

AT this time of year decorators, and those people who buy for furniture shops and department stores are watching closely for any changes in style trends for the coming winter. Naturally, they are always on the look-out for something new and interesting to present to the public and they have to be on their toes to be ready with a new fashion while it is still news. At the moment there are several new styles beginning to creep into the fashion picture and it is hard as yet to tell which ones will be short lived and which will have "un succes fou." There is one, however, which whether it succeeds or not, will, I think, be interesting to watch, and that is the "Pan-American" vogue.

Interest in the countries to the south of us is not alone influencing decorating, but is also leaving its mark on dress fashions, jewelry, and art as well. In fact, women's fashions were the first to feel this influence and thereby hangs a tale, which, although having nothing to do with decorating, is so amusing that I think it bears repeating. A local jewelry buyer had just gotten in some of this type of jewelry and explained to all his sales people that it was called "Pan-American." Shortly thereafter, much to his amusement, he heard one of the girls behind the counter explaining to a customer that this very smart new jewelry was known as the "American-Pan."

—o-o—

● BUT TO GET ON with this new trend and how it may influence decorating in the near future. Naturally, much of it, especially that from Mexico, is of a primitive type suited to the peasants who originally created it, but it is being adapted by decorators to much more sophisticated uses. The type of furniture and accessories which is being imported from the countries to the south has a provincial character which blends well with our early American fashions, but in addition there is a color and gaiety to it that makes it useable with modern styles as well.

—o-o—

Also, in addition to the native art forms of such places as Haiti, Jamaica, and the ancient civilizations of the Aztecs and Mayans, Mexico is having what might be termed a renaissance of culture along art lines. As a result, Mexico is enthusiastic over Modern, but modern expressed with a simplicity of form and an economy of materials which is suited to the natives, but which many Americans would find adequate to their own needs. Finally, some decorators have utilized the colors and materials of the Mexicans to create furnishings that are smart, and sophisticated enough to be used in the most modern American houses.

—o-o—

MOST OF US, of course, are thoroughly familiar with the charming pottery, glassware and decorative accessories which are being shown in the stores or brought back by friends from Mexico and the Latin-American countries. Their gaiety and quaint charm have been found especially suited for outdoor dining and summer decorations or all-year round accessories in such places as California and Florida, where they first received acceptance. But now the type of things being produced down there and being introduced into this country are suited for any climate and any time of the year.

—o-o—

● THE MORE TYPICAL pieces of furniture include rush bottom chairs, many of them hand-decorated in colorful designs, and simply styled tables, which are suited to rooms of provincial character. Equally interesting but totally different, are the modern pieces which utilize the many exotic woods that are native to these hot climates as well as such materials as rattan, bamboo and leather.

—o-o—

Whether you're a bird fancier or not, you're practically going to be forced to do something about the bird situation this fall, for our feathered friends are the very last word in decorative fashion. I won't go so far as to say that you will simply have to have a pair of parakeets billing and cooing in your parlor to be in the decorative swim, but the least you can do is to have some realistic delineations on your walls. Bird picture of all types are being shown, but at the moment there seems to be a wild scramble going on to obtain at least one good reproduction of an Audubon bird print. In case you don't remember, he spent his life doing practically nothing but studying birds and reproducing them as accurately as possible. His interest was mainly academic, but decorators have now discovered the beauty and decorative quality of his bird studies and are utilizing them to add a finishing dash of color to a room.

—o-o—

IT MAY BE A little late in the season for this suggestion, but, if so, maybe you can file it away as something to be done next year. If you want some really big tubs to plant a big shrub or flowering bush in, talk to your grocer and get him to save you one of the tubs that originally contained butter or mayonnaise. Thoroughly washed out and either painted or stained with creosote, they are ideal containers for big plants, and in addition to costing nothing or very little, can be made exceedingly decorative.

CUCUMBERS SERVED WITH MIXED GREENS, AT LEFT.

VEGETABLES That STUFF WELL

By Frances Herrick

STUFFED tomatoes and green peppers are tried old friends and not news, but why limit your trumps to these two old standbys?

Cucumbers, zuchini (the tiny Italian squash), eggplant, summer squash and green tomatoes are delectable containers for cheese or fish or meat stuffings. Serve them hot with a green salad and a dessert. Begin with heated canned soup if your dessert is light or if you prefer a chilled stuffed vegetable to a hot baked one.

You'll see your husbands smile gaily if you serve their proteins and minerals in this casual, delicious way. You, yourself will like them because they can be prepared in the cool morning hours and finished in a few minutes of effortless cooking at dinner time.

Remember to emphasize the color appeal in these stuffed vegetable trumps. For instance on a very hot evening, plan your dinner around that cool, cool color, green. Center your table with a waxy white pond lily or vegetables in shades of green. Serve Penobscot cucumbers with their salty tang, a green salad and lime ice on poached pears. Or follow the tropical custom by serving a spicy curry like curried shrimps in zuchini with a border of fluffy rice. Parenthetically, the rice may also be cooked in the morning and reheated in a mere five minutes. For dessert, try vanilla ice cream with a candied ginger sauce and wee, thin cookies.

One or two cautions are true of all these stuffed dishes. Boil casings until tender in salted water; the time varies with their size and they should be tested frequently with a fork or the tip of a knife. After parboiling, be sure to drain them very dry, upside down of course. In fact you can give them a gentle squeeze so that they will not be watery when baked. Remember, too, that the vegetables after standing in the refrigerator for several hours must either be cooked a little longer than the directions state or must stand at room temperature for an hour before cooking, to offset their extreme coldness.

PENOBSCOT CUCUMBERS

Three medium-sized cucumbers.
Six strips bacon.
Two cups shredded salt codfish, freshened.
One-half cup flour.
Two cups milk.
One-fourth cup dry breadcrumbs.
Two hard cooked eggs.

Split and boil cucumbers in salted water five minutes or until tender. Scoop out seeds. Mince the bacon, fry till crisp and mix with the codfish. To the bacon fat, add flour, and one cup milk. Cook until thickened. Divide the sauce in half. To half add the codfish bacon mixture. Stuff the cucumber shells. Sprinkle with fine dry crumbs and with paprika. Bake 15 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) or broil until browned. Add the second cup milk to the remaining sauce. Cook until smooth. Add the diced hard cooked eggs. Serve as a sauce with the cucumbers after baking them. Approximate yield, six portions.

STUFFED EGGPLANT

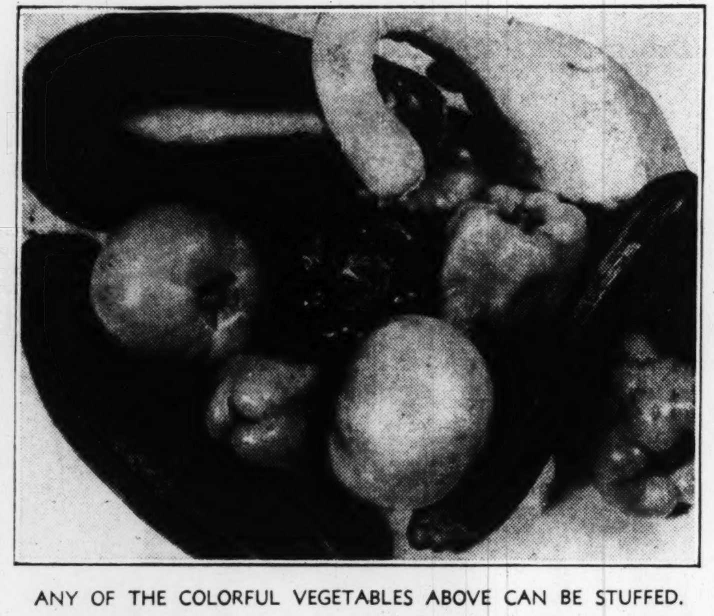
One medium-sized eggplant.
One-half cup finely chopped onion.
One green pepper, minced.
One-fourth cup shortening.
One-half cup diced, cooked meat.
Two teaspoons Worcestershire sauce.
One-half cup coarse breadcrumbs.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Split eggplant lengthwise. Parboil in rapidly boiling salted water five minutes. Drain, scoop out center and dice. Saute onion and pepper in shortening. Add diced eggplant and other ingredients. Stuff shells. Sprinkle with additional crumbs and dot with butter. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven (475 degrees F.). Approximate yield, four portions.

SQUASH SUPREME

Four small summer squash.
Two cups cooked green beans.
One-quarter pound American cheese, grated.
One-half teaspoon dry mustard.
Salt and cayenne to taste.
Moist bread crumbs.
One-quarter cup butter.

Choose squash weighing a half pound each and allow one to each service. In using larger ones, split before stuffing. Parboil in boiling salted water for 10 minutes or until tender. Scoop out the center, discard the seeds and dice the pulp. Mix it with the beans, cheese, and seasoning and stuff in the hollowed squash shells. More cheese may be used if liked. Sprinkle the top with crumbs, dot generously with butter and bake at once (or hours later) for 20 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees) or under a low broiler heat until browned. Approximate yield: Six portions.



ANY OF THE COLORFUL VEGETABLES ABOVE CAN BE STUFFED.

PEANUT TOMATOES

Six green tomatoes.
Salt.
Four tablespoons chopped peanuts.
One cup cooked rice.
Two tablespoons minced onion.
Two tablespoons butter.
Pepper.
Bread crumbs.

Cut a thin slice from the stem end of the tomatoes. Scoop out the centers, dice the pulp, discarding most of the seeds. Salt the inside. Mix the pulp with peanuts, rice, onion and butter and season to taste. Stuff in the shells, sprinkle with crumbs and a little grated cheese if desired. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Approximate yield: Six portions.

CUCUMBER BOLOGNA

Four medium sized cucumbers.
One-third pound bologna sausage.
One-quarter cup minced onion.
One green pepper.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three thin slices garlic.
Salt and pepper to taste.
One-half cup soft bread crumbs.

Split the cucumbers and parboil in boiling salted water 10 minutes or until tender. It is not necessary to peel the cucumber. After parboiling, scoop out the center, discard the large seeds, and dice the pulp. Cut the sausage in small dice. Saute the onion, pepper and garlic, all minced fine, in the butter till tender; add other ingredients and stuff cucumber shells. Sprinkle with additional crumbs, dot with butter and bake 20 to 30 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees). Approximate yield: Six portions.

SALMON IN SPICED CUCUMBERS

Three medium sized cucumbers.
One-quarter cup olive oil.
Four cups water.
One teaspoon salt.
Few grains anise seed.
Juice two lemons.
Two bay leaves.
One-quarter teaspoon thyme.
One-quarter teaspoon whole black peppers.
Few grains coriander seed.

Partially pare the cucumbers leaving enough green to give a striped look; split in half lengthwise. Simmer all the other ingredients for 20 minutes or till reduced a half. Add the cucumbers and boil 10 minutes or till tender. The liquid must be highly seasoned but one or two of the ingredients may be omitted or fennel substituted for the anise and coriander seeds. When cooked, drain and chill, then scoop out the center and stuff with chilled salmon salad. These cucumbers are also excellent served by themselves as an appetizer.

SALMON SALAD

One small can (6 oz.) salmon.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
Dash Worcestershire sauce.
Two tablespoons shredded almonds.
One-half cup minced celery or green pepper.

Flake the salmon after removing bones and skin. Combine all ingredients lightly and stuff in the hollowed cucumbers. Garnish with a green pepper star or a little chopped pepper laid in diagonal strips. Approximate yield: Six portions.

RED PEPPER HASH

Four red peppers.
One can corned beef hash.
Two tablespoons minced parsley.

Cut a slice from the stem end of the sweet red peppers, remove the seeds and parboil both the top slice and the pepper case in boiling salted water for five minutes. Drain thoroughly and fill with a mixture of the hash and parsley. Cap with the pepper top. Put in a baking dish, uncovered if you like a browned pepper, and covered if you prefer a lighter one. Bake till tender, about 25 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees). Approximate yield: Four portions.

You will enjoy this new vegetable service, and we wager you will receive many compliments for it.

Shrimp in Zuchini

Two pounds zuchini.
Three tablespoons shortening.
One tablespoon minced onion.
One teaspoon curry powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Dash of cayenne.
Two tablespoons flour.
One-fourth cup undiluted evaporated milk or top milk.
Two eight-ounce cans shrimp, cleaned.
One-half cup dry breadcrumbs.

Split the zuchini lengthwise and parboil in boiling salted water five minutes. Hollow out the center, chop it and drain the shells. Melt the shortening, add onion, curry, salt and cayenne, flour and milk. Stir well. When thickened add the shrimp cut in small bits. Season to taste. Add the chopped zuchini. Stuff the shells, sprinkle with crumbs. Brown in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Approximate yield, six portions.

Served in a border of fluffy rice, and followed with a salad of mixed greens, the zuchini boats with their tantalizing stuffing make an interesting and appetizing dish, which wins a whole-hearted vote from the men in the family.

CALLING ALL DOGS -:- -:- -:- By Albert Payson Terhune

YOU have read much about that splendid enterprise, "The Seeing Eye," which trains dogs to lead the blind. "The Hearing Ear," cannot win such fame or widespread use. Yet it numbers scores of authentic cases. Year by year a few more dogs are trained for it, in private homes. Here is one true instance:

A telephone operator in the West lost her job because of increasing deafness. At her home this deafness became more and more of an embarrassment. She solved the problem to a great extent by the help of her pet water spaniel. A dog's bark, as you know, has a peculiarly penetrating quality. With little effort, the woman taught her spaniel to run up to her and bark, whenever there was a knock at the outer door or when the telephone rang or the alarm clock went off.

He had a different type of bark for each of these and other emergencies which called for action on the part of his deaf owner. He was as useful as any trained human attendant.

I have known of several similar cases of "The Hearing Ear," in this country, and I have read of still more in Europe. A grand profession for any dog!

—o-o—

IN MY CHILDHOOD there was a popular old nursery rhyme that told of a woman who fell asleep on the way home. Practical jokers made such alterations in her clothes while she slept that she did not recognize herself when she woke. She became certain she was not herself but somebody else, when her little dog rushed out of the house barking angrily at her.

It was a merry rhyme, but it also was the most arrant nature fake. Her dog would have known at once who she was, no matter how fantastically she happened to be dressed. That is one of the several ways in which dogs are wiser than we humans. For example:

If you should cover your face with a hideous mask and put on a queer hat and wrap your body in shapeless blankets and hunch your shoulders forward, your own mother would not be able to pick you out at sight from a group of 20 other masqueraders. But your dog would recognize you in a crowd of a hundred maskers. He would know you by your scent and by your step, no matter what you happened to be wearing and if your face were hidden. That has been proven, numberless times.

Score one more for the dog's powers of discernment!

New Varieties Of Roses Are Seed-Produced

Such Plants, as Well as Hybridizing, Are a Gamble —Garden Problems.

By Harriet W. Chandler

QUESTION: In one of your articles on roses you mention raising them from seed. Being very much interested, I would like to try the experiment. Will you kindly tell me how to go about it.

Would also like to try rose hybridizing and will appreciate any information you will give me on the subject. C. L. E.

Raising roses from seed is the method by which every new variety is produced, yet every step in the process is a great gamble. Many seeds will not germinate at all, others come up nicely in three or four weeks, and some may lie dormant for three years in the seed bed and then appear and grow normally.

About a dozen years ago scientists discovered that rose seed germinated sooner and more certainly if kept at least 60 days at a temperature of 41 degrees Fahrenheit. Since this discovery the annual production of new varieties has been greatly increased.

—o-o—

AFTER THEY ARE thoroughly ripe the rose seed-pods should be soaked in a cup of water for a few days to make it easier to wash out the seeds, which are then put into tight bottles in the refrigerator where they can be kept at a temperature of about 41 degrees for two or three months. Late in the winter plant the seeds in the cold frame where they can be protected and kept under observation until all the fertile seeds have sprouted. They are usually set about an eighth of an inch deep and an inch apart. The care and transplanting of the seedlings as they develop is the same as for any other woody plant. Those which germinate the first spring will make nice plants eight or 10 inches high by autumn and should bloom the following spring. However, the maiden blossoms, as they are called, seldom are characteristic of what the established bush will produce in maturity. So it is necessary to wait until the second blooming season before deciding whether to discard your novelty or to view it with pride and ask your garden friends in. If the seeds do not sprout in the cold frame the first year, one should practice watchful waiting and not become discouraged.

Hybridizing different varieties is a simple process. Just as a flower begins to open you use a tweezers to cut out the little yellow pollen-bearing stamens before they are ripe, thus emasculating the flower which is to be the mother of the new offspring. When this flower is fully open you fertilize it by dusting it with pollen from the other rose which you have selected for the male parent. To guard against indiscriminate crossing by visiting insects it is wise to cover the mother flower loosely in a small cheesecloth bag.

There is a gamble in the hybridizing, too, because some crosses are sterile, and many of our highly developed modern roses refuse to ripen seed pods. Most of the seedlings produce single flowers.

QUESTION: When using hormodin on cuttings is it necessary to cover each slip with a glass jar or will they grow just as set out? I. W.

The chemicals for stimulating root growth will only hurry the development of roots and give a higher percentage of success with the cuttings. After the slips have been soaked in the solution follow the usual method of placing them in a medium of half sand and half peat-moss and cover to hold moisture.

—o-o—

QUESTION: Please give me information as to whether one should pull suckers off tomato stalks. E. M. K.

Where the suckers are taken off the tomato plants, larger and better fruit is produced. When the plants are not pruned, the strength goes toward quantity rather than quality.

—o-o—

QUESTION: Will you please tell me why the flowers on my tomato plants and eggplants fall and no fruit develops? I give them the best of care and water them regularly. H. C. L.

Vegetable experts have found faulty watering a reason why some plants fail to set their fruits. When the hose is turned directly on the plants, its force often washes the pollen from the flowers before the pistils are fertilized. If not entirely washed away, the pollen is kept so moist by frequent waterings that it does not transfer readily and fertilization is not accomplished. The nature of the tomato and eggplant blossoms makes them particularly susceptible to sterility from this cause. In watering, remove the hose and let the water run around the base of the plants, or throw the water high enough that it comes down on the plants like rain.

CONVENIENCE IS POSSIBLE IN OUT-OF-DOORS DINING

By Elizabeth Boykin

DINING out of doors has always seemed to our family to be just about the most exciting way to eat. A friend of ours who sets her table in the open air most of the time in summer has some good ideas on the subject that she passed on to us.

First, there is the matter of the dining table. It shouldn't be too small so that plates and platters must be bunched up uncomfortably upon it. And it should be reasonably weather-proof so that you do not have the fidgets every time the sky grows dark and threatening and you are away from home. A wrought-iron table with a glass top is the answer, of course. Such a table, also, will add immeasurably to a sun-porch in winter and may do duty for winter Sunday night buffet suppers.

It might save footsteps if you invested in several large round platters or big chop plates that could hold your whole dinner — and you'll have fun arranging your meat, vegetables and garnishes on these. And don't forget your picnic thermos bottle—to keep coffee or tea hot and to save from jumping up for replenishments every now and then. Consider, too, those several-dish electric "steam table" servers that keep things hot and handy. A bread scoop is fun and grand for those sandwich evenings when it's too hot to cook very much. If you plan properly, you'll find that you can serve a whole meal out of doors from soup to nuts without jumping up once. It takes trays and attention to details.

If your porch is so far removed from your kitchen as to make dining out on it too difficult, you can create a back-yard dining room with quite an air of elegence. Several small trees in butter tubs painted green will outline your outdoor dining room's dimensions in sidewalk cafe style. Keep the grass of this "room" cut very, very short, allowing the other yard grass to grow a little longer. A large umbrella, or one of these grandiloquent garden canopies, would complete your "room." The advantages of this type of outdoor dining space, of course, is that you can have it as near your kitchen door as you please and the birds will pick up your fallen crumbs for you.

—o-o—

IT'S A LOT EASIER to wave a bland invitation to "come and spend the night" . . . or the week-end . . . or even the week . . . than it is to actually accommodate visitors without ending up by hating them one and all. Preparedness is the best policy with regard to summer company. And the test of a visit is not how much the guest enjoys it but how good a time the hostess has. If the hostess enjoys the visit, the chances are all to the good that the visitor will.

The first requisite for a good time for the hostess is a good pleasant well equipped guest room . . . or at least a comfortable detached room where a guest can stay. If a room can't be spared, perhaps the sun porch can be made to do double duty, masquerading most of the time as a lounge or bridge room, but hiding the requisites of a guest room behind a formal exterior. A small chest or cabinet can hold stationary, ink and writing pad, an extra blanket, pins, hairpins, a fresh powder puff and toothbrush in cellophane, guest size soap, powder and cold cream. A mirror should be in easy distance and a studio couch should have a good spring and mattress for comfort.

But, of course, a separate guest room is the nicest if it is available. And we're a great believer in having a closet all decked out in fancy trapping for keeping company clothes slick and fine. To the necessaries mentioned above, add extra conveniences such as a dressing table and desk if possible, along with a comfortable chair and reading light.

One of the most effective, yet inexpensive, guest rooms we've seen in ages had navy blue shepherd's checked gingham bedspread and draperies with pleated flounce and valance, white walls, white voile curtains and dressing table skirt, red woodwork, red chintz chair covers and hooked rugs with lots of red in them. The furniture here was simple, but if you can't have that just yet, try doing over old furniture in white enamel.

Sunshine Sauce

One cup sugar.
Two egg yolks.
One cup cream, whipped.
One-third cup water.
Two tablespoons vanilla.

Boil the sugar and water together to form a soft ball. Pour this syrup over the stiffly beaten yolks of two eggs. Continue beating until creamy. When cold add the vanilla and the whipped cream. Beat with an egg beater until thick and fluffy. Serves six. Serve with baked or steamed puddings, peach delight, etc.

KEEP YOUR dog WELL

A Woman's New York

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, July 31.

THE Spa has started its month of activity, which means that the summer high spot in the life of New York State is now under way. In other words, the racing season at Saratoga, those 30 wondrous days, is now in progress, and everyone within cannon shot of this town who wants to be Smart, who likes to bet and who is interested in the improvement of the breed, is there.

There is nothing anywhere near New York to equal Saratoga in August. Those fantastic hotels built 100 years ago, such as the Grand Union; the spattering of marvelous elderly people; the younger racing set, represented by Jock and C. V. Whitney, and an amazing assortment of New York gamblers make up the most colorful crowd to be found in our part of the country during the summer.

The racing plant itself has been known as "beautiful Saratoga," and lives up to its billing. Not only is the track a lovely place to spend a summer afternoon, but it is filled with real romance and has that priceless quality of true color.

Racing only fills the afternoons. The evenings at the Spa must be filled somehow, and this is taken care of by a half dozen of the most elaborate and costly night clubs and gambling houses this country has ever known. Whatever the horses leave you, the roulette tables get, which is as it should be, I suppose. Undoubtedly, from the strictest point of view, Saratoga is a vicious and evil place. But oh, it is so beautiful and so much fun! If this be treason, make the most of it.

As soon as Mr. Rudy Vallee left the Hotel Astor Roof for the Fair at Dallas, Texas, an old-timer who has never lost his punch arrived to take his place. This is Ted Lewis, whom I knew first as Mr. Freedman of Circleville, Ohio, owing to the fact that in my youth I was a close friend of a young Circleville girl who regarded Dr. Freedman as the town's leading citizen, even then. It pleases me and thousands of others that old Ted and his battered top hat are packing the Broadway Roof Garden with young folks who like to shake a foot.

● THE SERIOUS THINGS of life, I'm glad to say, are at last receiving the proper attention here. It has been announced that at the great New York University next fall there will be a series of lectures on jazz music as part of the general music curriculum. In charge of this vital matter will be no less a personage than Vincent Lopez, who for many years has been the leading pianist in this field of art. So if you feel that your life is not complete without academic training in the art of razz-a-ma-tazz, you may as well report to Professor Lopez next fall—and may God have mercy on your soul.

IT SEEMS TO ME that the classic American joke has always concerned putting sand in the sugar or watering the milk. But it remained for our village really to prove the third of these historic stories. A butcher has just stepped before a local judge and paid a fine of $100. The proven charge was that this steak-pounder, when asked for a few lamb chops, placed said chops on the scale and at the same time bore down on a wooden pedal under the counter, which ran the chops up to about twice the weight. Proving all over again that the things you hear over the radio occasionally do come true.

Want $500? Why, what a silly question! All you have to do to get it is write an orchestral piece which takes no longer than 20 minutes to play, and make it good, and the New York Women's Symphony, Antonia Brico, conductor, will fork over the $500 and play the piece next March. Simple enough—and what a nice way to spend August!

My heart is set on getting to the Paris fair this year, as I remember what a milestone that of 1925 was with its brilliant introduction of modern decor. What will this one show us? So far I've been stymied with huge masses of labor, and the fact that my poor old gentleman is still hors de combat after fighting that taxi all over Murray Hill. But I still bet that I'll make Paris by mid-winter, and hope to bring back interesting reports.

enjoys it but how good a time the hostess has. If the hostess enjoys the visit, the chances are all to the good that the visitor will.

The first requisite for a good time for the hostess is a good pleasant well equipped guest room . . . or at least a comfortable detached room where a guest can stay. If a room can't be spared, perhaps the sun porch can be made to do double duty, masquerading most of the time as a lounge or bridge room, but hiding the requisites of a guest room behind a formal exterior. A small chest or cabinet can hold stationary, ink and writing pad, an extra blanket, pins, hairpins, a fresh powder puff and toothbrush in cellophane, guest size soap, powder and cold cream. A mirror should be in easy distance and a studio couch should have a good spring and mattress for comfort.

But, of course, a separate guest room is the nicest if it is available. And we're a great believer in having a closet all decked out in fancy trapping for keeping company clothes slick and fine. To the necessaries mentioned above, add extra conveniences such as a dressing table and desk if possible, along with a comfortable chair and reading light.

One of the most effective, yet inexpensive, guest rooms we've seen in ages had navy blue shepherd's checked gingham bedspread and draperies with pleated flounce and valance, white walls, white voile curtains and dressing table skirt, red woodwork, red chintz chair covers and hooked rugs with lots of red in them. The furniture here was simple, but if you can't have that just yet, try doing over old furniture in white enamel.

Sunshine Sauce

One cup sugar.
Two egg yolks.
One cup cream, whipped.
One-third cup water.
Two tablespoons vanilla.

Boil the sugar and water together to form a soft ball. Pour this syrup over the stiffly beaten yolks of two eggs. Continue beating until creamy. When cold add the vanilla and the whipped cream. Beat with an egg beater until thick and fluffy. Serves six. Serve with baked or steamed puddings, peach delight, etc.

A Woman's New York

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, July 31.

THE Spa has started its month of activity, which means that the summer high spot in the life of New York State is now under way. In other words, the racing season at Saratoga, those 30 wondrous days, is now in progress, and everyone within cannon shot of this town who wants to be Smart, who likes to bet and who is interested in the improvement of the breed, is there.

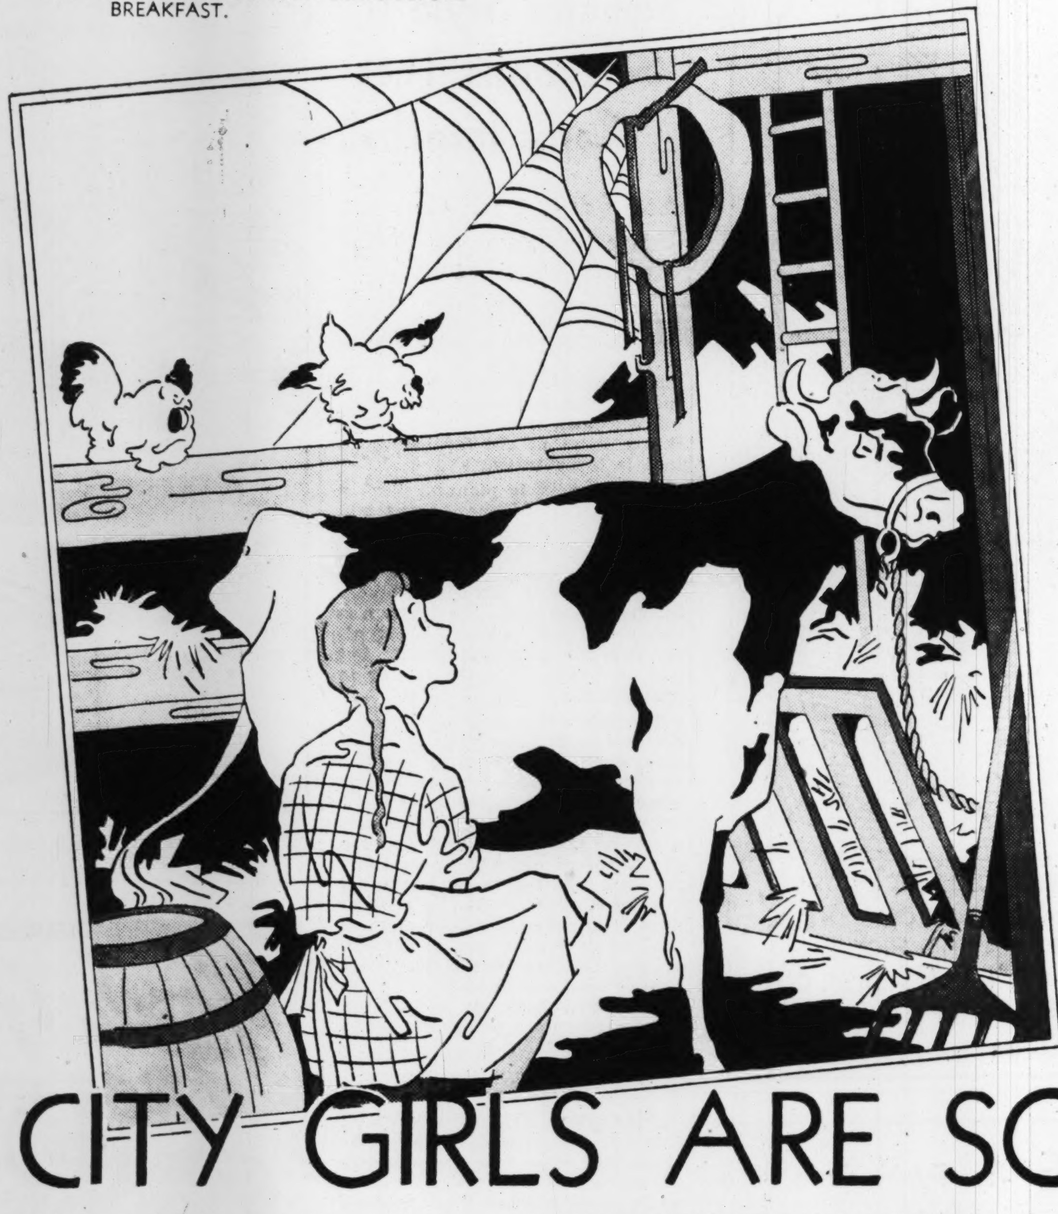
SHE MILKS THREE OR FOUR COWS BEFORE BREAKFAST.



CITY GIRLS ARE SOFTIES!

THEY WOULD WILT IN 10 HOURS HOLDING A COUNTRY GIRL'S JOB

By Jake Yoo

WHAT gets me is how these city girls can have the brass to holler about work. Why, to hear them you'd think they did have something to do. And you can bet THEY think it—you can tell that by their noise. But what a mistake! They don't even know what work is.

I'd just like to take a bunch of them down on the farm with me and let them notice themselves getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning. They wouldn't stay long, but they'd catch on to a lot of facts before they got away, and the least of the facts wouldn't be what they learned about appreciating the blessings they have here.

Why, dadburn it, right now there are an army of country girls out sweating and freckling in the wide berry fields of the land. And while they're battling the insects, chiggers, snakes and heat and briars, here sit our lily-faced city girls perched before a whizzing fan with their laps full of romantic magazines.

When the rooster crows in the deep shades of early dawn the country girl hops out and kindles a fire in an old wood range. That's the first move toward breakfast. Then she grabs a pail and goes to the barn and milks three or four cows. The milk must then be strained and separated and the cats fed. And by the time that is all done the ton of iron where the fire was built has got the house as hot as a coke oven, and breakfast can be started. Biscuits or pancakes must be made and bacon and eggs fried and all this in quantities to match the farm appetite. Often it is necessary for the farm girl to churn before breakfast if butter is to be had with the hot biscuits.

And while she is doing all these things the city girl is lying abed yawning and wondering which frock to wear to the show and studying her pink nails. And when she is through yawning she gets up and goes to the back door and finds a bottle of milk. She opens a glassy wrapper and finds her bread not only already baked, but sliced and ready for toasting. An electric toaster completes the breakfast act, and adds no more than an eighth of a degree to the temperature.

—o-o—

THEN there are other problems for the country girl. Cleanliness is one of them. Each Monday something must be done about dirt. And washing machines are scarce in the country, which means that frail arms and hands must rub heavy suits of overalls and even quilts on the primitive washboard till they are clean.

And while the country girl is in the suds and overalls, the city girl hands a laundryman a few dimes and takes in her clothes not only beautifully laundered, but ironed to perfection and neatly folded, and it is a settled matter, ready to be forgotten. But not so with the country girl. Wash day is only the first busy day. Ironing day is another laborious interval.

The food problem also must be considered. There is a big difference between its city and country phases. To have vegetables the country girl must have a garden, and gardens don't come merely by invitation. They require work. Planting and hoeing and weeding are essentials. And the produce must be gathered and cared for.

But when the city girl wants fresh vegetables she merely reads till a boy yells the particular variety she craves, and hails him as he cruises by. She scarcely misses a paragraph in the operation. And the same difference holds with fruit. The mighty orchards of the land drop their burden on the shoulders of the country girl. Her hands grow stained and rough in the long, tedious labors of canning and preserving.

In fact there is no respite from labor for the country girl. She is always busy. In summer she is at the barn in the dawn and in winter she wades snow drifts long hours before the first faint streak of light flushes the eastern sky. She pickles the cucumbers, cans the tomatoes, makes the kraut. And not infrequently is she called upon to wield a pitch-fork and toss hay, especially if the weather happens to be unsettled during haymaking. She feels the weight of the threshing ordeal when the big crops are being cared for. She scrubs floors, carries wood for fuel, mends colthes, bakes the bread, pies, and cakes.

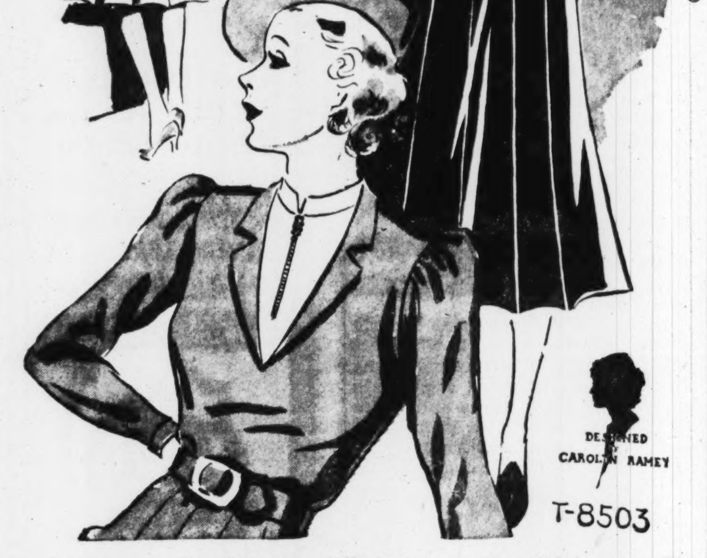
And when she wants to go to a show she must go adventuring in some frock so ancient it attracts more attention than she does, and transport a load of noise over a rough road to some little town. And when she gets there she finds herself so tanned and freckled and rough and coarse and bashful that she only serves to make the bleached town girls more beautiful by comparison. And, of course, this spoils her fun. Her clothes, too, fail to stack up with those of the town folks, and she is glad to get into the darkness of the theater where she can be herself without getting caught at it. And she really enjoys the picture. No matter much what it is or what it's about. It is thrilling and romantic and foolish and full of nonsense, and that's different from what she's used to, and we all like a change.

Then, along with other drawbacks, her boy friend is tanned up and green and looks and acts gawky. And she notices it, but realizes that he matches her better that way. And when they meet a bevy of town girls, she could thank him for being hicky. She appreciates him and knows her need of protection from the higher charms.

Of course, now that I've told most of the main things about the task of the country girl—except that she works 14 to 18 hours a day—some of the city girls will say that I have not considered the city girl who works. But I have. I've taken them all in. They have whole ricks of leisure any way you put it. A country girl would consider herself on vacation if she had a nice clean office to sit down and rest all day in. She wouldn't mind playing with a typewriter—she'd prefer some kind of plaything to while away the time with. Or a shoe factory, dress factory, overall factory—any kind of factory that would not detain her more than eight hours, would serve as a vacation resort for her. Fooling with a sewing machine would be real sport to a girl who is accustomed to wearing out washboards and hoes. It would give her a chance to see a regular show without risking her life in a machine valuable for its antiquity. And she could bleach out and see what she really looked like. She could use her additional eight or 10 hours for reading and brushing up, and lying in bed and yawning.

Why, dadburn it, the next time one of you city girls gets flabbergasted and blue, I'd advise you to go to the country and swap places with a country lass for 10 hours. You'll start home cured on the eleventh, every time you try it.

Campus Modes -:- By Carolyn Rainey



HERE'S a really charming fall dress to wear right now. The youthful skirt flatters the hips and swings so gracefully at the hem. It is made of sleek black rayon jersey. A crisp white lace detachable vestee adds such a pretty feminine touch to the deep V bodice. For a more tailored look . . . the white satin vestee with "stand-up" collar is adorable with its black slide fastener. You'll want to use the pattern again for a plaid wool for back-to-college wear.

Style T-8503 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 inches bust measurement.

Pattern costs 15 cents. Send your order to CAMPUS MODES, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, 119 West Nineteenth street, New York City.

Typhoid Fever Frequency and Mortality Low

Once Dreaded Infection, Care and Vaccination Have Decimated Cases.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

IT was a hundred years ago that Dr. William Wood Gerhard, in Philadelphia, pointed out that the symptoms and the character of typhoid fever were peculiar to itself and unlike other fevers with which it was then confused. Before his work, nearly any continued fever was called typhus. Typhus fever is a distinct entity and entirely different from typhoid.

Gerhard did not have the advantage of being able to isolate the germs of the two diseases which can easily be proved to be different. He had to rely on the physical changes in the body produced by the two diseases. He pointed out that the spots of inflammation and the ulcers in the intestine in typhoid fever did not occur in the other disease. "It is as impossible," he wrote, "to change typhoid into typhus fever as it is to change the eruption of measles into the pustules of smallpox."

This was clear thinking and revolutionary thinking for his day.

—o-o—

BOTH TYPHUS fever and typhoid fever virtually have disappeared by now. Typhus fever went out shortly after Gerhard's time, when more humane and hygienic methods of handling prisoners in jails (it was nicknamed "jail fever") were introduced. Overcrowding on ships was also reduced and this action contributed to the decline of typhus.

Typhoid, however, continued its reign for many years after Gerhard. It was one of the dreaded intestinal infections of this time of year. Fifty years ago at this season you would have heard of one or two of your friends down with typhoid every week.

By contrast, I have before me the record of the number of cases of typhoid in the large cities of the United States in 1936. In 18 large cities there was no death from typhoid fever last year. Not one. The actual number of cases is not recorded, but as the mortality of typhoid is about 10 per cent, it might be argued statistically that less than 10 cases of typhoid occurred in these cities. That is quite an achievement. No large city had more than 10 deaths, which means by the same reasoning that no large city in the United States had as many as a hundred cases of typhoid fever in 1936. In 1886 there would not have been less than a thousand!

What has brought this about? The recognition that typhoid fever is a water-borne disease and the regular supervision of the water supply. Next the practice of preventing typhoid individually by vaccination. This should still be carried out. While traveling in Europe recently I was surprised to find that one member of my party never had had typhoid inoculation. She drank nothing but bottled water from then on—by orders.

WE KNOW A GIRL who is negligee buyer at one of the department stores, and when we're on her floor we always stop off to exchange the gossip. The other day she let us in on this prize story, an addition to our collection of the department store trivia:

A man, and a very nice one he was, wind-bronzed, lean and ten-gallon hatted, came up to her last week, and in a soft Oklahoma-drawl asked to see "a robe for my wife, the kind with lace and fancy stuff." Immediately accommodating, she asked in her friendliest tones what size garment his wife took—"Is she about my size, an 18, or nearer that girl's over there. She's a 14."

A long lazy smile came up on the man's thin face, "Well, ma'm, she's not so small as either of you. In fact, she's a size 44. But she's shore mahty cute, anyway!"

That, in case you're uninformed on the point, is the sort of public declaration that puts a coronet on any wife's head!

—o-o—

OUT AROUND the Municipal Opera, the place we're apt to stop off and forget to leave is the scenery work-shop, the office—if that cubby-hole could be so designated—of Raymond Sovey, the art director. Nothing is more fascinating to our notion than to watch Sovey's quick manipulation of modeling clay into a model of a rocky mountainside, or his deft fingers shaping with paper and water color the tiny houses that are miniatures of the sets. Any minute you expect Lilliputian performers to mince into place on these detail-perfect doll-size stages.

Sovey, a skilled conversationalist, is good company. The sort of person who has a perpetual supply of amusing stories, he told us the other day a particularly funny one—a true experience. He's interested in old books, and last spring when he was in London, as is his custom, he combed the second-hand book shops for desirable old volumes. As usual, he had a large boxful when his ship docked in this country.

"You'll never believe this, but it actually happened," he laughed. "As you may know, second-hand books in a foreign language come through the customs free of duty. When the customs man asked me what was in the large box, I truthfully answered, 'Second-hand books.' 'In a foreign language?' he asked. 'Yes—English,' said I, very casual. 'Okay,' he said, checking the box off and moving on to other luggage."

"And I didn't pay a cent of duty on those books—all because they were written in that very foreign language—English! Could anybody possibly believe it?"

ATTRACTIVE EYES DEPEND ON PROTECTION AND CARE

By Gladys Glad

PHYLLIS BROOKS HAS BRIGHT AND SPARKLING EYES.

ONE of the strangest tales I've ever heard is that of a young lad in Europe who could see the stars in the daytime. This lad was kidnaped in his infancy and kept imprisoned in a dark room for 18 years. When he finally regained his freedom, his eyes were so abnormal that he could see the stars at noon, but they were also remarkable for their youthful clarity and freshness, as well as for their visional properties.

So many women today have eyes that are strained and tired in appearance, and in the summertime this strained, fatigued appearance often increases. That, I think, is mostly because women don't know how to protect their eyes from the bright glare of the summer sun. It is a wise girl who wears dark glasses when exposed to the sun, for I believe that the eyes always should receive some protection from this glare.

In addition to the dark glasses, it always is well to smooth a bit of cream or oil around your eyes before going out in the sunshine, for while the sun can't penetrate the dark glasses, the heat can, and heat alone is enough to parch the tender skin around the eyes.

The sun's glare on bodies of water, on glittering beach sand, on smooth roads and on any like reflecting medium, tends to strain the eyes and cause the formation of squint lines about them. The direct rays of the sun tend to dry out the sensitive under-eye tissues, also, and accentuate any lines and wrinkles already formed.

—o-o—

TO GIVE THE EYES proper protection, you should shield them as much as possible from the sun's direct rays. Wear large-brimmed hats. The shadows they cast will give your orbs some protection, anyway. They're considered very smart, too, not only for beach wear, but for the street as well.

It is also a good plan to smooth a bit of rich cream around your eyes before exposure to the sun's rays. If you dust a bit of powder over the application, the grease won't be obvious. And it will certainly help to prevent squint lines, and to keep your eyes fresh and youthful in appearance.

Also, give your eyes resting treatments whenever they feel tired or strained. Little squares of cotton moistened with cold water or witch hazel, and placed over the eyes during a 10-minute period of relaxation will help no end to soothe and rest dull, tired eyes.

Too late hours, constant exposure to the glare of the road and beach sand can make even the loveliest of orbs lose their charm. Clearness and brightness make even small eyes appear attractive, you know.

—o-o—

THE SUREST WAY to brighten the eyes, of course, is to make your physical health perfect. For it is youthful vitality that puts sparkle in the eyes. But cleanliness is also essential for preserving their limpid clearness.

In this world of smoke and dust it is well-nigh impossible to expect the eyes to retain their clarity without some assistance on your part. A large amount of foreign matter accumulates in the eyes each day. Some of the particles are so minute that they do not cause actual discomfort. They lodge themselves under the eyelids, and you may be totally unaware of their presence. But unless these tiny particles are washed away every evening, the eyes may become red, inflamed and bloodshot. Indeed, serious infections may result from a grain of dust that has become lodged in the eye.

An eyewash, to be safe and effective, must be free from all germs. It should be very mild and soothing to the eye. The most commonly used of eyewashes is the boric acid solution. This is prepared simply by dissolving one teaspoon of boric acid in a glass of tepid, sterilized water.

The best way to administer this eyewash is with an eyecup which fits right over the eye, although another method is merely to swab the eyes with cotton soaked with the solution. Another eyewash that can safely be used is boiled water to which a bit of salt—just enough to make the water taste faintly salty—has been added.

Individuality Usually Trait Of Maturity

By Angelo Patri

"IS there anything one can do to teach intelligent boys and girls that they do not have to follow the crowd to get where they want to be? I am about at my wits end. 'Everybody does it, Everybody wears one, Everybody is going,' seems to be the only thought in my children's heads when a decision has to be made. I would like my children to learn that they could be different on occasions without being declassed."

That notion is as old as mankind. We cannot live alone in comfort. We cannot act alone and feel pleased about it. We must have the companionship of others, we have to have their approval and their praise and if possible, their envy, to support our feeble spirits. Only the bravest of the leaders dare stand alone and if they cannot carry the crowd along with them, they fail.

But it is possible to cultivate a degree of individuality in most healthy children. It is almost too much to expect that the early adolescent stage of development will allow such expression of personal power. That usually comes, if it comes at all, in post adolescence and it comes to full maturity when the adult reaches his full spiritual stature. One must teach children to work toward that end and be grateful if they seem inclined to look in that direction.

One thing we can do, and which we often neglect. We can give children a chance to choose their way, their own colors, their own gifts, their own choice of recreation, choose among such experiences as offer a degree of self expression without danger to mind or body. Teachers and parents are busy people and they take shortcuts whenever possible by telling children exactly what they are to do and how they are to do it and just when. The child trained in that way will not be the one to lead the group. He will be the one who watches to see what is being done and follows the pattern. You cannot blame it on him. His training set him that way.

—o-o—

REARING A CHILD to start his own course is a nerve wracking, risky business that requires a strong mind, a clear brain, a stout heart. It demands patience, for the child will fumble and make unexpected and embarrassing mistakes. It will take courage for one cannot foresee what will happen to him in his adventures, and the harsh criticism of those who look on from the safety of the sidelines, within the conventional scheme of education will be hard to bear. It will take wisdom and hope and faith beyond daily store for the spirit of Youth is eager to soar and reckless in his ignorance of danger. But the doing is worth while for only the soul that is reared in liberty will know what liberty means. Only the mind that has been reared in freedom can know the meaning of that word. Only the freed spirit will dare mightily to keep that spirit free.

There was once a Scottish chieftain whose clan had been worsted somewhat by another. At the banquet given by the victor the defeated one was ordered to sit below the rest. He tossed his plume and strode to the appointed place saying, "Where McGregor sits is the head of the table and the place of homage to you." I imagine that McGregor was hard to rear, but I know he was ever the head of the table.

Fall Housecoats

THE summer housecoat of gay cotton material has proved so successful that a different version is being launched for the autumn season.

Instead of the widely flaring skirt which extends to the floor, the new coat is made the same length as a daytime frock. A slide fastener closes the front from the neckline to the hem, unless the wearer prefers to treat the coat as a smock and leave the skirt section open.

Dark backgrounds with bright motifs are stressed for these new garments which are expected to be popular for general home wear as well as for lounging.

Features of General Interest

A Movie Mystery

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD, July 31.

WALTER ABEL, the mystery man, is back in town. He's having a nice time playing golf in this town where they're always yelling for new faces.

Literally, Abel isn't a mystery man. The mystery is in Hollywood. Hollywood has him and Hollywood is using him with the same perspicacity it displayed on each of his three previous visits.

The first time was six or seven years ago. An agent took him out of a New York hit and said Hollywood had something colossal, terrific, or at least stupendous for him. After several months of waiting, it didn't happen. He went back to the stage, played in "When Ladies Meet," another hit. Paramount couldn't wait to jerk him West. That was in December. By June, Walter was still around, wondering where he was and why the pay checks kept coming. In those six months a studio can forget all about a hit play because it's raving about the latest hit play and the latest actor. "Abel? Abel? The name's familiar but"—— He never saw a camera.

—o-o—

● IN NEW YORK again, he played in a merry comedy, "Merrily We Roll Along," and this time it was RKO that got the bright idea. He was brought west to play "General Grant," a gentleman who rarely smiled, in a somber historical film. So Abel starred in four reels of tests, which with story preparations cost $160,000 before the studio decided not to make it after all.

But Hollywood is ingenious. From General Grant to D'Artagnan was but a step. Abel took tests, signed a five-year contract, took an hour's fencing lesson, and started in "The Three Musketeers" the following Monday morning.

That was the beginning. The ending included "Second Wife."

"Second Wife" is the picture that made money because it was so bad audiences loved it. "Second Wife" made heckling a movie audience pastime. "Second Wife"—but why go on?

—o-o—

I asked Abel about it. The guy's head is bloody but unbowed, and his grin revealed he still has a sense of humor.

"When I meet my friends back East, and we get to talking," he said, "I can always tell when that question is coming. There is always an embarrassed pause, and then: 'But Walter, did you have to make that picture?' "

—o-o—

"SECOND WIFE" was Abel's goodby to Hollywood before joining Katharine Cornell on the stage in "The Wingless Victory." He got good notices, but Hollywood hasn't read them. All Hollywood remembers is "Second Wife."

There was, of course, his sound and rousing portrayal of the district attorney in "Fury," which made it look as if Hollywood had discovered Abel for keeps. But "Fury"—and the other few good pictures — apparently could not outweigh "Second Wife."

Maybe if Abel had stayed on after "Fury" instead of going to the theater the story would have been different. Maybe, even yet, he will be recalled from the golf links. I hope so, real actors being scarce both here and on Broadway.

—o-o—

● THE MASSACUSETTS legislator who wants to make actors and entertainers use their right names has something there . . . Only in Hollywood some of us wish there were a law to enforce name changes in certain cases . . . Personally I think Olivia de Havilland would get farther with half as many syllables . . . I always get a callous on the typing finger when I have to spell it out . . . And Sonja Henie's famous in spite of it . . . And Gale Sondergaard. . . . But on the other hand, how far would Appollonia Chalupec have gone if she hadn't bobbed it to Pola Negri? Or Lucille Langhanke (Mary Astor) or Violet Krauth (Marian Marsh) or that Gustaffson girl from Sweden? . . . And Milton Berle. . . . If that one's real or adopted, it still makes me think of an eruption in Brooklyn.

—o-o—

Richard Lane, the new actor, is practically cured of fishing.

He spent his first week-end at Catalina recently and went Izaak Walton. . . . Felt a bite and began tugging at his line, drew it in slowly, leaned far out. . . . Appeared on the surface the face of a "sheephead" fish. Lane yelled. . . . "He's made up to play a part!" . . . and threw his catch back.

—o-o—

● THINGS LOOKED serious for a while on the Twentieth Century lot the other day. . . . Cantor and "Ali Baba" were working on an outdoor set adjoining the exterior set of "In Old Chicago," and between the two in an old-fashioned wooden stage, unproofed for sound, was Shirley Temple's "Heidi." . . . The camels of "Ali Baba" would sound off when old Chicago wanted silence, and between the two of them Heidi got no peace. . . . Alan Dwan, with Temple in tow, threatened to knock off for the day unless things were done about it. . . The studio cops were helpless, caught between three directors. . . . So the studio manager went down, in person, and worked the sets in shifts. . . .

Mid-Summer Fashion Notes From Bermuda

Informality Marks Resort Attire—Linen or Crepe Most Popular.

By Josephine Hughes

NEW YORK, July 31.

IN our hectic modern times we have become so accustomed to the Mercury-like speed of modern transportation that we rather take for granted this present day miracle of aviation. This last weekend, however, when we sped to Bermuda in the Pan American Clipper, we became acutely conscious of the vast difference between travel in the 1937 manner contrasted with that of our grandfather's time.

It took us just short of five hours to fly the 600-odd miles from New York to Bermuda, and once we arrived at our destination we spent one hour and 15 minutes jogging miles by horse and buggy to our hotel.

This was our first visit to Bermuda at this season and we found that more and more people are making this their home for the summer months. A large cottage colony has sprung up with many well known New Yorkers building their own homes. We think that probably this will become more and more a summer resort for married couples with children. The climate is perfect for the latter and with this fast Clipper service established the "Grand old provider" will be able to hop from his sultry desk in New York to visit his family more often and for longer stays.

—o-o—

HAMILTON IS much quieter in summer with Tuckerstown fast becoming the smartest American colony. The Robert Ogden Bacon Jrs. have built a lovely home there near the Mid-Ocean Club, where Mr. Bacon can indulge in his favorite sport of golf.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Orr are building a beautiful house on Riddle's Bay which will be completed for the Winter season. The Schuyler Smiths are in residence at Spithead, having rented the attractive house of Eugene O'Neil.

The girls bicycling along the winding roads prefer the little play suits with button front detachable skirts which open to give them plenty of knee action.

They were noted often in white sharkskin and the pastel linens. The peasant bandana tied around heads and, of course, the dark sun glasses were favored by most every bicyclist we passed.

At "21" there is the usual noonday and sunset cocktail gathering with informality the keynote of the picture. Many wear the regulation Bermuda shorts, which must come to two inches above the knee; others prefer simple crepe or linen spectator sports dresses, and we noted the dearth of slacks, or culottes. The ladies streaking across the golf course at the Mid-Ocean Club, too, preferred these shirtwaist dresses and many were worn in a lovely turquoise shade of linen.

At the Mid-Ocean Beach, as well as around the pools, the knitted and the printed satin elastic fabric bathing suits were most popular. Mrs. Frederic Saltonstall, of Boston, looked especially attractive wearing her slim elastic fabric suit in a monotone navy and white pattern.

—o-o—

OUR DEPARTURE was indeed auspicious with many well-known personalities of Bermuda coming to Darrell's Island to view the takeoff. The Governor of Bermuda arrived on the Little Nournahal with Vincent Astor and his house party, which includes Mrs. Potter Bourne, Mary Cushing, Prince Serge Obolensky and "Doc" Holden. Mrs. Bourne wore yellow linen shorts and a turquoise antibes shirt. She flung a shoulder strap bag casually over one arm. Crisp white sharkskin was chosen by Miss Cushing in her shorts and shirt and she tied white sandals bandana fashion about her feet.

Among the first passengers to arrive for the homeward flight were Mr. and Mrs. Howell von Gerbig, returning from a month's honeymoon. The former Dorothy Fell traveled in a turquoise damask pattern crepe dress; a crownless white turban pieced in front by a diamond pin and pulled on a coral cardigan when we climbed to greater heights.

WEATHER AND WARDROBE -:- By Marjorie Hillis

AT this time of year, most of us suddenly wish we had more cool-looking clothes. Even the best-planned wardrobes don't seem to have quite enough crisp, light dresses and we're all tempted to run out and buy a half-dozen of the alluring bargains that are advertised on every hand. This is just a word of warning to buy carefully.

In the first place, as a rule, there aren't as many really hot days as you think there are going to be. Heat waves come and go, over a not-very-long period. In most parts of the country, you don't need the closetful of very summery dresses you are probably yearning for. And a very summery dress isn't always cooler than a thin printed silk or sheer that is dark enough to wear when the temperature is sizzling.

A wiser, much less expensive procedure is to cool off your costumes by means of white accessories. White hats and jackets and bags and gloves and flowers, crisp and spotless, give the cool look that is half the battle. Watch for bargains of this type, and when you see a real one, buy enough so that you won't be tempted, next month, to pin on a white flower that is not quite fresh or wear a pair of white gloves that should go into the laundry. For the price of one or two bargain dresses, you should be able to have a supply of accessories that will take you through the summer.

—o-o—

ONE OF THOSE little white turbans, with a band or two instead of a crown, will be really cool, as well as smart. Those simple, open-meshed gloves (but be sure they are simple) are the coolest variety made. And two big white organdie carnations help to give you that just-out-of-the-handbox look that is such a summer asset.

An added advantage is that, while too many dresses hang in the closet unworn and are pretty apt to look dated next season, the majority of simple white accessories are perennially smart. They come back year after year, like the flowers in your garden, and are just as alluring as ever. The few that don't—the occasional hat or jacket—are the ones on which to do the most economizing, by buying cheaper ones or fewer of them, except in the case of those you will wear often enough this summer to pay you back.

But I hope you noticed that I used the word simple when I said that a white accessory bought this summer would be smart next year too! The fancy variations are the ones that go out of fashion.

Eggnog Chiffon Pie

One tablespoon gelatine

One and one-half cups milk

Three eggs, separated

One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg

One-fourth teaspoon salt

One-half cup sugar

One to two tablespoons rum or one teaspoon vanilla

One cup whipping cream, whipped

One baked cooled pie shell.

Soften gelatine in one-fourth cup of the cold milk. Heat rest of milk to scalding over boiling water; beat egg yolks, nutmeg and salt, then slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook until mixture coats spoon. Stir in gelatine until dissolved. Chill until it begins to congeal. Beat egg whites until stiff, adding sugar gradually. Beat in the milk mixture and flavoring. Fold in three-fourths of the whipped cream, pour into pie shell, and chill one to two hours. Add a little sugar to rest of cream and spread roughly over top just before serving. Sprinkle sparingly with nutmeg. Yield: 8 servings.

Raspberry Cocktail

Three cups fresh, chilled red raspberries.

Six tablespoons granulated sugar.

Two teaspoons lime juice.

Two tablespoons finely chopped mint leaves.

Arrange the raspberries in six sherbet glasses. Sprinkle with lime juice and chill. Just before serving, combine the granulated sugar with the chopped mint leaves and sprinkle one tablespoon on each glass and serve. Garnish with mint.

Summer Style Selections That Carry Into Fall

Accessories and Costumes Are Shown for Wear Later as Well as Now.

WARM weather clothes are destined for much more service because August is a summer month even though the displays of fur coats, dark frocks and felt hats make women wonder whether it is the calendar or the fashion world that is topsy turvy.

Anyone who is planning for a leisurely stay-at-home August will find this an ideal time to invest in a few fillips for a summer wardrobe. The prices are lower and there are many different knickknacks as well as complete costumes that not only will prove attractive for immediate wear but will carry over into the fall or to next summer.

The gypsy-like play clothes and accessories perhaps offer the most inspiration, because they are the sort of togs which women like to wear even though their vacations are taken in snatches and they travel no farther out of town than the Meramec beaches or the country clubs. Seersuckers and other novelty cottons selected in vivid or dark color schemes will be as practical for September golfing and tennis as they are today. One-piece pique frocks and smartly styled linens likewise may be called into service for home wear after they have served their purpose for vacations.

COLLEGE GIRLS will find plenty of uses for the bandanna 'kerchiefs and other bright accessories which can be had for a "song" while those sweaters in luscious pastel shades and those gay shirts which now accompany play suits will go to class with an air of smartness. Doubtless they will find a new way to wear the cheerful handkerchief squares than wrapped around the head and shirt tails may be tucked in rather than pulled out, but these may well be regarded as staples in the way of sports wear.

Once the "first impression" clothes of a college career have served their purpose and classes start in earnest, the collegiate crowd will get back to wash frocks and gay summer sportswear. It's a recognized practice on the campuses for white footwear and light sports clothes to be worn late into the autumn as well as donned very early in the spring, so mothers and daughters who are shopping now for college needs may consider this a warning. Dress-up daytime clothes must look extremely chic and smack of the new season rather than an old one, but a pastel evening frock or two picked up at small cost during July or August will prove of value.

Those housecoats of interesting printed materials are among other items of apparel that are not stamped too emphatically with the summer season to be purchased at this late date. They are fine for traveling as they pack neatly and their all-over patterns will look as attractive next autumn as they do now. These coats are nice for college girls as well as home loungers and since they cost so little may well be included in off-to-school wardrobes.

SOMEWHERE in the storeroom of every major studio are the strong flat boxes and squares sawed from thick planks that used to serve as "stilts" for short leading men and male stars when they were being photographed in scenes with actresses who were as tall or taller than they.

It is an unwritten but closely observed rule in Hollywood that except in comedies, a man must appear to be taller than the woman with whom he works in a scene. So such old timers as Richard Barthelmess, Douglas Fairbanks and George Arliss and other stars who were short, always had a "stilt" available for close-up scenes.

But now because the new crop of leading men seems to be taller and bigger all around, the boxes and planks have almost disappeared from use on the sets of Hollywood. Such players as Errol Flynn, Gary Cooper, George Brent, Leslie Howard and Basil Rathbone have no need of such "stilts" to make them tower over the leading ladies appearing opposite them.

Current movie heroes average over 6 feet 1½ inches in height, measurements of the male stars and featured players show. In 1930 the average height, according to the records that have been kept, was 5 feet 11½ inches. So the movie star of 1937, it appears, has grown two inches in seven years.

Tall stars include Clark Gable, Dick Powell, George Brent, Cooper, John Boles, Flynn, Ian Hunter, Brian Aherne, Wayne Morris, Victor McLaglen, Bob Montgomery, Randolph Scott, Patric Knowles, Gary Grant, James Stewart, Dick Foran, Craig Reynolds, Preston Foster, Barton MacLane, Victor Jory, Rathbone and Fred MacMurray. But there are two newcomers, William Hopper and Willard Parker, who come close to topping them all. Hopper is 6 feet 3 inches tall and Parker is 6 feet 4. They are working together in the football picture, "Over the Goal," in which the U. S. C. football squad, averaging 6 feet 1 inch in height, appears, as well as Gordon Oliver, who plays a 6 foot 1 inch villain.

This increasing height of the men in pictures has had some affect on the feminine half of the players' rosters. Women in pictures are getting taller, on the average, too.

Perhaps Hollywood will yet be the cradle of the super-race, for there are giants on the sound stages there now.

DRAMA MOTION PICTURES MUSIC

All Film Stars "Joiners" Of Something or Other

First Duty of New Player Is to Lend Moral and Financial Support to "Bird Watchers of America," "West Side Riding and Asthma Club" or "Bachelors' Association."

By H. H. Niemeyer

HOLLYWOOD, July 31.

ONE of the first signs of success a young player in motion pictures receives is an invitation to join something. This may come from the "Bird Watchers of America" or from the "Shorts for Men Movement," but whatever it is, it is not to be considered too lightly. Many young players have found that "joining something" has been their second step to success.

Not long ago Wayne Morris, fresh from his spectacular triumph in "Kid Galahad," was asked to become a "Friendly Indian." He accepted and was initiated a few days later.

About the same time Gordon Oliver received a notice that he had been made an honorary member of the "Junior Birdmen of America." He was "very pleased" to accept. Naturally he couldn't afford to do otherwise.

These are legitimate offers to belong to established organizations. Olivia de Havilland wasn't so sure about the letter asking her for a membership fee to join the "Bird Watchers of America." Hugh Herbert took a chance, friendly soul that he is, and turned down an invitation to join a "Willow Cane Association." But Allen Jenkins fell for the bid he received to become a member of a "Pipe Smokers' Club"—although he doesn't smoke pipes. Jane Wyman has recently joined forces with the "Daughters of the Forest" but she has been away and the secrets of the organization, if any, have not yet been revealed to her.

Some of the organizations which the stars and players are asked to join are quite obviously non-existent clubs. One such invitation came to Pat O'Brien from a crank who signed himself as "President of the Association for the Improvement of Restaurant Coffee." Pat was for the organization but failed to send his dues.

The Mauch twins, Billy and Bobby, have been asked to join every sort of boy's organization in the world either as honorary or active members. They have recently become Boy Scouts but their parents have turned down most other offers.

Some years ago Dick Powell received notice that he had been elected, whether he wished it or not, to membership in the "Bachelors' Protective Association." Now that he is married to Joan Blondell he believes his membership has probably lapsed although he has never been advised to that effect.

Naturally all the established lodges, fraternal insurance organizations, luncheon and business clubs have many members among Hollywood's celebrities. So has the famed "West Side Riding and Asthma Club" and the "Black Horse Troop," and the legendary Hollywood "Footprint Association."

The pocketbooks and billfolds belonging to the stars and featured players are full of membership cards to this and that and the other—proving that the successful player must also be a "joiner." It is part of the price of success in Hollywood.

FAME and a lot of photographs, on the screens and in the magazines and newspapers, frequently have their kick-backs. Frank McHugh tells this one on himself. He was a guest not long ago at a Sunday afternoon gathering in Hollywood and found himself talking to a charming woman, a woman who was, he knew, the wife of a famous cartoonist.

When he finally excused himself, the lady said:

"I just want you to know, Joe, that I think you are the very funniest man in pictures. My husband and I are agreed on this if upon nothing else. Just the other day he told me, 'I think Joe is the best comedian on the screen.'"

McHugh swallowed and found the courage to say, "There must be some mistake here. Who am I?"

"Why," said the lady, not yet abashed, "you're Joe Penner. I'd know you anywhere."

"And I had to show her my studio pass to prove I wasn't Joe Penner," explains Frank. "I don't know that she believes me yet, but I do know that she thinks Joe Penner is the best comedian in the world. I must tell Joe."

It's a wise fan that knows his own favorite star when he sees him at work in a studio. Dick Powell finds himself called "Bill," and Bill Powell is asked questions about his "wife," Joan Blondell.

Pat O'Brien is used to being called George O'Brien and George O'Brien makes no attempt to correct the fan who calls him Pat, unless he is asked blankly which O'Brien he is. Bette Davis and Constance Bennett were often confused by the public when Bette had very blonde hair and Warren William is often mistaken for John Barrymore.

Nothing deflates an actor's ego more than a fan or autograph collector who calls him by the wrong name.

Golschmann Completes Whirlwind Summer Tour

VLADIMIR GOLSCHMANN, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony, will sail for France next Wednesday on vacation, after having made one of the busiest summer tours of any conductor in the United States in recent years.

Golschmann, who concluded his regular season with the St. Louis orchestra on tour last April, opened the New York Philharmonic Symphong concerts at Lewisohn Stadium on June 23, to the largest attendance there in the history of the outdoor series. He remained for two weeks in charge of the orchestra and then flew Westward.

In Hollywood Bowl, from July 13 to 16, he conducted four concerts to open the season there, hurried to Portland, Ore., to conduct an outdoor concert there, flew back east to Philadelphia for concerts in Robin Hood Dell on July 22, 23 and 24, drawing two houses that were the biggest of the year. This afternoon he completes a four-concert engagement at Ravinia Park, Chicago.

Several of the concerts have been broadcast over national networks and through St. Louis stations. Following a vacation at his home in Paris, Golschmann will return to this country in October, to begin rehearsals for his seventh season in St. Louis. This summer's engagements are the first Golschmann has had during the vacation period in this country.

PATRICIA BOWMAN, FEATURED DANCER, WHO MAKES HER FIRST FOREST PARK APPEARANCE IN "THE PINK LADY"

Shirley Temple to Aid Of the British Crown

By Colvin McPherson

FROM a well-beloved short story that Rudyard Kipling wrote in 1888, Hollywood has constructed the most pretentious Shirley Temple picture to date. The crowds going to the Fox Theater this week are finding "Wee Willie Winkie" an opus of roadshow proportions.

For this child's version of "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," even without its young Alpha Centauri, would be pretty much of an extravaganza. Roll of drums, skirling of bagpipes, barking of dogs and commands, beating of gongs, howling of night-raiders, sword-swallowing, sword-sharpening and riding to battle keep up a pitch of excitement that gives the more recent generations a world of fun. And in the center of everything, as a little American girl bringing peace to the troubled border country of Northern India, is Miss Temple, carefully displayed to best advantage.

Aside from the fact that Wee Willie Winkie was a little boy named Percival Williams, the son of the Colonel and did nothing of the sort of treaty-making, Mr. Darryl F. Zanuck's transcription of Kipling keeps right with the original. We have an idea that Shirley's following, which is juvenile, will raise no objection, even if it has read Kipling. "Wee Willie Winkie," in lovely brown, blue and green tints, with all sorts of excitement, is a money's-worth entertainment for the citizens of tomorrow.

Shirley, who ought to be getting her best grades in geography by her work in "Stowaway" and "Wee Willie Winkie," takes the whole thing as a big circus. Forced to forego tap dancing and lollypop songs by the Victoria era, she makes wisecracks about kilts and the Colonel, learns military discipline and drills, gets C. Aubrey Smith to laugh in spite of himself, defends poor mama, June Lang, sings "Auld Lang Syne" as Victor McLaglen goes to a soldier's rest, weeps over his baby picture (that is pretty hard to take if you're over 12), worries about international affairs and goes on a mission of peace to big, bad Cesar Romero.

At her side until his misfortune in battle is Sergt. McLa-'en, colossal by comparison and doubly funny in the Scotch idea of pants. C. Aubrey Smith is the Colonel, Shirley's gruff old grandfather, who eventually accepts her logic in the matter of border warfare and comes to an agreement with Cesar Romero, turbaned ruler of the hill-men. June Lang, a pretty widow with a bird on her hat, gives Shirley a new papa in the person of Michael Whalen, valiant young officer of the garrison.

Further glorification of the British Empire is contained in "The Coronation," a color account of the pageantry attending the accession of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. Although it may make some very young persons think that Shirley Temple grew up to be Queen Mary, it ranks as the most fascinating short subject of the year.

Narrated by Lowell Thomas, who watched the goings-on himself, it takes in not only the street parade but a great many other items of splendor. The gray battlements of Windsor Castle against pale spring skies, the richly pigmented portraits of previous monarchs, the peers and peeresses in their gorgeous robes, the riotous crown jewels and finally the big parade itself are caught in the full color range.

Of unusual merit, too, is the current issue of "The March of Time," which discusses the building and activity of Rockefeller Center in New York, the fitness of Hawaii for statehood and the business of adopting babies in this country.

New Faces of 1937.

PLANS are being made, they tell us, for an annual musical on the pattern of "New Faces of 1937," present occupant of the Ambassador Theater. The most that spectators will be able to say after seeing the first edition is "better luck next time." And that would be no idle wish—"The Big Broadcast of 1937" was an infinite improvement on "The Big Broadcast of 1936" and the second "Broadway Melody" of the talkie era out-glittered the first, although that was a great success in its day.

The "New Faces" idea is a good one but the Ambassador musical establishes only a few personalities. One of these is Milton Berle, young comedian, who has succeeded in spite of a terrific razzing by columnists. He keeps the pace, he gets most of the laughs in the show. Jerome Cowan, not new to films but at least a late comer, adds another portrayal to equal that he gave in "Beloved Enemy." Harriet Hilliard, leading lady, who assisted Astaire and Rogers in "Follow the Fleet," will be remembered better this time. And Lorraine Krueger, tap dancer, will be referred to with pride by St. Louisans as another of our girls who made good out West.

Generally, however, "New Faces of 1937," which is a backstage musical, seems to lack something that has made the private life of Broadway interesting most of the time up to now. Perhaps it should have Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler or Eleanor Powell. Its humor is on the level of an oft-repeated, "He can't do that to me!" and its top scene is one in which a young man gives an impression of a lady taking a bath. This routine, the theater-wise may recall, was done in stage shows at both the Ambassador and St. Louis last winter, by a comedian at a downtown hotel and heaven knows where else. Delightful but not at his best is Joe Penner, as a young man ambitious to go on the stage.

"Border Cafe," the filler feature, sends John Beal, son of a Massachusetts Senator, out to Texas to become a man. There he meets Harry Carey, Harvard-educated rancher, and Armida, cantina prima donna with all shades of blue blood in her veins. Gangsters come West to kill cattle on the hoof, Beal falls in love with Armida and the climax is a gun battle.

Saratoga.

Loew's Theater has had a busy time with the Jean Harlow picture during the past week, so keeps it for an extended engagement. Even with some awkwardness where a stand-in had to take the late Miss Harlow's role, "Saratoga" is a vigorous and amusing comedy romance. Clark Gable, Lionel Barrymore, Frank Morgan, Una Merkel and Walter Pidgeon are other players.

"The Pink Lady" Greets Former Acquaintances in Forest Park

Musical French Farce, From 1926 Season, Revived by Opera

"THE PINK LADY," remembered in theatrical history chiefly for its familiar waltz, "Beautiful Lady," will be dressed up with modern clothes, scenery and dancing at Municipal Opera tomorrow night, to serve as the ninth week's entertainment in Forest Park this summer. "The Bartered Bride," near-grand opera selection which has proved a sell-out attraction in the past week, has one performance left, tonight.

Tracing its ancestry to a French farce, "Le Satyre," by Georges Berr and Marcel Guillemand, "The Pink Lady" was first seen in Paris for a year under the French title, without music. Immediately afterward, it was done in English by C. M. S. McLellan, and set to melody by Ivan Caryll. The musical version made its bow March 31, 1911, at the New Amsterdam Theater, New York, running for nearly a year. After a jaunt to London, the company returned to this country for a road tour and "Beautiful Lady" was enshrined in the musical memory.

Municipal Opera has done the show only once before, in 1926. The recreation in Forest Park tomorrow night will have, therefore, entirely new costumes, Raymond Sovey's up-to-date expression of Le Joli Coucou, a restaurant in the forest of Compiegne, the antique shop in the Rue St. Honore, Paris, and the ballroom for the costume party of the last act, and dances that Ballet Master Adolphus and Dance Director White have drafted in partnership.

A fair proportion of the principals in the cast will be new, too—George Meader, opera tenor and dramatic actor, Jack Arthur, from the stage and radio, and Patricia Bowman, dance soloist of the Roxy Theater and Radio City Music Hall in New York.

Meader, who will be remembered for his role of Dumptsy in the Lunts' play, "Idiot's Delight" at the American Theater last April, was once with Metropolitan Opera, but was persuaded by Jerome Kern, the song writer, to leave the company and create the role of Pompineau in Kern's musical play, "The Cat and the Fiddle." It was as Pompineau that Meader came to the American in 1933. He has been with the Lunts in "Taming of the Shrew" and in "Amphitryon 38," their new show which opened in San Francisco in June. He rejoins them when the play reaches Broadway in October.

In "The Pink Lady," Meader will play the worrying Philippe Dondidier, French gentleman who is constantly upset at being involved in the playful intrigue of a pair of lovers.

Arthur has the leading male role of Lucien Garidel, Parisian man-about-town. A scholarship graduate of the Institute of Musical Art in Brooklyn, he has been featured in "What Price Glory," "Follow Thru," "Rebound," "The Desert Song," "Hoop-La" and "Take the Air."

Miss Bowman, who got her first Broadway job with George White's "Scandals" when she was 14 years old, has danced before audiences estimated by her publicity representative at 17,000,000 persons. With her experience at the Roxy and Music Hall, she has a record of appearances in vaudeville, the Ziegfeld "Follies," "Calling All Stars" and with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

Her teacher for nine years has been Michel Fokine, famous choreographer, and Fokine featured her early last month with a supporting company of 75 dancers and orchestra of 50 in a special ballet performance in the East. Next season she is to head a ballet of 100 on a country-wide tour. In "The Pink Lady" she takes the role of Minette, as well as a solo place with the 24 dancing girls in the ball scene.

THE entrancing creature of the pale rose garments, Claudine, is to be played by Bernice Claire. Helen Raymond returns as Madame Dondidier, Eddie Foy Jr., as the comic Bebe Guindolph, Margaret Daum as the demure Angele and Lew Parker as the tattle-tale villain, Maurice D'Usac, Robert Pitkin as detective, Detmar Poppen as innkeeper, Gus Howard, Phil Porterfield, Erika Zaranova, Ruth Urban and Annamary Dickey round out the cast of the farce. Una Val Castle again is dance soloist.

"The Pink Lady" gets under way at the provincial forest. The community is pretty well excited over a mysterious "satyr" who catches pretty girls unawares and kisses them when Lucien, taking a holiday before his approaching marriage to Angele, arrives on the scene. Lucien has arranged to meet Claudine there, but when Angele makes an appearance, has to tell her that his visit is purely a matter of business and that Claudine is the wife of his business partner. Thus are provided the complications for romantic embarrassments and hair-breadth escapes.

With "Beautiful Lady," the songs are the "Kiss Waltz" (same music as "Beautiful Lady"), "Bring Along the Camera," "I'm Single for Six Weeks More," "Love Is Divine," "The Right to Love," "By the Saskatchewan," "Donny Didn't, Donny Did," "Hide and Seek" and "I Like It."

Another revival of Reginald de Koven's "Robin Hood" will follow "The Pink Lady" in the park the night of Monday, Aug. 9, John Gurney, Mary Hopple, Wilbur Evans, Eric Mattson, Miss Daum, Meader, Poppen, Miss Urban and Miss Dickey will compose a cast selected for vocal ability. "Robin Hood" in 1919 was the first show ever presented by Municipal Opera. It was repeated in 1920 and 1927.

'Virginia' For Center Theater

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.

TRADITIONALLY composers are engaging people who know much about music and nothing whatsoever about business, finance, taxes and other problems concerned with a substantial citizen. The exception is Arthur Schwartz who not only persuaded Rockefeller Center it should supply the wherewithal to produce "Virginia," the musical that will inhabit its gigantic Center Theater, but also is sketching the music for that same production.

It all began last spring when Schwartz, a successful composer who had written many hit songs and then married Katharine Carrington, the prima donna, began to worry about Rockefeller Center. He was successful financially as well as matrimonially, so he brooded about the fate of a gigantic, luxurious theater. He called in Laurence Stallings, as collaborator, and persuaded him that they should write a purely patriotic American operetta that would make a dependable tenant for the Rockefeller playhouse, where "The Great Waltz" and "White Horse Inn," both imported spectacles, had played.

To Hugh S. Robertson, one of the controllers of Rockefeller Center, and to J. Kenneth Hyatt and Louis Lotito, who direct the theaters of that spa, he sketched not only the idea of the book and music of "Virginia" but also insisted that the production could be staged for a minimum investment. He even explained in detail how the Rockefellers could achieve such an extravaganza without a great deal of cash.

"Virginia," which will be played by a cast selected from practically every part of the globe, including Virginia, is an opera of that Revolutionary era when George Washington was being both inducted into the posts of commander of the American armies and as the first President of the United States.

Schwartz knew that with a large production, a big-name star would be only a top-heavy burden. So he began a talent search that extended from Hollywood to Piccadilly, plucking a gifted one here and there who as yet was undiscovered and could be signed for a reasonable salary.

In London, Schwartz signed Anne Booth as principal singer. Somewhere en route he signed Bertha Belmore, who succeeded Edna May Oliver in "Show Boat." In Minneapolis he signed Dennis Hoey, who was then playing leading man to Katharine Hepburn in her stage production of "Jane Eyre." In Detroit, he plucked Avis Andrews out of an orchestra. In Hollywood he assembled Nigel Bruce and Gene Lockhart. Composer-Impresario-Traveling Man Schwartz had been places and assembled a bevy of highly talented people, but none of them is a high-salaried star. He went after talented performers who didn't have the names that would double their salary in the first conference.

NOT since Broadway's avid audiences went in so enthusiastically suggesting who should play the priceless Lorelei in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," has the public reveled in such mass casting as they are now doing, since John Steinbeck's novel, "Of Mice and Men," seems certain of stage production.

Ever since George S. Kaufman detected the makings of a play in the Steinbeck book, and expressed a wish to direct it, there has been considerable pressure brought on him to give the part of Lennie to Victor McLaglen. But, since this was announced a few weeks ago, Producer Sam Harris' office has been swamped with mail demanding any one of a half hundred stage and screen actors be given the role.

Lennie, readers of the book will recall, is a hulking giant with the mind of a child, with uncontrollable impulses which at times make him do things his child's mind cannot realize are criminal. It is a rich part, a great plum for any actor, but it must be played with the utmost skill.

McLaglen's success with the senseless Gypo in the movie of "The Informer" has enlisted a large public supporting him in the quest for a Lennie, but there are also large groups urging other stars.

Amateur Contest on KSD.

A NEW KSD weekly program, called "Amateur Varieties," will start at 9 o'clock next Saturday morning and run for 13 weeks. It will be open to boys and girls of the Greater St. Louis metropolitan area who are not more than 15 years old.

There will be eight contestants on each program. The winner in each broadcast, as decided by listeners' votes, will get a three-months course in radio and stage training in a St. Louis theatrical school. In the final broadcast of the series, the 12 weekly winners will compete. This broadcast will come from the St. Louis Theater, where it will be staged before an audience, and the names of the finals winners will be announced before the broadcast is concluded.

The deadline for each week's voting will be midnight of the following Thursday. Would-be contestants are to make written applications to KSD, giving their names, ages, home addresses and telephone numbers.

Ina Claire in Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" Today—Helen Hayes, in O'Neill Play, Pitted Tomorrow Against Edward G. Robinson and Frieda Innescourt in "Taming of the Shrew"—Dorothy Gish's Serial Changes Time—Another "Les Miserables" Installment Friday

By J. L. S.

ALTHOUGH John Barrymore has concluded his Shakespearean series, the NBC is still one up, in a way, on the CBS in the radio drama competition with Ina Claire and Osgood Perkins playing in Sir James Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" at 6 p. m. today on the WJZ net, and Helen Hayes opening at 7:30 tomorrow evening on the same chain in "Beyond the Horizon," the first of four plays by Eugene O'Neill that will be broadcast weekly. The CBS's all-star production this week will be confined to a performance from 7 to 8 o'clock tomorrow night of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" with Edward G. Robinson as "Petruchio" and Frieda Innescourt, of the Broadway "Mary of Scotland" and "Give Me Your Heart," as "Katherine."

ALLEN PRESCOTT, THE "WIFE SAVER," WHO HAS A SEMI-HUMOROUS "P'S AND Q'S" PROGRAM FOR MEN ON KSD AT 4 P. M. WEDNESDAYS.

Altogether the N B C has scheduled 17 dramatic broadcasts of importance from June 21 to Sept. 13—the four in the Ina Claire-Osgood Perkins series on Sundays and on Monday nights the six Shakespearean performances by John Barrymore, the four Eugene O'Neill plays, the George Bernard Shaw condensation of his 5-play cycle, "Back to Methusaleh" on Aug. 30, and for Sept. 6 and 13 two more Barrymore appearances, in "The Animal Kingdom" and "Accent on Youth." The CBS has relied on its eight Shakespearean productions during the summer layoff for the Radio Theater and on its Columbia Workshop experimental performances at 5 p. m. Sundays. Barrymore's Sept. 13 broadcast will compete with the first of the fall Radio Theater series, which probably will have a cast of movie stars.

THE CBS's "Taming of the Shrew" will afford a direct comparison of the results achieved by this network with those of John Barrymore, who played in his own "streamlined" version.

Robinson and Miss Innescourt will be supported in "The Taming of the Shrew" by Charles Brown as "Christopher Sly"; Walter Kingsford as "Batista," Andy Devine as "Grumio"; William Austin as "Hortensio"; Ernestine de Becker as "Bianca"; Robert Fraser as "Vicentio" and Ethel Mantel as the widow. Conway Tearle again will be the narrator. The adaptation of the play was made by Gilbert Seldes.

The cast for "What Every Woman Knows" includes Miss Claire as "Maggie," Osgood Perkins as "John," Ian Hunter as "David," William Podmore as "James," J. Malcolm Dunn as "Alec," Mary Michael as "Sybil," Eustace Wright as "Venables' and Andree Corday as the Countess.

No matter how the competition turns out, so far as drama broadcasting is concerned, it is sure to result in improvement in radio acting and microphone technique. While it is impossible to estimate now the proportion of the radio audience which has tuned to the rival performances, or desires more plays by the greater dramatists, indications are that "big time" drama will have more time hereafter on the network schedules.

O'NEILL'S "Beyond the Horizon" tells the story of a dreamer who lacks courage to live his dream and thereby causes the wrecking of three lives. The locale is a New England farm. The principal characters are two brothers, "Robert" and "Andrew Mayo," and the girl both love, "Ruth Atkins" (played by Miss Hayes). Her choice seems to be "Andrew," a broad-shouldered, bronzed son of the soil. "Robert"; frail, dreamy-eyed, accepts the apparent situation, and plans to leave the farm, which he has never loved. He arranges to sail to the Orient in a ship owned by an uncle, and eagerly looks forward to "the joy of wandering on and on in quest of the secret that is hidden just over there, beyond the horizon." "Ruth," coming upon "Robert" the evening before he is to sail as he sits dreaming in the sunset, and, yielding to impulse, declares her love for him. Elated, he renounces his plans to go, and the disappointed "Andrew" sails in his place. The remainder of the play, covering a period of eight years, details the consequences of "Ruth" and "Robert's" impulsive decision.

The O'Neill series will be carried on Monday night of next week with a performance of "The Fountain" starring Francesca Bruning."

MEANWHILE, the Mutual net and WGN have switched the Couple Next Door serial, in which Dorothy Gish and Harold Vermilyea are starred, to 12:45 noon Monday through Friday, and are concentrating at 8 o'clock Friday nights on Orson Welles' seven-installment production of Hugo's "Les Miserables," in which Welles thus far has given a noteworthy performance in the principal role.

When Miss Gish and Vermilyea were engaged for the Couple Next Door, it was stated that gradually other actors of wide reputation would be cast as the "leads" on other daytime dramatic programs. Now it is said that while waiting to see how listeners react to the Gish-Vermilyea experiment the sponsors of the Betty and Bob, Romance of Helen Trent and Ma Perkins serials are discussing similarly strengthening their casts.

Helen Menken, who has been playing "Brenda" in the Second Husband on the WJZ net Wednesdays, was one of the first actors of prominence to be cast weekly in a radio serial. This week, she and the serial will be shifted to the CBS chain, at 5:30 p. m. Tuesdays.

Assurances are given that the 75-minute NBC production of George Bernard Shaw's own version of his five-play cycle, "Back to Methuselah," which is scheduled for the Monday night following the conclusion of the O'Neill series, will be given with a cast worthy of the occasion.

The current NBC Radio Guild hour-long performances, at 1 p. m. Fridays on the WJZ network, are not broadcast locally. Whether, after the change by New York to daylight saving time Sept. 26, they will be broadcast by a St. Louis station, as in some past seasons, remains to be determined.

MORRIS ANKRUM'S "Marc Anthony" in last Monday's CBS production of "Julius Caesar" was another of the heart warming instances of an understudy making good in the emergency. As a result, he has been cast as "Edgar" in "King Lear" Monday night, Aug. 9. Ankrum, a stage and screen actor who never happened to win national favor, was praised for his work as "Laertes" in the CBS' "Hamlet" July 12. When Raymond Massey, who had been cast as "Marc Antony," was rushed to a hospital last Monday, Ankrum, was selected as the logical substitute. He rehearsed all day, and at 7 p. m. stepped before the microphone and played "Antony" with a finesse and spirit that must have stirred every listener who was tuned to the performance. Ankrum, a graduate from Stanford University, first made Broadway in "The Green Goddess" with George Arliss, and last played there with Lillian Gish in "Within the Gates."

W P A Survey of Eloquent Testi Inadequacy of

Not Even in City With L Would $800 Fixed Maintenance

By RICHARD
A Staff Correspondent

IN view of the objective of the p country-wide industrial minimum per hour, which counts up to $16 50 weeks,—a report on "intercity issued today by the Social Research Administration, becomes timely and 59 cities in every geographical sec ancy in population, spreading from 6,930,446 in Greater New York.

The report is based on statistics of March, 1935, and an increase ranging from 1.6 per cent in Boston to 8.9 in Detroit must be computed to account for the rise in living costs from that date until March of this year. The estimates were made at two levels—a maintenance standard, comprising only basic necessaries; and a lower emergency or depression scale, embracing stringent economies. For the purposes of the investigation, a hypothetical family was postulated—an unskilled worker, his wife, a son of 13 and a daughter of 8. This size of the group was chosen as the nearest approach to the average census private family, which consists of 4.01 persons.

Weapons for Opponents.

Opponents of the wages and hours bill will find a redoubtable arsenal of weapons in this report of 193 pages, which bids fair to stand as an authority upon its subject. The aims of the proposed measure and the survey's figures may legitimately be opposed, since the latter concern only urban conditions, and the former exempts agricultural laborers. The results of such a comparison lend eloquent testimony to the startling lack of coordination prevailing among various Government agencies.

The average annual cost of subsistence for such a family, at the maintenance level of 1935, throughout the 59 cities investigated, is shown by the report to have been $1267, or $467 in excess of the bill's minimum of $800. In a community like Washington, which ranked in 1935 as the most expensive dwelling place in the country, the difference mounted to $614.54. Mobile ranked in that year, as it does also today, as the cheapest city in which to live. Yet the figure for this municipality was $1129.81, or $329.81 more than $800. The latter amount, in Mobile, would have been exhausted for housing, food and clothing alone, with nothing left over for fuel, electricity, ice, transportation, medical care, school attendance, recreation, life insurance and taxes.

Even on the emergency scale, under which the suppositious family is viewed as drastically tightening its belt and reducing the nutritive value of its food to such a degree that prolonged use of the resultant diet would constitute "serious health and efficiency hazards," the average yearly cost of living throughout the field is computed at $903. In the city ranking lowest on the emergency scale, Wichita, Kan., the figure was $809. As against the bill's minimum of $16 a week, a St. Louis family, still on the scale of barest subsistence, would have required $18.04. For Washington, the weekly estimate is $19.50. The average for the 59 cities is $18.26.

In Maintenance Budget.

On the more generous maintenance level, which is still declared to be considerably lower than "decent American standards of living," the weekly cost runs from $21.73 in Mobile to $27.20 in Washington. The figure for St. Louis is $25.76, for New York $26.44, for Chicago $26.08, for Kansas City $23.95, and for Houston, Tex., $23.27. The average for the entire field is $25.14.

The maintenance budget permits a four or five room flat or house, with gas, electricity, an

WPA Survey of Living Costs Eloquent Testimony Against Inadequacy of Wage-Hour Bill

Not Even in City With Lowest Standard Costs Would $800 Fixed in Measure Meet Maintenance of Family.

By RICHARD L. STOKES
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 31.

IN view of the objective of the pending wages and hours bill—a country-wide industrial minimum of a 40-hour week at 40 cents per hour, which counts up to $16 a week, or $800 for a year of 50 weeks,—a report on "intercity differences in costs of living," issued today by the Social Research Division of the Works Progress Administration, becomes timely and significant. The survey covers 59 cities in every geographical section and of the widest discrepancy in population, spreading from 26,570 in Albuquerque, N. M., to 6,930,446 in Greater New York.

The report is based on statistics of March, 1935, and an increase ranging from 1.6 per cent in Boston to 8.9 in Detroit must be computed to account for the rise in living costs from that date until March of this year. The estimates were made at two levels—a maintenance standard, comprising only basic necessaries; and a lower emergency or depression scale, embracing stringent economies. For the purposes of the investigation, a hypothetical family was postulated—an unskilled worker, his wife, a son of 13 and a daughter of 8. This size of the group was chosen as the nearest approach to the average census private family, which consists of 4.01 persons.

Weapons for Opponents.

Opponents of the wages and hours bill will find a redoubtable arsenal of weapons in this report of 193 pages, which bids fair to stand as an authority upon its subject. The aims of the proposed measure and the survey's figures may legitimately be opposed, since the latter concern only urban conditions, and the former exempts agricultural laborers. The results of such a comparison lend eloquent testimony to the startling lack of coordination prevailing among various Government agencies.

The average annual cost of subsistence for such a family, at the maintenance level of 1935, throughout the 59 cities investigated, is shown by the report to have been $1267, or $467 in excess of the bill's minimum of $800. In a community like Washington, which ranked in 1935 as the most expensive dwelling place in the country, the difference mounted to $614.54. Mobile ranked in that year, as it does also today, as the cheapest city in which to live. Yet the figure for this municipality was $1129.81, or $329.81 more than $800. The latter amount, in Mobile, would have been exhausted for housing, food and clothing alone, with nothing left over for fuel, electricity, ice, transportation, medical care, school attendance, recreation, life insurance and taxes.

Even on the emergency scale, under which the suppositious family is viewed as drastically tightening its belt and reducing the nutritive value of its food to such a degree that prolonged use of the resultant diet would constitute "serious health and efficiency hazards," the average yearly cost of living throughout the field is computed at $903. In the city ranking lowest on the emergency scale, Wichita, Kan., the figure was $809. As against the bill's minimum of $16 a week, a St. Louis family, still on the scale of barest subsistence, would have required $18.04. For Washington, the weekly estimate is $19.50. The average for the 59 cities is $18.26.

In Maintenance Budget.

On the more generous maintenance level, which is still declared to be considerably lower than "decent American standards of living," the weekly cost runs from $21.73 in Mobile to $27.20 in Washington. The figure for St. Louis is $25.76, for New York $26.44, for Chicago $26.08, for Kansas City $23.95, and for Houston, Tex., $23.27. The average for the entire field is $25.14.

The maintenance budget permits a four or five room flat or house, with gas, electricity, an icebox, a small radio and private bathroom and toilet. The family takes one daily and Sunday newspaper and goes to the movies once a week, but has no automobile. Their food is an adequate diet at minimum cost. The man's daytime garb is overalls, and the wife does her own housework. The former has two suits, one overcoat and two hats, which must last three years. The latter's three cotton dresses, as well as her single wool dress and winter hat, are replaced every two years, and her one silk or rayon dress is renewed each year. The husband carries a $1000 insurance policy.

The group, still on the maintenance scale, spends for food an annual sum ranging from $418.28 in Cedar Rapids to $487.51 in Bridgeport, Conn. The average cost in the 59 cities was $448.18. Housing expense spreads from $158.40 in Portland, Ore., to $342 in Washington, a difference of 116 per cent. The average for the whole country is $221.89 per year. For household operation—including fuel, ice, light, household supplies, furniture and refuse disposal—the average is $153.54. Sioux Falls, S. D. stands highest in this respect, at $208.08, largely because of winter fuel needs. Clothing demands $145.93. annually.

Lower Level Contrasts.

An average of $52.32 a year is allotted to medical care, $53.96 to transportation, $6.87 to school attendance, $75.18 to recreation, from $7.80 to $14.56 for newspapers, movie admissions, $33.80; tobacco and toys, $20.80; union dues, $12; life insurance, $46.40, and church and other contributions, $15.40. In 36 cities having available statistics direct taxes paid annually per family averaged $4.17.

The cost of these items falls dramatically when the family sinks to the lower level of living, which nevertheless, as was shown above, is superior to the $800-a-year standard of the Wages and Hours bill. Expenditures for food, which declines in quality and variety, are cut nearly $150 a year, to an average level of $340.30. The domicile loses its bathroom, though keeping its private toilet, and rental costs sink to an average throughout the field of $157.76. Other items reveal similar declines, such as household operation, to $121.84; clothing, to $100.23; personal care, including hair cuts, soap and other toilet supplies, from $24.87 to $15.93; fuel, from $57.98 to $48.40; ice, from $22.40 to $18.67; electricity, from $18.68 to $14.52; medical care, $47.08; transportation, $44.97; and movie admissions, $7.80. Under this regime, newspapers vanish from the home and the allowance for tobacco and toys plunges from $20.80 to $4.80.

Where St. Louis Leads.

Scattered about the report is much curious information. Because of its 10-cent fare for adults and sprawling area, the St. Louis family demands the largest allotment for transportation in the whole country. The annual figure is put at $118.44, or 11 per cent of the entire budget. The transportation, allotment for Columbia, S. C., is only $8.75 and the average for the country is $53.96. The New York family spends $74.40 a year for transportation.

The most burdensome sales tax, in Louisville, absorbs 2.1 per cent of the total annual outlay or $25.20 per family. The New York sales tax, averaging one-half of one per cent, is the least onerous. Out of 59 cities, 18 had this form of excise in 1935; the average load it placed on the family income was 1.3 per cent.

The least variation of cost for the entire nation occurs in the item of food, and the greatest in that of housing. The spread between highest and lowest in the former particular is less than 17 per cent; in the latter it is 11.6 per cent. Rentals alone accounted for Washington's eminence as the most expensive city of 1935 and the second dearest in 1937. Clothing is costliest in the Pacific, Mountain and East North Central divisions, the last comprising Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin. In St. Louis clothing and household operation costs were found to be comparatively low. Only in Chicago, Boston and San Francisco were all major budget costs well above the 59-city average; and only in Mobile, Wichita, Little Rock and Knoxville, Tenn., were all costs relatively low.

Geography and Size.

On the whole, budget costs decline with population. All cities with a population of 500,000 or greater were more expensive places than the average in which to live, and costs were much alike in most of them. Living expenses in the dearest Southern cities were less than those of the cheapest communities of the New England and Middle Atlantic States. Geographical location proved an important factor, determining

The Communists: Who They Are, How Purges Keep Them Pure For Task of Running Russia

Bolsheviks Explain Urgency and Tragedy of Recent Incident by Citing Need for Efficiency and Party Solidarity.

By JOSEPH BARNES.
(Copyright, 1937, by the New York Tribune, Inc.)

MOSCOW, July.

"THESE people evidently have forgotten we are Bolsheviks—people of a special cut," Josef Stalin said recently of critics of the Soviet Union's ruthless house-cleaning methods. "They have forgotten that the louder our enemies rave, and the deeper our opponents inside the party sink into hysteria, the more firmly Bolsheviks will gird themselves for new struggle and prepare to move forward."

Who are these Bolsheviks? Who are the men and women to whom Stalin can turn, after the most drastic purge to which their ranks ever have been subjected, for apparently pragmatic sanction of his policies?

This question is as hard to answer as it is important. Unlike the black-shirted followers of Mussolini or Hitler's brown-shirted Nazis, Russian Communists wear no insignia. Considerably more than half of them still are workers engaged directly in production, and there are far more factory janitors in the party's ranks than factory managers. A kind of proletarian modesty, in dress as in manners, has become good form in party circles. This rule has helped to make the party's role in every day Russian life obscure and often devious.

The importance of this role is hardly to be doubted. After two decades of Soviet rule, it still is the Communist party which initiates such moves as this political and military purge now going on. It is the party members, rather than the Red Army or the secret political police, now called the N K V D, who have seen the Soviet regime through an internal crisis which would have shattered many older governments.

Stalin referred to the party in March of this year as "an army two million strong." In this figure, he included candidates, those who are on probation pending full admission into the party. The members themselves are believed to number at present fewer than 1,500,000.

At the beginning of 1932, there were more than 2,000,000 members, with an additional 1,300,000 candidates. One out of every four has been expelled in the last four years, and the story of their expulsion is the background of the Soviet Union's present political problems.

The present 2,000,000 Bolsheviks, with 1,400,000 of them full-fledged party members, do not include the Komsomols, or Young Communists; the "sympathizers," or organized workers who support the party without belonging to it, or the rank and file workers whose loyalty to the Soviet regime—or, in effect, to the Communist party—is hard to question. But their maximum number, in political terms, still leaves them a small lever with which to accomplish the revolution which the Kremlin is working out.

Reason for Standards.

This is the chief reason why Bolsheviks have insisted on standards which seem to many foreigners so high as to defeat their own purposes. It is because a small tool must be sharp that carelessness, lack of vigilance, political wavering and simple inefficiency have been made major crimes in the Communist party's present self-indictment.

There were only 200,000 members in November, 1917. The party's increase in numbers, however, has been less important than its change in qualifications. An effective underground organization of political conspirators and

China's Military Strength Hopelessly Inadequate Should Japan Make Real War, But—

Tokio Has Russia to Think About and Maintaining the Conquest Would Be Far Harder Than Achieving It.

From a Correspondent of the Manchester Guardian.

SHANGHAI, July.

THE present clash between China and Japan must have raised in many minds the question of what military, naval and air resources would be available to either side in the event of a final break and how these forces might be expected to fare in action.

From a purely numerical standpoint, of course, the Chinese would have a tremendous advantage with a total of about 160 divisions, as compared with only 17 divisions on the Japanese side, though the latter would be in a position greatly to increase their forces from reserves in an emergency.

At the moment the Chinese national forces, comprising about 1,500,000 men, are distributed roughly as follows: North China, 18 divisions; Northwest provinces, 27 divisions; West China, 11 divisions; Southwest provinces, five divisions; South China, 22 divisions; Central China, 26 divisions. At least one-fourth of these units must be written off as being of doubtful allegiance to the Central Government, and of the balance only a relatively small proportion —perhaps 150,000 — could be properly equipped according to modern standards, despite Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's strenuous efforts to build up supplies.

Air Force Is Untried.

Primarily an infantry organization, the Chinese army is weak in artillery, and the lack of standardization of guns would vastly complicate the munitions supply problem in time of war. The cavalry, actually little more than mounted infantry, is considered inferior by either Japanese or Western standards.

Not much has been done in the way of mechanization, whereas the Japanese army has made rapid progress in that respect. The Chinese Air Force consists of some 15 fighting squadrons, plus about 200 training machines, or about 650 serviceable planes in all. While remarkable progress has been made in the last three or four years, much remains to be done before China's air arm can hope to be efficient.

A serious handicap is the extraordinary diversity of machines and engines, including British, American, Italian, German and French models of almost every known type and vintage. Another weak point is the shortage of trained mechanics and the lack of reserves both in machines and personnel. The fact that the Chinese Air Force have no national aircraft industry would place it in a precarious position if supplies from abroad were cut off by an enemy blockade.

While the Chinese make good, though not brilliant, flyers, most of them display a contempt for mechanics as something with which, as the Chinese corps d'elite, they should not be expected to concern themselves. Although the Chinese Air Force has been employed to good effect in various internal wars and against Communist bandits, its combat efficiency against a well-armed foe remains to be proved.

The Navy Is Negligible.

On the other hand, the Chinese navy, consisting of a few antiquated cruisers, may be dismissed at once as an entirely negligible quantity in any conflict exceeding the proportions of a civil war.

While it is estimated that Chiang Kai-shek would probably be able to mobilize half a million riflemen fairly quickly, it is doubtful whether, in view of the inadequacy of Chinese communications and the lack of large-scale military plans, he could maintain so large a number of troops in the field for any considerable length of time.

Whatever the Chinese plan of campaign might be to begin with, it is probable that it would soon degenerate into guerilla warfare, with a number of detached armies operating independently and harrying the invader as opportunity offered.

But in any case these are perhaps the best tactics the Chinese could adopt; in a frontal collision with the Japanese army they would be sure to lose heavily owing to the superiority of the Japanese artillery and air force. If the Japanese employed a sufficiently large number of troops they could probably seize any particular point they wished in China, but they would then be faced with the same problems as they are now encountering in Manchuria.

Bandits Would Harry Them.

Irregular bands would harry the Japanese communications and large-scale banditry would develop. It is obvious that if Japan still needs to maintain the equivalent of five divisions in Manchuria, she would need a great many more in China, where railway communications are less well developed, and the question is whether at the present time Japan has the troops to spare.

Japan's standing army is officially stated to number 230,000, but well-informed observers consider that 325,000 is nearer the mark. Of the 17 Japanese divisions, five are already overseas—three in Manchoukuo and two in Korea. In addition there are six "railway garrisons," each consisting of six battalions 1000 strong, stationed in Manchoukuo and between 7000 and 8000 troops in North China.

Each of the 17 divisions has a duplicate cadre from which a new division could be built in emergency. In Shanghai the so-called landing party of marines, which actually is a permanent garrison of varying strength, has been increased to more than 3000, while about 800 marines are distributed amongst the nine Japanese gunboats operating on the Yangtze.

In addition to these gunboats the Japanese naval forces regularly stationed in China waters consist of three cruisers and 10 destroyers. The Japanese navy would be in a position, without drawing upon its main fleets, to blockade the principal Chinese ports and so to act as the equivalent of several divisions of troops.

Campaigns Outlined.

If major hostilities should break out between China and Japan what would be the probable course of events? Any attempt to answer such a question must be based largely on speculation, of course, and would depend much upon whether a large-scale invasion of China by the Japanese army or merely a localized demonstration of force were envisaged.

Take the former contingency first: Military operations on the part of Japan would probably be directed against three main theaters of action which may be roughly defined as, (1) Provinces north of the Yellow River and south of the Great Wall; (2) the Yangtze Valley; (3) South China, embracing the Fukien coast and Canton delta region.

Domination of the Yangtze region would mean naval control of the Yangtze and its key cities of Nanking and Hankow, the only two points where railways terminate on both sides of the river. However, the occupation of these two centers, despite their strategic importance, need not necessarily mean the loss of the whole Yangtze valley. Effective control of this area implies the ability to use freely not only the river, but also a considerable strip of territory on either side.

South China lacks basic communications, and there are few Favors Tax on the Machine.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN commenting on the survey made by the subcommittee on technology of the National Resources Committee concerning unemployment brought about by new inventions, in your editorial, "Meeting the Machine," you direct attention to the tragic future before the world of workers. You ask: "What is to be done for the man discharged by a new device?"

In spite of the volume and the comprehensiveness of the report, extending to 388 pages, and although it is claimed to be the first major attempt to show the kind of new inventions which may affect living and working conditions in America for the next 10 to 25 years, it offers no specific solution of particular problems, but contents itself with prescribing scientific study of various conditions, and with recommending the institution of a central body to co-ordinate such researches.

I should like to suggest that many of these difficulties raised by new inventions, from an economic point of view, could be straightened out, or at least handled with more satisfactory results than can be done today in the rising tide of unemployment brought about by mechanical inventions, if a tax (a production tax) were placed on such "labor-saving" machinery. This tax could be turned over to the unemployment relief fund, under control of the Federal Government, from which unemployed labor could draw.

As it is today calculated, the profit of "labor-saving" machines goes to the employer. Under this arrangement, it would be given to the Government, to protect the laborer from unemployment brought about by no fault of his own. Of course, part of this fund should be used to compensate employers for obsolescence and the displacement of capital investment. This is a form of loss that should be dealt with, as well as unemployment of labor, under the new order of things.

Praise (Though Faint) for Mr. Winn.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE been reading in the Post-Dispatch about the State officers selling those bonds. You have held up State Treasurer R. W. Winn as one of the fellows who have wronged the State. I think you have wronged Bob Winn. He deserves the greatest praise for the way he has conducted the State Treasurer's office.

Although he was deprived of an education in his early years, and hardly got out of the sixth grade in school, yet he has been elected County Clerk and State Treasurer. He won his way to the Treasurer's office by his sweet singing, and is known the State over as a "mocking bird." I sincerely hope you will stop berating Bob Winn, because if he did wrong, he did so ignorantly.

New London, Mo. R. W. JONES.

Against Nazi Encroachment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHILE peace-loving American democracy tries to solve its economic problems without seeking the advice of foreign potentates, the piratical agents of Hitler Germany roam about the country, proselyting American citizens of German extraction to commit high treason against their adopted country by seducing them into the oath of allegiance to "Der Fuehrer" in Berlin.

The American Republic, the rule of the people, the power of labor and the civil liberties for which our forefathers shed their precious blood: these fruits of the American Revolution the friends of Hitler seek to destroy and overthrow, to erect instead a Fascist dictatorship, with all its brutality, barbarism and persecution.

What have we to do to defend democracy? A united people to form a united front against Fascism and war. A people's front welding together all liberty-loving elements. Eternal democratic vigilance is the price of liberty.

Approval.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

READERS of the Post-Dispatch owe it a debt of gratitude for its opposition to the bizarre measures sponsored by the New Deal, and especially for its campaign against the scheme to shanghai the United States Supreme Court.

The Post-Dispatch was one of the first newspapers to recognize the iniquity of the court-packing proposal and to call attention to it. And it is pleasing to relate that substantially every great newspaper in the nation, including those in the Deep South, joined in a virtual crusade to save the highest court in the land from desecration by politicians for political purposes.

VERMONT'S ONE-HOUSE LEGISLATURE.

Coming as the experiment does at a time when the people of virtually every state are in revolt against the ineffective functioning of their legislative bodies, there is widespread and growing interest in Nebraska's one-house Legislature. There is one prevalent misconception about this experiment, however: the idea that Nebraska is the first state to adopt the unicameral plan. Three of the original 13 states—Pennsylvania, Georgia and Vermont—adopted the one-chamber form when they first set up their governments. The system was used for 12 years in Georgia, 14 in Pennsylvania and for 59 years, from 1777 to 1836, in Vermont.

The long life of the unicameral plan in Vermont offers a unique opportunity to learn how this method has operated in America. Though conditions have changed materially in the century since abandonment of the plan, Vermont's experience still affords many practical points that provide valuable guidance today. A study of its workings has been made by Daniel B. Carroll, associate professor of political science at the University of Vermont, and published by the Vermont Historical Society. The introduction to Prof. Carroll's work is a valuable general survey of the two legislative systems, and extracts from that section are reprinted on this page today.

Vermont's unicameral system would not be followed in exact detail by any state today. That it functioned successfully, despite obvious fundamental handicaps, is an indication of the unicameral plan's general soundness. In Vermont, the legislative power was vested in a large and cumbersome House of Representatives of about 200 members. The executive power was in the hands of a Governor and Council, the latter having 14 members. The Council had the power of suspensory veto; that is, to prevent the enactment of any bill into law until the following session of the House. In addition, there was a Council of Censors, with exclusive power to propose amendments to the State Constitution.

Prof. Carroll has done a prodigious amount of labor in analyzing the activities of the one-chamber Legislature during its lifetime and comparing its record with that of its bicameral successor. His findings give the one-chamber plan a wide margin as to both efficiency and economy over the two-chamber form.

The contention is made that a bicameral Legislature makes for greater stability in lawmaking. Using frequency of changes in laws as his basis, Prof. Carroll finds that from 1826 to 1835 the public laws of Vermont were 98.07 per cent more stable and the private laws 85.45 per cent more stable than in the decade following establishment of the two-chamber system.

As to economy, the average annual total cost of government increased 34.6 per cent and the per capita 20.6 per cent in the 10 years following adoption of the bicameral plan, as compared with the preceding 10 years. It is true, of course, that the country was expanding in population during that time, and state governments everywhere were taking on more functions. Taking cost figures by decades, the investigator finds, however, that the rate of increase was 74.8 per cent greater under the bicameral form than under the unicameral. Vermont's experience thus proves a major contention of the unicameral system's advocates: that it is more economical.

Prof. Carroll also finds that the bicameral Legislature did not make for greater deliberation; "on the contrary, the records show that its action was probably less wise, if not more hasty, than that of the unicameral body."

Vermont gave up the plan for reasons that seem to have had little to do with the workings of the unicameral system. They were largely partisan political reasons, partly reasons growing out of the needless complexities with which the relations of the House, the Governor and the Council were surrounded. As it was, years of effort were required before the two-house system was adopted. And Prof. Carroll finds that the contentions of leaders who opposed the change were largely justified, namely:

> That the people were happy and prosperous, satisfied with the existing scheme and indignant because of the proposed change.
> That the change would increase the cost of government and the tax burden of the people.
> That it would lengthen the legislative sessions without giving any compensating benefit.
> That it would remove the Government farther from the people.
> That it was not necessary to have a scheme of organization like that of other states.

The facts and figures show that the system in operation in Vermont was better on all counts than the two-chamber plan. They thus furnish ammunition for the growing number of spokesmen who favor the one-house plan as a step toward curing the evils prevalent in state legislative bodies today.

MR. FORD'S THEORY ON STRIKES.

Said Henry Ford the other day in an interview on his seventy-fourth birthday:

> More people are coming to understand that the recent labor troubles were not brought on for the purpose of benefiting the working man, but to reduce wages in this country.

Well, it would be very interesting to stage a debate on that point between the motor manufacturer and John L. Lewis or William Green.

A NEW SLUM CLEARANCE APPROACH.

Nothing daunted by the scant success achieved by its Neighborhood Gardens model housing project, the board of directors of the Neighborhood Association is preparing to move for slum improvement in St. Louis along another front. This time, instead of razing the old buildings and constructing modern apartments, the effort will be toward persuading tenants in the blighted areas to obtain improvements in the quarters where they are already housed.

The St. Louis Foundation, as the new offshoot of the Neighborhood Association is called, will work to eliminate overcrowding in tenements, to keep dirt and filth cleaned up from the alleys and streets, to have the existing buildings made as attractive as possible within and without, to obtain installation of modern sanitary facilities where they are not already provided, to see that church and community leadership is developed, and to obtain enforcement of laws pertaining to garbage removal, the sale of intoxicants, and police and fire protection.

The Neighborhood Gardens project failed to achieve what its sponsors had hoped for because, although the construction was economically conceived, rents necessary to provide a minimum return on the investment were more than could be paid by most of the families the project was intended to benefit. This is the hard reality which has marred many a model housing venture.

A recent survey in England showed a sharp rise in the death rate among families in a model housing colony following their removal into the colony five years before. The outlay for rent of these families was slightly higher in the new quarters, and the move had raised transportation costs of the employed members to and from work. These factors had occasioned a retrenchment in the already marginal budget for food, especially proteins.

Even poverty and squalor, it would appear, bring certain automatic economic adjustments which designs for social betterment must take into consideration. The approach of the St. Louis Foundation is fashioned to make allowance for the realities. The experiment will be watched with interest.

TOM BODINE.

The editor of one of Missouri's oldest papers, Tom Bodine of the Paris Mercury, is dead, and journalism has lost an accomplished writer.

It is difficult to appraise the man. His home town of Paris, where he was born, must have wondered at times why he chose to live and work there when greater opportunity was pressing him with urgent invitations. Certainly the question frequently cropped up in the gossipy leisure of his fellow-editors. Something he wrote years ago stirred the same curiosity in Collier's Weekly, which editorialized prophetically, at some length, on the text, "When Fame Calls Tom Bodine." Collier's didn't know what was so well known in Missouri, that fame—meaning, of course, the cities—had called him often, only to have the complimentary overtures declined.

He preferred his "Iberian village." And there, week after week, through long and satisfying years, he interpreted the events of his town, his State, his country and the world, in commentaries that consistently achieved the grace of letters elegant.

The Paris Mercury, established in 1837, will be 100 years old in a month or two, and preparations were being made to observe its centenary. It is a pity Tom Bodine could not have lived to dress the century in the bright garments of exquisite texture which it was his genius so gracefully to weave.

KANSAS CITY'S VANDALS.

The statue in Kansas City memorializing James Pendergast, founder of the organization that bears his name, has not had an uneventful life. It has known, rather often, "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune." Four times vandals have laid violent hands upon it, the latest mutilation occurring a few days ago.

Sheer wanton destructiveness does not explain these assaults. Unlike that fellow, Erostratus, who bombed the Ephesian dome just to see the fire; unlike, too, the unidentified woman-hater who in pure malice broke the Venus de Milo's arms, these Kansas City iconoclasts are, first of all, mercenarians. Whether the Pendergast monument is of gold or silver reports do not say, but it is a precious metal, apparently, for which there is a quick market, and that is why the historic figure never knows, when darkness falls, just what its dismembered condition will be as dawn comes down the Kaw. The age-old gainful motive.

The obligation of safeguarding the Pendergast statue is solely Kansas City's and hers the infamy if fail she does, as failed she has. But could those prowlers of the night be induced to change their base of operations? It is not an academic question. We have some sculpture in St. Louis which, should it be carted off in our sleep, would be the signal for song and garlands and a vote of thanks to the benevolent bandits.

JUDGE COLLET OVERRULES HIMSELF.

On July 17, Federal Judge Collet, sitting in Kansas City, issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting the picketing of the plant and branches of a St. Louis cleaning company by members of the International Association of Cleaners and Dyehouse Workers. Friday, in St. Louis, Judge Collet reversed himself when requested to issue a permanent injunction. "When Congress says it is unlawful to enjoin peaceful picketing, it is unlawful, and when Congress goes further and says that no United States District Court shall issue an injunction restraining peaceful picketing, I'm bound by that law," said Judge Collet in explanation.

Missouri's most recently appointed Federal Judge deserves praise for his forthright reversal and the frank and adequate explanation which accompanied it. The Norris-La Guardia Act, signed by President Hoover in 1932, had as its primary purpose the establishment of a labor policy which would prevent the prohibition of peaceful picketing by Federal Judges. On reviewing the law and the facts, Judge Collet found his first order had been issued "improvidently" and "without legal authority." If he had cared to cite support for a frank overruling, he might have referred to the United States Supreme Court's reversal last March on the constitutionality of minimum-wage legislation for women and minors.

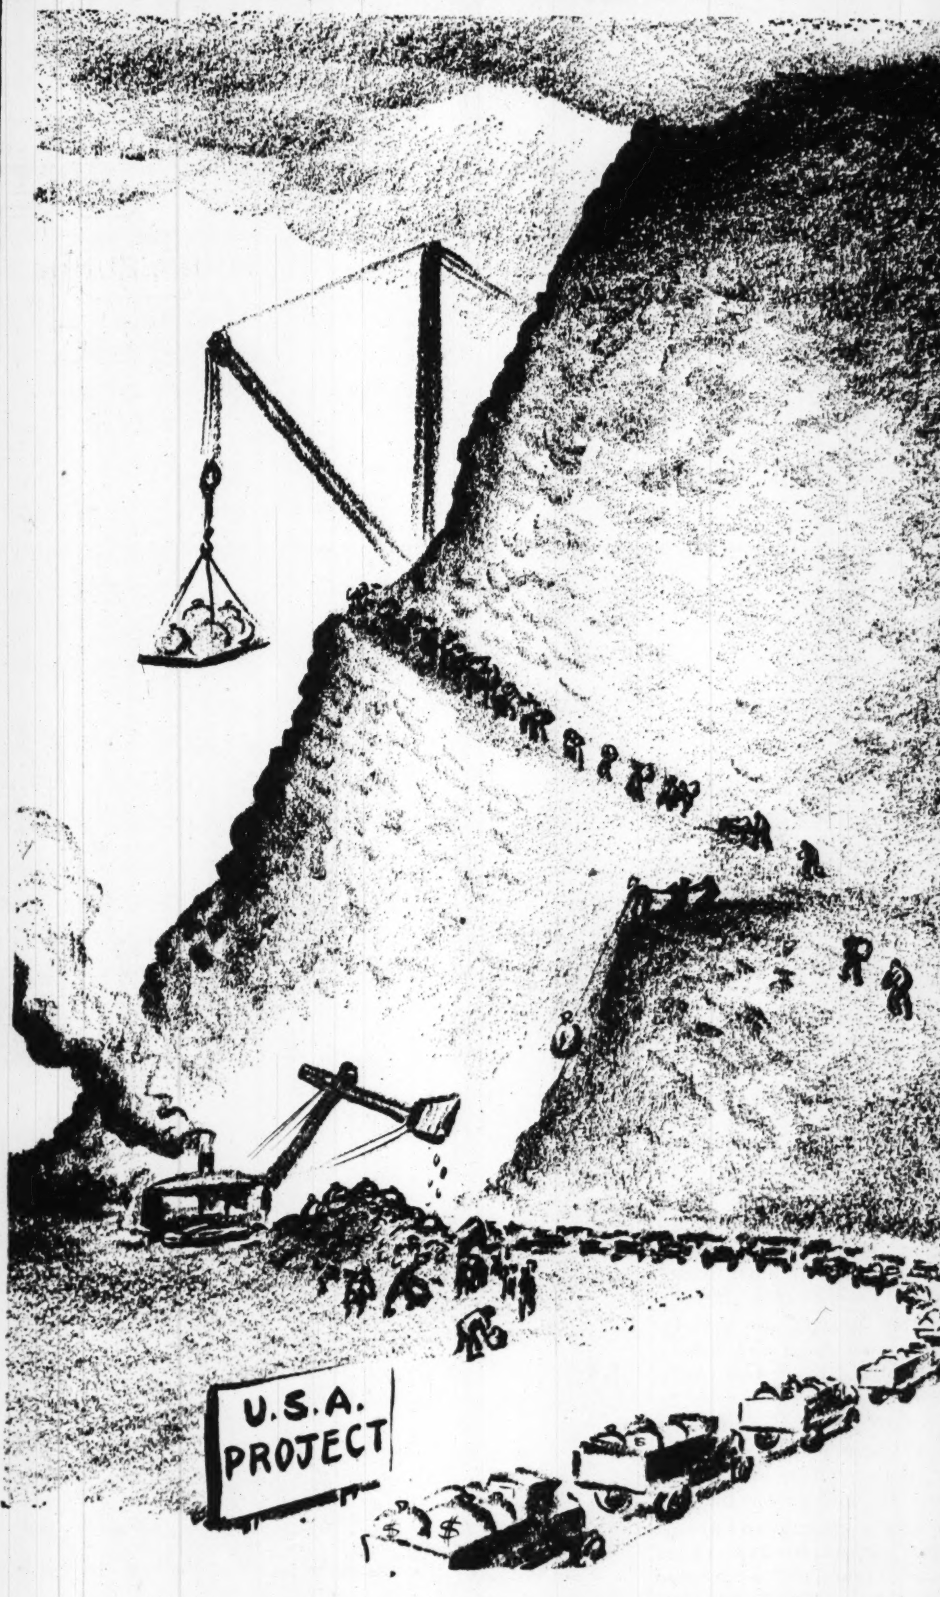
AN ARTIST OF THE FLYING RINGS.

Alfredo Codona could face death night after night in the Wintergarten or under the big top without flinching, but he could not stand banishment from the bright lights. An injured shoulder muscle did what falls, broken bones and bruises could not do. It drove the king of the flying trapeze from his throne, and the idleness destroyed his mental balance. So he fatally wounded his wife and killed himself.

Was it a final dramatic gesture to reclaim for a moment the attention which was his so long as the world's premier aerialist? His life had been packed with enough excitement to have satisfied a score of men. He was a hero on the ground as well as in the air. Once at Madison Square Garden, when a giant python seized its trainer, Alfredo rushed to the rescue. The muscles which enabled him to fling himself about the tent-top were used to pry open the snake's jaws, but he was severely bitten.

His courtship of Lillian Leitzel, queen of the flying rings, made international news-copy. Then came their marriage, with its tragic ending when Leitzel fell to her death in Copenhagen six years ago. Next he married Vera Bruce, to whom Leitzel had introduced him. On ropes cleverly concealed by vines and foliage, Alfredo and Vera did the breath-taking stunts seen in the first movie version of "Tarzan of the Apes."

But after his injury had enforced idleness, Alfredo grew irritable. This caused the estrangement which has come to such a tragic end. Novels have been written about the life of circus characters, but the career of Alfredo Codona contained more of drama and high tragedy than a realistic writer would care to pack into a single novel.



THE GREAT SHOOT-THE-WORKS PROGRAM.

Two-House vs. One-House Legislatures

English bicameral system, which United States copied, resulted from chance, not any belief in its superiority, research shows; British idea was to have one chamber for each estate, but clergy never functioned as separate branch; need for dual system doubted in American states, where citizens are on a governmental level.

Daniel B. Carroll, Associate Professor of Political Science, University of Vermont, in Proceedings of Vermont Historical Society.

THE bicameral system developed, not as a result of any fixed purpose to set up a system of checks and balances or from any feeling that a legislative body of two houses was inherently superior to one organized with any other number of houses. It was the result of accident rather than of conscious purpose.

This is well explained by Edward A. Freeman in "Comparative Politics," when he says: "The estates of the realm are in England, no less than elsewhere, three—nobles, clergy and commons. In France, the clergy remained a distinct member of the States-General as long as the States-General lasted. In England, the clergy could never be got permanently to act as a regular parliamentary estate.

"The causes of this difference belong to the particular history of England; the effects of it are that the Parliament of England remained a Parliament of two houses only, and that a crowd of constitutions, European and American, have followed the English model. The accident then has, in its consequence, been one of the great facts of later political history."

When governments were organized by the various states, following the Declaration of Independence, Pennsylvania in 1776 and Georgia and Vermont in 1777 provided unicameral legislative bodies. Shortly after the formulation of the Federal Constitution, two of these three states adopted the bicameral scheme, Georgia in 1789 and Pennsylvania in 1790. Vermont, however, continued to use the unicameral scheme until 1836.

Among the reasons for organization of the state Legislatures on a bicameral basis were a natural tendency to continue a system with which the colonists were familiar, conflict between aristocratic and democratic elements in the colonial period, adherence to the formula of divided powers and checks and balances, imitation of the bicameral scheme of the British Parliament and influence of the Federal system.

Originally, the idea of class representation gained quite general acceptance, but this has almost entirely disappeared. "Under the earliest state constitutions there were higher property qualifications for membership in the State Senate and for the privilege of voting for Senators, than in the case of the other branch of the Legislature; so that the two houses were elected by different constituencies and represented somewhat different social and economic groups or interests. This distinction, however, long ago disappeared." (Ogg and Ray, "Introduction to American Government.")

In the early State governments, the Legislatures had practically unlimited power, but subsequently much of this power has been taken from them either by specific denial of power or by delegation of power to other agencies of government. "A popular distrust of the Legislature has arisen and steadily grown until it has become one of the most striking political phenomena of the present day. A history of State Legislatures would be largely concerned with the successive development of various methods of curtailing the almost absolute power which those bodies originally possessed." (John M. Mathews, of the University of Illinois, "The New Role of the Governor," in American Political Science Review.)

Various writers have recently expressed serious doubt as to the adequacy of the bicameral scheme. This criticism has gone beyond the academic stage. A serious movement for the substitution of a unicameral legislature for the one now in use in various states has been developing since 1912.

In recommending adoption of a unicameral legislative body for Kansas in 1913, Gov. Hodges said: "In common with a large and growing number of thoughtful people, I am persuaded that the instrumentalities for legislation provided for in our State Constitution have become antiquated and inefficient. Our system is fashioned after the English Parliament with its two houses based upon the distinction between the nobility and the common people, each house representing the divers interests of these classes. No such reason exists in this State for a dual legislative system."

A similar opinion was expressed by Gov. Hunt of Arizona in 1915: "It is becoming generally recognized, not only in Arizona, but in many other states, that the legislative body consisting of two separate houses is unwieldy, and results not infrequently in such an evasion of responsibility as defeats the ends of government."

Gov. Norbeck of South Dakota made even a stronger plea in 1917: "Our system is simply a relic of days gone before. My experience and observation as a member of the Senate for several terms leads me to believe that the saving in expense is the least important item. The more important, I believe, is that it would result in better and more carefully considered laws where the responsibility was centered in one body. It is a common habit for the members of one house to feel that, if there is any error or any bad features in a bill when it passes, the other house will surely look out for it. Each depends on the other, and neither watches as closely as it should."

The arguments in favor of the adoption of the unicameral system by the American states are that it will permit much better scrutiny of the legislative process by allowing attention to be centered upon one house instead of two, that it will permit less shifting of responsibility by members of the Legislature, that it will simplify the legislative process, that it will eliminate delays, deadlocks and friction, which are felt to be an essential characteristic of the bicameral system, that it will allow the payment of better salaries to legislators and still permit a reduction in the legislative costs of government, that better results will be obtained, that it will make the legislative bodies less cumbersome and still not eliminate the desirable checks which we now have, as veto by the Governor and constitutional restrictions enforced by the courts, and that it will secure better representation of all interests of the people.

Building the Constitution

The seventeenth of a semi-weekly series describing the proceedings of the Constitutional Convention, held 150 years ago.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31, 1787.

THE 10-day adjournment, taken July 26 to enable the five members of the Committee of Detail to write a Constitution embodying the various proposals adopted, is proving a recreational blessing to the other delegates. The heat of the city continues oppressive, and to escape it many members have left temporarily on fishing trips and other excursions to the country.

Gen. Washington, whose duties have been most exacting as president of the convention, especially during the perlexing and rapidly changing series of situations with respect to the selection of the executive, went fishing as soon as the recess was voted and will continue to be away from Philadelphia until Aug. 6, when the convention meets again.

The late Revolutionary commander, accompanied by Gouverneur Morris and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris, was to stop first at Mrs. Jane Moore's, in the vicinity of Valley Forge, where trout fishing is exceptionally good this summer. It is Gen. Washington's first visit to Valley Forge since he wintered there with the Colonial Army in 1777 under most trying conditions.

Delegates remaining in Philadelphia are much interested in the latest news from the session of Congress which is sitting in New York. The most important act of the present session is the adoption of the ordinance for the government of the Northwest Territory, which provides for the admission of five new states as soon as each acquires a population equal to that of Delaware, which now has 60,000 inhabitants.

The adoption of the law establishing government in this vast territory west of the Appalachian Mountains was by the vote of only eight of the 13 states, but as the vote was unanimous, the presence of the absent five could not have changed the result. Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia, Georgia and North and South Carolina were the represented states. The belief is common among the delegates that the adoption of this ordinance will induce many residents of the present 13 states to move into new territory, settle on cheap land and soon extend the authority and government of the nation westward.

A composite "who's who" of the conventions shows that the delegates had ample political experience before they came to Philadelphia. Forty-one have served in Congress, 26 in state Legislatures, 14 as state Judges or Attorneys, 13 in state constitutional conventions and seven as Governors of states.

Taken collectively, the delegates are well-to-do, representing property and money. As creditors, they are opposed to cheap money, which threatens fortunes. At least 40 of the 55 are extensive holders of Government securities, the only security investments to be had. Twenty-four delegates are the chief creditors of their communities, while 18 are slave-holders and 11 substantially interested in shipping or manufacturing. There are 26 lawyers, nine planters, six financiers, four physicians and four public officials.

One of the remarkable things about the convention is its exceptional educational background. Twenty-six members have studied at Harvard, Yale, Princeton, William and Mary, King's or Pennsylvania. Eleven others attended British universities, while seven had private tutors. Only seven stopped with grammar-school education.

NEW NAZI DECREE ALARMS GERMAN STEEL MAGNATES

'Hermann Goering Reich Works for Iron Ore' Is Seen as Deliberate Blow at Industry.

MEMORANDUM TO BE SENT SCHACHT

Unpopularity of Latest Grain Rules Indicated by Heavy Punishments Threatened.

(Copyright, 1937, New York Tribune, Inc.)

BERLIN, July 31.—Reich authorities having issued two dictatorial decrees within a week—one interfering with the iron and steel industry and the second providing for the requisition of grain by the state—the question arises as to how far "the socialization of enterprises," one of the chief points of the Nazi program, has been approached. That the views on this subject differ widely is indicated by the comments of the German press when dealing with the foundation of the "Hermann Goering Reich Works for Iron Ore, Mining and Smelting," which is to recover and smelt native iron ore hitherto neglected by private enterprise.

Party newspapers interpreted the measure as a step toward socialization. The Voelkischer Beobachter, for instance, suggested that the interests of the nation would be served much better by a state undertaking than they would be by a combine of private companies whose interests lay in opposing the development.

The Essener National Zeitung printed a quotation from the speech Hitler made five months ago when opening the automobile show in Berlin.

"The output of German iron ore will be promoted with all means. There must be no doubt: Either the so-called free industry is able to solve this problem or it is unable to continue to exist as a free institution."

To Solve Peculiar Problem.

The Frankfurter Zeitung, on the other hand, is at pains to point out that the Hermann Goering Reich Works is not to be regarded as an experiment in the socialization of industry, but rather as a joint undertaking for the solution of a peculiar problem. The economic development of ore resources would require the consolidation of widely scattered claims, many acquired at speculative prices, the newspaper thinks. Presumably that can be achieved most quickly by the intervention of the state. The newspaper adds that if private enterprise, hitherto backward in its field, should make use of the possibilities still open to it of participating in ore mining, either through the state company or on its own account, this branch of industry may yet be restored wholly to private control.

It may be pointed out here that the man-in-the-street's conception of socialization differs fundamentally from the theories which have been carried out now in practice by Nazi leaders. When the socialization of enterprises was promised to Nazi voters, those who fell for it doubtless thought of a system under which the workers would participate in the profits. What the Nazi Government introduced instead was state control and interference, namely an economic system which is neither precisely state capitalism nor state socialism, but wartime control without a war.

Opportunities for Goering.

To attain this end Colonel-General Wilhelm Hermann Goering, commissioner for the economic Four-Year plan, may freely avail himself of the possibilities offered by the structure of a totalitarian state. This should make it easy for the state to interfere and for state authorities to take dictatorial measures. Since there is no checking of finances and no accounting before a parliament, the Government would be at liberty to carry out its measures eventually at the expense of private enterprises.

Increasing state control is felt in many fields besides the iron ore mines and grain. House owners, for instance, are hit by it because they have been forbidden to increase rents. Eggs and butter are requisitioned from the farmers and the distribution of these and other produce is strictly controlled. Prices are regulated in many branches of the industry. Skilled workers in certain branches are not allowed to change jobs without a special permit.

That the reaction in circles hit by the control measure is not too favorable seems but natural under the circumstances. It seems to be indicated from the heavy punishments threatened in case of violation of Minister of Agriculture Walther Darre's grain decree that no one knows better than the Minister himself how unpopular the new rules will be with the farmer. What may be regarded as still keener opposition is felt against Goering's entry into the field of iron and steel production with the creation of a state-financed company.

Steel Magnates' Objections.

Leading magnates of the Ruhr and Rhineland, such as Baron Gustav Krupp von Bohlen, Dr. Florian Kloeckner and Dr. Fritz Thyssen met at Duesseldorf this week, it is understood, to discuss what measures should be taken to protect the interests of private industry. A memorandum was drafted for this occasion embodying the so-called heavy industry's attitude toward Goering's decree, to be sent to him and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Minister of Economics.

These are the major objections of German iron magnates and big industrialists:

They regard the Goering enterprise as a deliberate blow at German private initiative.

They foresee that Goering's state enterprise will enjoy special privileges not granted to private enterprise and regard it as "unfair and extravagant competition," because the new concern will have free run of the state coffers.

They are also afraid that their supplies of raw material will be cut still more because of the demands of the oGering undertaking, since the "Iron General," as he is now called, as arbiter over the division of raw materials will allot his own firm as much as it wants to the detriment of private concerns.

Moreover, the Rhineland firms fear that their staffs of skilled workers—of whom there is a scarcity—may be depleted by Goering, who may transfer them as he wishes.

To the broad masses the Nazi decrees were made palatable by the Propaganda Ministry. Taking up the clew given by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels' assistants, the Nazi press told its readers that they were delighted with the new measures—whatever they might be—and that all the German people welcomed "with joyful satisfaction" the new dictatorial rules.

navigable rivers of any consequence. Hence the possession of Canton and the Fukien ports would tend to cripple the Chinese defense forces there, which would still be free, however, to operate in the hinterland and could either move northward to the Yangtze through Hunan and Kiangsi or try to recover the towns seized.

Russia Must Be Considered.

Within a period of two or three months, some experts believe, Japan could assume effective military control of a sufficient number of strategic communication centers to make unified opposition on the Chinese side difficult, if not actually impossible. Such control, it is estimated, could be achieved by the use of nine or 10 army divisions, with the co-operation of the Kuantung army and the China squadron of the Japanese fleet, reinforced by vessels from Port Arthur and Formosa. But it is extremely doubtful whether Japan has sufficient troops to spare for an overseas expedition of such magnitude. Domestic exigencies, combined with the necessity of maintaining an adequate garrison against Russia, are likely to make the Japanese general staff think twice before embarking upon any enterprise calling for a large expenditure of military resources.

POWERFUL LIGHTSHIP LAMPS

British to Cast Beams 10 Miles in Dangerous Coast Regions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 31. — Powerful lamps producing a beam up to 500,000 candle-power will be used on 60 new lightships stationed around the coasts of Britain. The lights, mounted in glazed lanterns, and fixed to masts 32 to 40 feet above the water level, are visible 10 to 11 miles away.

The ships will be fitted with wireless, and the submarine detectors will reveal the presence of a vessel as far away as 40 or 50 miles. The lightships are to be stationed at the most dangerous and isolated spots around the shores of Britain.

Labor Department's Survey Of Cost of Living in 31 Cities

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-5 Kellogg Bldg.
Washington, July 31.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., is the country's most expensive city in which to reside, and Mobile, Ala., is the cheapest. Washington ranks second, Detroit, third, Chicago, fourth, and San Francisco, fifth, Cleveland, sixth, New York, seventh and St. Louis, eighth. Kansas City, Mo., stands twenty-third.

The estimates are computed not according to a "decent standard of American life," but on the mere basic necessaries of an urban family of four, consisting of an unskilled manual worker, his wife and two children. Yet, even in Mobile, least expensive of communities, the cost of their subsistence at a maintenance level exceeds by $356.93 annually the objective of the current wages and hours bill, which is a minimum of $800 for a 50-week year. In the case of Minneapolis, the difference soars to $680.77.

The cost of living for such a family, on a scale just above depression level and much exceeding the usual relief standard, is as follows in the leading 25 cities: Minneapolis, $1,480.77; Washington, $1,455.56; Detroit, $1,434.79; Chicago, $1,422.56; San Francisco, $1,421.84; Cleveland, $1,418.44; New York, $1,399.88; St. Louis, $1,395.81; Los Angeles, $1,382.67; Boston, $1,374.41; Cincinnati, $1,365.52; Pittsburgh, $1,359.01; Baltimore, $1,347.47; Philadelphia, $1,345.70; Scranton, $1,345.20; Atlanta, $1,334.17; Richmond, $1,323.85; Portland, Ore., $1,318.24; Buffalo, $1,312.92; Seattle, $1,309.82; Denver, $1,305.88; Portland, Me., $1,304.82; Kansas City, Mo., $1,303.95; Norfolk, Va., $1,291.42; and Jacksonville, Fla., $1,274.48.

winter fuel needs and the cost, according to distance from mines or fields of coal or natural gas.

In a statement accompanying the report, Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, emphasized the fact that even the maintenance budget, to say nothing of the emergency one, in no sense provides a desirable standard of living, but measures only the amount required for basic sustenance, without provision for savings or educational opportunities for children beyond the public schools. The Brookings Institution, he pointed out records that in 1929 one fifth of the nation's families were earning less than $1,000 a year, and that, according to information gathered by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, this ratio had become higher in 1936.

"On the basis of our study," said Hopkins, "it must be concluded that a large proportion of American families is unable to obtain all the necessities, let alone the comforts, that the American standard implies. The report represents the first successful attempt on a large scale to measure intercity differences of costs in a uniform level of living at a given time."

The survey was prepared under the direction of Corrington Gill, Assistant Works Progress Administrator, and was written by Margaret Loomis Stecker, under the supervision of Howard B. Myers, director of the Social Reserach Division. The field-workers priced 251 separate commodities in each of the 59 cities, and compiled 93,000 schedules containing 1,432,000 price quotations, and consumption data.

200 UNDERPRIVILEGED GIRLS SELECTED FOR CAMP VACATION

Going to Cuivre River Resort Operated by Park and Playground Association.

Two hundred girls from 12 to 16 years old have been selected from underprivileged St. Louis families to spend two weeks during August at Camp Sherwood Forest on the Cuivre River near Troy, Mo.

A similar number of St. Louis boys spent July at the camp, which is operated by the Park and Playground Association of St. Louis. The children were selected by the Provident Association, the Children's Aid Society, and other public and private welfare agencies.

The camp has been developed as part of the Cuivre River recreational area under the supervision of the National Park Service.

BEAVERBROOK PRESS ATTACKS OXFORD GROUP MOVEMENT

Evening Standard Says It Is "Exhibitionist" and Asks Churches to Discourage It.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—The Evening Standard, independent newspaper owned by Lord Beaverbrook attacked the Oxford group movement as "exhibitionist" today and called on churches to discourage it.

Citing recent criticism of the religious group, including that of Margaret Rawlings, actress, who called it "shocking," the newspaper said the movement should be halted.

"Its methods open the door to an exhibitionist tendency which is harmful both to the individual and to the true cause of religion.

"The time has come when the churches should speak frankly to their followers about Buchmanism, making it clear they have no hope of its value and frown upon its practices. . . . The groups are not connected with Oxford University; nor are they in any sense expressive of the English attitude to religion."

Pointing out that the movement began in the United States, the Standard said the group's appeal is "to a higher social class than the old American religious revivals . . . and by reason of their polish, the methods of the groups are all the more dangerous."

The Oxford movement was founded by Frank N. D. Buchman of Allentown, Pa., in 1921.

MENTAL TEST FOR MARRIAGE SUGGESTED BY PSYCHOLOGIST

Chicagoan Says Great Deal of Misery and Heartache May Be Averted.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Persons contemplating matrimony might do well, for their future happiness, to consult a psychiatrist, Dr. Robert N. McMurry, executive secretary of the Chicago branch of the Psychological Corporation, said today.

His comment was provoked by the recent passage by the Illinois Legislature of a law which requires that pairs undergo physical examinations to show they are free from venereal diseases before they can be licensed to marry.

Without committing himself as to he relative importance of physical and mental examination, Dr. McMurry said that "extreme as it may seem," he felt that mental examinations might "save a great deal of misery and heartache which occurs out of the iil-advised choice of a life partner."

Dr. McMurry said he did not think the "European marriage of convenience" was a bad thing as compared with the "American types where love (emotion unleavened by much common-sense) is the deciding factor."

CHAMBERLAIN SENDS LETTER TO MUSSOLINI

Indications Are English Premier Has Taken Over Handling of Situation.

By the Assocaited Press.

LONDON, July 31.—A personal letter from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to Premier Mussolini reached Rome today. Persons close to the Government considered it a significant effort to improve English-Italian relations. They said it indicated Chamberlain had taken over direction of the empire's troubled relations with Italy from Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, whose contacts with Mussolini and Italian leaders have not been cordial since exchanges over Ethiopia two years ago.

The letter arrived at the Foreign Office and was forwarded at once to Rimini, where Mussolini was vacationing.

Although British Government sources declined to state flatly that the letter was sent, it admitted at 10 Downing street—Chamberlain's office—that it was "quite likely." The Foreign Office, which disclosed that Eden was away on a three-week holiday on the English South Coast, would not comment on the letter.

It was recalled at 10 Downing street, however, that Count Dino Grandi, Italian Ambassador to London, had a private meeting with Chamberlain last week.

"As a result of that meeting, it seems only natural for the Prime Minister to send a message to Premier Mussolini, who is Count Grandi's chief," it was said.

Political observers noted that Chamberlain, immediately upon taking office, started delving into foreign affairs which, when Stanley Baldwin—now Earl Baldwin—was Prime Minister, had been exclusively Eden's domain.

English-Italian relations also have been strained over the work of the Committee for Non-Intervention in the Spanish War, headed by the Earl of Plymouth, Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs and Eden's right-hand man.

Communists: Who They Are, What They Do

strike organizers has become, by force of necessity, a party engaged in running factories, building railroads, teaching schools and administering the political life of a major Power. In this change lies much of the urgency and much of the tragedy, of the Soviet Union's recent purges.

The party's Central Committee collects, and seldom publishes, material about the party's composition. Some of its figures were made available recently in an obscure discussion of technical education in the Soviet Union.

Composition of 1927.

In 1927, a year before the first Five-Year Plan was begun and 10 years after the revolution, the party had in its ranks exactly 751 men with higher technical education. These were the only trusted men who could build or operate a foundry, a street-car line or a mechanized bakery. Ten years later there are said to be 47,000 members with these qualifications.

In 1927 there were only 9600 party members with the Russian equivalent of an American post-graduate degree in any profession. Now there are 105,000. The number of those with what Russians call "middle" education has more than doubled, from 104,000 to 260,000. In 1937 the party reported there were 42,000 technicians in its ranks, 5000 agronomists and a variety of other qualified workers whose skills were not even listed in the 1927 classification of party members.

Admission to the party never has been easy. Twice it has been less hard than usual: during the civil war and again during the launching of the first Five-Year Plan and the collectivization campaign. Each time, the Bolsheviks suffered a famine of trusted, able men.

Each time the bars were let down and party tickets were given to men who were something less than the simon-pure workers and Marxists to whom they were reserved theoretically.

Purges Not New.

"Chistki," or purges, are nothing new in Communist party history, which has marked an almost unbroken campaign since 1917 against careerists and shady elements making their nests under the party's sheltering wing. But after each of the Soviet Union's major ordeals, the sloughing off of recent recruits to the party has reached large dimensions.

Even older party members, according to Bolshevik theory, carry with them some of the vestigial traits of middle-class society. Bolshevik publicists never tire of writing about the heavy burden of habits with which three centuries of Czarist absolutism cramped the Russian character. Times of strain, according to these publicists, are tests of Bolshevik strength, from which the party emerges shorn of its weaker members, purified, made stronger.

The most recent of these purges, which has been engaged in mopping up the debris of the synchronized industrialization and collectivitization campaigns began in January, 1933, when Iazar M. Kaganovich, then Stalin's closest colleague, closed the party ranks and began a routine cleansing. It was extended through 1934, when Kaganovich announced that 192,000 members, or nearly 10 per cent of the party, had been expelled.

Rise of Yezhov.

At the end of 1934 a Communist party member assassinated Sergei Kirov, party boss of Leningrad, and the investigation which followed showed Stalin and other leaders in the Kremlin that the situation was worse than they had thought. Kaganovich was replaced as head of the party's Control Commission by Nikolai 1. Yezhov. His name then was hardly known outside the party; now he is Commissar of Home Affairs with the old O G P U machine at his command, and one of the most powerful leaders of the Soviet Union.

At 40, he was a young man even among Bolsheviks. He had joined the party in March, 1917. Son of a worker, he had worked in St. Petersburg factories from the age of 14. After serving in the civil war as a political commissar, he was sent out as party secretary to Central Asian "problem" communities, and by 1927 had been attached to the party's Central Committee as an organizer.

Except for a brief period in 1929 and 1930 as assistant Commissar of Agriculture, he was employed for eight years in the same work as that which had given Stalin his first power a decade earlier; control of the party's personnel work. He is short, with a long scar across his right jaw, almost to the ear. He lives quietly, has made few friends, and has acquired a reputation for almost ascetic integrity. When he took over the party's purification campaign in 1935, he knew the party's men from the inside of their party dossiers, and he had no entangling alliances.

He began the weeding process by what was called a campaign for verification of party documents. It lasted from May, 1935, until the end of that year, when it was announced that an additional 8.9 per cent, had been recalled, men who had slipped through Kaganovich's purge.

Remorseless Check.

Yezhov was not content. It was decided to enforce a complete exchange of party documents, giving the leaders still another chance to check remorselessly into the most shadowed corners of each party member's past. This was completed between Feb. 1 and May 1, 1932, and affected approximately 5 per cent of those who still remained.

The reopening of the party's ranks, originally announced for Jan. 1, 1934, took place on Nov. 1, 1936. For three years and 10 months no new members had been admitted, and one quarter of the party had been expelled. Even then the most recent stage of the cleansing had only begun to gain momentum, with the party's highest circles feeling the broom chiefly in the last few months.

There may be no good estimate available for several years of the cost of this method of keeping a revolutionary party compact and single-minded. The Soviet Union has lost the talent and leadership in recent months, and even more in recent years, of men whose effective work is written all over the Russian landscape.

In bitterness and even open enmity, they may prove to have left a legacy more dangerous than any crimes or errors they may have committed. Finally, in the dull paralysis of initiative, the fear of responsibility felt by honest workers is a peril which the Soviet Union has risked before, but never on such a scale as now.

In answer, the Bolsheviks say revolution is a risky business. The frightening total of corruption, graft and treason revealed in recent months is charged by them not against bureaucracy or proletarian dictatorship, but against the Soviet Union's enemies. The clutching hands of a dead past, which has saddled so many men with habits hard to break, and the aggressive weapons of the Soviet Union's Fascist neighbors are the enemies. Finally, concludes the Bolshevik defense, if the cost and risks of the struggle are high, so are the stakes.

Pre-Law Exams Sept. 14-16.

Examinations for State certificates authorizing students to enter the study of law will be held Sept. 14-16 at the City College of Law and Finance, 3615 Olive street. They will be conducted by the University of Missouri and will cover courses in the two years of college work which are a state pre-legal requirement.

Supremacy in Air Means Victory in Spanish War

Troops Develop Defeatist Attitude Where Enemy Planes Have Held Advantage —Both Sides Improve Craft.

By JAMES M. MINIFIE.

(Copyright, 1937, New York Tribune, Inc.)

VALENCIA, July 31.—The role of aviation in warfare is being amply demonstrated in the Spanish struggle as both sides throw ever more modern equipment into the battle. The World War found flying in its infancy, and military experts became aware only tardily of its possibilities. For the most part, aviation was then used for reconnaissance work, and it was not until the final year of the war that "army co-operation" squadrons were formed to prepare for and accompany advances by bombing and machine-gunning the enemy troops. Bombing expeditions, even those by Zeppelins, were innocuous and costly compared with the developments which the Spanish war can show.

One thing seems to have been proved conclusively: aerial supremacy means victory. But the supremacy must be complete, for its effect is psychologically much greater than can be justified on material grounds alone. Where aerial supremacy has been established and maintained for some time, opposing troops develop a defeatist mentality.

This was evident in the retreat of the militia from Talavera to Madrid last autumn. The rebels at that time had only a few planes, but the Government had even fewer. The militia, whose positions were bombed day in and day out, whose retreat was harassed by planes swooping down with crackling machine-guns, began to say, "We cannot do anything against airplanes—if we had the planes it would be another story."

Exactly the same thing occurred at Bilbao where the Basque soldiers, as brave as any, used similar pleas. And the rout of the Italians at Guadalajara was an identical instance, for there Government aircraft worked under weather conditions which the rebels did not care to face.

Terror of Air Attack.

From the point of view of the material damage done, military men point out that serial bombing cannot substitute for artillery in accuracy of fire, and machine-gunning from the air takes a comperatively small toll of life in men trained to scatter quickly. Indeed, United States army experiments tend to prove the infantrymen is much more dangerous to the airplane than the plane is to him, provided he keeps his head and blazes away at the aggressor.

But these are considerations which your correspondent would rather develop in the office than on the battlefield. Correspondents who have endured aerial bombing and machine-gunning will agree that the psychological efect is devastating. I knew nothing more tarrifying than lying in a ditch while little planes sweep down with machine guns spitting. They may not be aiming at you, but they certainly give that impression.

Small towns and cities without large buildings likewise fail to stiffen the morale against serial bombardments. Experience, notably that of Guernica, shows how vulnerable small towns are to aircraft attack by combination explosive and incendiary bombs. On the other hand, large cities with big, strongly constructed buildings like Madrid can stand up to terrific punishment. In the heavy aerial bombardments of mid-November, large quantities of high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped near the city. In one night, 26 fires could be seen from the Telefonica Building.

Improvement in Craft.

Madrid was not destroyed by that attack, nor by the innumerable succeeding bombardments, neither was the morale of its inhabitants shattered. This might occur with the larger air fleets, coupled with the use of gas bombs which a major war would produce. But up to the present, a skyscraper is a grand place to be when an aerial bombardment is going on.

The efficacy of aircraft has led to the importation into Spain of planes of increasingly improved quality. The machines obtained by the Government in early November proved greatly superior to the second-line Heinkels which the Germans thought would be adequate for the occasion. As the Germans and Italians sent over better machines, the Government acquired more formidable ones to oppose them.

One of the outstanding results of recent activities has been a change in the dictum inspired by observations in earlier months that fighting planes are impotent against bombers. The Government's newest single-seater fighters, "moscas"—"flies"—carry four machine guns, and are very fast and highly maneuverable. It is well known that they are developments and improvements on well-known American types.

They completely outclass the Italian pilots—the number of Fiats brought down is conclusive proof of that. Eye-witness testimony is afforded by Georg Kohl, a German pilot whose Dernier-17 twin-engined bomber was brought down on the Brunete front on July 25.

Italian Planes Fled.

"The day I was brought down," said Kohl, "I set out in the company of other planes of the same type for the Sierra front. In my plane were Lieut. Seidel, Radioman Schmidt, and two other Germans. Over Avila we picked up our escort of Italian planes, Fiats. We were attacked by four Government chasers. As soon as they showed up, the Italian planes fled. We never saw them again."

Kohl's squadron is the latest introduced by the Germans. Again quoting Kohl, "they were sent to Spain, protesting, under war conditions. The planes are twin-engined, with a speed of 380 kilometers an hour, carry 10 bombs of 50 kilos each, and three machine guns. They are new planes, which I saw for the first time this year at Ansbach. They are used only on special duty against batteries and the like, and work very high—about 15,000 feet."

But these planes are still not good enough. It remains to be seen whether Germany is ready to sacrifice an enormous number of first line fighters for "the cause" here, but if she does not, that cause has not the remotest chance of winning.

ARGONNE MONUMENT DEDICATION TODAY

President Roosevelt to Speak Over Radio on Program at Montfaucon.

(Copyright, 1937, by New York Tribune, Inc.)

PARIS, July 31.—The Montfaucon battle monument, the largest and most important of the American war memorials in France, will be dedicated tomorrow in the presence of American and French notables. This memorial, a giant Doric shaft towering 175 feet above the devastated wartime village of Montfaucon, commemorates the victory of the American first army in the Meuse-Argonne offensive that lasted from Sept. 26 to Nov. 11, 1918, and dominates the sector where more than 1,200,000 American soldiers took part in fighting—the largest battle in which American troops ever engaged.

Designed by John Russell Pope of New York, the monument is the third largest battle monument in France. The Montfaucon ceremony tomorrow is to be the first of a series of dedications of American memorials including Montsec, Brest, Tours, Cantigny, Bellicourt, Audenarde, Sommopy and Kemmel, which will take place during the next two weeks. The monument at Chateau Thierry is to be dedicated early in October at the time of the American Legion pilgrimage to France.

During the dedication of the Montfaucon memorial, which is to be the principal ceremony, the voice of President Roosevelt, speaking over the radio, will be heard in a five-minute address from Washington. The other speakers will be Gen. John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American expeditionary forces in the World War; Albert Lebrun, President of the French Republic; Ambassador William C. Bullitt, and Marshal Henri P. Petain, the French war leader.

Speeches to Be Broadcast.

Prominent among the guests of honor will be Camille Chautemps, French Premier; Yvon Delbos, French Foreign Minister; Josephus Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico, who was Secretary of the Navy in Woodrow Wilson's War Cabinet; Harry W. Colmery, national commander of the American Legion; Brigadier-General Benedict Crowell, Assistant Secretary of War and Director of Munitions from 1917 to 1920; Brigadier-General Bernard W. Kearney, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Mrs. Howard C. Boone, national president of the American War Mothers.

The program will include playing French and American anthems. The introductory remarks by Ambassador Bullitt will be followed by addresses by Gen. Pershing, Marshal Petain, President Roosevelt (by wireless) and President Lebrun. These speeches will be broadcast all over France and transmitted to American radio audiences by the Columbia network and the National Broadcasting Co. The ceremony will begin about 3 o'clock in the afternoon European time (8 a. m. St. Louis time), and will last approximately 90 minutes.

Preparations will be made to ensure a large American audience at the dedication. All American citizens who so desire are being taken to Montfaucon at the expense of the American Government. They will receive free transportation from Paris and return, as well as two meals—luncheon and dinner being provided en route.

Description of Monument.

The American monument at Montfaucon has the form of a large Doric column surmounted by a figure symbolic of liberty. It faces the place where the first American army made its initial offensive in the Argonne against the Hindenburg Line on Sept. 26, 1918. From the observation platform at the top of the large part, the Meuse-Argonne battlefield can be seen. This platform is reached by a circular stairway consisting of 234 steps leading up from the base of the shaft. Across the front of the monument are inscribed the names of the four most important areas—from a military point of view—in the territory captured by American troops.

The divsions which comprised the first army are listed on the wall around the main terrace. Inside the entrance door a small vestibule, decorated with the flags of the United States and France, leads into the base of the shaft. Carved on the walls of the vestibule are a brief description in French and English of American operations, a coloed map illustrating the American offensive in the region and a tribute by Gen. Pershing to his soldiers.

GANDHI MAKES PREDICTION

He Declares Prohibition Will Come Back in United States; India, Too.

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, July 31.—Mohandas K. Gandhi, who used to be called Mahatma, predicted today that prohibition would return to the United States. His prediction was part of a statement outlining plans to make India bone dry within two years.

"America will return to prohibition once more with still greater fervor and better experience in enforcement," Gandhi said, adding that if India adopts prohibition its return will be hastened in the United States.

"Of Making Many Books"

EDITED BY
JOHN G. NEIHARDT

Inspiring Tale Of Martyrdom

THE MAKING OF A HERO. By Nicholas Ostrovski. Translated by Alec Brown. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.)

STRANGE as is this vigorous and inspiring story of Bolshevist Russia—a story of almost unbelievable martyrdom to a "Cause"—stranger still is the truth behind the fiction. For the novel is largely autobiographical. The hero of the tale, bed-ridden as a result of wounds suffered in the service of Bolshevism, turns to writing as the only possible way of keeping himself in the active ranks. Similarly, the author of the novel, Nicholas Ostrovski, was himself blind, almost wholly paralyzed and in almost continuous pain when he wrote this tale of the making of a Bolshevist. Since the publication of the book, Ostrovski has died, leaving behind him a story of indomitable will-power and endurance. It is not the book one would expect from a hopeless invalid; instead it is a story virile and alive, moving in its enthusiasm for the cause of Bolshevism and its unshaken confidence in the future of "the Party."

When the Tsar was deposed, Paul Korchagin, the "hero," was a lad of fourteen, working long hours as kitchen boy, knowing little and caring less about politics. The two years that followed were stormy years when "comfortable folk, frightened to death and stupid with their fright, would open their windows and tremulously ask some neighbor 'In whose hands is the town today?'" Paul was changed in these two years to an eager, idealistic youth whose every thought centered in the Communist party. Henceforth "the Party" was to be the motivating force of his life; no hardship was too great to be borne for "the Cause," no love too great to be put aside when it interfered with his devotion to Bolshevism.

There is necessarily a good deal of the horror of the revolution in the story, and much of the extreme suffering of the "reconstruction period," but more important are the understanding, almost tender, descriptions of the Communist workers in their family relationships and their relationships to each other.

This is a book which requires careful reading, and better, a second reading. Because of the great number of characters, the multiplicity of situations, and the unfamiliarity of Russian names, one misses some of the important relationships at first. But in a second reading strangers become friends and their hopes, enthusiasms, and tragedies become doubly interesting.

Advocates Policy Of Isolation

NEUTRALITY FOR THE UNITED STATES. By Edwin Borchard and William Potter Lage. (Yale University Press, New Haven.)

ACCORDING to the authors of the present work, if the peace of this country is to be preserved, the United States must reaffirm the principles of the republic's founders in maintaining a policy of abstention from all foreign entanglements. Only by remaining aloof from foreign conflicts, by refusing to be swayed by unneutral propaganda, by sustaining a friendly attitude towards all nations can the United States hope to preserve peace for itself and for "broad areas of the world." This country must also renounce any policy that promotes enforcement of peace by coercive methods, such as advocated by the League of Nations.

A good part of the volume is devoted to evidence proving that the United States was dragged into the World War by the blundering, unneutral tactics of American diplomats. From the very beginning of the war, the Wilson administration, because of emotional prejudice, maintained a policy favorable to Great Britain, and as early as 1915 Secretary Lansing, Ambassador Page and Col. House, as well as Wilson, believed that war with Germany was inevitable.

Messrs. Bouchard and Lage effectively demonstrate that point. However, to place all emphasis on the emotional bias of the Wilson administration as a cause for America's entrance into the war, and so disregarding the financial entanglements between American interests and the Allies, is to weaken the entire argument that this country was forced into the war by its administration's non-belligerent partiality.

The isolationist policy which the authors advocate is perhaps a praiseworthy ideal, but whether this ideal can ever be realized, in the face of economic, social and psychological difficulties, remains to be demonstrated.

Clear and to the point, the book is of utmost timeliness. Taken with a grain of salt, it should be on the required reading list of the entire nation.

AUTO-CORRECTIVISM. The Psychology of Nervousness. By V. F. Fisher. (The Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho.)

DR. FISHER here advances the first comprehensive and consistent explanation, in psychological and biological terms, of nervous disorders. Prominent American psychologists have suggested that this work may prove to be the greatest contribution to the field since the writings of Freud and Jung.

DICTATORSHIP WAS OLD IN ABIMELECH'S TIME

THE STORY OF DICTATORSHIP. By E. E. Kellett, M. A. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.)

DICTATORSHIP is no new thing. It has flourished from the earliest times. The Greeks, although they were not the first to have it, had a name for it. They called it tyranny. There were tyrants in Old Testament days, not to go farther back. There was Gideon, the Manassite chieftain, barbarous half-Canaanite, who had 70 sons and planned that they should succeed him as a ruling family. But one of the sons, named Abimelech, had a different idea. It was better, he argued, for the people to be ruled by one than 70. So when Gideon died Abimelech hired hoodlums for a shekel apiece and put his brothers to death.

From that day to this, as Mr. Kellett tells, the world has had its dictators. They have always appeared, he says, at a time when conditions were fundamentally the same as those which have given rise to the fascisms and naziisms of today, and the tricks for gaining and holding power have always been the same—suppression of public opinion, invention of bugbears and scapegoats, cultivation of national hatreds in the name of patriotism. There is but one new thing about it all, a new name. Tyranny is called National Socialism or the Totalitarian State. The ancient tyrants had their euphemisms, pleasant names for unpleasant things, but nothing quite so imposing as these.

Dictators always, as now, have busied the minds of men with foreign quarrels and deluded them with the phantom of military glory. The ancient tyrant, as the modern one, began by taking advantage of a national emergency or by inventing one, and posing as the one man who could save the state, slaughtered or banished his enemies, got rid of possible rivals or dangerous friends, conciliated religion or introduced a new one which would support his claims, blindfolded the people, kept a tight hand on the organs of opinion and made alliances with other tyrants unless they were weak enough to invite attack. If other methods failed he had recourse to foreign wars, hoping that glory might compensate for the loss of freedom, for always people have been willing to put up with some loss of liberty if they could see their country looking bigger on the map.

The main difference between new and old tyrannies is that the new, as a rule, are based on a theory and are meant to give it expression. The dictator personifies this theory and requires loyalty to himself as the representative of the sacred idea. Appeals are made to the passions, particularly to those of hate and fear, most easy to arouse.

It is no matter for wonder, says Mr. Kellett, that the upheaval of the World War should, in countries less accustomed to freedom than ours, lead to the establishment of despotisms, for the confusion, physical distress and mental unrest were a natural breeding ground for trust in a deliverer who should promise some remission of evils.

As to whether it can happen here (meaning in England), the author reminds that the price of freedom is eternal vigilance, for the approaches of tyranny are silent and crafty and its final spring is often unexpected. "No one, a year or two before Hitler or Mussolini seized power, had any real hope or fear of either. Their day came suddenly, like a thief in the night." Tyranny, the author reminds, finds its opportunity most easily not in the activities of its open supporters, but in the apathy and blindness of its enemies.

The one safeguard, as the author sees it, is collective security, the machinery of which, following the failure of the League of Nations, must be manufactured anew.

A Best Seller Of Rare Merit

NORTHWEST PASSAGE. By Kenneth Roberts. (Doubleday, Doran & Co., Garden City, N. Y.)

THERE are men who fail more gloriously than most men succeed, and the failure of Maj. Robert Rogers of Rogers' Rangers, around whom this historical romance is written, was one of the most glamorous. His turbulent life and his heroic attempt to find a Northwest passage to the Orient form a factual background for this tale of Colonial America.

Rogers' rise to fame was cometlike. His strength was seemingly drawn from a bottomless well and his thirst for rum equalled his desire for adventure in its insatiability. He spoke of great undertakings casually and then completed them regardless of the difficulties. He rocketed to the post of Governor of Fort Michilimackinac and enjoyed the favor of the King.

But the favor of Kings is fickle, and this man Rogers, with his magnificent personality and almost unbelievable ability to overcome adversity, succumbed to the petty intrigues of politicians. True to the tradition of old soldiers, the Major never died. At least Mr. Roberts does not tell us of his death. Neither did Rogers languish long in the Fleet Prison, which is so vividly described; he merely faded from the ken of mortal man.

No less colorful than the life of Rogers is the fictitious story of Langdon Towne, who is forced to leave his New England home because of incautious political remarks. Towne seeks refuge with Rogers' Rangers, and from then on his life is closely intertwined with that of the Major. As Towne's career as an artist and painter of Indians develops, Maj. Rogers' career declines.

Mr. Roberts, with a deep understanding of human nature, has drawn an interesting picture of two men: Rogers searching for a tangible goal in a road to the Orient and Langdon Towne searching for the intangible goal of achievement, his own symbolic Northwest passage.

The easy and realistic style with which "Northwest Passage" is written makes the tale seem vibrant and alive. Mr. Roberts' strict adherence to historical fact amounts to a rugged honesty which in many cases is not flattering to authority. Through the eyes of Langdon Towne, however, he has taken a tolerant attitude toward all his characters, often expressing a rollicking sense of humor.

Mr. Roberts' other books, "Arundel," "Captain Caution," "The Lively Lady" and "Rabble in Arms," have already assured him a place in the literary sun that "Northwest Passage" only makes more secure.

COLLECTIVISM. A False Utopia. By William Henry Chamberlin. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

BEGINNING with a definition of liberty in the modern state, the author endeavors to show how widely liberty has been challenged and destroyed during the post-war period. On the basis of his long residence in the Soviet Union, he analyzes the newly projected Soviet Constitution, and gives reasons for believing that it leaves unshaken the fundamental bases of the one-party dictatorship.

Truly Very Much At Large

BUSHMAN AT LARGE. By Aubrey Wisberg and Harold Waters. (Green Circle Books, New York.)

THOSE who prefer their tales of adventure "straight" will find all they could desire in this account of the disasters and triumphs that befall a group of Australian "cobbers," or boon companions. The story, told in the first person by Aubrey Wisberg (perhaps with the grammatical aid of Harold Waters), is composed of an unbroken and almost incredible series of massacres of Australian natives, drunken brawls lasting three days, killings in gambling dens, robberies, labor strikes, kangaroo hunts and Gargantuan practical jokes.

The last half of the book holds by far the greater interest. Here the "cobbers", at the time England entered the World War, were tricked into joining the Australian Light Horse regiments. The stories of what followed may be too bloody for many readers. Three such stories are: an account of the siege of Gallipoli, as seen through the eyes of a soldier in the midst of the battle; a marvelously vivid description of the burning of the vice district in Cairo; and the story of T. E. Lawrence's triumphal entry into Damascus.

Probably the high point of the book is attained here, in the theft of 10,000 pounds from the Bank of Damascus by the soldiers who had been commissioned to guard it. Of course Wisberg was among them, and with the innocence of total cynicism he describes the court-martial, which was a failure because all the witnesses for the prosecution had been poisoned or shot beforehand. He finally returns to Australia, to place his newly-gained capital in a book-making and gambling agency; goes bankrupt; is shanghaied onto a freight boat bound for San Francisco; escapes; is thrown into jail at Iquique for demolishing the interior of a saloon. Stunned by the multiplicity of such incidents, the reader surrenders and is ready to believe anything.

On the surface, "Bushman at Large" might either strain the reader's credulity, offend his taste and moral sense, or do both. What redeems the book is the tone in which it has been written; the stories are told with the perfect simplicity of one who could never be made to see that right and wrong might exist with a line between them. So that the reader, only managing to feel that he should be offended or disbelieving, continues to the end, willing to grant, because of the exuberance of the narrative, that every anecdote it contains may possibly have happened.

SPOTLIGHTS ON THE CULTURE OF INDIA. By James Lowell Hypes, Ph. D. (The Daylion Co., Washington, D. C.)

THE author lived for some time in India and his book is a combination of first-hand observations and data assembled from authoritative sources. In the sections devoted to the art and music of India the author was assisted by specialists in those fields. Much information is presented in statistical form. Consequently the work does not make particularly exciting reading, but undoubtedly it is valuable for reference.

Writes of Marvels for Youngsters

RICHARD HALLIBURTON.

Wonders of the Western World

RICHARD HALLIBURTON'S BOOK OF MARVELS. (The Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis.)

IN addressing his latest work to boys and girls, Richard Halliburton has hit upon the ideal approach for those travel books which seek to make the reader feel he is actually accompanying the author. The necessity for explicitness and simplicity has made his descriptions graphic, and the youthfulness of his audience has called forth all his enthusiasm. Unlike author-adventurers writing for adults, he claims no complex emotional reactions to the marvels which he describes, and indulges only lightly in philosophical sentiments. Of historical, scientific and legendary data he gives just enough to be interesting and memorable but not enough to becloud the picture. Thus, even without the maps and breathtaking photographs with which the volume is embellished, the visual illusion would be strongly created by this "Book of Marvels."

Starting in San Francisco, Halliburton and his imaginary little band of rubberneckers visit the great Bay Bridge, eight miles long, which cost the lives of 24 men, and the beautiful red Golden Gate Bridge with towers 750 feet high. Their next stop is the highest waterfall in the world, Yosemite, and as they "watch, fascinated by this astonishing sight of flying water and mighty granite wall, the wind . . . blows the entire plume in a great curve far to one side, then to the other side, then lures it out from the rock face only to dash it back against the cliff with an explosive roar that shakes the valley." The other great cataracts, Niagara in its tawdry setting and Iguazu hidden deep in the beauty of South American jungles, are so accurately described that the difference in their very roar and in their contour will remain distinct in the mind long after the book is closed.

In Chichen Itza, Yucatan, Halliburton follows in the footsteps of the ancient brides of the Rain God, whose tragic wedding march led them from the great temple's mouth to the depths of a mysterious pool at the end of a magnificent causeway. His account of the grim but brilliant procession is more effective than that of his own prankish plunge into the pool.

Girls and boys need not be frightened off by the author's claim that this is a geography. It is the Western World at its most gorgeous, magical and amazing. It scorns such things as the annual output of wheat in Rio de Janeiro, its resources and its birth-rate, to tell of its black peaks rising at night from a "shining sea of light" and its great white stone Christ which stands 2200 feet above the harbor, seeming to float among the clouds.

Spiritual Wisdom Of the Bible

HIGH HERITAGE. Compiled by Mary Chapin White. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.)

EVEN those who are regular students of the Bible will be stimulated by the freshness and vigor with which this compilation is imbued. Designed to help young people appreciate and use the spiritual wisdom accumulated in the Book through thousands of years, the volume bears evidence of a high sense of values in selection. The grandeur of Isaiah, the superb poetry of the Psalms and of Job, profound words from the teachings of Jesus and the writing of St. Paul, all of these are here, and in addition lines of wisdom from the Apocrypha.

Although the words are from the familiar King James version, the printing, make-up and arrangement of the book are modern. Verse numbers are omitted; poetry is printed in verse form; beautiful and appropriate titles are given to the readings, such as "God's Hate of Shallow Worship," "Christian Courtesy," "A Spring Song." The 192 selections are grouped under headings which bring related readings together, and the generous spacing imparts a feeling of repose and beauty.

Indexes by title and by reference add to the usefulness of the book.

Mrs. White has performed an important and helpful service, in a manner that bespeaks deep spiritual sensitiveness.

Unreservedly Recommended

VICTORIA, 4:30. By Cecil Roberts. (The Macmillan Company, New York.)

THE dramatis personae of Mr. Roberts' new novel are the people who, on a certain Wednesday in August, gather at Victoria Station to take the boat-train for the continent. Their backgrounds necessarily vary greatly, as do the purposes and the outcomes of their journeys. Their nationalities range from English to Turkish; their circumstances, from waiting on tables to being waited upon by representatives of the Foreign Office; their aims, from going in quest of a plot for a novel, to leaving England in order to avoid the onslaughts of predatory relatives. Most enjoy, in the end, the fulfillment of their hopes; a few meet with frustration, one instance of which leads to tragedy.

The physical background of the novel includes several of the famous cities of Europe—London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Salzburg, Athens, Salonica — and certain Austrian towns and Alpine roads. In the historical background are included the World War, the Russian Revolution, the assassination of Dollfuss, and the Nazi regime in Germany. The richness of this diverse setting is one of the delights of the book.

"Victoria, 4:30" can be unreservedly recommended for hot weather, and, indeed, any other season's reading.

RECENT DISCUSSIONS OF VITAL PUBLIC MATTERS

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE NATIONAL WILL. By Dean Alfange. (Doubleday, Doran & Co., Garden City, N. Y.)

THE COURT DISPOSES. By Isidor Feinstein. (Covici-Friede, New York.)

THE SUPREME COURT CRISIS. By Merlo J. Pusey. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

THE CONSTITUTION AND WHAT IT MEANS TODAY. By Edward S. Corwin. (Princeton University Press, Princeton, N. J.)

PYRAMIDS OF POWER: THE STORY OF ROOSEVELT, INSULL AND THE UTILITY WARS. By M. L. Ramsay. (The Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis.)

CHILD WORKERS IN AMERICA. Katharine DuPre Lumpkin and Dorothy Wolff Douglas. (Robert M. McBride & Co., New York.)

THE GENERAL WELFARE. By Henry A. Wallace. (University of North Carolina Press, Chapel Hill, N. C.)

THE BACKWARD ART OF SPENDING MONEY. By Wesley C. Mitchell. (McGraw-Hill Book Co., New York.)

FOUR of the above listed eight books on public affairs are concerned with the Supreme Court-Constitution issue. That makes 50 per cent, which would seem to be about the average achieved by books on this subject in recent months.

Of the four, the one by Mr. Alfange is attracting most attention. This primarily is because it was selected for the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Award. Mr. Alfange's theme is simple. He is neither for nor against the Supreme Court, but sets out to show by exposition that the court adjusts itself to the dominant currents of public sentiment and that it is "not outside the scope of its powers to sustain the new departures necessitated by changing social conditions and the progress wrought by science and technology." His ultimate finding is that the Supreme Court is essentially a political body which acts as a legislature in important cases.

Mr. Feinstein, who directs the editorial page of the New York Post, does not let the court down so gently. His book frankly is a polemic against the Supreme Justices and, generally speaking, all their works. Writing with fiery indignation, he describes the court as applying one set of standards when passing on a case involving property rights of large interests and an altogether different set of standards if the rights involved are those of workers or persons as individuals. He is wholly unimpressed by the adulation of the Supreme Court in many quarters; indeed, that condition makes it all the more necessary, he reasons, to strip away the myths and reveal, as he calls it, misgovernment by Judges.

The point of view of Mr. Pusey is indicated by the fact that his book contains a glowing introduction by Senator Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, one of the leading opponents of the President's court plan. The issue, to this author, is drawn between the President and the people, the people and the Supreme Court being essentially one and the same, even though the people elect the President and have little or nothing to do with Supreme Court appointments. Mr. Pusey is an editorial writer for the Washington Post.

"The Constitution and What It Means Today" now appears in its fifth edition, brought down to date. It takes up the handiwork of the Founding Fathers and the subsequent amendments, section by section, and tells what the Supreme Court has said they mean.

Mr. Ramsay, who is director of the Utilization and Research Division of the Rural Electrification Administration, recounts the story of the rise of the utility powers and the battles of government with those corporate and financial giants. Insull occupies much of the book, although many other big and once-big names are to be found in the pages. Johns Hopkins trained, Mr. Ramsay is a former Washington newspaper correspondent.

The authors of "Child Workers in America," a pair of able economists at Smith College, find that notwithstanding professions that child labor has been banished, 2,500,000 children are being exploited today in American industry, agriculture and service activities. They present carefully-worked-out statistics to show that abolition of child labor would go a long way toward solving the adult unemployment problem now and making a better, healthier nation in the future. Nothing short of strong Federal legislation, backed by the authority of a broad constitutional amendment, will be adequate, they say.

Mr. Wallace's lectures are in his usual clear, straightforward style. His thesis is that we are entering an era with a new conception of "the general welfare." In this new era, Mr. Wallace sees government as a clearing agency "for a new type of corporation, new type of labor union and new type of farm organization." He thinks government will more and more use its taxing and spending powers to reduce the depressions and booms of the business cycles.

The collection of Wesley C. Mitchell's papers takes its title from an engaging article which he wrote 25 years ago for the American Economic Review. Among others are discriminating studies of the contributions of Thorstein Veblen and John R. Commons. The selection was made by Dr. Joseph Dorman, a young associate of Dr. Mitchell at Columbia University and author of "Thorstein Veblen and his America."

Full - Time Job For Hubby

THE ANTAGONISTS. By Paul Hervey Fox. (Henry Holt & Co., New York.)

MIND vs. matter is the theme of this novel. From boyhood Joseph Sheppard has lived exclusively in a world of intellect. Clothes, women, food, drink and friendship have meant little to him. His nights and days, save when savage attacks of migraine made work impossible, have been spent in establishing and elaborating profound mathematical hypotheses.

When the book opens Sheppard is 42 and a whiz at math. At driving a car, tying a tie, or getting himself a cup of coffee he is helpless. Facing breakdown from overwork, he takes the advice of his college's president and goes to Maine on a vacation, the guest of another mathematician. Here he argues violently with his host, works like a dog, and—beyond credence—falls in love.

To take one's first look at a woman at 40 would be a matter serious enough, but the author is not content to let things rest at this. Sheppard's inamorata is a married woman, plump and thirtyish, with extraordinarily gregarious mating habits. The novel has now assumed its final shape. The mental man has lost his heart to an exceedingly fleshly woman. The logical metamorphosis occurs. Sheppard becomes less and less scholarly and vague. His cheeks take on new color, his step springs. Consideration of splendid mathematical principles is displaced by speculation as to his love's interminable infidelities. He takes her to Boston, Bermuda, Maine, but still she slips off the reservation. After the death of her husband he even marries her—to no avail. At length she snares his own brother.

Sheppard concludes, as the book closes, that taming his wife will be a full-time job. This is the novel. It is tolerably well written—if that makes any difference.

PRIMITIVE INTELLIGENCE AND ENVIRONMENT. By S. D. Porteus. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

THOUGH a narrative of travel, this volume depicts accurately the habitats of the Bushmen and Australians. It includes not only comparative data on their mentality and that of the Bantu tribes, but also the results of work done among the Negriot people of Malaya, the Ainu of Japan and the sea gypsies of Borneo.

A British Airman In the Near East

FLYING YEARS. By C. H. Keith. (John Hamilton, Ltd., London.)

WHEN Squadron Leader Keith of the British Royal Air Force was assigned to service in the Near East, he hit upon the idea of sending typewritten circular letters giving his impressions to the folks back home. Although originally written without thought of publication, these letters are the material of his book. With true British thoroughness, Mr. Keith has set down the details of his experiences, events which he apparently dismisses as mere routine for a member of the Royal Air Force, but which must seem extraordinarily exciting and exotic to one fated to lead a come-day-go-day-God-send-Sunday existence.

Traveling about the cradle of history by plane or motor car (and occasionally by camel or mule), Keith encountered a great many things the time-harried and guide-herded tourist only glimpses or misses entirely. On visiting ancient Ur, the squadron leader laconically recorded: "Mr. Abraham's home town is not impressive, nor does it smell sweet." In inky darkness he hunted about through the Garden of Eden for the venerable husk reputed to be that of the Tree of Knowledge.

He would be the last to maintain that the soldier's life in these regions is all beer and skittles. Voracious insects, sandstorms, almost unbearable heat, and the primitive sanitary equipment of the country are distressing to one fresh from trim and orderly England. Nevertheless, there are compensations in the awesome grandeur of the mountains and the engrossing task of paving the way for an airline to India by establishing airports in the wilds. The untamed tribesmen, theoretically swearing fealty to England, often amuse themselves by taking pot shots at her representatives, but the British officer, we learn from Keith's book, regards these incidents with a remarkable objectivity. Implicit in much of the text is a revelation of how the British manage to maintain their authority in so many remote outposts of civilization.

Keith is prodigal with his material, and has included enough for a dozen books by the ordinary writer of travel yarns. The result is an extremely well-rounded picture of the Near East and its people, customs, sights, sounds, and smells.

Chills and Thrills For Sultry Days

FINGERS OF FATE. By J. U. Nicolson. (Convici-Friede, New York.)

THE TRAP. By Elizabeth Jordan. (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York.)

PREFACE TO A KILLING. By Nicholas Ashe. (Macaulay Co., New York.)

THE CHESS MURDERS. By Means Davis. (Random House, New York.)

MURDER IN G-SHARP. By Kurt Steel. (Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis.)

THE BROTHERS SACKVILLE. By G. D. H. & M. Cole (Macmillan Co., New York.)

THE PEACOCK FEATHER MURDERS. By Carter Dickson. (William Morrow & o., New York.)

DEAD MAN'S MIRROR. By Agatha Christie. (Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.)

"DRACULA" no longer terrifies any but the most susceptible, but the creatures of Bram Stoke's imagination have had a suitable revival in modern dress. "Fingers of Fate" is a combination of horror, lust, insanity and murder with Faulknerian trimmings. Scary and not too bad in its way.

"The Trap" combines ghosts, skeletons and romance, with everything turning out just too ducky in the end. A little too much Grace Livingston Hill Lutz atmosphere to make it very exciting.

"Preface to a Killing" starts out with a young woman, pistol in hand, about to commit justifiable murder. The story then turns back a good many years and tells of the events which led her to the conclusion that murder must be done. Unfortunately, the author's weakness in characterization spoils what otherwise might have been an exciting psychological study.

"The Chess Murders" concerns the death of a research worker on the eve of an important discovery. The action takes place in a circus side-show, and in a hospital. Carelessly handled characterizations and sloppy writing pull this book below the author's previous work.

"Murder in G-Sharp" is an ingenious wisecracking detective novel, and a lot of fun to read. Clever dialog and amusing people make this a top-notch performance. Solve this one mostly by psychological clews.

"The Brothers Sackville" is a painfully slow and dragging English detective novel. The solution, while clever, is hardly worth wading through three hundred pages of typical English country-side and typically English characters.

"The Peacock Feather Murders" is one of those detective novels which have everything in them but the kitchen sink. Vance Keating is murdered in a house carefully watched by the police; no one was seen entering or leaving. Vance was probably better dead than alive, but the reader meets some interesting people before everything is solved.

"Dead Man's Mirror" is a collection of three stories. Not up to the standard of Agatha Christie's longer work. However, it will probably be read and enjoyed by those addicts who can't take or leave alone their Hercule Poirot.

THE ANATOMY OF MURDER. By Helen Simpson, and others. (The Macmillan Company, New York.)

HERE is a collection of seven actual murders reviewed and discussed by a group of English writers. Some of the authors, notably, Margaret Cole, Dorothy L. Sayers, John Rhode, and Freeman Wills Crofts, are well known to American readers of detective fiction.

Among the murderers whose stories are here told are the notorious Constance Kent and Henri Desire Landru. To the story of Constance, Mr. Rhode has added material he received in 1929 from Sydney, New South Wales. This material was sent to him in a letter written by someone who must have known the murderess at the time of her crime in 1860.

Perhaps the most interesting discussion is that concerning the Rattenbury case, one of the "eternal triangle" variety, as reported by Francis Iles. Mr. Iles takes advantage of the similarities between the two murders to compare this one with the more famous, although no more interesting, Thompson-Bywaters case. He notes more than once that Mrs. Thompson was unjustly convicted and executed because of popular prejudice against her mode of life. His consideration of both the cases might lead to debate among his readers.

These particular seven murders were chosen for discussion because of some unusual circumstance about each, and generally that circumstance has to do with a certain degree of doubt as to who was guilty, or with the facts, hidden from the public and its servants, which must have existed to drive an apparently decent and normal person to the extreme of killing a fellow being. One murder was selected because of its very cleverness. It was so well conceived that only bad luck and details the murderer could not possibly control, plus some excellent detective work, led to conviction.

"The Anatomy of Murder" will entertain readers of detective stories. More than this, however, it should prove of interest and value to the student of criminology and psychology.

Buyers Give Motors and Steels A Lift and the Week Winds Up With Gains for Selected Issues

Advance of Fractions to Three Points Follows Earlier Selling Movement Which Checked Midseason Progress.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The stock market's modest mid-summer progress was slowed down somewhat about the middle of the week by a moderate selling movement, but rallying tendencies followed, and in the closing short session today buyers gave motors and steels a push and selected issues gained fractions to three or more points.

Pivotal industrials, notably steels and motors, suffered some sharp losses at one time in the week, although the whole list was lifted a bit from bottom levels by a later recovery. Analysts attributed the brief mild reaction to some increase in profit-selling and a narrowing of buying activities, the latter indicating a cooling of bullish ardor after a substantial and uninterrupted advance for more than three weeks. Today's market action, however, sharply brightened the picture for many issues.

For most of the week the market paid scant attention to news which brokers considered favorable in the main. With scattered exceptions, industrial earnings statements for the June quarter compared favorably with the same period last year. In many instances gains were striking, in spite of increased production costs to which most companies were subject.

Weight of Dividends.

An increase in the Bethlehem Steel common dividend and a report showing earnings of $2.56 a share for the common for the June quarter were factors in a moderate upturn yesterday. United States Steel Corporation did only the expected in liquidating the final arrearages of $1.25 and ordering a regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock. The June quarter earnings, $3.43 a share on the common stock, were the best for the period since 1929.

General Motors figures for the quarter reflected increased wage and material costs and labor interruptions as well. Profits were off about 25 per cent from the June quarter of last year.

Sales during the week amounted to 4,116,935 shares, compared with 5,500,810 a week ago and 9,290,980 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were 249,597,262 shares, compared with 295,992,844 a year ago and 158,811,972 two years ago.

Share turnover on the New York Stock Exchange in July totaled 21,264,520, compared with 16,449,193 in June and 34,793,159 in July last year. The latest aggregate was the highest since April, when 34,606,839 shares changed hands. Volume of bond transactions dropped to the smallest for any month since November, 1932. July turnover was $162,583,700 face value, compared with $178,898,000 in the previous month and $282,571,000 in July, 1936. The November, 1932, total was $159,419,000.

Farm Implements, Aviations Among Closing Session's Gainers.

Although dealings today were comparatively slow from the start, the steady boosting of bids for the stock leaders enabled the majority of shares to close at the best levels of the day. The rally was touched off by the automotive group, following announcement Ford had jumped prices of his cars.

Steels were not slow in stepping into line. In the van also were farm implements, aviations, a few utilities and rails and an assortment of specialties. Most of these responded to the apparently better outlook for business generally over the next several months.

That prices of stocks today exceeded the trading pace was shown by the turnover of 389,590 shares compared with 505,790 last Saturday. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up .6 of a point at 69.5.

Quoting the Advances.

Principal share gainers included U. S. Steel, at 118½; Bethlehem, 98⅜; Chrysler, 116⅛; General Motors, 56; Republic Steel, 98⅜; Sloss-Sheffield, 164; Westinghouse, 153½; Boeing, 36⅛; Anaconda, 58; American Rolling Mill, 38¾; Pacific Gas, 33; Consolidated Edison, 38⅝; Santa Fe, 81; U. S. Rubber, 59¼; Douglas Aircraft, 58¾; J. I. Case, 184; Deere, 139¼; Vandadium, 31; Southern Pacific, 48¼; Standard Oil of New Jersey, 70; Texas Corp., 64⅛, and Continental Oil, 48⅞.

Declines of fractions to a point or so were registered for McCall Corp., at 21¼; Union Bag & Paper, 77; Electric Power & Light, 23⅜; du Pont, 159¾; American Telephone, 172; Loew's, 84¼, and Coca-Cola, 159.

Rail and utility bonds did better at the last. Commodities were uneven. Wheat at Chicago lost 1½ to 2 cents a bushel. Corn was off 1⅞ to up 1⅛. Cotton yielded 25 to 40 cents a bale. Sterling and the French franc were a shade lower in terms of the dollar.

Sales, closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: U. S. Steel 13,400, 1[illegible]½, up 3; Chrysler 10,900, 116⅛, up 2⅝; Republic Steel 9100, 39⅛, up 1⅜; Bethlehem Steel 7300, 98⅜, up 3⅛; General Motors 7100, 56, up 2¼; Boeing Airplane 7100, 36⅛, up 1⅜; Anaconda Copper 6700, 58, up ⅞; American Rolling Mills 6500, 38¾, up 1; Electric Power & Light 6000, 23⅜, down ¼; Int. INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY OFF 7-10THS OF POINT

Cotton Manufacturing, Freight Carloadings, Electric Power Production.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Industrial activity fell slightly this week. The Associated Press seasonally adjusted index dipped to 104 per cent of the 1929-30 average from 104.7 the week before, and compared with 95.3 in the like period last year.

Residential building eased further, despite a decline in building materials costs for the first time in more than a year. The latest figure established a new low for the year on the index.

Inventory-taking held automobile assembly lines in check, output falling substantially behind the week in 1936. All other indices were considerably higher than last year.

Cotton manufacturing, freight carloading and electric power production were moderately lower. The setback in freight traffic stemmed primarily from falling shipments of industrial goods. The movement of farm staples held up well.

Steel mill operations moved up. Demand continued heavy, the barometric scrap prices rising sharply in both Chicago and Pittsburgh.

The index, its seasonally adjusted indices with 1929-30, as 100 based on the latest available statistics, compared as follows:

	Latest Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Composite index	104.0	104.7	95.3
Automobile production	95.7	96.1	105.3
Steel mill activity	84.3	82.5	96.0
Cotton manufacturing activity	123.5	128.4	116.7
Electric power production	122.0	122.6	114.4
*Residential building	64.5	64.8	54.6
Total carloadings	79.1	80.3	74.2

*New 1937 low.

MANUFACTURING, WHOLESALE JUNE INCREASE OVER YEAR AGO

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—A Commerce Department survey shows sales by manufacturers and wholesalers increased substantially in June over the same month a year ago.

For the month, 547 manufacturers reported sales increased 11.7 per cent over June, 1936, with all industries recording upturns except iron and steel. A 15 per cent decrease in iron and steel sales was attributed to strikes.

Increases ranged from 1.9 per cent for food and kindred products to 31 per cent for forest products.

Collections on accounts receivable averaged 81 per cent during the month, unchanged from June a year ago.

The department says 1105 wholesalers increased sales 15 per cent during June, with all groups listing advances. Increases ranged from 5.2 per cent for farm products to 37.8 per cent for equipment, machinery and supplies.

Collections on wholesale accounts receivable averaged 709 per cent compared with 72.2 per cent in June, last year.

DEPARTMENT AND SPECIALTY STORE SURVEY ON OUTLOOK

NEW YORK, July 31. — Department and specialty stores are expecting the best fall season since 1929, the National Retail Dry Goods Association reports, after a nationwide survey of the prospects for retail business in general.

Retail sales volume, department and specialty store merchants in 50 cities estimate, almost without exception, will run 10 per cent better than last year in September, October and November.

Estimates of improved business were fairly even throughout the country. The poll showed expectation of an average increase of 9.3 per cent in New England, 9.8 per cent in the Middle Atlantic States, 9.9 per cent in the Middle West, 10.5 per cent in the South, 10.2 per cent in the Southwest and 9.1 per cent in the Far West.

Department stores generally expected the home furnishings departments to continue to lead in sales volume.

Odd-Lot Transactions July 29.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The Securities Commission reported today these transactions by customers with odd lot dealers or specialists on the New York Stock Exchange for July 29: 4246 purchases involving 112,066 shares; 4354 involving 112,431 shares.

LOCAL STOCK MARKET SHOWS NEW ADVANCES

Volume of Business About on Par With That of Preceding Period.

More stocks showed gains as result of the week's activities on the St. Louis Stock Exchange than losses. The volume of business was about on par with that of preceding week. Dr. Pepper, an active issue, was a little better while Wagner Electric failed to hold a small gain. American Investment rose over 2 points as did Burkart. Huttig was a shade up. Scruggs was better.

Falstaff, selling to the amount of 1015 shares, and Missouri Portland were down. Rice-Stix was unchanged.

NON-FERROUS METALS ABOUT UNCHANGED BUT TIN SAGS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31. — Non-ferrous metals were mostly unchanged last week. Tin was an exception, sagging ½ cent.

Lead buying was less aggressive than recently, but in the aggregate held up to a substantial total with sheet, pipe, solder, foil and ammunition makers especially prominent in the buying activities.

Domestic copper held steady at the 14-cent level, Valley base. Expectations were that sales for the month would exceed 50,000 tons. Export copper was slightly higher, with encouraging reports on consumption counteracting nervousness regarding a possible increase in production schedules.

Zinc producers registered further complaints of a tight statistical situation and consumers were being urged to limit purchases to immediate requirements. Volume of undelivered orders is unuually heavy.

Antimony was quiet, unchanged to a shade lower. The leading Chinese importer held for 15.50 cents for prompt, but another seller offered metal at 15.37½ cents.

Steel operations were stepped up 3 per cent last week, the current national average reaching 85 per cent of capacity. While new business continued spotty, confidence seemed to be gaining that the summer lull was over.

WEEK'S SALES ON ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, July 31.—Sales of stocks on the local board during the week amounted to 6426 shares, compared with 6210 the previous week. Bond sales were $10,000 compared with $4000.

ETBACKS OUTWEIGH COMMODITY GAINS

ices of Livestock Up, Grains lump, Upturn in Industrials, Foods Easier.

the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Weather condins were a potent factor in boosting liveck prices to the highest level in almost e years this week, and equally responle for a slump in grains to a new low the year.

Staples generally were easy, industrial mmodities standing with livestock in reing the declining trend.

he Associated Press weighted wholesale e index of 35 important commodities ppod to 90.15 per cent of the 1926 avge from 90.87 the previous week and pared with 79.17 a year ago. Setbacks weighed advances two to one.

The 1936 drouth jumped the price of d to high levels and caused a heavy rketing of animals last winter and this ing. This reduced the animal popula on farms to such an extent shipments market were sharply curtailed in recent eks. With demand continuing strong, es have been marked up substantially. s and lambs advanced during the week. le cattle were little changed at approxitely the best level of the year

Agricultural staples, on the other hand, wed no signs of being deficient this r. Corn, rye, oats and cotton all gave before a sizable wave of selling. Wheat little changed.

The upturn in industrial staples was by steel scrap. Hides also advanced on d demand, while rubber, turpentine and fell fractionally.

Textiles weakened further. Cotton cloth silk fell back, while wool pushed ahead htly.

Foods were easier; eggs, cocoa and flour ping and sugar moving up.

The index, with its components based on 26 as 100, compared as follows:

WHEAT LOSES TWO CENTS IN NARROW TRADE

Market Depressed by Hedging Sales — Rally in September Corn, Deferred Contracts Weak.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Wheat prices dropped two cents a bushel today in a thin, narrow market, depressed by hedging sales, that met with little speculative buying interest broad enough to support values.

Weakness at Liverpool and Winnipeg, instead of an expected upturn in the British market, induced liquidation in Chicago from the opening bell. July contracts were closed out with 3¾ cents loss at Liverpool and the maximum 5 cents drop at Winnipeg but the deferred deliveries showed only small declines.

The market drifted lower steadily during the session, with only transient rallies on buying partly attributed to removal of hedges against flour sales and export business. Closing prices were at about the low for the day.

Wheat closed 1½ to 2 cents off compared with yesterday's finish, Sept. $1.16½@⅝, Dec. $1.17⅝@¾, May $1.19½@⅝. Corn was 1⅞c down to 1⅛c up, Sept. 91¾@92c; Dec. 67⅝@¾c; May 68⅝c. Oats lost ⅜@½c, Sept. 29½. Rye 1⅜@2⅝c, Sept. 80¼c. Lard was 7 to 13 cents off.

Just before the close, the first of the private crop forecasts for Aug. 1 was released by James E. Bennett & Co., based on reports from grain dealers, country elevators and mills and using official acreage figures. This report estimated winter wheat production at 665,695,000 bushels, spring wheat at 197,626,000 and corn at 2,756,052,000. The Government's July 1 estimates were 663,641,000, 128,646,000 and 2,571,851,000 respectively.

Some selling of wheat was associated with disappointment expressed by a few traders that recent market declines had failed to stimulate as much foreign interest in American wheat as they had expected. There was little business in Canadian wheat for export overnight although once source said Italy and Greece were inquiring and New Zealand bought some recently. New York reported clearance of 12,000 bushels bonded wheat to Copenhagen and 93,000 bushels of wheat from Galveston. It was also understood 50,000 bushels of rye were sold for export.

A rally of 2 cents a bushel in September corn was attributed to buying of shorts. Deferred corn contracts, reflecting prospects for a big crop, continued weak, declining almost 2 cents.

Oats, rye and provisions declined with wheat.

Open interest in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade: Wheat—Thursday, 111,577,000 bu; Wednesday, 109,643,000; week ago, 105,513,000. Corn—Thursday, 34,569,000 bu; Wednesday, 34,484,000; week ago, 34,048,000.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 32,574,000 bushels, corn 22,303,000. Open interest in wheat was 112,945,000 bushels, and in corn 35,188,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 31.—Wheat futures were lower today. September closed at $1.15⅞, down ¾c, and December at $1.17½, off ⅞c.

Winnipeg wheat opened ¼@⅝c lower and later was ⅝@1⅝c off. The close was ⅞@5c lower.

Liverpool wheat started ⅜@½d higher. The close was ¼@⅜d lower.

Local wheat receipts which were 561,000 bushels, compared with 586,500 a week ago and 141,000 a year ago, included 360 cars local and 14 through. Corn receipts which were 64,000 bushels, compared with 33,000 a week ago and 83,500 a year ago, included three cars local. Oats receipts, which were64,000 bushels, compared with 42,000 a week ago and 76,000 a year ago, included 31 cars local and one through. Hay receipts were one car local.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady to 1½c lower. Receipts were quite large (360 cars), but offerings moved steadily at no particular change in the trading basis. Some of the lower grades had wider discounts, but grain with normal test weight sold on an even basis. Mill and order buyers took a few cars choice No. 2 and No. 3, and elevators bought the remainder. Based on St. Louis September futures, No. 2 red sold 3½c to 3¾c over, No. 3 at ½c under to 2c over, No. 4 at 2½c to 8c under, No. 5 at 11c to 21c under. Sample grade 24c to 32c under. Light garlicky No. 2 red sold 1½c over, No. 3 at Sept. to 2c under, No. 4 at 3c to 10c under, No. 5 at 14c to 18c under. Garlicky No. 2 was ½c to 2½c under, No. 3 at 4c to 6c under and No. 4 at 11c to 14c under. Corn was nominally higher. The light supply cleared quickly. Feeders were the buyers. Premiums were 4@5c over Thursday's levels. Oats were unchanged. Demand was good and a clearance was made. Mills, feeders and elevators showed interest.

Republic Steel Improvements.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 31.—Republic Steel announced today improvements costing well up to $1,000,000 for the Youngstown plants of the corporation. They include: Rebuilding and enlarging blast furnace No. 3 to increase capacity from 500 to 850 tons daily and later to 1000 tons daily; installation of a new heating furnace at the 10-inch Skelp mill to increase capacity 3000 tons monthly; purchase of additional pipe finishing equipment for the Electric Weld Pipe Mills at the Poland avenue plant.

Black Strap Car Load Lots Rate.

WASHINGTON, July 31. — The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized today a reduction from 20c to 17.5c per 100 lbs on black strap molasses in car load lots from New Orleans, Gulfport and Mobile to distillery centers of Peoria and Pekin, Ill. The commission's order said a solvents company in Illinois which has been using barge transportation to obtain black strap had indicated it would turn over to rail carriers at least half of its yearly traffic of about 30,000,000 gallons.

SETBACKS OUTWEIGH COMMODITY GAINS

rices of Livestock Up, Grains lump, Upturn in Industrials, Foods Easier.

the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Weather condi- ns were a potent factor in boosting live- ck prices to the highest level in almost e years this week, and equally respon- le for a slump in grains to a new low the year.

Staples generally were easy, industrial mmodities standing with livestock in re- ing the declining trend.

he Associated Press weighted wholesale e index of 35 important commodities pped to 90.15 per cent of the 1926 av- ge from 90.87 the previous week and pared with 79.17 a year ago. Setbacks tweighed advances two to one.

The 1936 drouth jumped the price of d to high levels and caused a heavy rketing of animals last winter and this ring. This reduced the animal popula- n on farms to such an extent shipments market were sharply curtailed in recent eks. With demand continuing strong, ices have been marked up substantially. gs and lambs advanced during the week. ile cattle were little changed at approxi- ately the best level of the year.

Agricultural staples, on the other hand, owed no signs of being deficient this ar. Corn, rye, oats and cotton all gave before a sizable wave of selling. Wheat little changed.

The upturn in industrial staples was of steel scrap. Hides also advanced on od demand, while rubber, turpentine and fell fractionally.

Textiles weakened further. Cotton cloth silk fell back, while wool pushed ahead ghtly.

Foods were easier; eggs, cocoa and flour pping and sugar moving up.

The index, with its components based on 26 as 100, compared as follows:

COTTON SELLS DOWN TO NEW LOWS IN NEARBY DELIVERIES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Cotton sold down to new lows in nearby deliveries on the last day of the season today under hedging. Wall street selling and liquidation: December eased from 10.79c to 10.69c and closed at 10.70c, with final prices generally 5 to 8 points net lower.

The opening was 4 to 7 points lower under week-end liquidation, influenced by generally favorable crop advices, but the initial offerings were not heavy and prices soon turned steadier on trade buying and covering influenced partly by early firmness in the stock market.

In quiet trading, prices had worked up to or slightly above the previous closing levels toward the middle of the session.

Buyers were cautious, however, with a tendency to await further crop estimates, which are expected from various private sources next week. There was a renewal of selling in the late trading, which carried prices to new lows for the season.

A weekly survey of Texas conditions said another hot, dry week speeded cotton to earlier harvest than usual, with fruiting well above average and insects largely held in check.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week was estimated at 19,000 bales, against 23,000 last year and 30,000 two years ago.

FIGURES ON ANTHRACITE IN FUEL COMPETITION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—"Production of anthracite in the first six months (of 1937) was 27,600,000 tons," the Annalist said today, "compared with 28,600,000 tons in 1935, the lowest of the three preceding years."

The $5.25 per ton posted by leading producers on March 9 was reported to be lowest in 18 years.

Anthracite's relative proportion of total heating fuels consumption dropped 39 per cent from 1924 to 1935, while the ratio contributed by other fuels increased 84 per cent.

Shipments of domestic sizes dropped 48 per cent in the 1924-35 period, against a 19 per cent loss in buckwheat and steam sizes, claimed to be a more or less unprofitable by-product.

Dollar income declined 29 per cent in the decade, more than offsetting, the survey stated, a 9 per cent reduction in costs of operation.

Expenses, incidentally, have been boosted recently. A cut of one hour in the working day, from eight to seven hours, on May 1 is estimated to have added 30 cents a ton to cost. The Social Security tax has appended another 10 cents a ton.

MOVE TO OBTAIN W P A STATE ART PROGRAM

Miss Elizabeth Green Organizing Committee to Support Artists' Union Request.

In an effort to obtain a Federally sponsored program providing creative work for unemployed artists of St. Louis and Missouri, Miss Elizabeth Green, 4401 McPherson avenue, is organizing a committee of men and women interested in the arts to support the demand of the St. Louis Artists' Union that the W P A prepare such a program.

Miss Green, a patron of contemporary painting, said yesterday Missouri was one of two states which have not had such a program since the Federal Art Project was established two years ago as a separate administrative agency within the W P A. Texas is the other state.

Elsewhere unemployed artists, given work on Federal Art Projects, have been painting murals in public buildings, and doing easel paintings and sculptures which are lent by the Government to schools and other public institutions. Among the artists so encouraged are many whose work has gained the favorable attention of critics in metropolitan centers.

Artist Had Sewer Job.

Miss Green and Donald McKenzie of the Artists' Union, who has been working with her in attempting to get a Federal art project for Missouri, said they knew of 10 St. Louis artists who ought to be employed in art work. Some of them are now working for the W P A at other jobs. One, who for a time worked in a sewer, is now teaching handicraft on a W P A recreational job.

Lack of a Federal art project not only has denied opportunity to needy artists of Missouri, Miss Green said, but has deprived the State of the cultural advancement which might have been realized through such a program.

The loss to the State was most apparent, she said, in its lack of representation in the Index of American Design which is being compiled by W P A artists. In this undertaking the art traditions of early Americans, long ignored or forgotten, are being rediscovered.

Art in Practical Things.

Artists engaged in compiling the index are finding in such varied things as chair covers, quilts, stair railings, early Pullman car decorative panels, cigar store Indians and steamboat architecture, the elements of a native American tradition in decorative and applied arts which had not been known to exist.

Reproductions of their discoveries are being indexed and catalogued for the instruction and guidance of artists of today.

Lacking a Federal art project with its separate administrative force, Missouri has had a "quota" of 10 artists for whom the W P A was authorized to provide creative work. But only seven were actually employed under this quota, Miss Green said, and all these in Kansas City. With the general reduction in W P A activities, their number has been reduced to three.

Previous Attempts in State.

Two attempts have been made by Washington officials of the Federal Art Project to set up a program in Missouri, but both came to naught. The first ended soon after it began, in 1935, when Meyric Rogers, director of City Art Museum, resigned as director of the art project. His reason was not made public, but artists understood it was because he was not permitted to select his own administrative assistant.

Last year James Baare Turnbull, a leader of the Artists' Union, was named director, but the program outlined by State W P A officials was disapproved in Washington because it called for too many administrative assistants, Miss Green said.

Notwithstanding the curtailment of W P A activities, Miss Green obtained assurance, less than a month ago, from Thomas C. Parker, assistant director of the Federal Art Project in Washington, that "every consideration will be given to a Missouri project which would justify itself on cultural and creative grounds" Parker wrote that he had been "much discouraged" with the results of the Federal art program so far in Missouri.

PLAYGROUND PAGEANT TO BE GIVEN AUG. 31

Show in Municipal Theater; to Use Opera Idea in Story.

About 2500 children who have been spending their summer vacations at the city playgrounds will take part in the final event of the recreation season Aug. 31, the annual pageant at Municipal Theater. This year the show will be "Harlequin and Columbine on the Stage," ending with the hero and heroine attaining stardom in the Municipal Opera.

The show annually climaxes a day of races, games and picnicking on the cricket lawn in Forest Park, opposite the field house. Thirty-one playgrounds will send their children to the park by bus and street car for the festivities.

Each playground has been assigned one or more dances for the production. Dancing teachers visit the playgrounds twice weekly to direct rehearsals. On other days the practice work goes on under the supervision of the director and instructor at each center.

Costumes for the players are being made by a staff of W P A seamstresses under the direction of Mrs. Catherine de la Montanya. The fairy story itself was adapted by Miss Alice Hannegan, city dancing supervisor.

Harlequin and Columbine have been the hero and heroine of many playground pageants in the past. This time Harlequin is a cobbler's apprentice. Columbine is the cobbler's daughter and Harlequin is in love with her. But the cobbler is "an old meanie." When Harlequin finishes his apprenticeship he runs away with Columbine. They try out for the Municipal Opera and in the final act they are on their way to stardom.

About 3500 children are being drilled for the show, but there will be parts only for 2500.

C I O BUILDING UNION TO VOTE

Service Employes to Pick Permanent Officers Tomorrow.

Permanent officers will be elected by the Building Service Employes' Union, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the union hall, 460 North Sarah street. Length of terms has not been decided.

The union, formed in May, has been functioning with temporary officers. It has signed agreements with 15 office buildings for better wages and working conditions for its members and has called one strike, at the Fullerton Building, which has been picketed since July 14 for refusal to make a contract with the union.

SAMUEL W. FORDYCE NEW TOWN'S MAYOR

County Court Names Officials for Berkeley, in Kinloch School District.

Samuel W. Fordyce, lawyer and former chairman of the Democratic State Committee, who lives in what is said to be the oldest brick house west of the Mississippi River, was appointed Mayor of St. Louis County's newest town yesterday by the County Court.

In naming officials of Berkeley, which began its corporate existence last Thursday in the midst of legal proceedings to prevent erection of a Negro high school nearby, the County Court appointed as City Attorney, Kenneth Teasdale, president of the Missouri Bar Association.

The new town, which is St. Louis County's twenty-seventh incorporated community, has a population of 2000 and includes the district formerly known as Nuroad, and other parts of the Kinloch school district occupied by white families. About 350 students of the school at Nuroad went on strike for several days last April in support of their parents' unsuccessful demand for creation of a separate school district. As an incorporated town, Berkeley may establish its own schools.

An election was held yesterday in the Kinloch district for selection of a Negro school site, but a restraining order, issued Friday by Circuit Judge Witthaus, forbids purchase of a site by the school board. An order to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be issued set the hearing for Oct. 6.

Other officials appointed by the County Court: Robert Wilson, City Collector; Joseph Sowders, City Marshal; Norman B. Champ and Arthur Kelley, First Ward Alderman, and Vernon Beach and George Wise, Second Ward Aldermen. Those appointed will serve until an election next April.

JAZZ WINS OVER INSECT SONG

Japanese Turning to New Forms of Entertainment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

YOKOHAMA, July 31.—The traditional Japanese pastime of listening to the songs of insects is threatened with extinction, according to the American Express Travel Service. Films, the radio, jazz, cafes and sports provide the entertainment of modern Japan. Regarded for years as a soothing comfort, the song of night-singing insects, captive in delicate bamboo cakes, no longer are appreciated.

Insect dealers are losing business, but in spring and summer months as many as 100,000 insects are sold. May and June are the busiest months, with the sweet-voiced frogs added to the sales list.

25,000 SIGN GASOLINE TAX PETITIONS EARLY

30,000 Forms Distributed — 65,000 Names Needed to Obtain Election on Raise.

The committee sponsoring the circulation of petitions for a referendum on the increase of the State gasoline tax, has distributed more than 30,000 petitions throughout the State in an effort to obtain the 65,000 signatures required to place the proposition on the ballot in the next State general election, Nov. 8, 1938.

While the committee has been engaged principally in distributing the petitions and arranging for their circulation, it has been estimated that more than 25,000 voters have signed during the first four days of the drive. Active solicitation of signatures will begin next week.

Although the law requires the petitions to be signed by 5 per cent of the voters in two-thirds of the congressional districts of the State, which means about 65,000 signers, the committee hopes to obtain the names of at least 250,000 voters. The committee has asked that the signed petitions be returned by Aug. 23 so they may be checked and tabulated before being submitted to the Secretary of State on Sept. 6.

The State gasoline tax was increased from 2 to 3 cents a gallon, effective Dec. 8, 1938, at the last session of the Legislature. The increase, expected to produce about $6,000,000 annually in additional revenue, was supported by Gov. Stark and representatives of the State Highway Department, who contended the State's road program would have to be curtailed, because of increasing road bond funding requirements, unless additional funds were made available.

At present the gasoline tax in St. Louis is 4 cents a gallon, including 1 cent Federal tax and 1 cent city tax. The Board of Aldermen recently passed a bill to increase the city tax a half-cent a gallon to help meet the city's deficit, but returned the bill to committee pending the collection of delinquent taxes.

The referendum committee is composed of about 24 representatives of oil and gasoline dealers, automobile dealers and union leaders. In addition, the referendum is being approved by numerous chambers of commerce and business organizations throughout the State. The referendum committee will meet Tuesday at Jefferson City to organize and to complete plans for the State-wide solicitation of signatures.

31 CATHOLIC BISHOPS TO ATTEND CONGRESS

More Than 1000 Delegates Will Be in City for Meeting Which Opens Oct. 9.

The third National Catechetical Congress of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, which is organized in the Catholic Church of the United States and Canada for the promotion of religious education, will be held in St. Louis four days beginning Oct. 9.

Included among the more than 1000 Catholic clergymen and laymen who are expected to attend will be 31 bishops from widely scattered dioceses, leaders in the field of Catholic education, and officers of various Catholic national organizations who are to participate in the program.

Addresses and discussions will deal with these announced aims of the confraternity: The religious training and instruction of Catholic students who are not attending Catholic schools, the organization of study clubs for adults and of inquiry classes for persons who are not Catholics, and the religious education of children by parents in the home.

In general charge of arrangements for the gathering is Auxiliary Bishop Christian H. Winkelmann of St. Louis, assisted by a staff of St. Louis clergymen. The program will be supervised by a committee composed of Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara of Great Falls, Mont., Archbishop John T. McNichols of Cincinnati, and Archbishop John Gregory Murray of St. Paul.

Archbishop Glennon Host.

Archbishop John J. Glennon of St. Louis will be host to the visiting churchmen. To prepare Catholics of this area for the convention he has proclaimed Sunday, Oct. 3, as "Catechetical Sunday," to be observed with special proceedings in every church of the archdiocese.

It is expected that other Catholic Bishops of the country will follow Archbishop Glennon's example in setting the day aside for attention to the work of the confraternity.

In addition to those named above the following Bishops will participate in the program of the gathering here: Bishop Thomas F. Lillis of Kansas City, Bishop Emmet M. Walsh ofg Charleston, W. Va., Bishop Urban J. Vehr of Denver, Bishop Joseph H. Schlarmann of Peoria, Ill.; Archbishop Francis J. L. Beckman of Dubuque, Ia.; Bishop C. E. Byrne of Galveston, Tex.; Bishop Robert E. Lucey of Amarillo, Tex.; Bishop Thomas K. Gorman of Reno.

Bishop Patrick Lynch of Dallas, Coadjutor Bishop Peter L. Ireton of Richmond, Va.; Auxiliary Bishop Raymond A. Kearney of Brooklyn, Bishop A. J. Muench of Fargo, N. D.; Bishop Francis J. Tief of Concordia, Kan.; Bishop John B. Peterson of Manchester, N. H.; Bishop Henry P. Rohlmann of Davenport, Bishop J. B. Jeanmard of Lafayette, La.; Bishop William J. Hafey of Raleigh, N. C.; Bishop S. V. Bona of Grand Island, Neb.

University Rector to Speak.

The Rt. Rev. Joseph M. Corrigan, rector of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., will speak at the banquet, which will conclude the congress. Other speakers during the session will include Dr. Thomas E. Purcell of St. Louis, president of the National Council of Catholic Men; the Rev. George Johnson, secretary-general of the National Catholic Education Association; and the Rev. William T. Mulloy of Grafton, N. D., president of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference.

Convention headquarters will be the Coronado Hotel. Sessions will be held in the St. Louis University gymnasium and auditorium and in the cathedral school auditorium.

NEGRO NURSES' CONVENTION WILL OPEN HERE AUG. 16

About 200 Expected to Attend Association's Thirtieth Annual Session.

The National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses will hold its thirtieth annual convention Aug. 16-20 at the Antioch Missionary Baptist Church, 4213W North Market street. About 200 of the organization's 800 members are expected to attend.

Speakers at the convention and their subjects will include: Dr. Roscoe C. Giles, Chicago, "Problems of Medical Education Among Negroes"; Miss Belva Overton, superintendent of nurses in Provident Hospital, Chicago, "Graduate Staff Nursing," and Dr. G. Hamilton Francis, Norfolk, Va., "Factors Affecting the Nation's Health." Several St. Louisans will take part in the program.

BOMB IN DOORWAY OF FIRM

Employe Finds Dynamite at Kirn Sign Concern.

A bomb consisting of five sticks of dynamite and a partly burned fuse was found in the doorway of the G. C. Kirn Advertising Sign Co., 2739 Washington boulevard, yesterday morning by an employe reporting for work.

Recently there has been a jurisdictional dispute between two unions whose members are employed by sign companies. On July 24 two plate glass windows were smashed at the Keller Sign Co., neon sign manufacturers, 2837 Washington.

FINAL SESSION OPENS AT CAMP IRONDALE

Boy Scouts to Hold Sports Carnival and Pageant Next Week-End.

Nine Boy Scout troops from St. Louis and vicinity were quartered at Camp Irondale, operated by the St. Louis Council, for the final two-week session which begins today. A carnival of water sports is planned for Saturday afternoon. A pageant commemorating the history of the camp site will be presented next Sunday. Troops 30, 55, 77, 92, 122, 155, 255, 275 and 306 are now in camp.

The departing section of scouts brought their Buccaneer day activities to a climax last Thursday with an evening raid for "pieces of eight," followed by a barbecue and watermelon festival. The "pieces of eight" were the former camp commissary tokens, long retired from circulation.

The most successful week in the history of Lion's Den, short-term camp at Seckman, Mo., came to a close last night when scouts from nine troops, an aggregate of 123 boys and their adult leaders, returned to their home in St. Louis. A carnival was held Thursday afternoon, and the election of a "Camp Lion" climaxed the week's activities.

Mornings were spent in scout advancement work under the direction of troop leaders, assisted by the camp staff. Monday, Wednesday and Friday were general twim days, and scout sports and contests were held Tuesday afternoon.

The Polaris furnished the training crew for the current week-end cruise on the Mississippi River of the Coast Guard cutter Kenosha, which is assigned to the St. Louis Sea Scout division for the purpose of developing a special unit of trained youths for service in rescue work and flood relief.

Troop Notes.

More than 50 relatives and friends visited scouts of Troop 98, St. Roch's Church, last Wednesday at their lone troop camp in Steelville, Mo.

Troop 366, Central School, will hold a Court of Honor Friday evening.

The Mothers Club of Troop 122, St. Philip Neri Church, served refreshments during a farewell party held Wednesday evening in honor of the troop, which goes into camp today at Irondale.

Troop 163, Curby Memorial Church, will spend the next two weeks at their summer camp in Columbia, Ill.

Troop 126, Holy Ghost Evangelical Church, will enjoy a three-day camp at Lions Den, beginning next Sunday.

Motion pictures of activities at Camp Irondale and Lion's Den, taken by Al Krause of Troop 2, will be exhibited this winter at troop meetings.

Girl Scouts.

St. Louis Girl Scout Mariners who will meet at Pin Oak Camp on the Lake of the Ozarks for two weeks beginning Aug. 2, will have an opportunity to put into practice their maritime knowledge gained on land this spring. Following the encampment a national course for young women leaders who want to be mariner skippers or members of pilot committees will be given at the camp, under the direction of Miss Olive McCormick, national waterfront safety and health adviser for Girl Scouts.

A group of Girl Scouts will leave St. Louis Monday to attend the fourth and final encampment at Cedarledge, near Pevely, Mo. This last two-week period, from Aug. 2 to 16, will close the tenth consecutive camping season at Cedarledge.

Two Girl Scout Day Camps came to a close last week, completing the 1937 season. The North District Camp, meeting at Glasco Woods off Carr Lane drive, held its final meeting Thursday, with the presentation of ballads and a campfire program. The Day Camp meeting at Shaw Park in Clayton came to a close Friday, presenting singing games and a puppet show before parents and friends.

WHEAT RUST HAS PLAGUED FARMERS SINCE OLDEN TIMES

Romans Thought God Robigus Caused It; Actually It Is a Tiny Fungus.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31. — Wheat rust has plagued farmers since ancient times.

Government scientists say the Romans blamed the god Robigus for rust, saying he periodically shriveled grain fields to wreak his vengeance on the people.

Later the weather was blamed because rust usually is most destructive when it is warm and damp, and crops are late.

The plant disease often reduces harvests to five or six bushels of shriveled grain per acre from a field that should produce 20 bushels or more of plump kernels.

Rust is a tiny fungus that pierces the stalk of grain and steals food from the plant. When a rust-blighted field is harvested a cloud of black and red dust rises like a fog, covering men, horses and machines. The dust looks like iron rust, hence its name.

Little can be done after rust infects a field. Dusting with powder has checked the disease but this plan is commercially impracticable.

Two lines of attack have been developed by the Department of Agriculture: breeding of special types of wheat and other grains that will resist rust, and eradication of barberry bushes.

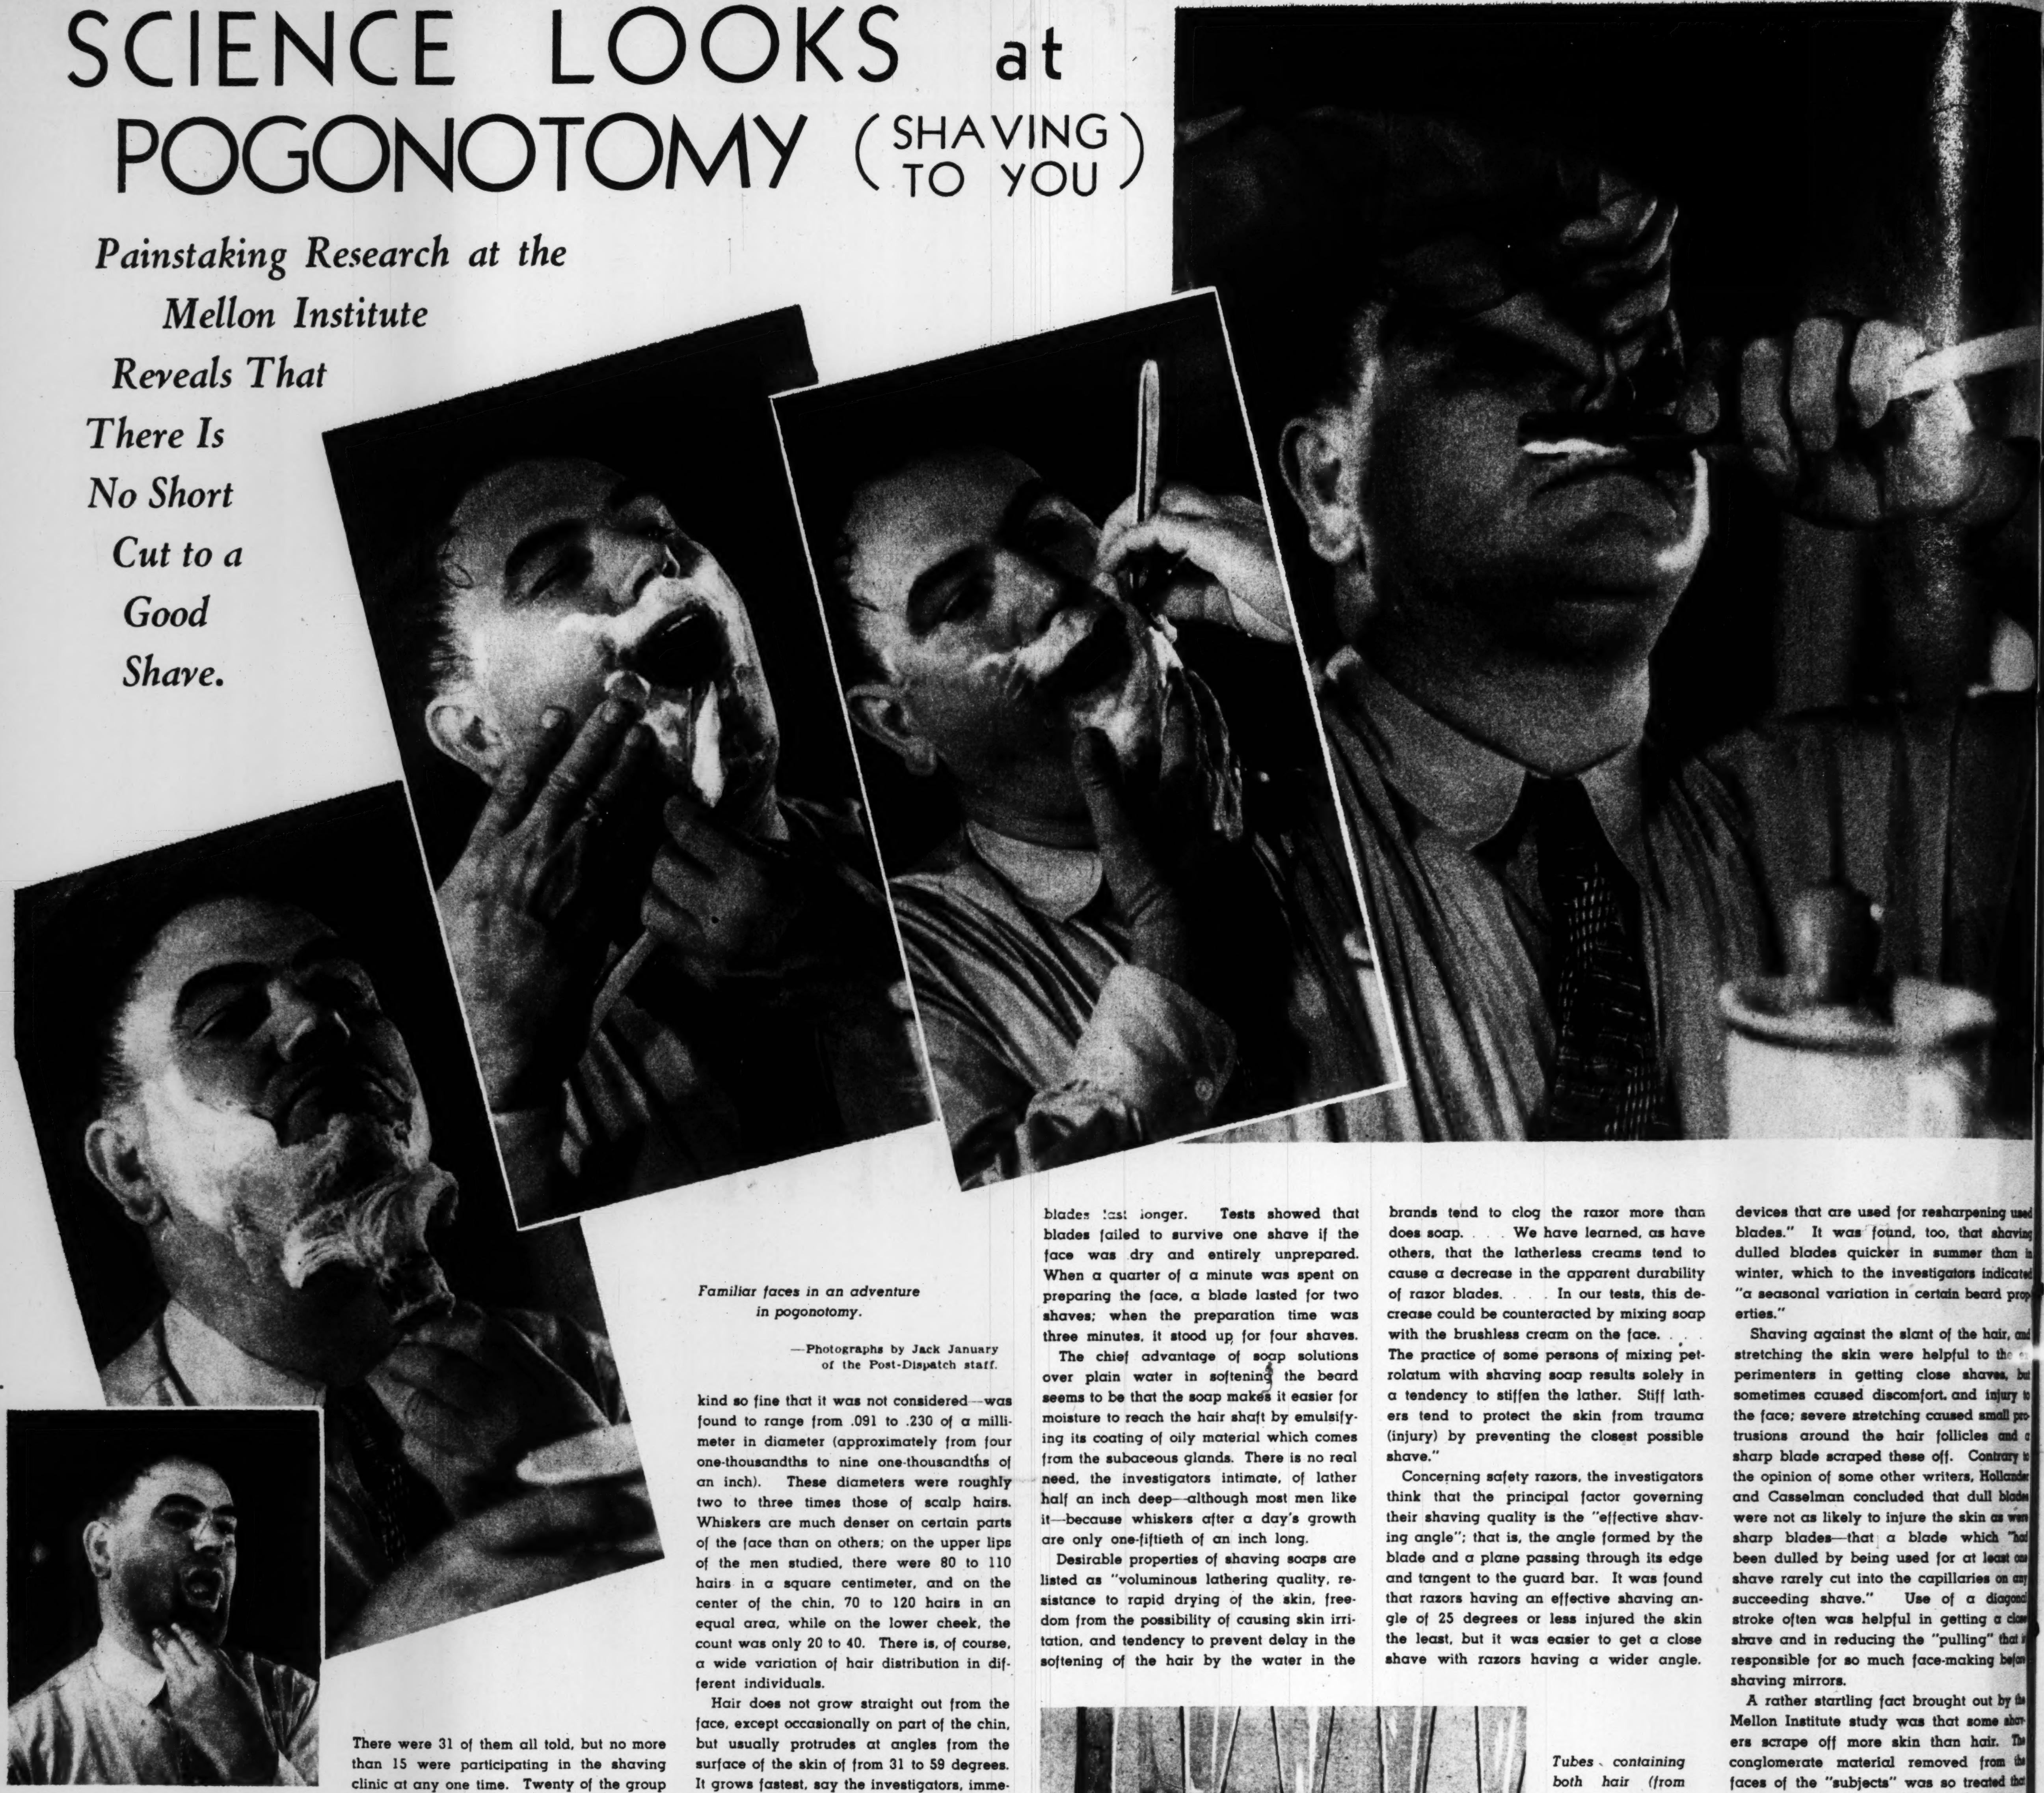
SCIENCE LOOKS at POGONOTOMY (SHAVING TO YOU)

Painstaking Research at the Mellon Institute Reveals That There Is No Short Cut to a Good Shave.



Familiar faces in an adventure in pogonotomy.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

FOR men in a hurry the latest scientific pronouncement on the subject of pogonotomy is discouraging. It appears from the evidence presented that high achievement in this well-known field of human activity can be attained only at the expense of time—of more time than most people usually devote to it. Apparently a man ambitious for such achievement and also desirous of catching the 8:15 will simply have to get up a little earlier in the morning.

Painstaking and often painful research, the results of which have just been announced, clearly indicates that there is no short cut to a good shave. This is probably the outstanding finding of the investigators: that to experience the ultimate in shaving satisfaction, it is necessary to prepare the face properly for the operation. Such preparation, it has been found, requires close to three minutes when hot water is used; if the shaver is a stout fellow who carries his hardihood to the extent of shaving in cold water, or if his whiskers are gray or white, even more time must be allowed to put them into the condition most favorable for removal.

The expert advice concerning a masculine practice which is as much a nuisance to those who call it pogonotomy as to those who call it shaving is the outcome of a four-year study at Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh. The investigation was carried out under the direction of Dr. Lester Hollander, chief of dermatological service at Pittsburgh City Hospital and Montefiore Hospital and medical director of the Pittsburgh Skin and Cancer Foundation, and Elbridge J. Casselman, S. B., Industrial Fellow at Mellon Institute.

For four years they had a group of scientists, employes of the institute, shaving experimentally under instructions, trying this and that, observing effects, providing data. There were 31 of them all told, but no more than 15 were participating in the shaving clinic at any one time. Twenty of the group were blond and 11 were brunet. Five of the blonds and six of the brunets had whiskers that were coarse and dense. In the lot were both heavy-bearded and light-bearded men who suffered when using dull razor blades.

Nine of the group shaved every day for a year, five were daily shavers for two years, eight shaved daily for three years or more. Nine shaved at irregular times—possibly in recognition of the fact that even this effete, beardless civilization contains free souls who sometimes eye their razor sourly in the morning, rub a hand over their facial stubble and turn away firmly, muttering, "The hell with it."

The experimental shavers tried a great variety of soaps and shaving creams, water of various temperatures, razors of different kinds. They scraped their faces with sharp blades and dull, held the razors at various angles, pulled with and against the slant of the beard. Their whiskers were measured, photographed and counted, their wounds studied, their sensations of comfort or misery recorded.

The mass of data thus accumulated, supplemented by laboratory tests, was co-ordinated and interpreted by Hollander and Casselman, directors of the research, who have now made their findings public in an article entitled "Factors Involved in Satisfactory Shaving" in the Journal of the American Medical Association. It is probably the first comprehensive scientific publication on the subject. While several of the factors have been considered and written about separately, the authors say: "An extensive search of the literature, however, has not revealed a single or recent publication which integrates the various aspects of this subject." It should perhaps be said that there is no mention in the article of electric razors.

There were two main divisions of the investigation. One was concerned with the preparation of the face, the other with the actual shaving. Both required, as a foundation, a careful examination of the terrains—including the character and distribution of the enemy—where millions of men daily do battle with their whiskers.

A good many interesting observations were made in the course of this examination. The hair on the face—excluding the kind so fine that it was not considered—was found to range from .091 to .230 of a millimeter in diameter (approximately from four one-thousandths to nine one-thousandths of an inch). These diameters were roughly two to three times those of scalp hairs. Whiskers are much denser on certain parts of the face than on others; on the upper lips of the men studied, there were 80 to 110 hairs in a square centimeter, and on the center of the chin, 70 to 120 hairs in an equal area, while on the lower cheek, the count was only 20 to 40. There is, of course, a wide variation of hair distribution in different individuals.

Hair does not grow straight out from the face, except occasionally on part of the chin, but usually protrudes at angles from the surface of the skin of from 31 to 59 degrees. It grows fastest, say the investigators, immediately after shaving. Then, they add, the rate of growth becomes slower "until a normal average of 11 to 12 millimeters (43 to 47 one-hundreths of an inch) a month is attained. This normal rate is not affected by shaving or cutting. Neither is the thickness affected by either process."

The chief chemical component of hair is a complex organic substance called keratin, which is insoluble in water, but which absorbs water. When water-soaked it loses hardness and tensile strength. Preparing the face for shaving is largely, the investigators found, softening the whiskers. In determining the best means of softening, they tested hair by stretching it; the more it would stretch the softer it was—the easier, therefore, to shave. They explain the process:

"THE time required to soften hair by aqueous solutions was studied by measuring the rate of elongation of the hair when stressed with 16 Kg. per square millimeter of load, being immersed in a test liquid. This amount of load does not stretch hair apparently in its dry state, but when the hair is fully saturated with water it produces a stretch up to 50 per cent of its original length."

Scalp hairs 10 inches long were used for the tests, and the results were made to apply to the coarser hairs of the face by multiplying the time of immersion by four. It was found that dark hair in water having a temperature of 120 degrees Fahrenheit could be stretched to 86 per cent of its stretching capacity in about 40 seconds. That was taken to indicate a softness sufficient for satisfactory shaving. A dark whisker, therefore, would be softened sufficiently in two and a half to three minutes. When cooler water was used—62 degrees—the dark test hair had stretched to only 60 per cent of capacity in 100 seconds. With a soap solution at 75 degrees, a dark hair test showed 90 per cent stretch in 40 seconds. Under the same conditions, white hair showed a stretch of 33 to 51 per cent, indicating its slower softening rate.

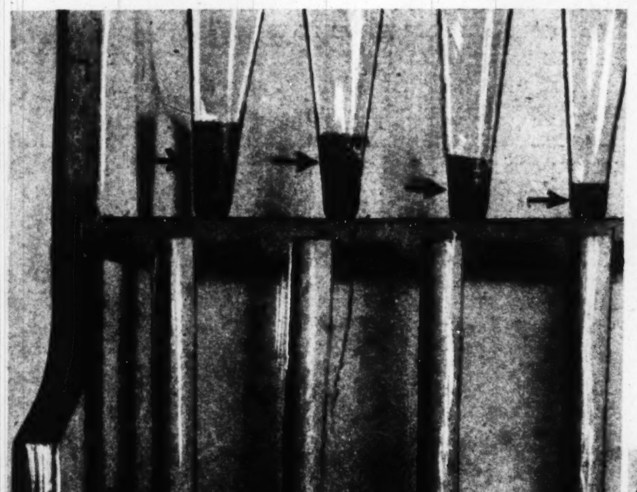
So the investigators recommend that at least three minutes be devoted to getting the beard ready for the razor. Not only do the whiskers come off more easily, but razor blades last longer. Tests showed that blades failed to survive one shave if the face was dry and entirely unprepared. When a quarter of a minute was spent on preparing the face, a blade lasted for two shaves; when the preparation time was three minutes, it stood up for four shaves.

The chief advantage of soap solutions over plain water in softening the beard seems to be that the soap makes it easier for moisture to reach the hair shaft by emulsifying its coating of oily material which comes from the subaceous glands. There is no real need, the investigators intimate, of lather half an inch deep—although most men like it—because whiskers after a day's growth are only one-fiftieth of an inch long.

Desirable properties of shaving soaps are listed as "voluminous lathering quality, resistance to rapid drying of the skin, freedom from the possibility of causing skin irritation, and tendency to prevent delay in the softening of the hair by the water in the lather." The authors add: "In respect to the fourth characteristic, it is our experience that the composition of the soap has little bearing on its effectiveness as a beard softening agent so long as it has emulsifying properties and meets the limitation that it should not irritate the skin. The best shaving soap devised does not compensate for the use of cold water or for a dull blade. On the other hand, the use of hot water, a preparational time of from two and one-half to three minutes and a sharp blade in a correctly designed razor make the use of any non-irritating soap perfectly satisfactory whether a brush is used for lathering or not."

As to latherless shaving creams, they say: "We have found that the softening action of these preparations when used alone is slower than that of soaps. The stiffer brands tend to clog the razor more than does soap. . . . We have learned, as have others, that the latherless creams tend to cause a decrease in the apparent durability of razor blades. . . . In our tests, this decrease could be counteracted by mixing soap with the brushless cream on the face. . . . The practice of some persons of mixing petrolatum with shaving soap results solely in a tendency to stiffen the lather. Stiff lathers tend to protect the skin from trauma (injury) by preventing the closest possible shave."

Concerning safety razors, the investigators think that the principal factor governing their shaving quality is the "effective shaving angle"; that is, the angle formed by the blade and a plane passing through its edge and tangent to the guard bar. It was found that razors having an effective shaving angle of 25 degrees or less injured the skin the least, but it was easier to get a close shave with razors having a wider angle. An angle between 28 and 32 degrees is suggested as affording a pretty good compromise.



Tubes containing both hair (from the arrows down) and skin (from the arrows up).

Chips of hair and skin removed in shaving—from a microphotograph

As to blades: "A study of safety razor blades showed that practically all of them are made from steel as good for shaving purposes as the best steel ever used for an old style straight razor, if not better. . . . The conformation of the edge was the most important single quality affecting its durability. The most durable edges were those in which all serrations were removed that were visible in profile with a 4 mm., 0.85 numerical aperture objective, by proper stropping with canvas and leather. Such edges also tended to have the best sharpness in the absence of overstropping." Also: "The automatic sharpening equipment of the more experienced blade manufacturers produces sharper blades than do any of the devices that are used for resharpening used blades." It was found, too, that shaving dulled blades quicker in summer than in winter, which to the investigators indicated "a seasonal variation in certain beard properties."

Shaving against the slant of the hair, and stretching the skin were helpful to the experimenters in getting close shaves, but sometimes caused discomfort and injury to the face; severe stretching caused small protrusions around the hair follicles and a sharp blade scraped these off. Contrary to the opinion of some other writers, Hollander and Casselman concluded that dull blades were not as likely to injure the skin as were sharp blades—that a blade which "had been dulled by being used for at least one shave rarely cut into the capillaries on any succeeding shave." Use of a diagonal stroke often was helpful in getting a close shave and in reducing the "pulling" that is responsible for so much face-making before shaving mirrors.

A rather startling fact brought out by the Mellon Institute study was that some shavers scrape off more skin than hair. The conglomerate material removed from the faces of the "subjects" was so treated that the hair and skin fragments—mostly horny bits of the outer layer of the epidermis—were desposited in two distinct layers in centrifuge tubes.

CAREFUL measuring showed that one man took off an average of .30 of a cubic centimeter of skin while relieving his visage of .21 of a cubic centimeter of whiskers; another removed .25 of a cubic centimeter of skin to .10 of a beard; one who was not so hard on his face took off .13 of a cubic centimeter of skin to .23 of hair. When the face was gone over a second time in one shaving the amount of skin removed in proportion to hair was usually increased. One man, for example, scraped off equal amounts of hair and skin—.14 of a cubic centimeter—the first over, but when he covered the ground again he got only .05 of a cubic centimeter of hair, but .11 of skin.

Post-operative treatment for shavers is recommended as follows: To control any bleeding, the application of bismuth subgallate, a powder; an antiseptic and astringent lotion such as 50 per cent ethyl alcohol containing four per cent salicylic acid; talcum powder as a protective coating.

After explaining that the choice of razor design must vary with the individual—in general, a man with a sensitive skin will find shaving more comfortable with a razor having a relatively small effective shaving angle—the directors of the shaving clinic set forth the shaving procedure which their four-year study has shown to be most productive of satisfaction. They say:

"Wash the face first with soap and water, using hot water and some toilet soap that has been found not to irritate the skin. Carry on this operation for about one-half minute and then rinse the face thoroughly. The purpose of this washing is to remove the grit from the face, which might damage the blade, and to remove the external layer of sweat and sebum from the skin and hair as well as other extraneous material. After the soap has been thoroughly rinsed off with hot water, a second layer of soap should be applied. This may be one's favorite shaving soap. It is to be thoroughly rubbed into the surface of the skin with the

LONDON.

SHORTLY before 7 a. m. on Monday, April 12, 1937, F. Cox, a middle-aged railroad worker of Leighton Buzzard, about 40 miles northwest of London, was on his way to work. As he passed a footpath called The Firs, which runs through a fir grove and forms a shortcut between two main thoroughfares, Plantation and [illegible] roads, he suddenly halted. Across the footpath, in the light of the rising sun, sprawled the body of a young woman. Most of her clothing had been ripped off, but coat and gloves were still on the body beside which lay her shoes. A black and white spotted silk scarf was tightly knotted around the girl's neck.

The body lay at a spot where The Firs is only about three yards wide. Locally, the path is known as [illegible] Walk.

Cox instantly recognized the girl; there were few people in Leighton Buzzard whom he did not know, being one of the town's oldest inhabitants. The body was that of Ruby Keen, 23 years old, who lived on Plantation road, some [illegible] yards away.

Cox covered the lifeless figure with his raincoat and hurried to notify Superintendent Folkes, senior officer of the Leighton Buzzard Police Department.

The murder of Ruby Keen immediately recalled to the police an earlier crime committed in The Firs. About two weeks prior, a 14-year-old [illegible] school girl had been criminally attacked and stripped of her clothing by a man whom she had never before seen in the neighborhood.

The local police had the body examined by Dr. John [illegible], local pathologist. Dr. Taylor found that Ruby had not been criminally attacked, that death had resulted from strangulation and that the girl had been killed with her own scarf. An interesting feature in this connection was the fact that the scarf was so tightly bound around her neck that he had a hard time getting a scissors blade under it.

Superintendent Folkes that same day put a call through to Scotland Yard and as a result two officers from the C. I. D., Chief Inspector [illegible] and Detective-Sergeant Tomlin, arrived in Leighton Buzzard to help with the solution of the murder. At once, together with Detective [illegible] and other local officers, they went to the scene of the crime and began to search for clews.

As part of routine procedure, the police checked on the last movements of Ruby Keen and on her background. The young woman, they learned, was employed at a factory at nearby [illegible] and lived at Leighton Buzzard with her mother, a brother, who worked as a [illegible], and an elder sister. Altogether, there were four daughters in the family, of whom two were married.

Ruby, a pretty platinum blonde, was engaged to a policeman by the name of Patrick Smith, of nearby Hockliffe. The policeman readily admitted that on the afternoon prior to the discovery of the murder he had been in the company of Ruby in Leighton Buzzard. (That day was Sunday, April 11.) Later in the evening he had [illegible] to Hockliffe and that was the last he had seen of his fiancee. CONVICTED of MURDER by a SILK THREAD

How Modern Police Methods Tracked Down the Slayer of Ruby Keen.

Superintendent Folkes that same day put a call through to Scotland Yard and as a result two officers from the C. I. D., chief Inspector Barker and Detective-Sergeant Tomlin, arrived at Leighton Buzzard to help with the solution of the murder. At once, together with Detective Palmer and other local officers, they went to the scene of the crime and began to search for clews.

As part of routine procedure, the police checked on the last movements of Ruby Keen and on her background. The young woman, they learned, was employed at a factory at nearby Dunstable and lived at Leighton Buzzard with her mother, a brother, who worked as a truck driver, and an elder sister. Altogether, there were four daughters in the family, of whom two were married.

Ruby, a pretty platinum blonde, was engaged to a policeman by the name of Patrick Smith, of nearby Hockliffe. The policeman readily admitted that on the afternoon prior to the discovery of the murder he had been in the company of Ruby at Leighton Buzzard. (That day was Sunday, April 11.) Eager to find this stranger, the police questioned dozens of persons asking for a description of the man. But their labors merely resulted in non-significant details such as could have fitted thousands of men. They had not even finished their questioning when the man sought came forward of his own free will.

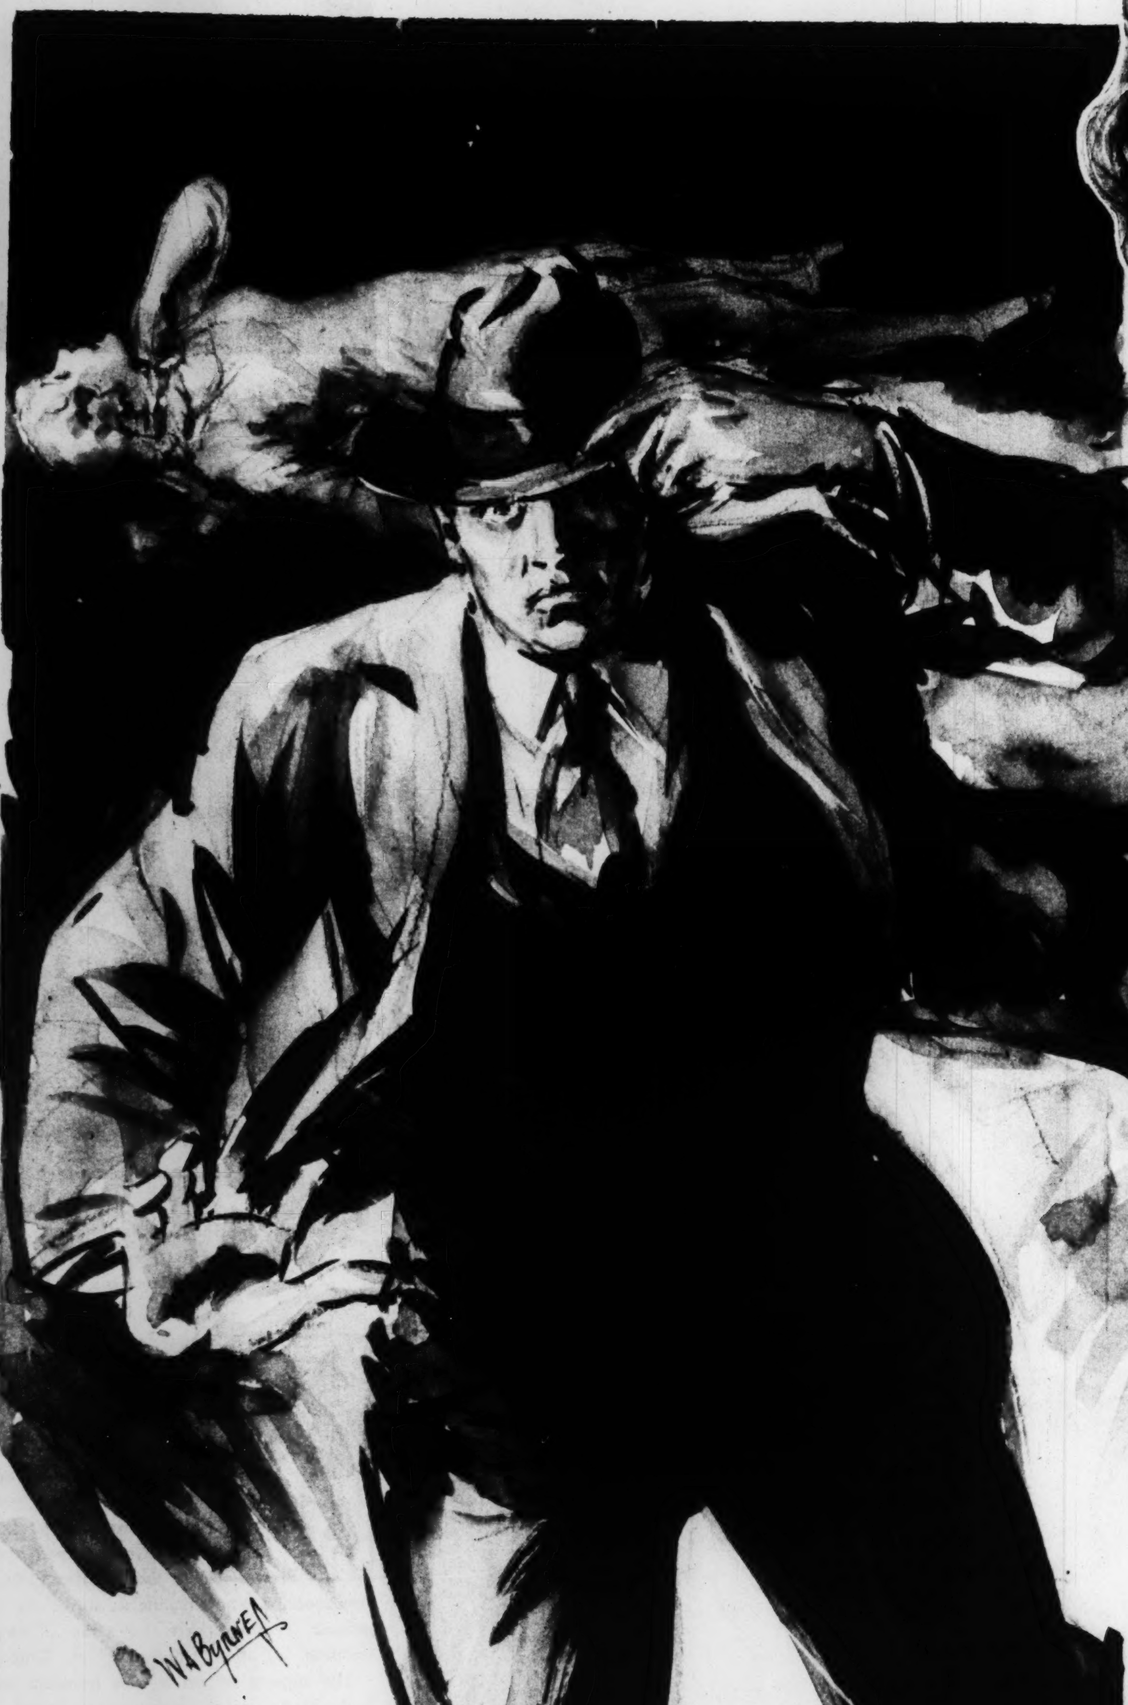
Early on the afternoon of the first day of the investigation, Police Constable J. McCarthy's wife of Heath and Reach, a village near Leighton Buzzard, received a call from Leslie George Stone, a sandpit worker who lived in the hamlet. Stone, a young man of 24, apparently was very agitated and sobbed so pitifully that Mrs. Edith McCarthy gave him a drink of the good brandy that the Constable was wont to partake of only on special occasions. Stone said he had been with the murdered Ruby Keen the night before and he wanted to make a statement. Would Mrs. McCarthy be good enough to summon Detective Palmer from Leighton Buzzard? Mrs. McCarthy obliged and when Detective Palmer arrived, Stone told the following story:



"But when he noticed that she did not move, fear supplanted anger and he hurried away."

"I was with Ruby Keen last night and left her at 10:15 at the Stag. She went along Plantation road and I went up Heath road. I want to make this statement to clear myself, as I was with her. I have known Ruby since 1931."

IN 1930, Stone said, he had joined the army and was attached to the Royal Artillery. At that time, he was stationed at Gossport. The following year, he went home for a leave and met Ruby at a dance in Leighton Buzzard. She attracted him at once. The young man himself was tall and handsome and the attraction seemed to be mutual. They saw each other on two more occasions. Then Stone's leave was up and shortly after his return to Gossport he was sent to Hongkong. He was anxious to keep up contact with Ruby. But when three of his letters remained unanswered, Stone stopped writing.

In January, 1937, Stone had left the service and returned to Heath. Week-ends he usually went to Leighton Buzzard, as other young bloods in the district were wont to do. He had made quiet inquiries about Ruby, found out she was still unmarried, but was engaged to Policeman Smith and that she was to marry him soon. Thus, he refrained from seeking her company, "since I did not want to make a fool of myself."

On April 4, 1937, however, Stone met Ruby at a local tavern, he related. The girl seemed glad to see him again and suggested, he said, that "they have a night out for the sake of old times."

On the night of April 11, they met at Golden Bell Hotel around 8 and had drinks. Stone had three pints of mild beer while Ruby had a port. About 9 they went on to the Cross Keys. There Stone had two pints of mild and Ruby two ports. After leaving the Cross Keys, around 9:50, they walked to the Stag where they separated, Stone asserted.

Stone's story was accepted for the time being and checked up by the police. Most of it was corroborated by townspeople and the various bartenders.

Miss Ruby Keen.

Meanwhile, a thorough investigation had been made at the scene of the murder. Near the spot where Ruby's body was found, the imprint of a shoe was discovered, also a mark left by the knee of a man who apparently had knelt over the body. This mark showed the man had been wearing trousers of a peculiar pattern, the imprint of which was still visible in the soil. Plaster casts were made of both the shoe and the cloth imprints.

The police were prepared for patient, long work: a nation-wide canvass of clothing manufacturers with the purpose of identifying the pattern of the kneeling man's suit. However, Superintendent Folkes of the Leighton Buzzard police suggested that the local clothing dealers should be investigated first; there was a chance that the man who had knelt beside the body was an inhabitant of the district.

On April 14, a canvass on Leighton Buzzard's main street brought quick success. A clothing dealer there identified the pattern recorded in the plaster cast as similar to that of a blue suit with white pin stripes which he had sold to a young man the previous week.

Did he know the identity of the young man?

The merchant briefly consulted his books and said the customer was Leslie George Stone of Heath and Reach Village.

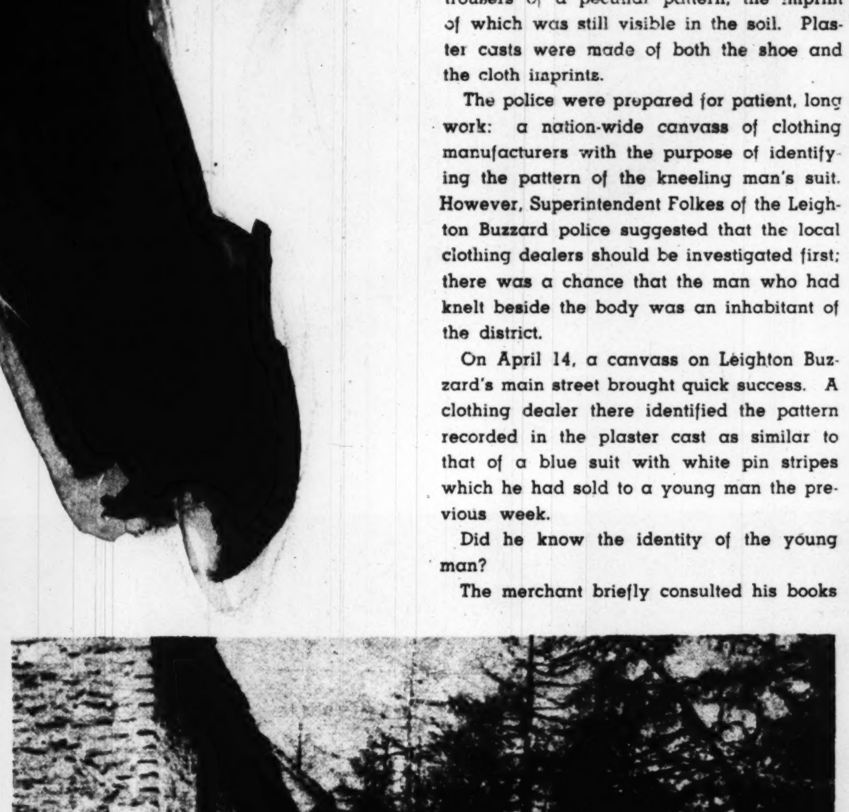
Immediately, the police went to Stone's house and confiscated his new suit. The trousers of the suit were examined first and it was found that the left knee was strongly impregnated with sand. The crease had almost disappeared from the knee—evidence that an attempt to remove the sand had been made while the garment was still damp.

Confronted with this evidence, Stone was sullen. He stuck to his story, even when reexamination of the plaster casts made on the murder scene showed that the imprint of his shoes roughly fitted the one found there.

But obviously, mere sand grains found on a pair of trousers and a spoiled crease did not constitute sufficient evidence to convict Stone of the murder of Ruby Keen. Stone's suit might have become impregnated with sand in the course of his work, since he worked in a sandpit.

Accordingly, the entire suit was taken by a police officer to London, where Dr. Rhode Lynch, the Home Office analyst, subjected it to a minute microscopical examination.

And Dr. Lynch discovered what was regarded as the clinching piece of evidence. It was a tiny silk thread, one inch in length and containing 38 to 40 filaments. This silk thread was identical with threads in a yellow silk garment Ruby Keen had worn the night she was slain. It was on the coat of Stone's new suit.



The footpath called "The Firs" where the body was found.

DR. LYNCH immediately telephoned his discovery to the Leighton Buzzard authorities and as a result, Stone was charged late that day with the murder of Ruby Keen and held for examination. He pleaded not guilty.

The trial of Stone was held recently at the Old Bailey in London. With Chief Justice Lord Hewart presiding, the Crown was represented by Richard O'Sullivan, K. C., while the accused man was defended by Maurice Healy and C. L. Henderson.

On the second day of the trial, Stone told in court what had really happened the night of the murder. After drinking in the Golden Bell and the Cross Keys, he said, Ruby and he had walked down Plantation road towards The Firs. Several kisses were exchanged. As they walked along, Ruby brought up an incident of their early acquaintance. At that time, Ruby had the habit of playfully inserting her little finger into Stone's ear. It annoyed him, and once he wanted to hit her for it; instead he struck his hand hard against a wall.

As they strolled along that night which was to be her last on earth Ruby reminded him of this incident and asked him if his hand still hurt. Stone said no, but added that she was lucky he had hit the wall instead of her. At this, Ruby's temper flared. She called him a dirty devil and hit him on the side of the head. Stone began to pull at her scarf and pulled until he saw Ruby falling down. In his rage, he tore off her clothes. But when he noticed that she did not move, fear supplanted anger and he hurried away.

Stone was found guilty of murder, and Lord Hewart sentenced him to die on the gallows. When that sentence is carried out it may be truly said that here was a man who was hanged by a thread.

Uncovering Ancient Treasures at the World's Most Famous Battlefield

CHICAGO.

A GOLDEN hoard unearthed by excavators' spades from the ruins of the ancient palace of Megiddo in Palestine, where it had been buried for 3300 years while armies through the centuries tramped above on the historic Plain of Armageddon, now glitters softly in the prosaic vaults here of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago.

The objects of art in the treasure were undoubtedly royal gifts sent from Egypt and the Asiatic states to the princes of Megiddo, who ruled that small section of the Egyptian Empire from about 1500 to 1200 B. C. The most spectacular discovery ever made by archeologists in Palestine, the hoard has a monetary worth believed by connoisseurs to be as great as its history is fabulous. The gold objects and a collection of ivories taken from the same palace ruins, are—more important to the institute—of far-reaching value to Biblical and oriental studies.

A splendid gold bowl shaped like a sea shell probably was a gift from some Asiatic king, according to Gordon Loud, field director of the institute's expedition, who has just returned from Palestine. Two exquisite cosmetic jars, of serpentine and hematite, with bases and rims encased in gold, doubtless came from Egypt. So did a delicate little pair of gold heads with disc crowns. There is a gold mesh chain, so beautifully and skillfully wrought that it remains apparently as strong and flexible today as it was 3300 years ago. Adding to the splendor of the collection are cylinder seals of lapis lazuli set in gold caps, delicate gold and lapis lazuli beads, an electrum ring with scarab setting, and an ivory tusk banded with incised gold and with one end cut in the form of a human head.

Financed by John D. Rockefeller Jr., the expedition has been excavating at Megiddo for 12 years. Although amazingly small, as were many famous ancient cities—it was only 1000 feet in length—the walled town was highly important because it lay at the most commanding point on the highway from the Nile to the Euphrates, and any army or caravan coming north from Egypt or south from Asia had to pay tribute in passing, unless it was strong enough to force its way by.

Removing the soil in horizontal layers and studying it carefully, instead of following the old method of digging a hole like a dog after a bone, the expedition unearthed the remnants of what once was a magnificent palace. It had frescoed walls and floors of sea shell mosaic. Standing just within the city gate it dominated the ramp approach to the fortress city. The constant attacks of tribes who wished to throw off the Egyptian yoke was attested to by the excavation of five periods during which the palace emerged from partial destruction, each time with a slightly different plan.

While clearing a floor of the second phase of the palace, the workers noticed that the lime pavement in the corner of an almost inaccessible room had been replaced with tamped earth. Spades bit into the hard soil. There was a dull clump as a spade struck something hard. Gold gleamed in the dirt. Excited, the heads of the expedition worked patiently and painstakingly with knife and brush, and uncovered, without injurying any pieces, the entire cache of gold and jewelry under the floor.

Field Director Loud, after observations, concluded that about 1350 B. C., a threatened invasion had caused a Canaanite prince who represented the distant pharaoh to bury his treasure, hoping to save it from looting. So well did he hide it that his secret remained safe for 33 centuries, but perhaps he was killed in battle, for he never reclaimed his possessions.

The ivories, which date to a later sacking of the palace, will have a greater scholarly value than the gold, Loud said. About 250 pieces of carved and incised ivory were

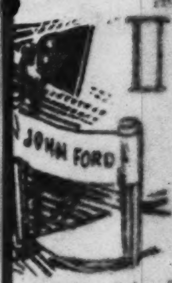
The Film Direc Who Ne Goes to t Movies



HOLLYWOOD, California.

IF YOU take a lot of the stories about John Ford and pin them on a page of news print, you may have a fair likeness of an eminently successful and eccentric director. But you still won't be quite sure what the man is made of, or what makes him tick. There are plenty of people who believe that Ford cares nothing at all about the motion picture business, and they cite as evidence the fact that he hasn't seen more than half the pictures which he himself has directed. He doesn't go to see other people's pictures. And, away from his own set, he will not talk shop.

He never bothers with Hollywood parties, says he never has attended a preview or a premiere, and never goes to night clubs. He never even had been in the Brown Derby until Alexander Woollcott made a luncheon date to interview him there about "The Informer." Woollcott didn't learn much. To interviewers, Ford is somewhat more approachable than Greta Garbo, but just about equally inarticulate on cinematic subjects. He'll talk about books, though, or golf or sword fishing.

He has little regard for actors, no regard at all for executives. He admires a few writers, and himself wants to write when he quits directing. Friends of Ford have heard him say that he does want to quit.

Ford's position in Hollywood approaches complete autocracy. Under the current production system, a director is a man hired by a producer to transcribe a paper script to celluloid, and he is supposed to be subject to the producer's orders. Ford does not transcribe; he translates. Sometimes he'll shoot all day without once looking at the script. He will accept no suggestions, and very often will not even tolerate the presence of a producer on the set.

Once during the filming of a big picture the producer, who also owned the studio, visited the set and ventured a criticism of something Ford was doing. In an unemotional tone Ford said, "If you're going to direct this picture, go ahead and do it. If you decide to let me finish directing this picture, call me up at home." With that, he walked off the set, got into his car and went home. By the time he reached the house the producer had telephoned five times, begging him to return.

Ford now is making "The Hurricane" for Samuel Goldwyn. When he accepted the assignment all Hollywood wondered what would happen if the completely inflexible Goldwyn and the belligerent Ford were to disagree about something. At this writing there have been no fireworks beyond an ominous sizzling on the day that Merritt Hulburd, production executive for Goldwyn, visited the set unbidden.

On three attempts at a scene, Mary Astor went up in her lines. Ford refused to continue work. He said, "You can't expect actors to act when a producer is sitting around watching." Hulburd left. Ford got the scene on the next take.

Such high-handed tactics on the part of a mere director would not be, and are not, tolerated from anyone but John Ford. The answer, of course, is that even the big shots on the Gold Coast cheerfully can endure disrespect and a certain amount of humiliation if it means money in the box offices. And John Ford is a pretty good guarantee of money in the box offices. He never has made a money-losing picture. Almost invariably, if let alone, he will bring in a feature under his budget and within his time schedule.

Also, as he has demonstrated several times, he is perfectly willing to step out of a job at the drop of an unwelcome remark. If he did step out he would leave utter chaos behind him. For one thing, he would leave a demoralized cast because practically all actors idolize him. Although they are well aware of the low evaluation he places on performing talent they have been quoted by the dozens as saying that Ford inspires them with confidence as does no other director in the colony.

For another thing, Ford so muddles his shooting schedule and his sequences that only he knows what they're about or where they should fit together. Listen to Wingate Smith, who is his assistant and who also happens to be his brother-in-law:

The answer, of course, is that even the big shots on the Gold Coast cheerfully can endure disrespect and a certain amount of humiliation if it means money in the box offices. And John Ford is a pretty good guarantee of money in the box offices. He never has made a money-losing picture. Almost invariably, if let alone, he will bring in a feature under his budget and within his time schedule.

Also, as he has demonstrated several times, he is perfectly willing to step out of a job at the drop of an unwelcome remark. If he did step out he would leave utter chaos behind him. For one thing, he would leave a demoralized cast because practically all actors idolize him. Although they are well aware of the low evaluation he places on performing talent they have been quoted by the dozens as saying that Ford inspires them with confidence as does no other director in the colony.

For another thing, Ford so muddles his shooting schedule and his sequences that only he knows what they're about or where they should fit together. Listen to Wingate Smith, who is his assistant and who also happens to be his brother-in-law:

"Sometimes Jack only reads over a script before he starts shooting. He figures the whole thing out in his mind, and he has the most uncanny memory of anybody I ever heard of. I have watched him getting himself into awful spots where it would look as if none of the stuff would match up. But it always does. On 'Wee Willie Winkie,' the Shirley Temple picture, he threw away the script on the first day.

"Jack is a funny guy. I guess a lot of people have told you that. So far as I know, he never has been inside a picture theater. He doesn't even see the daily rushes of his own films; just leaves 'em up to the camera man and me. Avoiding the rushes is a deliberate part of the scheme. He studies out the story and characterizations in advance, and holds to that idea. If he saw the rushes he might be swayed into changing the characterizations a little, and that would spoil the tone of the picture.

"When a picture is finished, he has no further interest in it. Maybe he's sick of it; I don't know. Anyway, he won't go to see it. I don't believe he even saw 'The Informer,' which won the academy award for 1935."

Ford long had been interested in the story of "The Informer," and was anxious to make it. R. K. O., to which he was under contract to do another feature, didn't like the story and offered several other scripts, all of which Ford turned down. Finally, when he offered to gamble his own time against a percentage of the receipts, he was allowed to proceed. It was filmed for approximately $150,000. Deficiencies in cheap settings were covered, you may recall, by shooting most of it in synthetic fog. Ford has cleared something like $100,000 from his percentage, and of course an inestimable amount of fame.

It is said that he accepted the assignment for "Wee Willie Winkie" because he wanted to demonstrate that a "good picture"—that is, a dramatically strong one—could be made with Shirley Temple. Anwway, he got $75,000 for the job.

He has been here long enough to know how to lick Hollywood. Born Sean O'Fearna in Portland, Maine, 42 years ago, he grew up with the idea of becoming a business man, attended the University of Maine, but followed his elder brother Francis Ford westward to Hollywood. Francis was a serial star and a director. John started as a property boy. Before he was 25 he had directed 200 Westerns. When he was 28 he directed "The Iron Horse." Subsequently he has made about 60 features.

It wasn't long before John became better known than Francis. A second brother, Ed O'Fearna, served as his assistant for several years, now works for Twentieth Century-Fox. Each of the brothers is bitterly critical of the others. Ed and Francis will tell you that John is the worst and most conceited director in Hollywood. John will tell you that Ed is just a blundering assistant director, and that Francis is incapable of portraying any but drunkard roles. For "The Informer" and "The Prisoner of Shark Island," John insisted on casting Francis as a drunk.

Theirs is a peculiar relationship with an undercurrent of fierce pride. Yet when Francis brought his fiancee to the "Shark Island" set a year ago, John was scarcely civil to them. They looked on for a few minutes and departed. John didn't go to the wedding.

John Ford's own marriage has turned out well. His son Pat, 17, now in school in Honolulu, has gone on most of the long voyages of his father's yacht, Araner (so named because the director's mother came from the Aran Islands.) His daughter, Barbara, 15, is one beauty who won't be a screen actress if John Ford has anything to say about it.

Mrs. Ford likes books. "It's a good thing she does," said Wingate Smith. "When Jack goes home every night, there isn't much talk. Everybody grabs a book. Jack reads a lot—heavy stuff, biographies. Lately he has been sitting with his feet on a table and playing a stack of Hawaiian records and planning out this picture. He'll never talk about it. When he invites people to the house it's on the condition that there'll be no shop talk."

FORD has few close friends in Hollywood. Or anywhere else. He has little to say when he plays golf or goes fishing. He doesn't play poker. Three bottles of beer sometimes loosen him to the point of story telling.

The director is tall, broad-shouldered, grayhaired, smokes a pipe constantly, wears a frayed sports jacket, polo shirt and old flannel slacks with the bottoms rolled up a couple of turns. "In Honolulu," said Smith, "Jack'll go into the Royal Palms Hotel in dirty dungarees, a sweat shirt and barefooted."

Like a good assistant, Smith does most of Ford's chores involving arguments with the front office. Smith tells this one:

"Once we were making a picture and were using 60 electricians. A supervisor came around and said he thought maybe I should cut down on the number.

"But Jack overheard us. He said, 'Win, what the hell's the matter with you—not having enough help around here? Get 10 more electricians'."

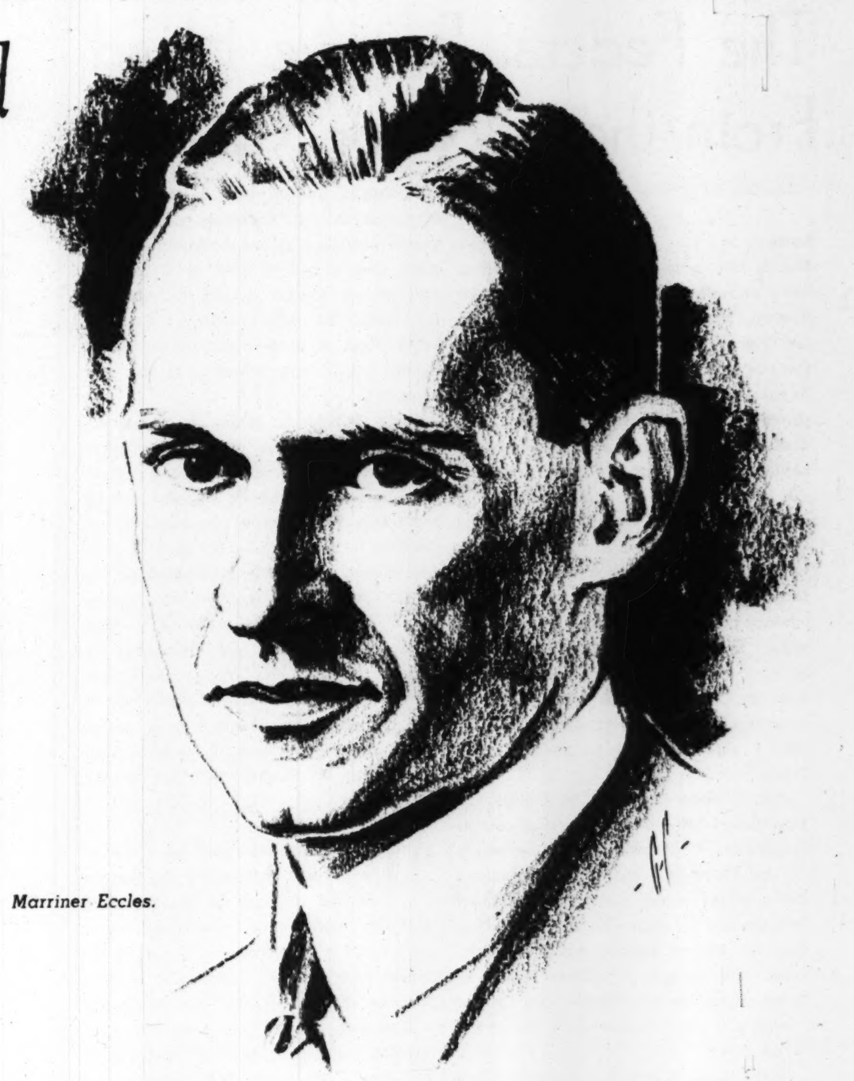
The Federal Reserve Head From the Mormon Country



Marriner Eccles.

WASHINGTON.

THE New Deal's accent on youth is nowhere more marked than in the case of Marriner Stoddard Eccles, who moved up from Mormon missionary to head the nation's complex Federal Reserve System.

Under the guidance of this unorthodox young banker—he is only 46—our monetary system is being overhauled and the credit structure streamlined to conform to the trend of the times.

The keystone of Eccles' fiscal philosophy is that the fortunes of debtor and creditor are inextricably intertwined. To his way of thinking, it is not enough that the debtor be bound to pay. He would not destroy the obligation of a man to pay his debts, but he is firmly of the opinion that government must recognize an obligation to assist in providing the ways and means of payment.

Small, intelligent and intense, Marriner Eccles is a product of the West, and his views on finance are rooted in the economic outlook of the intermountain country. Many Eastern bankers regard his thinking as radical to say the least, but there is no gainsaying the fact that his policies as applied in his private business were sound enough to withstand the depression years that sent many an orthodox business man to the wall.

To understand Marriner Eccles it is necessary to know something of his father, David Eccles, one of the pioneers in the Mormon country. Born in Scotland, the father emigrated with his family to Utah when he was 14 years of age. Much of the then hazardous journey was made on foot, and for four years David Eccles wrung a living from the wilderness for his blind father and his dependent brothers and sisters.

At 18, he went on to Oregon City, returning in a few years to dig coal in Wyoming, drive ox-drawn freight cars through the South Pass and, despite this rigorous struggle for existence, lay the foundations of a successful business career. When David Eccles died in 1912 at the age of 63 he had interests in a great lumber business, a fire insurance company, railroads, banks and public utiilties. He left 22 children and a fortune of some $7,000,000.

The Eccles fortune was substantial when Marriner was born, but the early struggles of the father left a deep imprint on the character of the boy. Even had he been disposed to the "easy life," his father would have seen to it that he learned early the lesson that money, in the West, was not acquired without struggle.

Completing his district school education in 1905, the future Utah capitalist enrolled in Brigham Young College, from which he was graduated in 1909. During the summers he worked for his father, tending store and keeping time in the lumber camps, living the life of the lumber jacks and familiarizing himself with their ways of thinking.

His formal education was completed with the commencement of 1909—giving him the virtual equivalent of a high school course. The boy was 19 years old at the time, and when his father asked him to accept a call as a Mormon missionary to Scotland he agreed to go.

The next two years, consequently, were spent in the vicinity of Glasgow in more or less successful efforts to convert the Scottish workers to Mormonism. It was during these missionary days in Scotland that Eccles met Miss May Campbell Young, the woman who is now his wife and the mother of his three children.

Eccles began his active business career shortly after his father's death. Receiving about $200,000 of the estate in his own right, the young man began at once the career that was to lead him to one of the two highest financial posts his country could offer.

His first step, at the age of 24, was the establishment of the Eccles Investment Company, with himself as vice-president and general manager.

Through the medium of the investment company he acquired control of several banks, some of which were none too solvent. The budding young banker took over active control of these holdings, however, and through mergers or other means soon whipped the properties into good shape. In 1928 he organized First Security Corporation, with himself in operating control. Through this corporation, he acquired a group of 25 financial institutions in Utah and Idaho, their total resources being in the neighborhood of $50,000,000.

Although devoting the bulk of his time to banking young Eccles found time to reach into other fields. He took over and operated some of his father's ranch ventures, reorganized the Sego Milk Products Company and sold it to the Pet Milk Company, remaining as president of Sego and becoming a member of the board of the Pet Milk Company, and continued his father's lumber interests in Utah and Oregon.

These, and other enterprises, formed the basis of the young business empire that Eccles had built up in the West when the stock market crash came in 1929. So well had he handled his affairs that when he joined the New Deal the White House was able to say of him: "His financial institutions came through the banking crisis in such splendid condition as to reflect great credit upon his ability as a bank executive. All of these concerns have successfully weathered the years of the depression."

Eccles' affiliation with the Roosevelt forces was something of an accident.

BACK in February, 1933, Stuart Chase, well-known writer on economic subjects, was scheduled to address a group of business men in Salt Lake City. His train was delayed by a snow storm and the chairman of the meeting called on Eccles to speak in his place. Chase arrived in time to hear the end of the address and was so impressed that he communicated with Rexford Guy Tugwell, then Mr. Roosevelt's No. 1 brain truster, and told him of the liberal views that were being expounded by the young Mormon banker.

It happened that at about that time the Senate Finance Committee was interviewing business men throughout the country to obtain first hand information on the national state of affairs and Eccles was one of those asked to appear.

For some time his acute mind had been disturbed by the vision of mounting debt. The doctrine that debt was capable of destroying the creditor as well as the debtor had been preached for generations in the Mormon country, and by 1933 the idea had begun to filter through to the banking strongholds on the East Coast.

Even during the boom days of the late twenties, when it seemed there would be no end to profit-taking, Eccles realized that something was sadly amiss somewhere in the economic structure. He watched the decline in farm income and realized that the position of the farmer was unhappy indeed, caught as he was between the grinding forces of mounting costs and dwindling income.

As he dwelt upon this situation and the allied problem of spreading unemployment, his mind gradually formulated a remedial program. It is strange that although he had never met Professors Tugwell, Berle or Moley, who were even then sketching the broad outlines of the New Deal, his ideas coincided to a remarkable extent with theirs.

The Eccles formula, in brief, rested on three propositions: (1) That employment must be regulated through a system of public works; (2), that distribution of wealth must be controlled through an income and profits tax, and, (3), that the volume of money must be controlled primarily through the Federal banking system. Control of these three factors, he decided, would control the velocity of money, or the rate at which it changes hands, which was his antidote for depression.

These views and others he discussed before the Senate Committee. He urged the adoption of the domestic allotment plan for wheat and cotton to raise the prices of these products by the amount of the tariff, the refinancing of farm mortgages on a long term basis at low interest rates, cancellation of the war debts, a bank deposit guaranty law, minimum wage, unemployment insurance and old age pension laws, Federal control of securities transactions and a unification of the banking system under Federal Reserve supervision.

When it is remembered that Eccles had acquired these views "on his own" despite their remarkable similarity to what was to become the New Deal's program, it is not surprising that Mr. Roosevelt brought him into the family circle as an expert in the Treasury Department to be prepared for the job of taking over the Federal Reserve.

The Wall Street bankers were frankly alarmed when Eccles, the liberal, was

The WILD WEST CULT in MUNICH

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

MUNICH, Germany.

THE movies and the rodeo are not the only sanctuaries for the Wild West these days, when even back yards have exchanged the tumult of juvenile cowboy-Indian battles for the more sophisticated play of "cops and robbers." In this city of Southern Germany, thousands of miles from Deadwood, the Chisholm Trail and the cattle ranges of Western America, the culture of the wild and woolly is still fondly nurtured. Rough riding, roping, chaps and 10-gallon hats have an honored place in the life of Munich. It was here in 1937, and not on some Arizona ranch in the '90s, that the accompanying photographs were made.

An organization of men and women called the Munich Cowboy Club is carrying on, in the heart of Europe, some of the spectacular aspects of the old American West. The members garb themselves for their club activities in cowboy and Indian costumes—big hats, chaps, checkered shirts, boots, neckerchiefs, feathered headdresses, beaded moccasins, fringed leggings and so on. Those who can, get their outfits from the Western part of the United States. They ride —using Western saddles—, throw the lasso, shoot and roll their own. Their club house is a long, low affair following the architectural lines of the old ranch houses of the West, and among its decorations are American flags.

Enthusiasm in Munich for the Wild West goes back a good many years, and was probably aroused partly by the tremendously popular stories of the late Karl May and partly by the early Western movies. Clubs devoted to this enthusiasm came into existence. Probably the first of them was the Velocipede Club Wild West, whose members sewed curtain fringe on their trousers to give themselves a wild and western appearance. This club and successors waxed and waned. Then, in 1914, the Munich Cowboy Club was formed, principally by circus and vaudeville performers. It has persisted and its membership has expanded until it now includes people in many occupations, all having a lot of fun out of their romantic devotion to a picturesque period of American history.

The Federal Reserve Head From the Mormon Country

named to the old Federal Reserve Board, the name of which has since been changed to the Federal Reserve System. It also aroused the ire of Senator Carter Glass, principal author of the original Reserve Act. The Virginia Senator's frame of mind was not improved when the new banking act, drafted under Eccles' supervision, was sent up to Congress for what was then the mere routine of enactment.

Originally, the Federal Reserve had been set up to facilitate the extension of credit—to do away with panics like that of 1907 which resulted from a currency and credit system that was too rigid. It was not designed as a curb to speculation. And yet here was a new banking act, the brain child of a young man with hair-raising notions, which was designed to do that very thing.

For a while it looked as though the threatened breach between the caustic legislator, Woodrow Wilson's Secretary of the Treasury, and the new reserve head might reach serious proportions, but mutual friends brought about a friendly understanding which has ripened into cordiality. Glass has even gone so far as to concede that the Eccles Board of Governors is "a pretty good board."

The rapprochement between Glass and Eccles is indicative of the attitude of those conservatives who were opposed to his appointment. While his outlook remains in harmony with that of the debtor class, the financial leaders in the East have come to realize that Eccles is no Western "wild man," that his philosophy does not necessarily spell ruin for the country's financial structure.

The new reserve governor still believes that recovery can be accelerated and protected by broad manipulation of money and credit, but he has not shown ambitions to redistribute the wealth by confiscatory taxes. Early in his career in Washington he sounded a reassuring note along this line. "Such measures as I have proposed," he said, "may frighten those of our people who possess wealth. However, they should feel reassured [illegible] it is to save the rich and not to soak the rich."

Eccles still believes in governmental spending of public funds to combat unemployment and increase purchasing power and he has not modified a statement that a public debt of 40 billion dollars—no longer a remote possibility—could be safely borne. On the other hand, he has shown no tendency to let inflationary movements get out of hand.

Early this year, when rising prices, low interest rates, increasing bank loans and idle funds presaged injurious credit expansion he stepped in and increased the reserve requirements of member banks by 33 1-3 per cent. Again last March he bluntly suggested an increase in taxes on incomes and profits as a budget-balancing move. This proposal received a cold shoulder on Capitol Hill, but the Wall Street bankers warmly praised the objective, if not the method. There was a somewhat conservative note in the statement issued by Mr. Eccles with his taxing proposal.

"I HAVE not been and am not now in favor of balancing the budget at the expense of the destitute and the unemployed," he said, "but I am in favor of increasing taxes on incomes and profits if necessary to sustain the volume of relief and bring the budget into balance and permit the paring down of public debt as private debt expands. Only by this process can monetary inflation be prevented."

In other words, he believes that the privation of human beings is the real economic waste and the real menace to our domestic economy. If he has his way their needs will be supplied—not by resort to the printing presses, but by the taxation of those who "have" for the benefit of all. This, he believes, is the avenue to sound prosperity and true democracy.

Eccles has figured but little in the social life of Washington. With his family, he lives at a fashionable hotel. He smokes only an occasional cigarette and but rarely does he indulge in a cocktail. He is fond of golf and plays infrequently with a few friends. But for the most part he is on the job. His work comes ahead of everything else and he devotes himself to it with the same intensity and faith that enabled his Mormon ancestors to impress their civilization on the wilds of Utah.

POST-DISPATCH PASTE-UPS

THE OLD WINDMILL

By WALTER DAHLGREN

Less familiar than the well-known Dutch Mill is the German Windmill. As shown in the decoration the German Mill is mounted upon a pivot—when the direction from which the wind blows changes the whole building is turned upon this pivot so that the wind still turns the vanes. In the Dutch Mill the building is stationary while only the dome of the structure and the vanes turn to meet the wind. While this is more practical the German windmill seems the more picturesque. DIRECTIONS ● Mount page upon thin cardboard and cut out the parts. Be sure to cut the long slot just under the door, the six slots on the roof and four white areas, marked X, at the center of the vanes. Folding upon dotted line will bring parts into proper position to be pasted (stars indicate where to put paste). Paste up the building first, then put on the roof by pasting "A" to position as noted. Paste together the porch, then insert the long tab into slot under porch and paste tab to inside mill—the other two tabs are pasted to starred white areas. Paste tab "B" to area "C" on under side of porch. Now fold the wide part of each vane at right angles to the narrow parts and fasten to center of black square on the front of mill as shown in the diagram in the upper left corner. Glue or tack the four green tabs at bottom of mill to a fence post or block of wood where it will get plenty of wind and your windmill is ready to go.

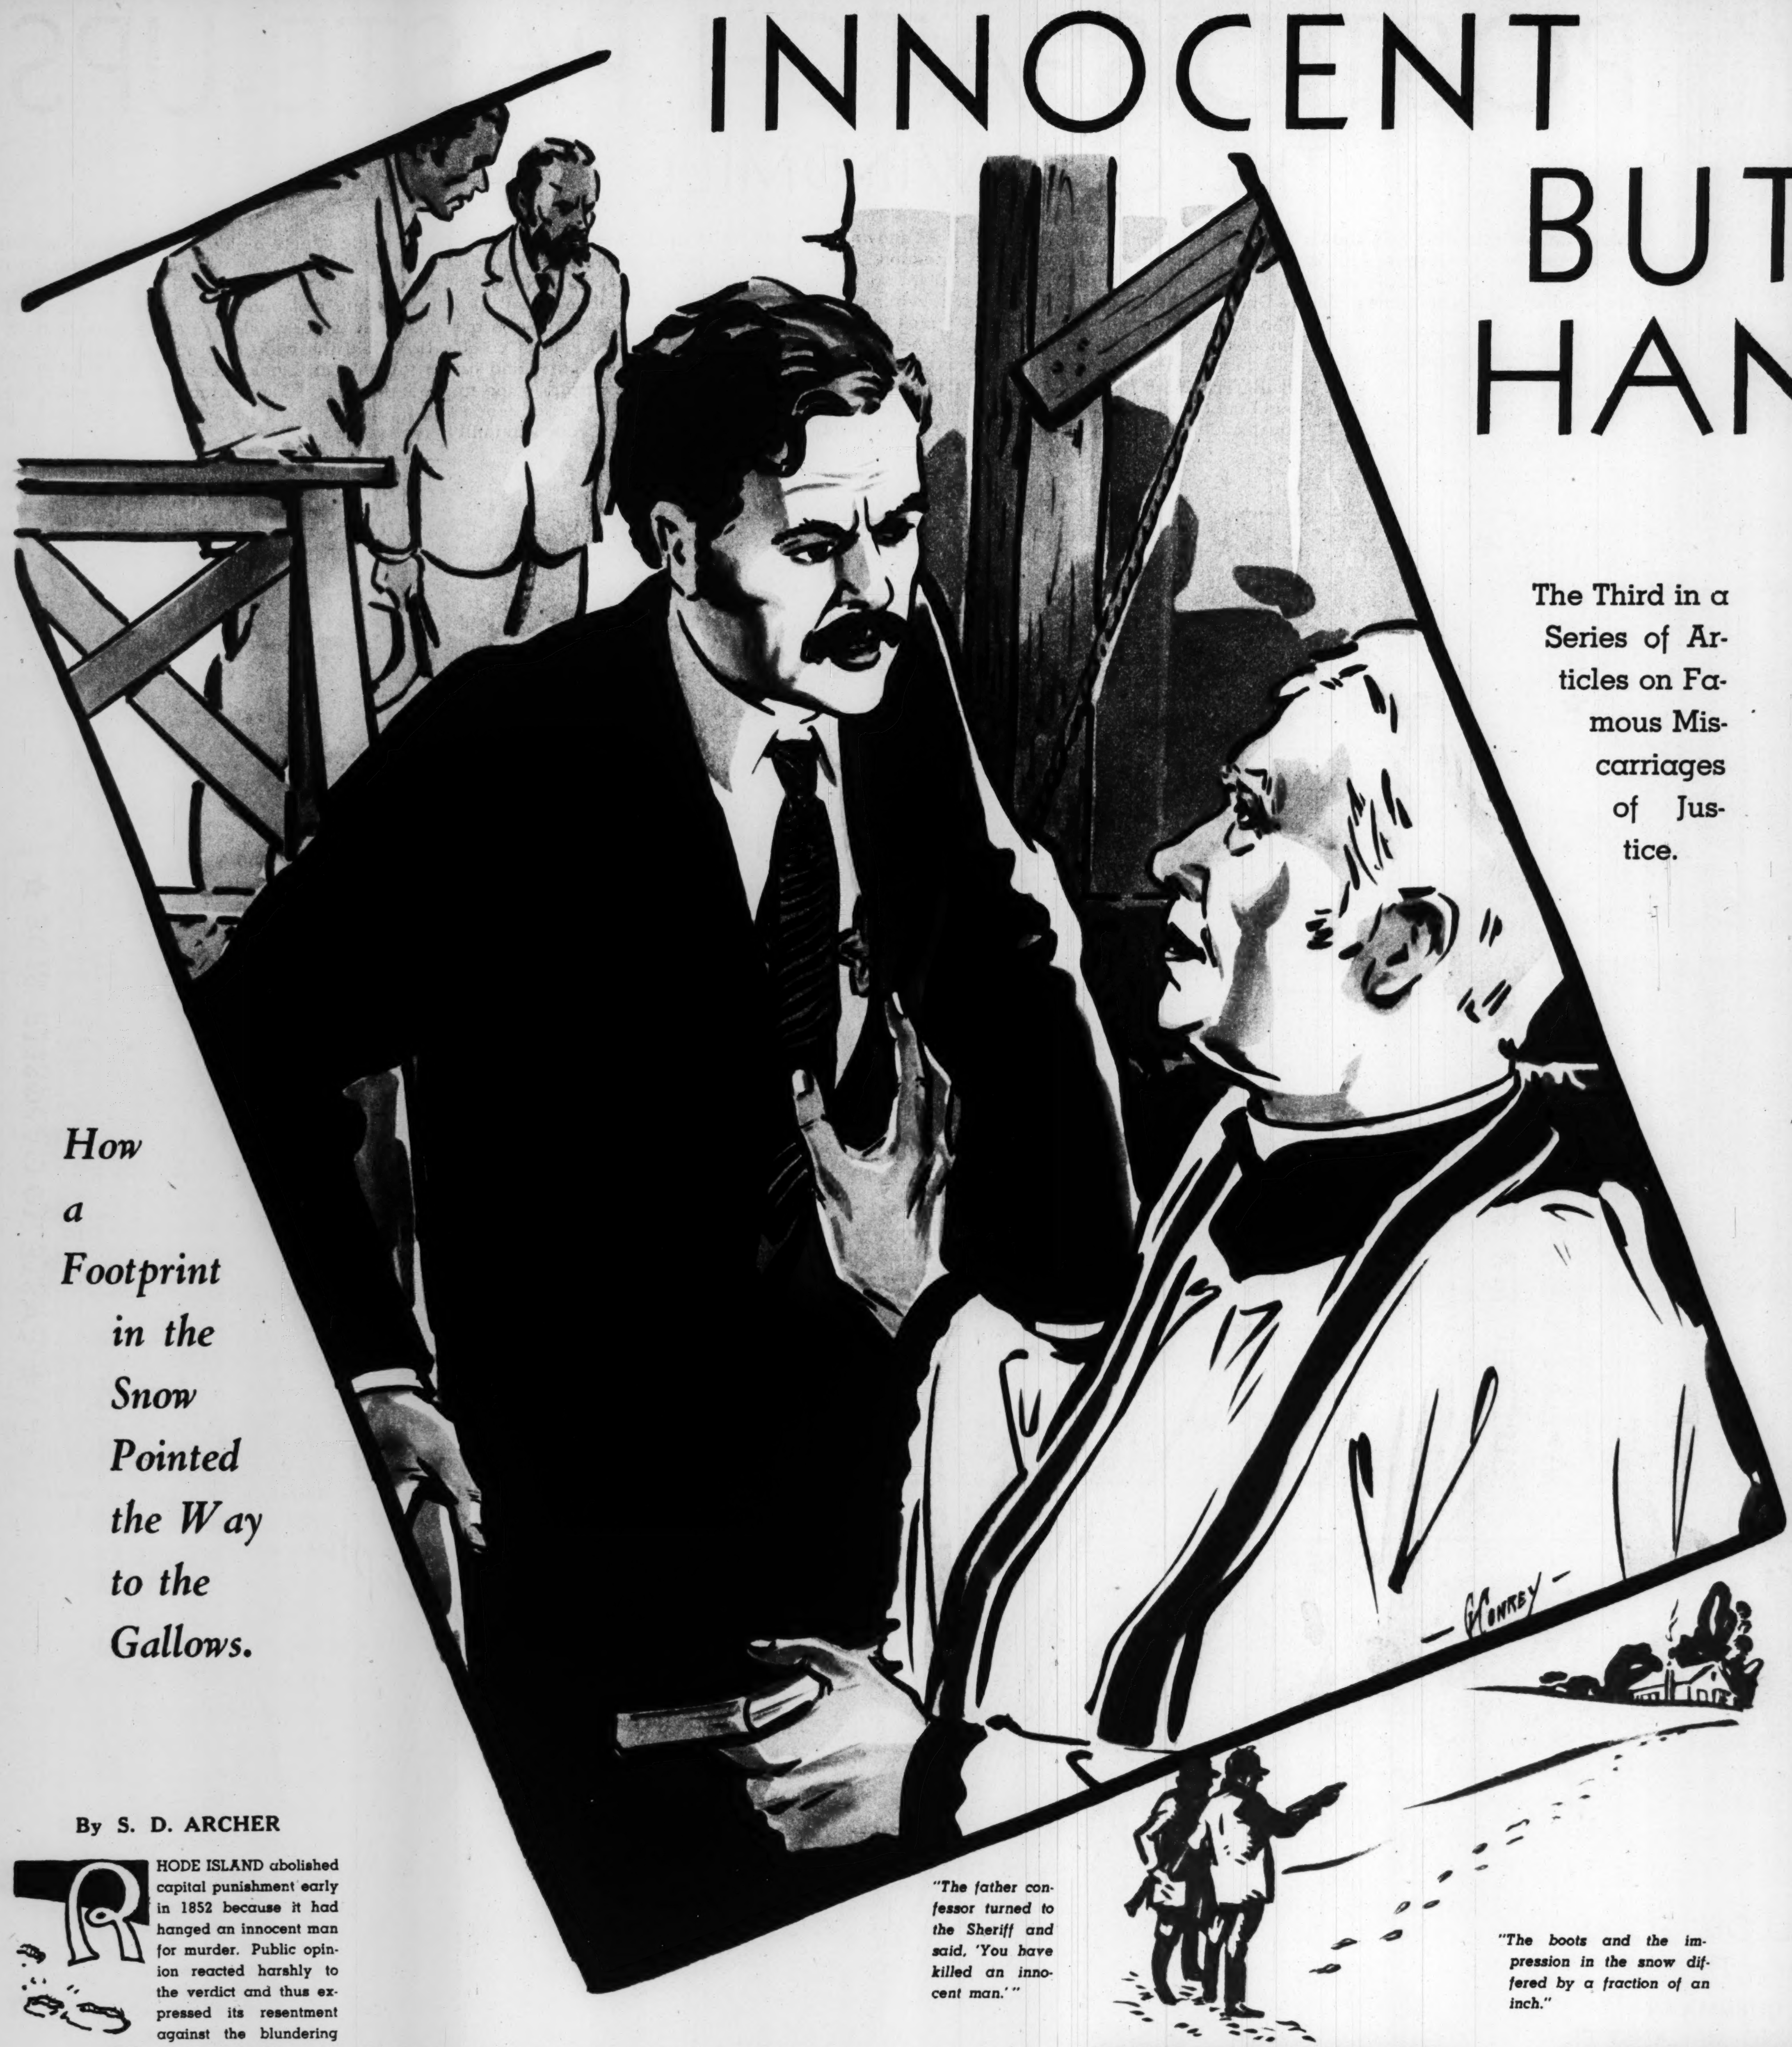
INNOCENT BUT HANGED

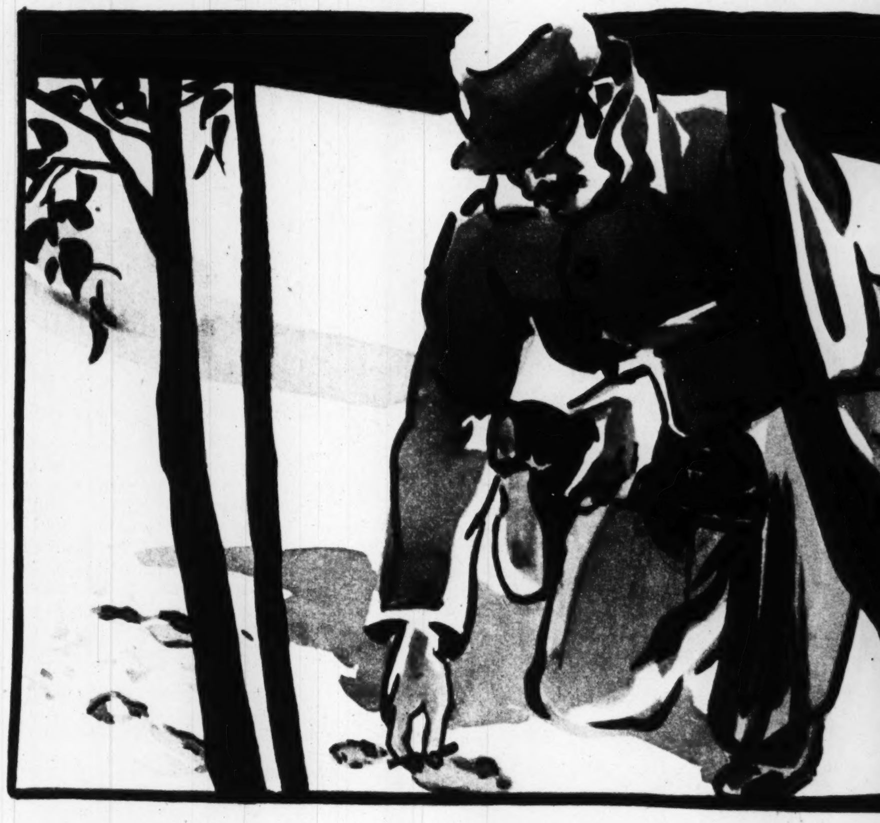
The Third in a Series of Articles on Famous Miscarriages of Justice.

How a Footprint in the Snow Pointed the Way to the Gallows.



"The father confessor turned to the Sheriff and said, 'You have killed an innocent man.'"

"The boots and the impression in the snow differed by a fraction of an inch."



By S. D. ARCHER

RHODE ISLAND abolished capital punishment early in 1852 because it had hanged an innocent man for murder. Public opinion reacted harshly to the verdict and thus expressed its resentment against the blundering of the authorities, who had relied wholly upon circumstantial evidence to obtain a conviction.

On Sunday afternoon, December 31, 1843, Amasa Sprague was found brutally murdered, his face and skull battered with a heavy implement, a bullet from a gun in one arm. Snow lay thick on the ground and bore signs of a violent struggle. The scene of the crime was by an open roadside in the vicinity of Cranston, a suburb of Providence.

Whatever the motive, the dead man had not been robbed. A considerable sum of money was found on his person and he still wore his expensive fur coat and personal ornaments, for Amasa Sprague was one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of the State, a power in industrial circles and the member of a family that gave Rhode Island several governors and United States senators. He and his brother owned the large Sprague Manufacturing Company and Amasa occupied a fine residence at Cranston. Near by, extensive acres of farm land belonged to him. He frequently chose Sundays to visit his outlying property, and it was believed that he had been on his way on some such mission when he was attacked and killed.

The crime had not been committed without leaving traces that promised a quick solution of the mystery as to the murderer's identity. Searchers found the broken stock of a musket a short distance from the scene of the tragedy; then, in some thick underbrush, the bent barrel of the weapon. Still in the same vicinity, a blood-stained blue overcoat was recovered from its place of concealment, and even more promising clews were supplied by the fresh tracks of a man's feet in the snow, beginning at the spot where the body had been found and leading in practically a straight direction to the back door of a house owned by Nicholas S. Gordon.

Gordon had built the house in which he lived and used it in part as a notion and grocery store as well as a residence for his family, consisting of his mother, sister and two brothers.

Nick Gordon had come to Cranston from Ireland seven or eight years before, and from a small beginning as a shopkeeper had gradually developed his business into a state of prosperity which had enabled him to send for his poor relations in Ireland. This prosperity he owed largely to the sale of liquor, which he combined with his other stock in trade.

Not only did the tell-tale tracks point to Nick Gordon's house as the place to which the murderer had gone from the scene of the struggle that had ended in Amasa Sprague's death, but when the scattered parts of the gun were assembled, the weapon was identified as one that had passed through several hands and was last owned by Gordon. Likewise witnesses came forward and stated that they had seen Gordon wearing the blue coat often enough to be sure of identifying it as his.

On top of all, it was shown that Nick Gordon had repeatedly, in the presence of witnesses, threatened to be revenged on Sprague and declared he would not scruple to kill him.

Gordon's hatred of Sprague was inspired by the latter's use of his powerful influence, about five months before, in opposing the issuing of a liquor license to Nicholas, influence sufficient to cause the town council to deny Gordon's petition for its renewal. By this decision Gordon felt himself deprived of his principal source of income and it made him bitter.

But with all this evidence to incriminate him, Gordon proved to the satisfaction of the authorities by witnesses that he was not anywhere near the scene of the crime at approximately the time of its commission, and that he could not therefore have murdered Sprague. Accordingly suspicion was lifted from him and he was not further molested.

There are always busy-bodies connected with a case of this nature who buzz like bottle flies around a cadavar, and here a number of ever ready amateur detectives took over the investigation by attempting to trace the murderer by the impressions made by his feet in the snow.

Had there been among them a Monsieur Lecoq, he would have made a plaster-of-paris cast of the footprints, as we know from Monsieur Gaborieau was his practice; but these self-appointed human sleuths confined themselves to measuring the tracks with sticks of wood, and while one said they had been made by a No. 8, another by a No. 9, a third declared that they had been made by a No. 10 boot.

BUT it gave the sheriff an idea. He went to Nick Gordon's house and demanded to see the boots worn by the men folks, and in the sleeping room of Nick's brother John he found a pair that on examination showed had been recently worn in the snow and by test were declared accurately to fit into the tracks. More measurements with sticks, however made the finding less convincing, since the boots and the impression in the snow differed in the matter of width by a fraction of an inch.

As soon as it became known that John's boots fitted the footprints that led away from the dead body of Amasa Sprague, according to the measurements described, the bottle flies began to buzz with renewed energy. John, who tended Nick's bar and acted as clerk or salesman in the shop, had been seen wearing some of his brother's clothes at times, including the blue coat with the blood-stained sleeve, witnesses declared; had been seen in the vicinity of the crime two days before the murder, and, moreover, had a bruise on his face that had not been there before the tragedy.

What motive could John Gordon have had to kill the millionaire print plant owner? Well, a motive was readily supplied, based on the belief that John had taken Nick's quarrel with Sprague over the whisky license into his own hands and committed the murder.

It was known that John was doggedly devoted to his elder brother for having lifted him out of the poverty that was his in Ireland to a position of relative ease and comfort in America. So John Gordon was arrested, and to make doubly sure that no guilty man should escape, the authorities also took the third brother, William, into custody on suspicion of having been a confederate of Brother John in the commission of the murder. He had allegedly been seen with a gun in the vicinity of the spot where the murder had taken place on that dreadfully cold Sunday afternoon—in his shirt sleeves. Nor had he been alone. He had had a companion, and that companion, his brother John.

The position of the two young Irishmen, only six months over, was not promising when they were put on trial early in April, 1844. They were not of the religion of the majority of this New England section, its strong prejudices against Catholics a time, and they were furthermore faced the specter of Amasa Sprague's pow family influence. They were not even lowed to have separate trials. They jointly indicted and tried on the charge.

In the light of modern science appli the detection of crime, the trial w farce, but even with the pri means at hand, the case, though viewe a distance of a century, seems to have conducted with not a little prejudice a glaring disregard of available evidence. evidence submitted was interpreted to disadvantage of one of the defendants, William Gordon was acquitted by the The verdict of guilty against John in final analysis rested solely on the disp measurements of the footprints in the which were declared to have been made John's boots.

Five years later the State was startled a shocking revelation. Nicholas and liam Gordon had returned to Ireland after John's execution, and there on death bed Nicholas Gordon confessed he had murdered Amasa Sprague.

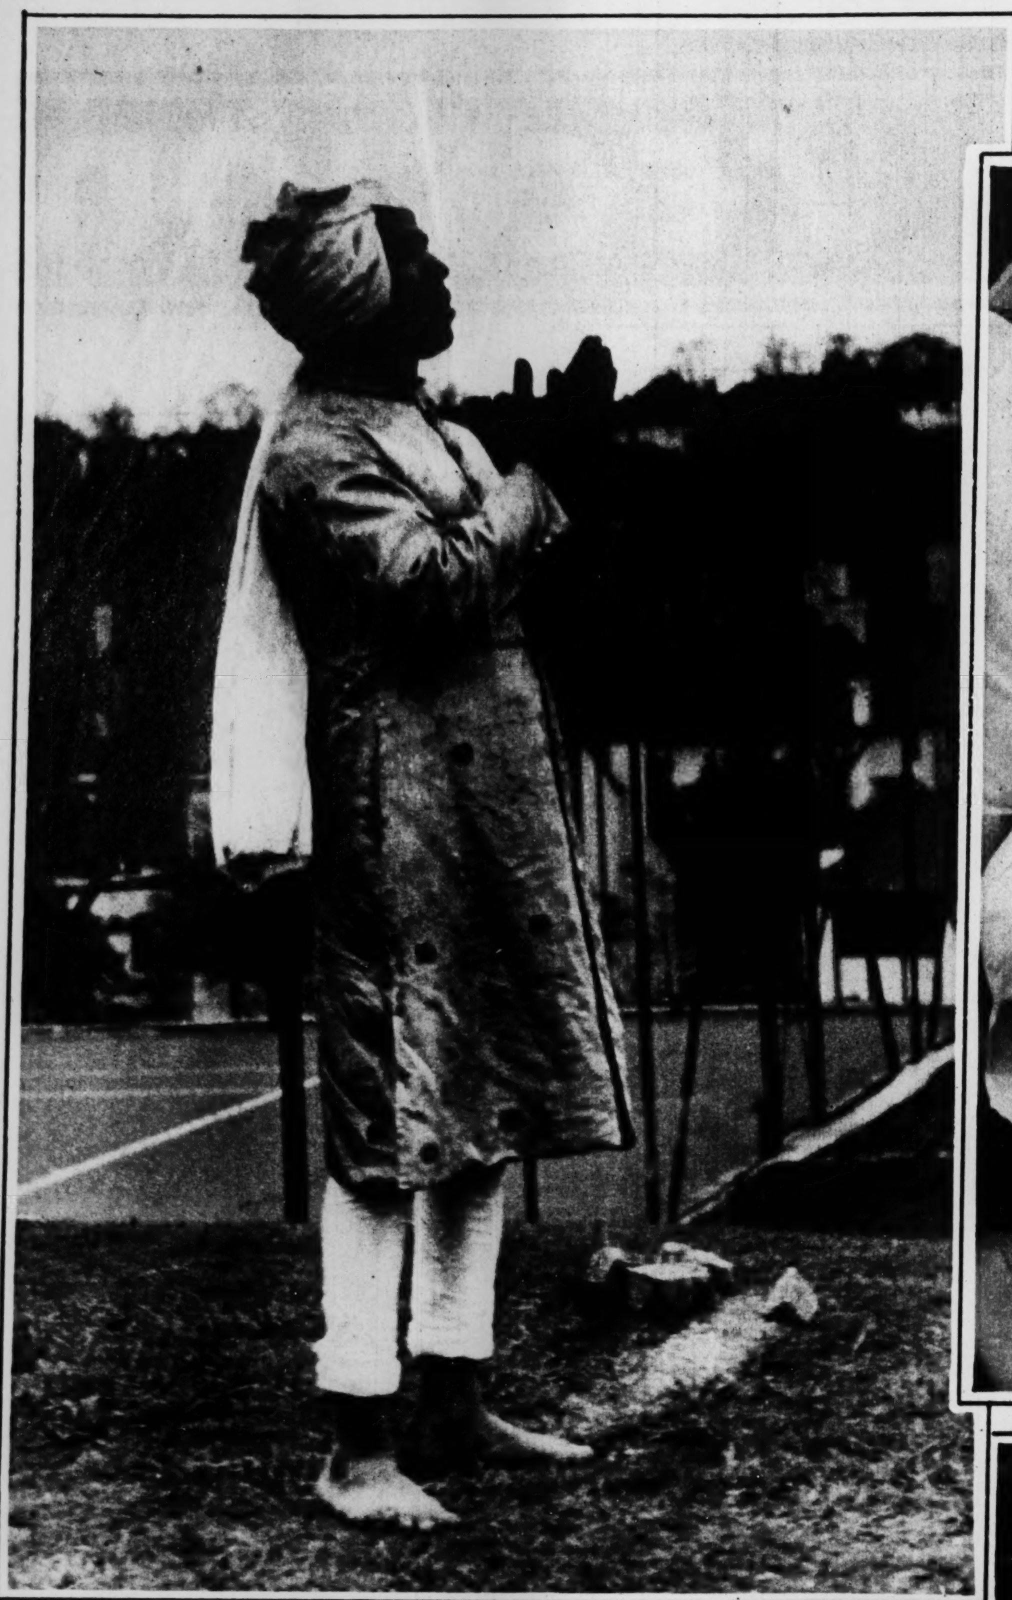
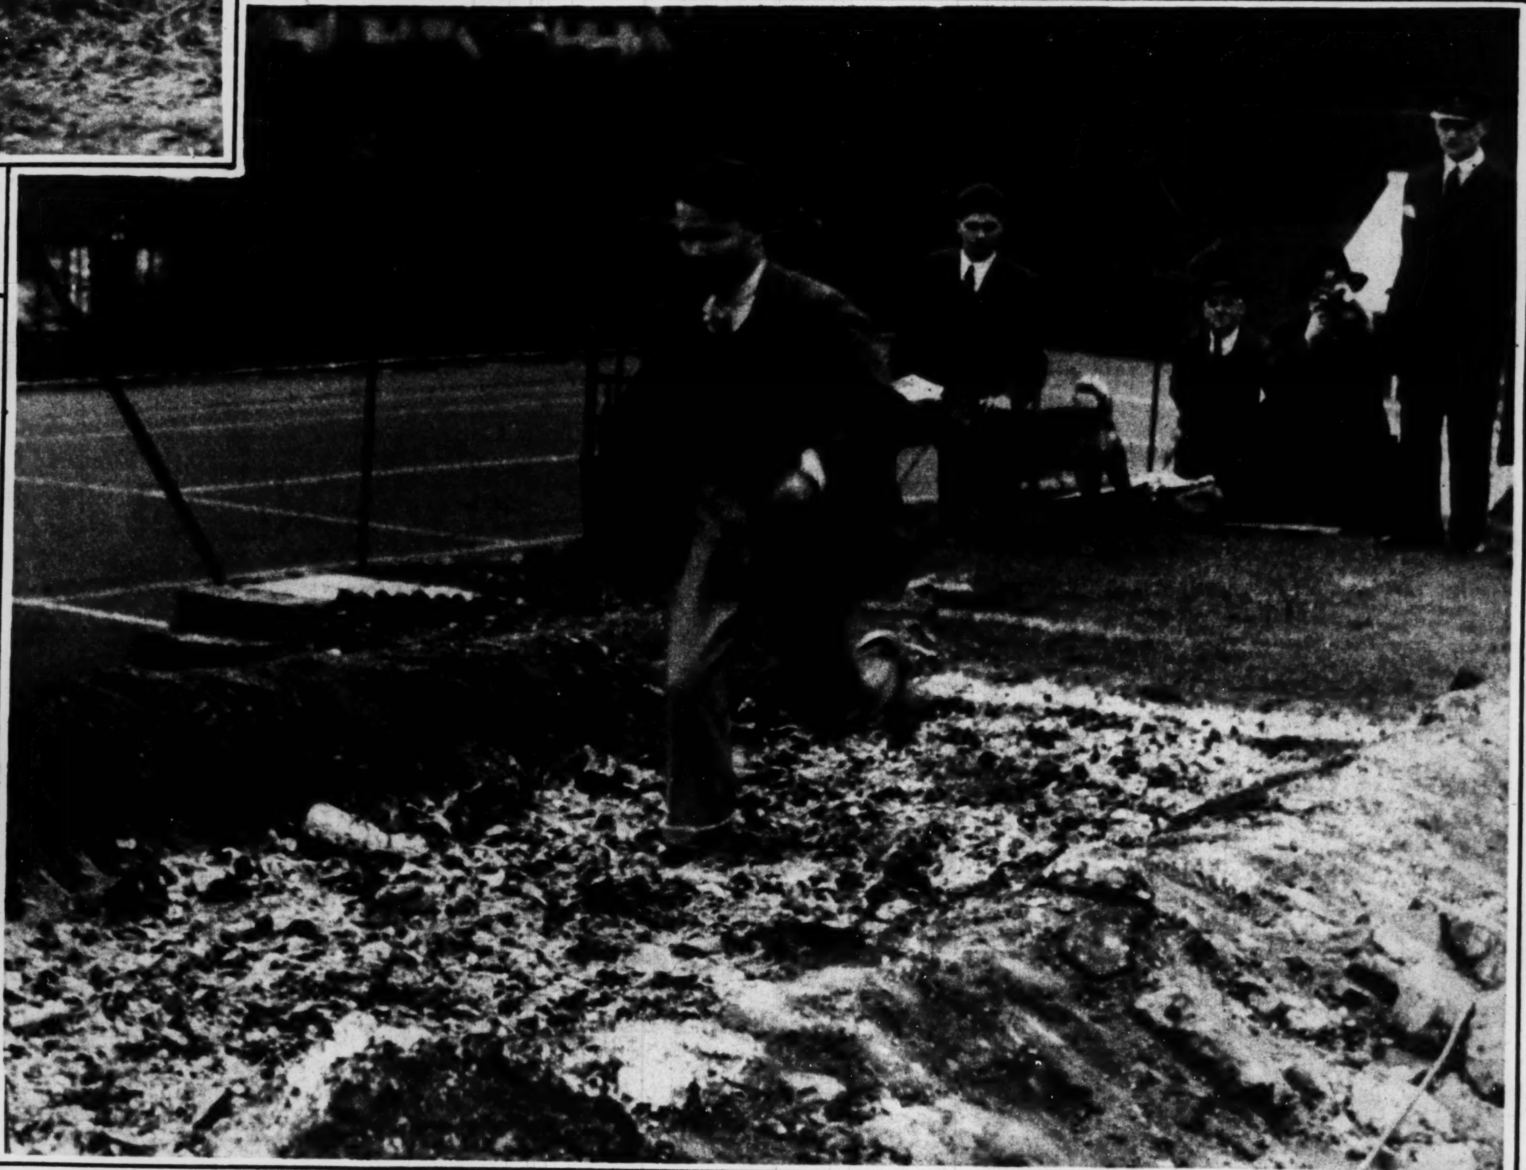
EXPERIMENTS in FIRE-WALKING



Ahmed Hussain, Indian professional fire-walker, praying before walking over hot embers in tests by the University of London Council for Psychical Investigation at Carshalton, England.

Hussain and amateur volunteers having their feet washed in preparation for the tests. Hussain at first walked barefoot across the pit, which was 12½ feet long and had a temperature of 575 degrees Centigrade on the surface, without suffering any burns. In fact, the temperature of his feet was reduced from 74 to 66 degrees Fahrenheit.

A physician examining the feet of one of the amateurs after the fire-walk.



A volunteer walks hurriedly through the pit. His feet were blistered. Hussain had asserted amateurs would not be burned if they walked through with him, but, when three of them tried it, their feet also blistered.

The physician inspects Hussain's feet after the feat. They were normal feet, with soft skin. He habitually wears shoes.

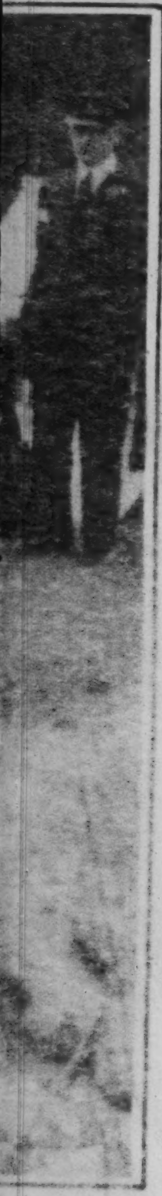
WALKING



Hussain and amateur volunteers having their feet washed in preparation for the tests. Hussain at first walked barefoot across the pit, which was 12½ feet long and had a temperature of 575 degrees Centigrade on the surface, without suffering any burns. In fact, the temperature of his feet was reduced from 74 to 66 degrees Fahrenheit.

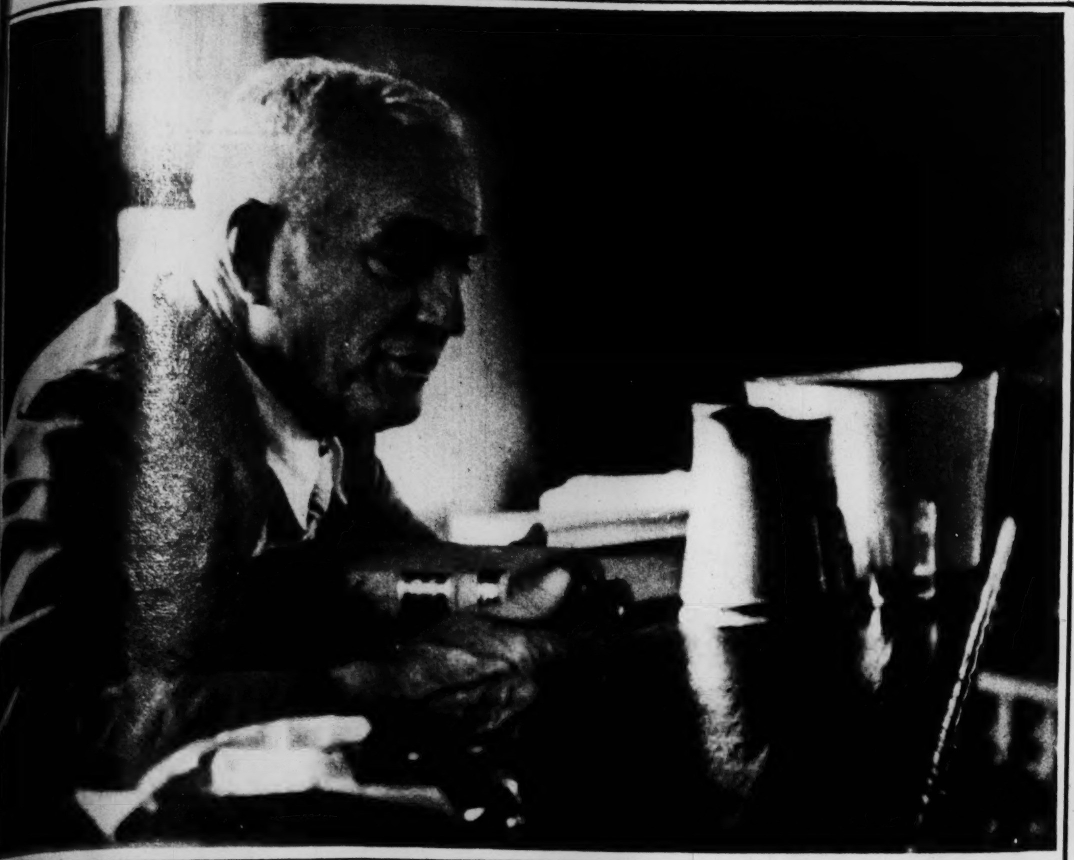
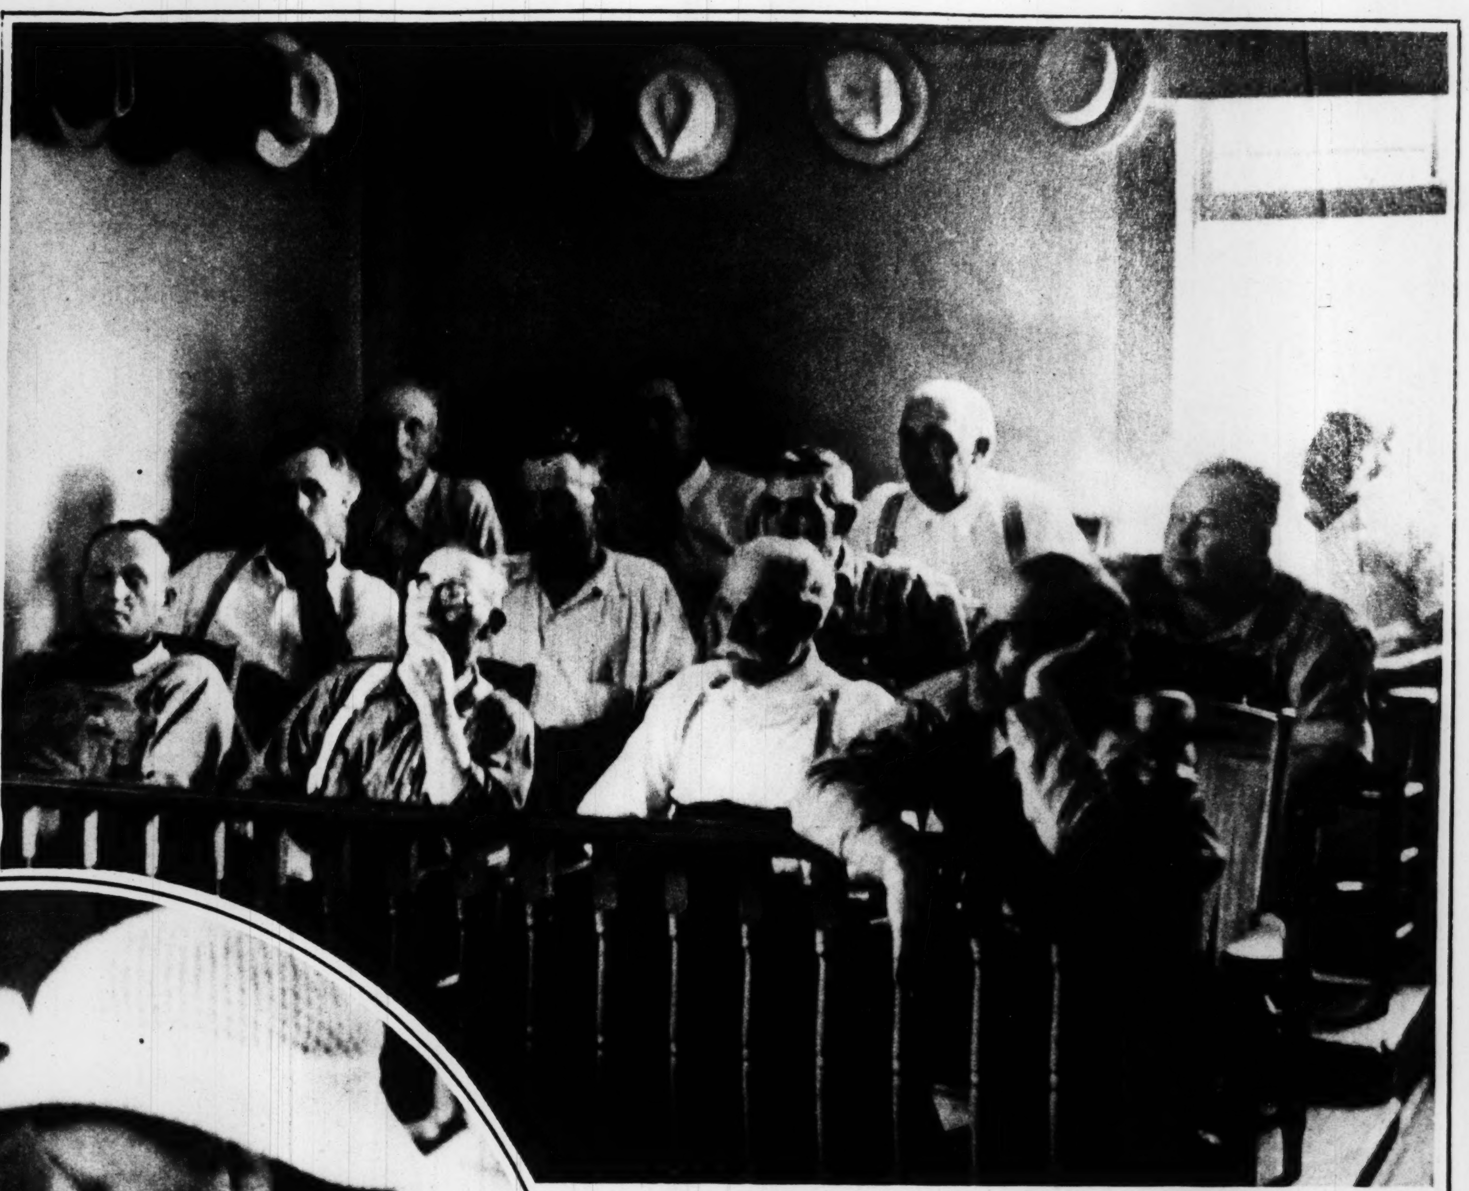
OZARK MURDER TRIAL



Circuit Judge William Barton presides. The pitcher is for him, the bucket and dipper for the jury.



The jury listening to testimony that Robert Kenyon, young farmhand, kidnaped Dr. J. C. B. Davis, elderly Willow Springs physician, in an attempt to collect $5000 ransom, then shot him to death in a thicket. The jurors found Kenyon guilty, fixed his punishment at death.

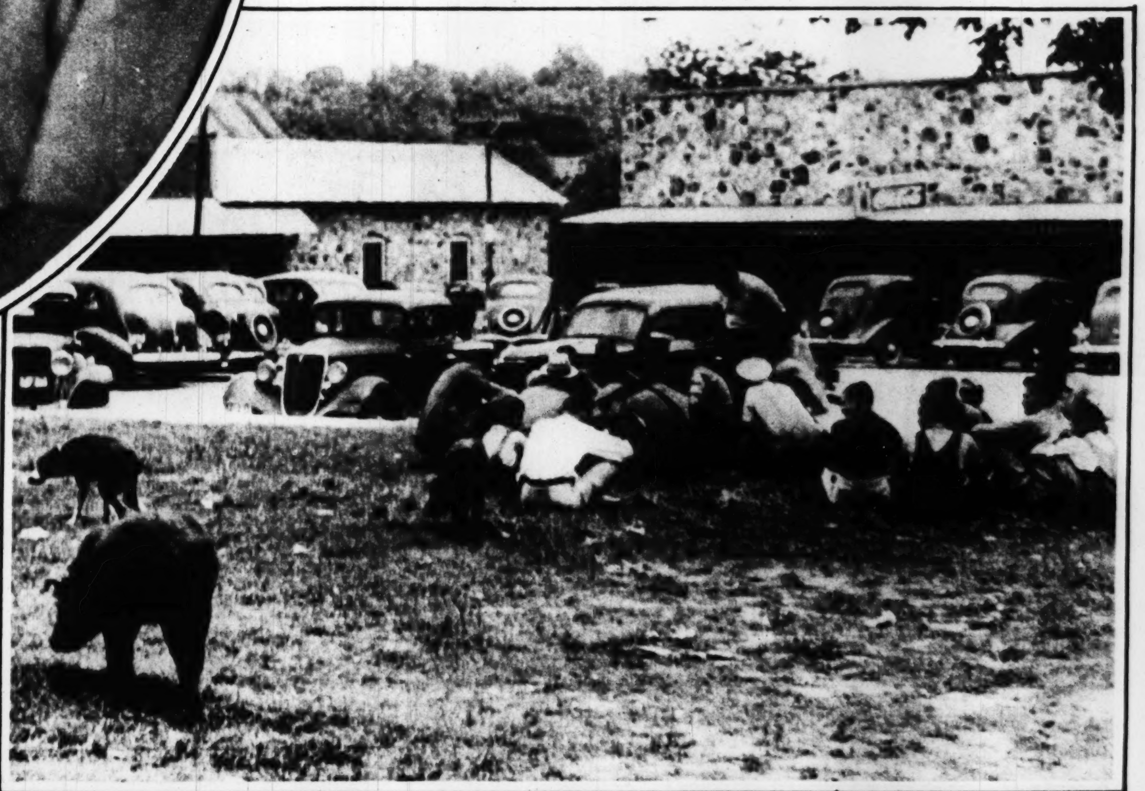
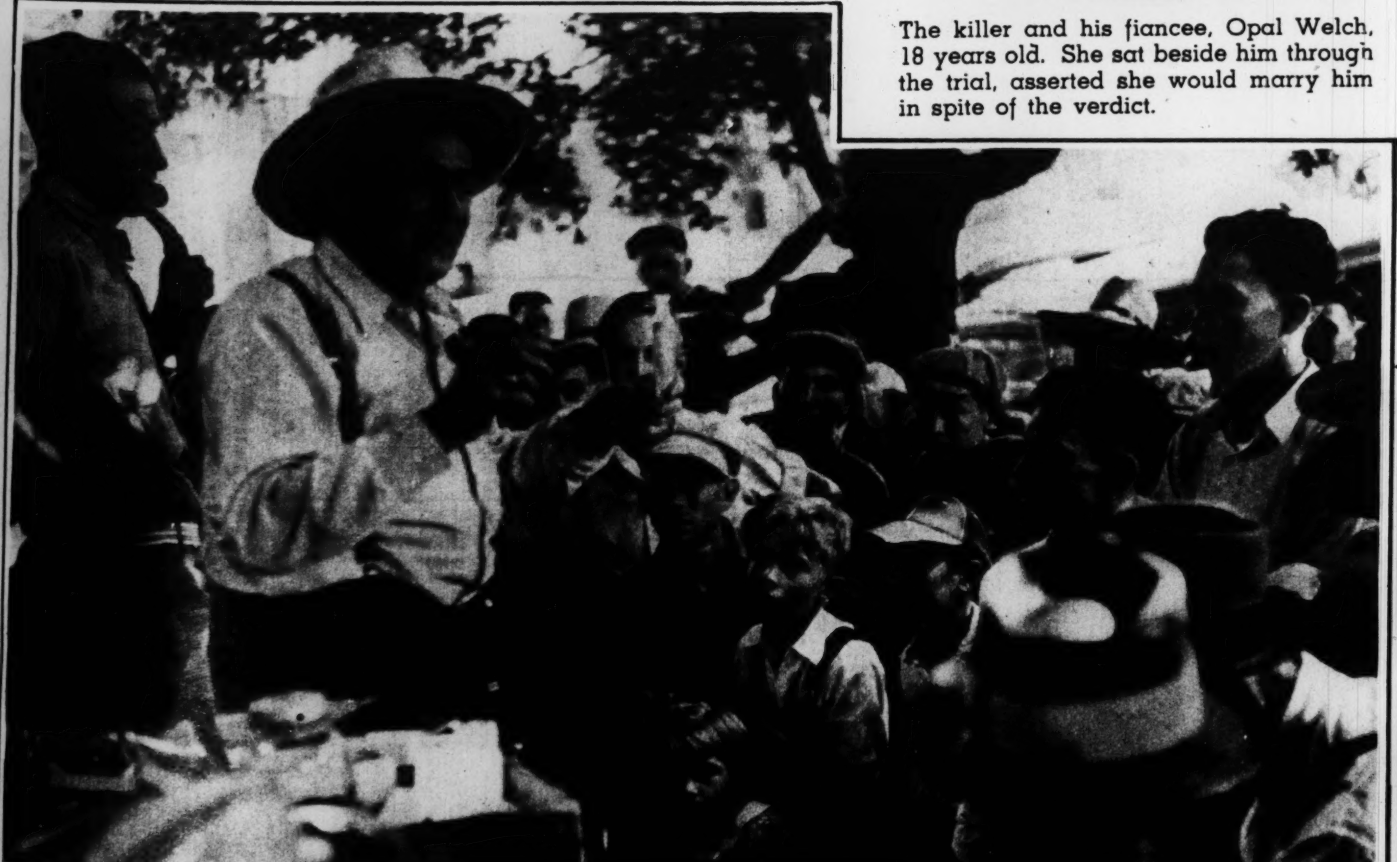
The killer and his fiancee, Opal Welch, 18 years old. She sat beside him through the trial, asserted she would marry him in spite of the verdict.



The courthouse lawn. The pigs, accustomed to graze there, soon retreated to quieter surroundings.



People flocked from miles around to attend the trial, and "Doc" McLandon took advantage of the holiday atmosphere to set up a medicine show across the street.

The Girl WHO CAME BACK

I hate to be a spoil-sport, Nora, but the smoke and the lights are getting me. Help me make a break for home.

Yes, I know that low feeling. It's from your eyes. I can tell by looking at them.

Eyes can make you feel tired all over. But we'll fix them.

Fix them? With what?

With Murine, of course. It's soothing and refreshing—works in no time. I'll show you.

Tip your head back and close one eye. Now a drop or two in the corner—there! Open your eye and the Murine flows in.

It's easy enough. Do you always carry it with you?

I certainly do. It comes in handy lots of times.

I'll have to get a bottle of Murine myself. Why, I feel like a different woman!

That's because the Murine soothed your eyes and made them feel fresh again.

It surely did... I don't feel a bit like going home now.

TO KEEP YOUR EYES
FEELING YOUNG

Because it washes away the mucous film that makes eyes dull and lusterless, and flushes out tiny foreign particles which cause irritation and redness of the eyes, Murine is used regularly, night and morning, by men and women everywhere. For forty years the safe, reliable eye lotion.

NO SQUAT NO STOOP NO SQUINT

..with the 1938 AUTOMATIC TUNING PHILCO

Radio marches on!

For today . . . and for tomorrow . . . Philco presents an entirely new radio . . . definitely in tune with the times.

Walk up to this new 1938 Philco 116XX with its Inclined Control Panel. Note how the incline enables you to see the call letters of your favorite stations on the Automatic Tuning Dial. You tune with ease and with grace, whether you are sitting or standing. With one silent turn of the Dial you bring in the station you want . . . tuned with absolute precision.

Then note how the famous Philco Inclined Sounding Board brings every note up to your ear-level and preserves and amplifies the bass . . . how Philco High-Fidelity more than doubles the tonal range of ordinary radios . . . how the Philco Acoustic Clarifiers eliminate "boom."

Turn to the four short-wave bands. Notice how foreign stations, police calls and amateur bands are all named and located on the dial and spread six times farther apart for easy, accurate tuning. This is just the visible part of the built-in Philco Foreign Tuning System which, with the Philco High-Efficiency Aerial, more than doubles the number of short-wave stations you can get and enjoy.

Never before in all the world has such a radio existed . . . Power, Selectivity, Tone, Range, Automatic Tuning . . . everything you could wish for in radio combined in this grand new Musical Instrument of Quality, the 1938 Philco 116XX.

Copr. S. C. Johnson & Son, Inc., 1937

TRY GLO-COAT... FASTEST-SELLING. EASIEST-TO-USE FLOOR POLISH (NO RUBBING, IT'S SELF-POLISHING!)

Hear "Fibber McGee and Molly" on the radio every Monday evening, NBC coast to coast. (See newspaper radio listing for time over your station.)

In over a million homes, Johnson's Glo-Coat keeps floors and linoleum spotless and gleaming—with practically no work.

If you don't know Glo-Coat, try it just once on your kitchen linoleum. All you do is pour it on, spread it around with a cloth or the long-handled Glo-Coat Applier, and let it dry. In 20 minutes, your floor will be gleaming with new beauty—and you'll be surprised how long it will stay that way.

Save yourself work by using Johnson's Self-Polishing Glo-Coat, the floor polish that modern housekeepers have adopted with enthusiasm. It's made by the Makers of Johnson's Wax. S. C. JOHNSON & SON, INC., RACINE, WIS.

WASH CLOTHES HOSPITAL-CLEAN WITH CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS

ARE YOUR CHILDREN SAFE FROM GERMS IN FAMILY WASH?

Below is Rita Marie, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Todd of Brooklyn, N.Y. At right are the germs found by laboratory test in Mrs. Todd's wash:

Bacillus Coli (commonly present in intestinal infections)

Staphylococcus Aureus (commonly found in skin infections)

Concentrated Super Suds gets clothes thoroughly clean. This doesn't mean sterile, but does mean that most dangerous germs are removed or killed in the washing process. Yet it is safe for fabrics and colors, kind to your hands, too!

MRS. JOSEPH W. TODD

SOFTENS WATER...SOAKS OUT DIRT...REMOVES GERMS!

GRACIOUS, I DIDN'T KNOW THAT THERE ARE MILLIONS OF GERMS IN ALL SOILED CLOTHES, AND THAT THEY MAY SPREAD SICKNESS!
YES, THAT'S WHY IT'S WISE TO WASH CLOTHES WITH CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS. THIS NEW SOAP REMOVES GERMS AS WELL AS DIRT—GETS CLOTHES REALLY CLEAN —HOSPITAL-CLEAN!
AND SO NEXT WASHDAY ...
GOODNESS, WHAT THICK, RICH SUDS! YOUR NEW SOAP CERTAINLY SOFTENS WATER IN A JIFFY!
YES, AND JUST SEE HOW THOSE SUDS ARE SOAKING OUT THE DIRT WITHOUT ANY SCRUBBING!
YOUR COLORED THINGS ARE COMING OUT SO MUCH FRESHER AND BRIGHTER!
YES, AND I KNOW THAT MY CLOTHES WILL LAST LONGER WITH CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS BECAUSE IT'S SO KIND TO MY HANDS!
SUCH A BEAUTIFULLY WHITE, SWEET-SMELLING WASH, DEE.—AND YOU'RE ALL DONE SO MUCH FASTER!
YOU SHOULD USE CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS IN THE BLUE BOX, TOO,—IT SAVES SO MUCH WORK AND TIME!
CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS GIVES ME THE CLEANEST, WHITEST WASHES I'VE EVER HAD... IT REMOVES GERMS AS WELL AS DIRT. NOW MY CLOTHES ARE REALLY CLEAN—HOSPITAL-CLEAN!

LOOK AT MY HANDS! ALL ROUGH AND RED! THAT'S WHAT ALL THIS DISHWASHING DOES!
MY SISTER WASHES MORE DISHES THAN YOU--AND HER HANDS ARE O.K. YOU'D BETTER CHAT WITH HER!
WHY, BETTY--YOU'RE USING THE WRONG SOAP, THAT'S ALL! CHANGE TO SUPER SUDS IN THE RED BOX. IT'S THE ONLY SOAP MADE SPECIALLY FOR WASHING DISHES... TO KEEP HANDS LOVELY.
YOU SEE, SUPER SUDS IS MADE DIFFERENTLY--IN TINY HOLLOW BEADS THAT DISSOLVE INSTANTLY AND COMPLETELY. IT LEAVES NO UNDISSOLVED PARTICLES TO REDDEN AND ROUGHEN YOUR HANDS!
I'LL GET SOME--TODAY!
TWO WEEKS LATER
DARLING--HOW LOVELY YOUR HANDS ARE NOW--JUST AS SMOOTH AND WHITE AS EVER!
ISN'T SUPER SUDS WONDERFUL, TOM? BESIDES, IT CLEANS SO WELL, I JUST GIVE DISHES A HOT RINSE AND THEY DRAIN SPARKLING DRY WITHOUT WIPING. IT CUTS DISH-WASHING TIME IN HALF!

THEY'RE STILL TALKING

About the Unbelievable World Series Play

You are at Cleveland, O., Sunday, Oct. 10, 1920. It looks like Brooklyn is going on a scoring spree. Kilduff and Miller single sharply to start the fifth inning.

Pitcher Mitchell nails another hot one toward left centerfield. Wambsganns, Cleveland's brilliant second baseman, leaps high and comes down with the ball in his gloved hand.

For a fraction of a second Wambsganns hesitates. It looks like the play will be the usual double of the runner off second. Then Wambsganns realizes his opportunity. He races over and touches second.

Kilduff, well on his way to third, is doubled at second. Wambsganns doesn't hesitate. He races down the baseline to meet Miller, who thought the hit would land safely, and completes the triple play!

Bill Wambsganns, who electrified the fans that day by retiring the side all by himself in a few seconds of rapid thinking and steady nerve.

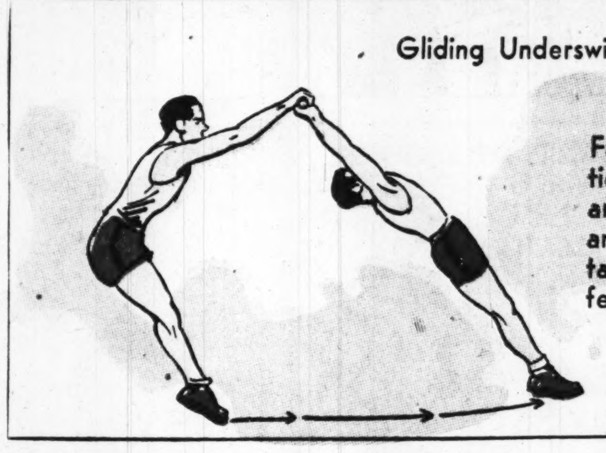
Swings and Circles on the Horizontal Bar

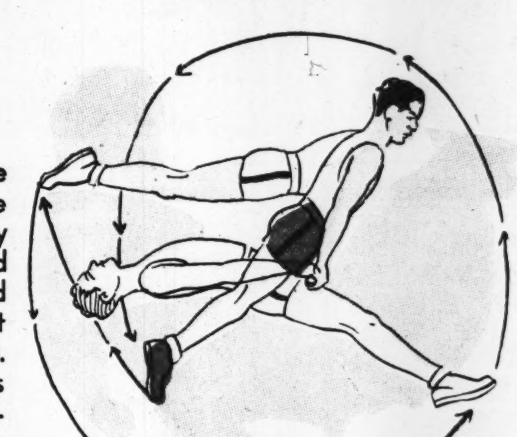
Gliding Underswing



From a standing position, jump into the air and swing forward, arms and legs straight, taking care to keep feet off floor.

Recommendations: Bar should be chest high. Keep bar clean and dry. Be sure the bar is secure.

Backward circle.



Jump up and grasp the bar, supporting the weight of the body with the hands and arms. Swing backward until the legs are out straight behind you. Then whip the legs downward with momentum sufficient to complete the overhead circle.

Don't Delay

ONLY A SHORT TIME LEFT TO GET THIS FREE BOOK

DON'T LET ADOLESCENT PIMPLES KEEP YOU FROM GOOD TIMES

Eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast daily and see how it helps clear your skin . . .

Of course you don't enjoy going to parties and dances if your looks are spoiled by a pimply face. No one does.

During adolescence—from about 13 to 25, or even longer—pimples are especially common. At this time, important glands developing cause disturbances throughout the system. The skin gets very sensitive. Waste poisons in the blood irritate this sensitive skin—and then pimples break through..

Fleischmann's fresh Yeast helps to clear up these pimples, by clearing the skin irritants out of your blood. Eat 3 cakes every day—a cake about ½ hour before meals, plain, or dissolved in a little water. And don't fail to keep on eating yeast regularly if you want to get back a clear, smooth skin. Start right now!

EBELS ADVANCE WEST OF MADRID, BOMBARD LOYAL FORCES' LINES

nsurgents Say They Met Slight Resistance Near Villanueva de la Canada in Drive to Regain Lost Ground.

IGHTING GOES ON ON 3 OTHER FRONTS

ction in Asturias, in Teruel Region and in the South—Italians Reported Shifted From Santander District.

y the Associated Press.
HENDAYE, French - Spanish
rontier, Aug. 2.—Insurgent artil-
ry opened a bombardment of Ma-rid's outer defenses today after advance by rebel forces against e Government lines west of the pital.
Insurgents reported that the ive near Villanueva de la Canada et only slight resistance. They id Gen. Jose Miaja's defense guns ere almost silent during the in-rgent advance.
This action was in the region here the insurgents are trying to capture territory taken by the yalists when the Government rces made a pocket in the rebels' ar guard positions. The rebels ready have recaptured strategic runete.

Fighting at Other Points.

Battles were fought on three othfronts.
On the northwestern front, insur-ents reported defeating an atmpt to break their lines east of viedo, in Asturias.
Government forces had about
00 casualties in the attack, insur-ent reports said. At Cuero troops umbering 8000 rushed against in-rgent lines, only to be caught in cross-fire of rifle and machine-un bullets.
"Two hundred bodies were left in arbed-wire entanglements when e attackers retired," the advices id.
On the Teruel front, in the East, here insurgents have tried to cut e road between Madrid and alencia, temporary Government apital, Gen. Francisco Franco's rces occupied new positions in the arbonera Mountains. Since the ffensive started, insurgents have dvanced about 56 miles.
The village of Bezas, west of eruel, fell before the insurgent ad-ance while the Albarracin sector ear by was strengthened by capure of four other villages.
Government sources said Italian oops with Gen. Franco's army aparently had been withdrawn from e Santander front, on the Bisayan coast, and were reinforcing e Teruel sector.
Heavy fighting also was in rogress on the southern front near damuz and Ovejo, but the Govrnment declared insurgent attacks ad been repulsed.

Rebel Air Fields Raided.

Government bombers raided three nsurgent air fields and destroyed
2 insurgent planes quartered at alencia de Don Juan, in Leon rovince, a Government announce-ent declared. Other fields were mbed at Salamanca and Burgos.
Insurgent dispatches told of the nking of a 3000-ton merchantman nd its accompanying Government rpedo boat off the Catalan coast fter an insurgent aeriel bombard-ent, but did not identify the vesls.
The new Italian Ambassador to e insurgent administration, Count iola di Campalto, presented his edentials to Gen. Franco yester-y in the midst of brilliant mili-ry pageantry at Salamanca, where rongs crowded the principal uare to watch the parade.
The Fascist representative said
e insurgents' sacrifices would ring "a new Spain with which mperial Italy can carry on a strict nd close collaboration for the dense of their national interests and e good of civilization."
At Valencia the Spanish Govern-ent ordered its League of Nations epresentative to make a new ap-al for sanctions against Italy and ermany at the League Council eeting in Geneva next month.
